UNION OFFICIALS INDICTED UNDER ANTI-TRUST LAW

Nineteen Officers of United Mine Workers Are Charged With Conspiracy in Restraint of Trade.

FIRST ACT UNDER LAW AGAINST A LABOR BODY

Alleged Attempt Was Made to Raise Wages in West Virginia and So Prevent Competition.

Charleston, W. Va., June 7.—President John M. White and eighteen other officials of the United Mine Workers of America, were indicted in the federal court here today on a charge of violating the Sherman anti-trust law. It is alleged the defendants conspired with the coal operators of western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois to raise wages in the West Virginia coal fields, so as to prevent its competition with other states.

Those named in the indictments are John P. White, president; Frank J. Hayes, vice president; Thomas Haggerty, Joseph Vazy, James Cantrell, Charles Hatley, Marco Roman, George H. Edmonds and Benjamin F. Morris, organizers of the United Mine Workers of America; Thomas Cairns, president; Clarence C. Griffith, vice president; James M. Crago, secretary of district No. 17, United Mine Workers of America, and James Dians, John Nutter, Rome Mitchell, W. S. Rees, F. D. Stanley, U. S. Cantley and A. D. Alexander subordinate officers of district No. 17.

First Labor Case.

It is said here that this case is the first in which officers of labor organizations have been indicted on charges of having violated the Sherman anti-trust law.

The indictments charge that the nineteen men engaged in a combination and conspiracy in restraint of trade and commerce. The offense is said to have started September 1, 1912, and continued since.

It is charged that the indicted men have been agents and members of "an unincorporated voluntary organization of individuals as a labor union, known as the United Mine Workers of America having many thousands of members who unlawfully combined and conspired together with the object and intent of unionizing and making members of said organization the laborers employed in and around the coal mines of the state of West Virginia in order that and with the intent that said organization, by regulating the wage to be paid to said laborers for their work, could and would fix and control the price at which the coal mined in the state of West Virginia could compete with coal mined in the western district of Pennsylvania and in the states of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, in the markets of the United States outside of West Virginia."

Shipped in Competition.

The indictment alleges that coal produced in West Virginia is shipped in competition with coal mined in the other states of the competitive field and that not more than 15 per cent of the coal output of West Virginia is consumed within the state.

"The object and purpose of the United Mine Workers is to fix wages to be paid to laborers and to refuse to allow said laborers to work unless said wages are paid," the complaint further reads. Continuing, it stated:

"The organization intends to unionize the miners in West Virginia, and, if successful, to fix the price at which coal of West Virginia could be sold in the outside markets named, thus permitting the competitive states to compete more favorably in the western markets with the product shipped from West Virginia."

It is charged that the mines in the competitive states are unionized, dominated by the United Mine Workers and the coal operators of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, have en-

MRS. DAISY GRACE AND C. H. OLDHAM SOUGHT BY POLICE

MRS. GRACE EXPOSED BY WOMAN DETECTIVE

Mrs. Ida Plummer Informed the District Attorney That She Was Representative of Mothers' Congress.

Westchester, Pa., June 7.—(Special.) Mrs. Daisy Ulrich Opie Grace, who was acquitted several months ago at Atlanta, Ga., after being tried for shooting her husband, is a fugitive from justice, following a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace S. M. Paxton.

Charles H. Oldham, manager of the Chester Valley Electric Light company, also is a fugitive from justice on a similar warrant. Both warrants charge statutory offenses and are based upon alleged actions of Mrs. Grace and Oldham at the Swan hotel at Downingtown, where, it is charged, they lived as "Mr. and Mrs. Oldham" for several months until last Tuesday, when the proprietor of the hotel requested "Mr. and Mrs. Oldham" to vacate their apartments.

The warrant calling for the arrest of the couple were made at the instance of Mrs. Ida Plummer, who followed Mrs. Grace to Downingtown and became very friendly with her. After Mrs. Plummer had obtained all the information she desired she told the hotel proprietor that "Mrs. Oldham" and Daisy Ulrich Opie Grace were the same.

Following her revelations Mrs. Plummer came here and was closeted for several hours with District Attorney Sproat and County Detective Jeffries. This conference ended in the issuance of the warrants for the arrest of the couple.

Mrs. Plummer told the district attorney that she represented the Mothers' Congress and that she was interested in the case, as she sought to prevent Mrs. Grace getting a divorce from the husband, who is a helpless cripple as a result of the revolver shot which Mrs. Grace was accused of firing.

She gave as her reason that if Mrs. Grace obtains the divorce she seeks she can gain possession of her 8-year-old blind boy by her first husband, who is an inmate in an Overbrook institution. Other persons declare that Mrs. Plummer is a detective in the employ of Grace, who is seeking a divorce in the Georgia courts, and that she is a personal friend of Grace.

MACON POLICE CHIEF ARRESTS HIS OWN SON

After Hot Argument Father Hails His Offspring to Court for Violating Ordinance.

Macon, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—The unusual spectacle of a chief of police arresting his own son was seen in Macon today, when Chief W. B. Chapman arrested Walt Chapman, proprietor of a drug store at Second and Mulberry streets.

The charge against the younger Chapman is that of painting signs advertising his business on the sidewalks in violation of the city ordinance, this law having been passed recently at the request of the Woman's Improvement association, which has started a campaign in the interest of a "city beautiful."

A heated argument ensued between father and son when the arrest was made and young Chapman declares that he will employ a lawyer and fight his case through the court. Chief Chapman will be the chief witness against his son when the case is tried before the recorder.

Well-Known Baptist Minister, 71 Years Old, Marries Mrs. Alla Holmes Cheney.

Rome, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—Genuine surprise in social and church circles was occasioned this afternoon by the announcement of the wedding in Birmingham of G. A. Nunnally and Mrs. Alla Holmes Cheney, widow of the late Walter T. Cheney. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's sister.

Dr. Nunnally is 71 years of age, many years older than his wife. He was at one time candidate for governor of Georgia and is one of the foremost ministers and educators of the Southern Baptist denomination, having been president of colleges in Georgia and Florida, including Mercer university. His wide acquaintanceship makes the marriage of more than state interest.

The faculty and the student body feel that the successful year just closed is, in a large measure, due to the loyal cooperation of Mrs. Tucker. For the past two or three years she has made personal contributions of $10 in gold to deserving pupils; $5 in gold as first prize to the pupil making the most perfect attendance and deportment; prizes each of $2.50 in gold for second and third prizes. Luther Stephens, of the fifth grade, received first prize; Dave Carr, of the second grade, second prize, and James Stephens, of the fourth grade, who had left the city, third prize.

Mrs. Ephie Williams, head teacher, also gave $5 in gold for awards to members of her class. Lula Stephens, Marie St. John, Neal Wallace, Paul Weaver, James Stephens (who had left city) were recipients of $1 each in gold.

COMMISSIONER CLARK ADDRESSES TRAINMEN

Washington, June 7.—Interstate Commissioner Edgar E. New Orleans, June 7.—Further evidence i nsupport of the contention of dence in support of the contention of his possession at Columbia, Miss., several weeks ago, is not Robert Dunbar, who disappeared from his home in Opelousas, La., last August, was introduced at a special hearing to investigate the boy's identity here today. Six witnesses, all residents of Pearl river county, Mississippi, testified that the child recovered from Walters, and claimed by C. P. Dunbar as his missing son, was with the itinerant tinker in that vicinity several weeks before the Dunbar boy's disappearance.

At the sight of only one of the witnesses did the five-year old boy, brought here from Opelousas for the hearing, show any signs of recognition. When Jeptha Bilbo appeared, the child, in reply to a question, said:

NEWNAN MAN KILLED AT GRADE CROSSING

Backing Freight Train Deals Instant Death to Popular Young Man.

Newnan, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—Leo Askew, a bookkeeper for the R. D. Cole Manufacturing company, met his death at 10 o'clock this morning in a shocking manner. He was standing at the Broad street crossing of the Atlanta and West Point railroad, waiting for passenger train No. 38 from Montgomery to pass, when he was run down and crushed to death by a freight train backing a string of cars on to the track upon which he was standing.

His head was completely severed from his body, and he was otherwise mangled in a horrible manner. It is evident that the noise of the passenger train prevented him from hearing the freight cars as they began to move, and he was knocked down and run over before he had a chance to realize his perilous situation.

The deceased was about 24 years of age, and a splendid young man, esteemed by all who knew him. His tragic death has cast a gloom over the entire community.

DAVIS NAMED MARSHAL FOR SOUTHERN DISTRICT

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, June 7.—(Special.)—Senator Bacon today finally announced his selection of Joseph S. Davis, a prominent banker, of Albany, for marshal of the southern district of Georgia.

As previously stated, he has chosen A. Pratt Adams, of Savannah, for district attorney, and Thomas Eason for assistant.

David C. Barrow, of Savannah, will be collector of the port of Savannah.

The nominations of both Adams and Eason aroused opposition, and rumored were current at the time that neither would be confirmed.

Mr. Adams' re-employment by the American Naval Stores company, of Savannah, was said to make him ineligible for the place in the estimation of Mr. McReynolds, the attorney general. Criminal indictments against the leaders in this company are still pending before the supreme court, it was said, and the department of justice did not think it advisable to select him, an attorney who had represented the company, as district attorney, while this case was still pending.

Mr. Adams' name has never been formerly presented by Senator Bacon, as the attorney general indicated he wanted the present occupants to serve out their terms.

Unopposed by Smith.

It is understood that Senator Smith has withdrawn his opposition to Davis and will offer no objection to his nomination or confirmation.

Months ago Senators Bacon and Smith entered into an agreement concerning patronage, under which Senator Smith was to control appointments in the northern district, and Senator Bacon in the southern district. Both agreed that neither would appoint any candidate who was "personally offensive" to the other. Friends of Senator Bacon, when they learned of this agreement, objected that it gave Senator Smith a tremendous advantage in control of the patronage of the whole state, as he had just been through several hard fights, in which he had made enemies and aroused opposition, whereas Senator Bacon had kept out of any state contests for years and had thus kept clear of enmities and entanglements.

*When Senator Bacon advised his col*league that he had chosen Mr. Davis for marshal, Senator Smith put his veto on the nomination, saying that Mr. Davis had been his active opponent in the gubernatorial campaign.

As the result of this veto, Senator Bacon withheld the nomination while they discussed the question as to whether "active opposition" was enough to make a candidate "personally offensive."

Finally Senator Bacon learned today that Senator Smith had withdrawn his opposition and then made public his choice. He is also strongly backing A. Pratt Adams for district attorney, and Mr. Eason for assistant. Their nominations were decided upon before the agreement was entered into.

BOY MEETS DEATH IN LAKE AT PARK

James Minor Jordan, Thirteen Years of Age, Drowned in Three Feet of Water at White City.

Drowned in 3 feet of water of the lake at White City park, the body of 13-year-old James Minor Jordan was found by his playmates yesterday afternoon. He was unconscious and died a few minutes after having been placed on the operating table at Grady hospital.

The dead boy was a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Furr, who live at 105 Powell street. He had spent most of the afternoon roller skating in the park rink. About 4:30 o'clock he left the floor of the rink for the lake. Overheated, he plunged into the water, attempting to swim across.

A few minutes later, when one of his several companions missed the Jordan boy, they discovered his body in 3 feet of water in the center of the lake. He was brought to the shore, and while the Grady ambulance was on the way to the scene, efforts were made to resuscitate him. He died on the operating table.

Cramps, caused by reaction of the water on the child's overheated condition, are thought to have been the cause of his death. He was a good swimmer for his age.

DECLARES LOBBY PROBE IS UNFAIR TO SENATORS

Bacon Says Investigation Has Aroused an Entirely Groundless Suspicion.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, June 7.—(Special.)—Scores of lobbyists are waiting with nervous impatience tonight the resumption of the lobby investigation by the senate committee next week. They came to Washington on subpoena today not knowing the inquiry had been adjourned over until Monday. Whether any of them have attempted improperly to influence Senators or are mere legislative agents will be decided after they have given their testimony.

Senator Bacon has been extremely irritated at the manner in which the investigation was conducted. He thinks the inquiry into the personal affairs of senators, the amount of their property, how it was investigated and whether they have been approached improperly, has caused an unfair and most unfortunate impression to get abroad in the country.

"In so far as the inquiry sought to determine whether I was a paid lobbyist in Washington, attempting to improperly influence legislation, the investigation was right and proper," said Mr. Bacon. "I have no objection to anything that could be brought out so far as it affects myself, and I presume that is true of all other senators."

"At the same time it must be recognized that such a personal investigation into the private affairs and personal acts of each senator must necessarily produce an unfortunate and undesirable impression in the public mind.

"There has been no charge that any senator is guilty of corruption or any improper conduct in connection with the legislation, and I am sure that there is no ground for any charge or suggestion to that effect.

"And yet such an investigation must produce an impression on the public mind that there is some ground for accusation or suspicion in that direction, and for that reason it is entirely unjust to senators and conducive to no good end.

"Nothing is desirable which shakes public confidence in the integrity of public officers when there is no possible ground for the same."

FELDER MAKES ANSWER TO DICTAGRAPH EPISODE

Well-Known Attorney Writes Four Cards Covering All the Phases of Situation and Answering All Charges.

DICTAGRAPH TRAP JUST "FRAME-UP," HE SAYS

Col. Felder Asserts George Gentry, Who Took Down the Stenographic Notes, Will Return and Expose the Deal.

Colonel Thomas B. Felder has written four cards—to Chief of Detectives Newport Lanford, Chief of Police Beavers, James R. Gray, editor of The Journal, and Foster Coates, manager of The Georgian—all bearing on the late dictagraph incident which was published in the three papers of Atlanta. He states the whole thing was a "frame-up" from beginning to end and says he will produce proofs of his statements. He says Gentry, who took down the stenographic notes, will return to Atlanta and tell the truth about the whole deal.

In his card to Newport Lanford Colonel Felder brands him as a crook and applies to him various epithets.

The letters follow:

Apologizes to The Public.

Atlanta, Ga., June 7, 1913.—Newport Lanford, Chief of the Vice Department of the City of Atlanta, Ga.—Sir: With apologies to the reading public for parading before them a "barrow of butcher's offal," so harmoniously blended in your personality, I shall now proceed to redeem the pledge heretofore made to lay bare, through the columns of the papers, your infamous career in the mal-administration of the affairs of the official position which you disgrace and dishonor.

When I have finished, I promise that as to you, the incident, so far as newspaper publication is concerned, shall be forever closed.

In dealing with the situation in my several cards, I am acting strictly within the admonition of the late lamented Rev. Sam P. Jones, "When you shave a gentleman, use a razor; when you shave a hog, use a brick." It must strike even one of your mental caliber that in treating you tonsorially the latter instrument recommended by the illustrious divine must be employed. It is not within the purview of this card to deal with the vice conditions which flourish in this city under your fostering care and protection. This matter is under investigation by the grand jury of this county, and I am quite certain it will be thorough and exhaustive, and I entertain no doubt that this phase of the situation, which will be embodied in their findings, will show abundantly your criminal connection therewith in all of its hideous deformity.

"Pin a Rose on Me!"

I cannot, however, leave this branch of the subject without making some comment upon the action of the police board in "consulting" confidence, in their distinguished (?)—soon to be extinguished—chief of the vice department of this city by decorating his manly bosom with a bouquet. "Oh, mother, mother, mother, won't you pin a rose on me." I know nothing as to the personal or official standing of any of the gentlemen constituting this honorable body, nor have I lodged any charges against them before the grand jury, or elsewhere, but if the courtesy which is said to have been extended to one of their board who "resolved," namely, protecting him from arrest and exposure when caught in the act of beating his paramour, has been extended to any considerable number of the others, even your obtuse mind can discern the reason why these "mothers, mothers, mothers" have a rose on you." Yes, my dear El Capitan, with your military air, you are P. B. and I—pure, beautiful and innocent. It is unnecessary to point it, for you admit it. And yet, within the past few weeks the hideous crimes committed by you, when exposed, would create a panic about the habitues of a rot pit and bring the blush of shame to the cheeks of the inmates of a brothel. They mark you a hire-

ALL GRADE CROSSINGS SHOULD BE ABOLISHED

This Is Eventual Aim of Public Safety Committee—Many Other Suggestions.

Through the agency of its committee on public safety, the Atlanta chamber of commerce has been making a careful study of the people's needs with regard to the improvement of their health and their greater security from accidents, and has now almost completed a series of measures to be proposed to the general assembly this summer for legal enactment, looking to that end.

This committee is composed of W. J. Lowenstein, chairman; Ben Lee Crew, Porter Langston, Edwin R. Haas and W. Woods White. It has been at work for months, not confining itself to local demands, although these have not been neglected, but including within the scope of its research several propositions aiming at the betterment in health and safety of the people. As the committee will need the co-operation of all the citizens of our commonwealth in carrying out its aims, a review of what has been undertaken by it will not be without public interest, particularly as the meeting of the legislature is now less than three weeks off.

Grade Crossings.

One of the first things to engage the committee's attention was the need of more efficient safeguards against the danger of accidents from grade crossings. With this object in view, Mr. Lowenstein entered into correspondence with Chairman Murphey Candler, of the railroad commission, and he has succeeded in gaining the hearty co-operation of that body in the measure to be proposed. In fact, the commission went so far as to appoint a legislative committee, with Judge George Hillyer as chairman, to which this matter with other matters of legislation was referred, and it has incorporated in its annual report the following recommendation to the legislature, embodying in a large degree the suggestions made by the chamber of commerce committee on the subject:

"The commission recommends that the entire subject of the removal, improvement or safeguarding of grade crossings of public highways be placed under its jurisdiction, and that it be empowered to order their removal by under or over passage, the improvement or the safeguarding, as in its discretion seems to be proper, apportioning the cost in each instance as it seems equitabl. The commission also recommends that no new grade crossings of established highways by railways, or of constructed railroads by new highways, be allowed in this state, except after application to and approval by the commission."

It is recognized both by the commission and the chamber of commerce that it might prove disastrous to the railroads, without securing any addition to the public safety commensurate with the enormous expense involved, to seek to eliminate at once by a sweeping act of legislation all grade crossings from the state. But it is hoped, by giving the commission discretionary powers in the matter, to remove at an early date the most dangerous grade crossings and, as the greater density of the population and the increase in traffic makes it more feasible, to extend the process until nearly all grade crossings have been abolished.

Unlawful Trespass.

Another subject which the committee took up was the greater security of railroad property from unlawful trespass and the prevention of unlawful boarding of trains. Two bills were drafted and submitted to Chairman Candler. On this topic Mr. Candler writes as follows:

"After looking into the matter, I am not so sure but that unlawful trespassing on railroad property or the boarding of trains unlawfully, is not sufficiently prohibited by our present laws, or perhaps would be so with a slight amendment to the present law as to trespassing to meet the construction placed upon the act by the supreme court of Georgia, which construction seems to me correct. I have read the draft of the two bills, sent you through Mr. Wickersham's office, and while I think perhaps some change in verbiage might be made, on the whole I see no objection to them. They are in somewhat better shape than the drafts which you prepared for legislative presentation."

Safer Street Cars.

In regard to a matter of special interest to the people of Atlanta, namely, the placing of life-guards on street cars, the committee has already been largely successful. This subject was taken up early in the year with officials of the street railway company with the result that a great number of the cars have already been equipped with life-guards and most of the rest will be so equipped as rapidly as practicable. The following from a recent letter of Vice President Glenn, of the Georgia Railway and Power company, shows the result of the committee's activity in this direction:

"In reply to your favor of March 24, I beg to advise that since writing you on January 2, we have been actively engaged in placing life-guards on our cars. Since that time, about sixty of our cars have been equipped with these life-guards and the work has not been delayed at any time. These life-guards are made in our own shops, and are of a type similar to the H. B. life guard.

"The work of equipping our cars will continue until all cars on which it is practicable to place these life-guards have been equipped with them."

Dangerous Weapons.

There is hardly a single subject of legislation which has proved more difficult to lawmakers in all the states than the sale and carrying of dangerous weapons. As the legislature has already gone as far in regulating the carrying of weapons as the constitution will permit and the result is still anything but satisfactory, the committee decided that more could be achieved for the public safety by throwing stringent restrictions around their sale. With this view, a bill, embodying the three following provisions, will be introduced:

"1. It shall be unlawful for any dealer in firearms to make a sale, loan or gift of any pistol or pistol cartridges unless an application for such sale, loan or gift be presented to the dealer that has the indorsement of at least two responsible citizens vouching for the applicant's good character.

"2. It shall be the duty of the dealer to file daily a sworn statement with the chief of police a copy of each application, giving name, description, etc., of applicant as well as the calibre and number of the pistol, and make also brand and size of pistol cartridges.

"3. It shall be the duty of the dealer to include in the sworn statement that the two indorsers are personally known to him as possessing good character, etc.

"4. Providing penalty for violation."

In addition to the measures for the public safety outlined above, the committee has been working on a number of bills looking to the improvement of the health of the state. Prominent among these is a measure giving the state board of health discretionary power to order the muzzling of dogs in districts where rabies seems to be epidemic, the final purpose to be achieved being the banishment of hydrophobia from the state as it has already been driven from England and certain continental countries of Europe.

State Chairman of Education Writes of Work to Be Done

To the Federated Clubs of Georgia: In assuming the important chairmanship of education, in which so much able work has been done in the past, you are asked to give to a somewhat hesitant chairman the support and cooperation which may lie in your power. Perhaps we may work out some good things together.

At present your chairman's energies have been fully spent upon this Ella P. White memorial edition which will serve the cause of federated work for education well, partly by the money we shall earn for such purposes and partly because it has brought more closely together chairmen, clubs and district presidents.

As soon as possible we would ask that all clubs not having a committee or department of education will appoint such. These committees and those now in existence are reminded that never before have there been so many burning issues of educational interest under discussion.

First of these—until it is settled—must always be the effort of this state to provide a compulsory school attendance law which will insure at least a modicum of schooling to all our children. Without such a law, even the child labor law, for which club women so long strove and agonized, is of little avail.

Then come the many theories of education which are rapidly working themselves, in one form or another, into our systems. It should be the interest of our educational chairmen to familiarize themselves, in some measure, with these new ideas by their judgment and influence, either commend or discourage them.

Vocational training, particularly in the upper grades of the high school.

The effort to turn untrained, hopeless laborers into skilled workmen—there is so much to be said and studied here.

The partial substitution in our curricula of subjects more related to life for the classics. Shall we lose too much, or is the gain greater than any loss?

Particularly in a more rational curriculum for the woman—the mother, the home-maker—is there room for work.

Schoolhouses as recreation centers, parent-teacher associations, playgrounds, parks—each section and community's needs—puts a different face on all these questions.

Every one of your school boards ought to have some women on them, not for the sake of giving rights to the women, but for the help these women can and ought to give to the busy men who are doing all this administrative work.

There is much to do, and Georgia clubs are sure to go on doing it! If your chairman can be of service to you, do not hesitate to write to her, and from time to time send her reports of your educational activities.

MRS. ARTHUR GRAY POWELL,
State Chairman of Education.

Oldest Sunday School Member Will Rock the Youngest Baby

The special exercises of the annual Children's day at the Buckhead Baptist Sunday school next Sunday morning, will be very unique, in that the oldest member of the Sunday school will rock the youngest baby in the cradle roll in what is probably the oldest cradle in the state.

The cradle is an old-fashioned box cradle, which was used eighty-six years ago to rock the mother of Rev. E. H. Peacock, pastor of the church. The cradle will be exhibited at the Sunday school exercises, in charge of Mrs. Dorothy Strickland, who on the day of the exercises will celebrate her eightieth birthday. Mrs. Strickland is the mother of Miss Kate Strickland, one of Atlanta's foremost charity workers, who was intimately connected in this work with the late Mrs. Sue Holloway and John F. Barclay.

The baby whose honors it will be to lie in the old-fashioned cradle will be selected Sunday morning, at which time the cradle roll department will be organized. The entire morning services will be given over to the Children's day exercises.

The program of the morning exercises is as follows:

R. M. Baker, superintendent of the Sunday school, will open the school at 10 o'clock. Mrs. W. B. Wood will then have charge of the grading exercises of a number of children in the primary department.

At 11 o'clock there will be songs and recitations by different Sunday school classes. Miss Eva Ratry will contribute a recitation upon the subject, "A Woman's Fidelity." The closing address will be delivered by A. M. Smith, superintendent of the primary department of the Baptist Tabernacle Sunday school.

The following is the program of the night services:

The services will open at 7:30 o'clock with a special song service by the Buckhead chorus, under the direction of T. W. Tarrant. At 8 o'clock the members of the church will enter into a covenant service, led by the pastor and the deacons, at which time the church covenant will be read by the clerk. The celebration of the Lord's Supper and the ordinance of baptism will be administered by the pastor. This will be the first baptismal service in the new church, the baptistry having just been completed. The benediction will be pronounced by Rev. J. P. McGraw, pastor of the Baptist church at Blacksheer, Ga.

Time Not Ripe for New Constitution Declares Judge Andrew J. Cobb

Athens, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—As voicing the sentiments of probably the larger part of the leading legal minds in the state, the report to the Georgia Bar association of the permanent commission on the revision of judicial system and procedure is more than interesting. As that report concerns the much-talked of constitutional convention for Georgia, the consensus of opinion of the legal mind of the state is interesting to discover.

The report was made at the meeting last week of the Georgia bar by Judge Andrew J. Cobb of Athens, former supreme court justice of the state, who is chairman of the commission.

Judge Cobb does not believe that the time is ripe to make changes in the constitutional government of the state. His report in part is as follows:

"The Constitution of 1877, the first constitution since the constitution of 1861 that was really adopted in accordance with established principles, was ratified by the people on the first Wednesday in December in 1877. The method of amendment provided in this constitution is familiar, by a vote of two-thirds of each house of the general assembly and ratification by a majority of the voters voting on the amendment. There is a provision in the constitution that a convention may be called by the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members of each house of the general assembly. This constitution has been amended forty-one times. The first amendment was in 1885, the last in 1912.

Adopted During Sane Period.

"Mr. McElreath, in his recent admirable work on the constitution of Georgia, says: 'It is an interesting fact that the constitution of 1798 is the only constitution ever adopted by the people of Georgia at a time when there was not a virtual revolution of the government itself. The constitution of 1777 was adopted in consequence of the striking off the state's allegiance to Great Britain and of the necessity of setting up an independent government; that of 1789, on account of the abandonment of the Articles of confederation, and the adoption of the federal constitution; that of 1861 on account of the secession of the state from the federal union; that of 1865 on account of the fall of the confederacy, and the necessity of obtaining re-admission into the union; that of 1868 on account of the refusal of the federal government to re-admit the state under the constitution of 1865, making the adoption of another constitution a condition precedent; that of 1877, when the people of Georgia resumed control of their own affairs after the end of the reconstruction era.

"The constitution of 1798 and the present constitution are the only ones which represent a settled condition of the state's organic law; the others represent temporary conditions and transitional periods.' (McElreath on the Constitution of Georgia, page 114, section 87.)

"The purpose of this brief reference to the history of the different constitutions of this state is to emphasize the fact that the necessity of amendment was recognized and a method of amendment was always provided. The simplest and most expeditious method of amendment that has prevailed is that contained in our present constitution.

Method Is Simple.

"If any criticism is to be made upon this method it is that the method is too simple. The power to amend practically resides in the general assembly. The reference to the people amounts to nothing either as a safeguard against unwise changes or a judgment in favor of a change. Only two proposed amendments have ever been rejected, and both of these objections were the result of popular prejudice rather than popular judgment. The more difficult method of amendment provided in the constitution of 1798, two-thirds vote of each house by two successive general assemblies, brought about wiser changes than the present method.

"The method of amendment being so easy and capable of being used whenever amendment is absolutely necessary, the calling of a convention to overhaul the entire instrument should be timed so as to find the people who will select the representatives to form the convention in a sober, reverent and relevant state of mind.

Present Not Proper Time.

"We may in some circumstances give our consent to have experiments performed upon one of the members of our body, but it is only in the case of dire extremity that we would submit our whole body to the hand of the experimentalist. There is too much experiment in the political thought of the present to submit the whole body of the fundamental law to the knife, especially when the probabilities are that the knife would be placed in the hands of the inexperienced or the reckless.

"Changes in the constitution may be needed, but the present is not an auspicious time to frame anew the fundamental law of the state.

ACCIDENT BOARD FINDS CASE OF "MALINGERING"

San Francisco, June 7.—The first case of alleged malingering or simulation to come under the notice of the state industrial accident board has resulted in the refusal of that body to order increased compensation for J. Goncalves, who was injured while in the employ of the Standard Oil company.

Goncalves was slightly hurt December 27 and refused light work offered by the company, although two physicians testified that he was able to perform it. The industrial accident board fixed his compensation at $1.95 per week, the difference between his wage from the oil company and what he could have obtained as a laborer.

Goncalves appealed. In denying his petition the board says:

"The case under consideration belongs to that class of malingering or simulation which causes very great concern to those who are skeptical in regard to the merits of compensation as a system for dealing with industrial injuries."

THE NEWEST FEATURES IN THE SUMMER GOWNS

The third figure is gowned in a soft black silk, simply made with De Medici collar and cuffs. She holds for the inspection of her friends a dancing frock of charmeuse in apricot tint; shadow lace forms the sleeves and side of skirt under the drapery. A touch of black is shown in the narrow velvet girdle and quaint little bow.

ling scavenger of filth and falsehood, lost to every sense of propriety, and recreant to every principle of honor. You are like the dead fish of the seas. "You rise as you rot."

Charnes Forgery.

And you say you met Colyar about three weeks ago? As a matter of fact, you met him about three years ago; and from that good hour in the day you have, at intervals, conspired with him to frame up on citizens of this community—but your conspiracies with him have ended, unless they are resumed when you "par fraitum nobile" enter, as you surely will, within the gates of the lunatic asylum at the state convict farm in the city of Milledgeville. For, be it known, you are both "worthy and well qualified," not to say eligible, for either station, and this is the destiny that awaits you. Together, this pair of noble brothers, during the past three weeks, have committed, in the city of Atlanta, the crimes of forgery, perjury and subornation of perjury in furthering and effectuating the filthiest, foulest and most diabolical conspiracy ever conceived and hatched by a party of graveling, low, debase and slimy criminals. Let me give the details.

You lied to Sutlive, of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company, in inducing him to install the so-called dictagraph, a set to its installation you lied to him in promising not to disclose his name. You disclosed it in an effort to give some respectability to your conspiracy by publishing. The instrument used in dictagraphing Felder was installed by Sutlive, the trusted man of the southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company. You lied to and duped young Gentry, one of the unfortunate victims to this conspiracy. Indeed, in connection with your machination "you lied sitting, you lied lying, and if you had had wings you would have lied flying." You lie in speech, you lie in song, you lie in thought, and in the lying you are a veritable human megaphone. When you and your man "Friday" Colyar approached young Gentry, not yet out of his "teens and with little experience as a stenographer, to do your filthy work—you do no other kind—he told you he had not had sufficient experience to report a dictagraph conversation. You assured him that for your purposes that made no difference, you were not looking for a "stenographer," you were looking for a "name." You were again laying the foundation to give respectability to this conspiracy by dragging into your filthy scheme the honorable name of "Gentry," thereby pre-arranging for the publication in your "official organ" for the startling announcement in box-car letters, "Dictagraph notes were reported by Gordon Gentry, a nephew of Hon. W. T. Gentry, president of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company."

Forced Him to Perjure.

When the criminal farce at the William house ended, you stood over this boy and forced him to forge the story and then forced him to swear to it, and when you realized that your criminal conspiracy had come to grief you sent him "helter, skelter" from the city, and this is how he went. On Monday night you directed Colyar to call up the home of young Gentry and to say to him that unless he [illegible] immediately delivered to you his book you would be in a hell of a fix. The grief-stricken mother, who had been made aware of your fiendish conspiracy by her victimized son, answered the phone, and this statement was made to her. I am very thankful that the note book was not delivered to you and that it stands as a mute witness to establish the crimes that I am now charging you with. If it had been, it was your express intention to destroy it as you have destroyed all of the evidence in the Pharos case, and you and your associates furnished the money for the flight of this young boy. You have stated to the people, day by day, through the columns of the press, that you know his whereabouts and that at the proper time you would produce him. This statement was deliberate lie. You have been moving heaven and earth to locate him, not for the purpose of bringing him back, but for the purpose of having him "move on." I know where he is; I succeeded in locating him at great personal expense, and as soon as he was found I sent a detective to urge him to return.

May Return to Atlanta.

It may be comforting to the conspirators to know that I am in receipt of a telegram today stating that Gentry would reach a conclusion this afternoon as to whether he will return to Atlanta, and if he concludes to return I will give you the pleasure of seeing him Monday morning, as it will require that much time for him to reach the city from the parts where you sent him.

In the meantime, I want you conspirators to know that I am familiar with all the facts. Let me pause long enough to say to you and your men "Friday" that you carefully prepared affidavits, had them signed by your willing tools, to the effect that I had "run Gentry out of town to keep him away from the grand jury." These were not given to the public as an enterprising newspaper "scoop" because one of your co-conspirators, who had more intelligence if not less character than you, admonished you that this was a dangerous expedient and would be inevitably blown up later, so this part of your infamous scheme was abandoned. You say you had no conception of Gentry's going to Texas at present when those notes were written out. Oh, what a sweet scented liar! You stood over him while this bungling forgery was being perpetrated, and aided in it by telling him what to write. In this wicked transaction you were literally the last at the cross and first at the sepulchre.

As to Colc Blease.

I desire to direct public attention to your activities along another line. Your "brother in the criminal bond," Cole L. Blease, of South Carolina, sued out a warrant in his home county, charging me with an attempted bribery. This seems to be a favorite charge among your criminals. The warrant was issued in 1911, in the year alleged to have been committed was in 1905. In the interim I spent the greater part of three years in the penitentiary of the state of South Carolina, recovering for that graft-ridden state many hundreds of thousands of dollars, out of which the state had been defrauded by Blease and his associates. When this warrant was sued out your criminal friend Blease was out of office and was elected to the senate of the state of Georgia who had had some dealings with the state of South Carolina, and urged him to come destinely visit our governor, to whom he was supposed to have influence, and urge him to honor the requisition, stating that it was important to get me into the state of South Carolina and have me put out of the way, as it had been arranged at that time as part of the program. Since this time your South Carolina criminal associate presented to the grand jury of his home county all of this forged evidence, and, by the way, forged evidence seems to be the forte of you criminals, whose crimes I am hoping to bring to the grand jury, by a decisive vote, returned a no-bill.

Now, to the point. You have, during the interim between the refusal of the requisition and up to this good hour, been in constant communication with the agents of your criminal associate in South Carolina, Edward Mc Songe, night, between the city and my home, put me in an automobile, and send me into the state of South Carolina.

Expects an Indictment.

There are several other matters that I wish later to bring to the attention of the people of this community for their consideration, but my purpose is to do it through the medium of the grand jury. I found it a difficult task to interpret the South Carolina criminals, but finally succeeded, but because they were intelligent criminals; I am finding it a harder task to interpret the reason that for the lack of intelligence you are a common, ordinary, filthy criminal.

I hope to be able, at an early meeting of the grand jury of this county, to lay before them all of the facts and have indictments found by the grand jury against you and your fellows in crime.

J. L. FELDER.

Letter to Beavers.

Atlanta, Ga., June 7, 1913.—Mr. J. L. Beavers, Chief of Police, Atlanta, Ga.—Sir: Two days after the publication of the alleged dictagraph record I called upon Marion Jackson, chairman of the executive committee of the Men and Religion Forward Movement. I called upon him for two reasons, namely, First, I believed him to be my friend, and second, I knew him to be yours.

In my conference with him I stated that conditions in the city as the authentic published records could not but reveal the charge made by me of official corruption against you. In the conference I offered to submit all matters of issue to the arbitrament of the executive committee of the Men and Religion Forward Movement. He gave it as his opinion that this was not the proper tribunal to settle these charges.

The only charges imputed to me as having been made against you were charges contained in the dictagraph record. If you do not now know that this record is a forgery, you stand alone in your ignorance on the subject among the citizens of Atlanta. Up to the time that "this stunt was pulled off" you have always had my best wishes in connection with the discharge of your official duties. I had always considered you sincere, not overly bright and not especially fitted for the office you hold, still, not being a citizen of Atlanta—I live in the country—your fitness or want of fitness was not a matter of particular concern to me; but being a tax payer of the city and intensely interested in its progress and prosperity, I felt that you should be given a fair chance to make good for the position you occupied.

I am now convinced that you are not intellectually and temperamentally fitted for the office you occupy, and I shall proceed to give you reasons for the conclusion I have reached.

Calls It Libelous.

When this dictagraph "stuff" was published, instead of inquiring as to its genuineness, as any city official capable of discharging the duties of his office should and would have done, you permitted yourself to rush into public print, hurling abusive epithets and libelous matter viciously at me. This should not have been done, as conduct might have resulted in a breach of the peace, which you, as an officer, are sworn to conserve, and if the charges made against me were untrue, you violated a penal statute of the state.

You charge me with being the paid attorney of the vice gangsters and with co-operating with them as paid counsel to reinstate former conditions in this city. Surely you could not be induced to lodge a charge of this character against a citizen, however humble and obscure, without having data to support it. I am not now, have not in the past, and do not expect in the future to represent individuals, firms or associations of individuals whose purpose it is to foster or promote vice and crime in the city of Atlanta. I have served with distinction as solicitor general and one-half years, and during this period I have never represented the keeper of a brothel in any court in the country of Fulton, and I shall ever shun such employment. During this period I have appeared in four cases of violation of the Watson law, in each of three of these I was employed by outside gentlemen to test the constitutionality of laws and ordinances.

I think I very undignified for you to have branded me as a professional crook and to have declared that "it takes one to catch another," and thus characterizing me you are guilty of a libel, and you know it, and in making the charge you admit that you are crooked, and thus strengthened the opinion of many that you are not intellectually and temperamentally fitted for the office of chief of police. Moreover, your maxim is faulty, that "it takes a crook to catch a crook." Your own record in this case is a living refutation of this doctrine.

Who Made the Charges.

In a conversation recently had with you I desired to tell you who charged you with official corruption. I now beg to comply with this promise—Colyar, Felder & Woodward. Your law office about two weeks ago imparted this information. It was they, and not I, who said that both you and Chief Beavers were crooks, and that you and not I, who said that you were a woman at 119 Garnett street twice a week, to wit: Tuesdays and Thursdays, and that this fact was pretty generally known. I expressed my doubt as to the truth of this charge, but Felder, Woodward & Colyar stated that he would notify any citizen interested on one of your visits to the city hall that if the mayor would appoint special officers to arrest you he would have you caught and ridden nude through the streets of the city on a rail, and literally, so that the people would know what a damned hypocrite you are. The information which these men in my office furnished the foundation for the dictagraph "stuff" in which I am made the author of this remark. It was during this period that certain detectives and police visited Bimbys and got on drunken brawls there almost nightly. It was they also who told me of the existence of dens of vice in the city; it was they also who told me that from some you received money; others received protection from you because conducted by relatives of yours, and still others were conducted by men owned by your political friends. If you extend protection, which I have not and do not charge, to any of these, whether for political influences, you are culpable.

No Evidence on Vice.

Permit me to state that while before the grand jury I frankly stated my inability to testify to vice conditions said to exist in Atlanta, for my evidence would be confined to what I had heard, body no list or roster of disreputable places, but am informed that a list was furnished the grand jury.

In conclusion, permit me to say that my understanding is that you now are in conducting the police department of the city of Atlanta, plenary power to appoint, remove and discipline your subordinates. If you are really a capable official, it is your sworn duty to investigate the recent dictagraph episode directed by the so-called chief of the detective department, Lanford, and then to be guilty of being responsible for the miserable frame-up, it seems to me to be your duty to promptly remove him from office.

I beg to remain,
Very truly yours,
T. B. FELDER.

Letter to James R. Gray.

Atlanta, Ga., June 7, 1913.—Mr. James R. Gray, Editor and Proprietor of The Atlanta Journal, Atlanta, Ga.—My Dear Dick: Recent developments have rudely shocked my confidence in your professions of personal friendship for me. That you have in times past been my friend, I do not doubt, but for reasons best known to yourself, you have chosen to stifle every generous impulse of a former friendship and towards me a spirit which I could not expect to find in my worst foe.

Why your professed ardor should have cooled so suddenly and your pretended friendship should have passed so mysteriously into eclipse is a riddle which I cannot solve. Do remember-ing your former fullsome protestations as I do. But for the rude jolts you have recently given an old acquaintance of nearly a quarter of a century, we might be preparing to celebrate the silver anniversary of our friendship, but instead of celebrating this event in our lives, I must bemoan the faults of one "whose heart is treacherous, though his tongue drops manna;" but I am thankful to say that I have a host of friends, whose friendship I treasure above rubies. They are as steadfast and as true as the North Star, "Let the wind blow where it listeth." In the present, as in every crisis through which I have been called to pass, they have given me without stint and duty unselfishly their loyal support and cooperation, and I wear them where Hamlet wore Horatio, "in my heart's core." I also have my enemies—in the main, among the criminal classes—whose venality and corruption a profound sense of professional duty and obligation has forced me to expose.

I might add that I prize my enemies scarcely less than my friends, for the possession of their enmity constitutes the very highest tribute to my character, both personal and professional. There are not a few of my friends who are bound to me, thank God, by "hooks of steel," because of the very enemies I have made.

Can't Understand It.

I will never understand, Dick, why you reproduced in the columns of your paper, with the imprimatur of your sanction, the uncorroborated vaporings of the diseased mind of this mental hunchback and moral pervert, A. S. Colyar, Jr., especially when the mass of official matter furnished you by him bore all of the earmarks of a willful and deliberate forgery; and in view of the further fact that at least one other paper to which it was tendered, upon the owner of which I had no claim except that of fair treatment, rejected it, upon the grounds: First, that the article reeked on its face with indubitable and unmistakable proof of an outrageous "frame-up," and, second, that the tender was not a man, but a human monstrosity, without mental, moral or financial responsibility for his action. It is also a curious fact that this conspirator, in first injecting the proffered manuscript had no knowledge of Colyar's character. While you—so you informed me—knew him to be a "damned crook," who would sell out to one side as quickly as to the other. To cite evidence of this I will mention how well the "market overt" to the highest bidder for cash the fruits of his perjuries and forgeries have abated not one "jot or tittle," but have actually won you the mass of putrefaction labeled by him, "Felder and Woodward Dictagraphed" as proof of this statement. Dick, let me call your attention to some of the things which he has offered in this market since the publication of the alleged dictagraph matter he claims to have sold to you. His offer has been declined, because it was not believed that his charges against you were true. I would not be a party to blacken the character of an enemy, much less a friend, by giving publicity to any villainous fiction, and decline such employment. During this period I have appeared in four cases of violation of the Watson laws, in each of three of these I was employed by outside gentlemen to test the constitutionality of laws and ordinances.

I think it very undignified for you to have branded me as a professional crook and to have declared that "it takes one to catch another," and thus characterizing me you are guilty of a libel, and you know it, and in making the charge you admit that you are crooked, and thus strengthened the opinion of many that you are not intellectually and temperamentally fitted for the office of chief of police. Moreover, your maxim is faulty, that "it takes a crook to catch a crook." Your own record in this case is a living refutation of this doctrine.

Who Made the Charges.

In a conversation recently had with you I desired to tell you who charged you with official corruption. I now beg to comply with this promise—Felder, Woodward & Colyar. Your law office about two weeks ago imparted this information. It was they, and not I, who said that both you and Chief Beavers were crooks, and that you and not I, who said that you were a woman at 119 Garnett street twice a week, to wit: Tuesdays and Thursdays, and that this fact was pretty generally known. I expressed my doubt as to the truth of this charge, but Felder, Woodward & Colyar stated that he would notify any citizen interested on one of your visits to the city hall that if the mayor would appoint special officers to arrest you he would have you caught and ridden nude through the streets of the city on a rail, and literally, so that the people would know what a damned hypocrite you are. The information which these men in my office furnished the foundation for the dictagraph "stuff" in which I am made the author of this remark. It was during this period that certain detectives and police visited Bimbys and got on drunken brawls there almost nightly. It was they also who told me of the existence of dens of vice in the city; it was they also who told me that from some you received money; others received protection from you because conducted by relatives of yours, and still others were conducted by men owned by your political friends. If you extend protection, which I have not and do not charge, to any of these, whether for political influences, you are culpable.

No Evidence on Vice.

Permit me to state that while before the grand jury I frankly stated my inability to testify to vice conditions said to exist in Atlanta, for my evidence would be confined to what I had heard, body no list or roster of disreputable places, but am informed that a list was furnished the grand jury.

In conclusion, permit me to say that my understanding is that you now are in conducting the police department of the city of Atlanta, plenary power to appoint, remove and discipline your subordinates. If you are really a capable official, it is your sworn duty to investigate the recent dictagraph episode directed by the so-called chief of the detective department, Lanford, and then to be guilty of being responsible for the miserable frame-up, it seems to me to be your duty to promptly remove him from office.

I beg to remain,
Very truly yours,
T. B. FELDER.

Letter to James R. Gray.

Atlanta, Ga., June 7, 1913.—Mr. James R. Gray, Editor and Proprietor of The Atlanta Journal, Atlanta, Ga.—My Dear Dick: Recent developments have rudely shocked my confidence in your professions of personal friendship for me. That you have in times past been my friend, I do not doubt, but for reasons best known to yourself, you have chosen to stifle every generous impulse of a former friendship and towards me a spirit which I could not expect to find in my worst foe.

Why your professed ardor should have cooled so suddenly and your pretended friendship should have passed so mysteriously into eclipse is a riddle which I cannot solve. Do remember-ing your former fullsome protestations as I do. But for the rude jolts you have recently given an old acquaintance of nearly a quarter of a century, we might be preparing to celebrate the silver anniversary of our friendship, but instead of celebrating this event in our lives, I must bemoan the faults of one "whose heart is treacherous, though his tongue drops manna;" but I am thankful to say that I have a host of friends, whose friendship I treasure above rubies. They are as steadfast and as true as the North Star, "Let the wind blow where it listeth." In the present, as in every crisis through which I have been called to pass, they have given me without stint and duty unselfishly their loyal support and cooperation, and I wear them where Hamlet wore Horatio, "in my heart's core." I also have my enemies—in the main, among the criminal classes—whose venality and corruption a profound sense of professional duty and obligation has forced me to expose.

I might add that I prize my enemies scarcely less than my friends, for the possession of their enmity constitutes the very highest tribute to my character, both personal and professional. There are not a few of my friends who are bound to me, thank God, by "hooks of steel," because of the very enemies I have made.

Can't Understand It.

I will never understand, Dick, why you reproduced in the columns of your paper, with the imprimatur of your sanction, the uncorroborated vaporings of the diseased mind of this mental hunchback and moral pervert, A. S. Colyar, Jr., especially when the mass of official matter furnished you by him bore all of the earmarks of a willful and deliberate forgery; and in view of the further fact that at least one other paper to which it was tendered, upon the owner of which I had no claim except that of fair treatment, rejected it, upon the grounds: First, that the article reeked on its face with indubitable and unmistakable proof of an outrageous "frame-up," and, second, that the tender was not a man, but a human monstrosity, without mental, moral or financial responsibility for his action. Offered to Lend Money.

Dick, in this age of commercialism my understanding is that the supreme test of friendship is the willingness and readiness of a friend to render succor and aid in the hour of adversity. When you went into bankruptcy I told you I had in cash $12,000 or $15,000, all of which was at your service; that I would raise as much more by pledging my property, and that I would cheerfully do. Again I ask, Dick, which of us has acted a friend's part, you or I?

This villain Colyar is usually crafty enough to bolster up his perjuries and forgeries, by plausible circumstantial corroborating evidence. To illustrate—on Monday night, after my card was published on Sunday, he called up the widowed mother of young Gentry over the phone, and then had me to take possession of the note book and have it delivered to him at once. To quote him, "We will all get in a hell of a fix if we don't get possession of this note book, for this fellow, Felder, will jail the whole bunch."

Dick, a villainous episode occurred during my negotiations with Colyar for the alleged purchase of the documents showing that the city detectives were destroying evidence in the Phagan case. Its pertinency will become apparent as it is unfolded. I know you will enjoy it, as I did, even though it be at your expense. While Colyar was negotiating with you for the sale of his "dictagraph manuscript" he called at my office one day and said to me that within an hour he would meet the custodian of the records—that he would call me over the phone, placing the custodian at an extension phone; he would ask me if I were "ready to come across with that $1,000 if he were ready to deliver the goods." I was to reply, "Yes." He now tells me, Dick, that this was a frame-up on you to get that $500, and the way you "fell for it was a caution," that he put you at one extension phone, and my good old friend, JJack Cohen, at another, and that after the conversation you three boys held a love feast, and literally did a song and dance to that melodious, soulful old tune, "Comrades, Comrades, Ever Since We Were Boys," and that from that moment forward you were as gullible as the yellowest-mouth baby mockingbird. His description of his experience with you and Jack afterwards I know would excite your risibles. He says that the moment in the time of his unfortunate arrest and incarceration on the charge of forgery and "a different sort the scene," furnished the money to extricate him," that you would "fall for almost anything." In his dramatic description of your attitude, he likens you and Jack to the little yellow mouth, unfledged baby birds in the nest, and himself to the old mother bird, the worm or twig. Dick, I really want you and Jack to get him on one of his numerous visits to your office, for reasons this for you, for I know you boys will enjoy it, as I know you well enough to know that you will have a "good one," even though the joke is at your expense.

Feels Indifferent.

Dick, in a vein of seriousness, I am utterly indifferent to additional and damaging publications reflecting upon my integrity of character, for I rest even in the conscious security which honor and rectitude always afford to one whose heart is in the right place, and I am content to bide my time in patience for the fulfilment of that sweetest of all maxims, "Truth is omnipotent, and will prevail." But, Dick, baseless libels against the professional character and integrity of others, whether done to get a "scoop" on some competitor, or through malice or malevolence, are only a cold blooded of the doctrine of the "liberty of the press" but an invasion of the rights of the citizen and, as a member of the bar, an outrage of this character will some day be perpetrated upon some long suffering citizen, who, goaded to desperation by the fulfilment of this law in his own breast will take his reputation and character. These willful, reckless and too frequent slaughts upon the character of the private citizen by the riotous licentiousness of the public pathfinder, is tragic angle, involving as they do not only the personal humiliation and embarrassment of the individual slandered, but the happiness and peace of his family.

The premises considered, I think it due me that you and Jack should immediate the groundless charges made against me. I am,

Very truly yours,
THOS. B. FELDER.

Letter to Mr. Coates.

Atlanta, Ga., June 7, 1913.—Mr. Foster Coates, Manager of The Georgian, Atlanta, Ga.—Dear Sir: My acquaintance with you, I think, about covers a period of but a few months, and, as I now recall, I have never conversed with you on more than half a dozen occasions. I have no claims upon you, either personally or professionally, except the claim that one gentleman has upon another—fair treatment and fair treatment. This has been accorded me by the newspaper whose policies you control and direct in Atlanta.

My thanks are due, and are hereby tendered, to you for rejecting a lot of billingsgate furnished by Colyar, Lanford and others, reflecting upon my personal and professional character and integrity. I especially refer to you for rejecting the scurrilous letter handed you by Lanford, written to him by a "jail-bird" in South Carolina, and for your kind and delicate courtesy in immediately submitting this "slime" to me was not only gracious, but highly appreciated, that the conduct of some of my friends (?) engaged in the newspaper business in the city of Atlanta.

I learned with deepest regret, that your are soon to leave the city of Atlanta for another city, and in behalf of myself, and the public generally, I venture to hope that Mr. Howell will send here, as your successor, a gentleman who is familiar as you are with the decent amenities of life.

I beg to remain, very truly yours,
THOS. B. FELDER.

Has No Comment to Make.

James R. Gray, on seeing Thomas B. Felder's communication addressed to him, said:

"I have no comment to make on Mr. Felder's letter. His controversy is with A. S. Colyar. I suppose Mr. Colyar will wish to reply."

JOE HALL WRITES ON THE BOND BILL

Commends the Bill to Be Introduced by Representative Miller on Subject of Bond Refund.

Editor Constitution: I have seen many bills that members of the legislature proposed to introduce at its approaching session. I have looked with interest to see if any bill has been introduced in the interest of the taxpayers, but so far have failed to see any suggestion of any bill of this character.

I herewith hand you one that I think is in the interest of the tax-payers, and will thank you to publish the same for the information of the tax-payers and their representatives in the general assembly.

My young friend, Wallace Miller, representative from this county, has kindly consented to introduce this bill.

On the first day of July, 1915, there will fall due $2,400,000 of said outstanding bonds of this state; provision for the payment of these bonds must be made by the present legislature. Of course the state will be compelled to issue another series of bonds for the purpose of raising money with which to pay off and retire the bonds becoming due at that time. The issue of $2,400,000 of bonds which comes due in 1915 were issued and sold under the act of legislature passed in 1884, providing for the sale of thirty-year bonds, and the money arising from the sale was used in the payment of the valid bonds of the state, which became due during the year 1913 and 1884.

If this bill should be enacted into a law by the general assembly and the bonds issued, as provided therein, the whole of the public bonded debt of the state will have been provided for, except an issue of $250,000 which falls due in 1925, and an issue of $250,000 which falls due in the year 1926, and that portion of the debt of the state which is held by the University of Georgia (the amount of which I do not just now recall). The balance of the public debt of the state, as provided for by bonds which fall due and are payable $100,000 each year, and which payments are met by levy of taxes for sinking funds, as required by the constitution of the state. If these bonds, as provided for in this bill, are authorized by the general assembly, the whole of the public debt of the state, with the above exceptions, will have been retired by the year 1936.

I think that the average rate of interest paid on bonds issued in 1885 was 4 per cent. At this rate of interest the taxpayers of the state will have paid, when these bonds become due in 1915, 120 per cent interest, or in other words, have paid as interest on these bonds of $2,400,000, more than $4,000,000, and the principal of the bonds is still due.

If the general assembly should again provide for an issue of bonds to run for thirty years, and pay interest on the same at 4 per cent, which at this time would be as low a rate of interest as could be obtained, the taxpayers would in that time, have paid over $4,000,000 in interest on the bonds, and the principal of the debt would remain unpaid.

Since the adoption of the constitution of 1877, there has annually been paid on the principal of the bonded debt of the state $100,000, and the result is that under this wise provision of the constitution about $3,500,000 of the bonded debt of the state has been paid and the interest charges reduced from an amount exceeding $700,000 to less than $300,000, and interest is annually reduced on $100,000.

To provide for the payment of the debt of the state in the manner provided in the bill would only require an annual appropriation of $100,000. This small amount could be paid and not be felt by the taxpayers of the state. The reduction in the interest on the whole of the bonded debt of the state would, in a few years, equal the amount required to meet the bonds, as provided in the bill.

When the constitution was adopted it required that in addition to the interest and the interest charges there should be raised by taxation to pay the principal. The taxable value of the state, in round numbers, about $300,000,000. These values now exceed $400,000,000, so it will be observed that the burden upon the taxpayer to raise this additional amount is not near as great as it was when the amount of $100,000 a year was originally required to be raised.

There will be, under the provisions of this bill, no necessity to levy any tax to meet principal on these bonds before the year 1918. There is due the state from the Northeast railroad $100,000, which becomes due in 1915, and which is appropriated by the constitution to the payment of the bonded debt of the state. There is also in the treasury available for the payment of the bonded debt of the state, $100,000 in the sinking fund in excess of the amount required each year to meet the bonds of the state falling due.

I hope that the provisions of this bill will commend itself to the good sense, patriotism and statesmanship of the general assembly.

JOS. H. HALL.

The Proposed Bond Bill.

The bill of Representative Miller provides that the governor be directed to cause to be issued interest-bearing negotiable bonds of this state for the amount of $1,400,000 and to dispose of the same by sale or exchange for other bonds of the state falling due on the 1st of July, 1915, for the purpose of paying off and discharging that portion of the principal of the public debt of the state which falls due on the first day of July, 1915. The said bonds to be issued and disposed of by the governor at such times and in such amounts not to exceed in the aggregate $3,400,000 in the discretion of the governor. The bonds shall be so issued that the principal shall mature and be payable at the rate of $100,000 a year, the first of said bonds to become due on the first day of July, 1916, and annually thereafter on the same day to the amount of $100,000 until the whole of said bonds shall be paid an retired by money arising from tax to be levied each year for said purpose, and the general assembly is hereby required to provide annually for the payment of the principal and interest on said bonds by the levying of a sufficient tax upon the taxable property of this state for said purposes, and the money arising from the levy of said tax, when paid into the treasury, shall be kept separate and apart from all other funds and shall alone be applied to the payment of the principal and interest upon said bonds; that the governor may, in his discretion, so issue said bonds that the first series of the same shall become due in the year 1920 and then the sum of $100,000 shall become due and payable, and the general assembly, as herein required, shall provide each year, after the year 1916, for a sinking fund not to exceed $100,000 a year for the purpose of meeting the first series of said bonds when they shall fall due on the first day of July, 1920.

WISCONSIN HOGGISH ABOUT ITS BERRIES

La Crosse, Wis., June 7.—Because the state of Wisconsin wants a quart of berries to be larger than a quart must be in the other states, a carload of Arkansas strawberries were condemned by State Dairy and Food Commissioner Emery. Each box contained only a liquid quart instead of a dry quart. Strawberries are dry under the Wisconsin law and must be measured in a quart which is wide, low and heaping up and not in a tall narrow vessel which cannot be heaped so well.

DIPLOMAS ARE GIVEN TO 35 YOUNG LAWYERS

Twelve States Represented at the Atlanta Law School Commencement Exercises.

Lawyers from twelve states were graduated from the Atlanta Law School at the commencement exercises at the Grand opera house last night. Members of the faculty and the thirty-five graduates were seated on the stage which was beautifully decorated with palms, when the curtain went up at 8:30 o'clock, and all the barristers who received their degrees were clad in cap and gown.

The invocation by Rev. John E. White opened the program, and this was followed by music. Then came the principal address of the evening by W. A. Covington, of Moultrie, Ga. The presentation of the diplomas and prizes by Dean Hamilton Douglas followed, and forthwith thirty-five names were added to the roster of those who are qualified to practice law in Georgia. The valedictory to the class, by Blair Foster, concluded the program.

Following the exercises the graduates and faculty of the Atlanta Law School adjourned to the University club for the annual banquet. Basil Stockbridge was toastmaster, and the speakers were Hamilton Douglas, George Westmoreland, W. O. Cheney, L. J. Grossman and G. G. Osborne.

A complete list of the graduates follows:

George Washington Anderson, Paul LaFayette Bartlett, William Jeptha Bird, Berry Erskine Brewster, William Hughes Brooks, William Franklin Buchanan, Allen Mitchell Burdett, Lindley Wayland Camp, Wylie Owen Chesney, Eugene Richardson Clarkson, Allen A. Dowda, Floyd Isaac Dovell, Joseph Marion Eaddy, David Blair Foster, Aude Ceborn Franks, Gustavus Wymer Frankin, James Arthur Gallogly, Leonard Jacob Grossman, Charles Ferdinand Huppe, Robert Henry Lindsay, William Earl Morgan, George Godolphin Osborne, John M. Owen, Guy William Parker, James Jackson Sitton, Basil Stockbridge, Benjamin Hardy Sullivan, Alfred B. Taylor, Harry Butler Terrell, Stephen Bernard Tighe, Richard Brogdon Trimble, Lonnie Veasey, William Madison Warren, Max Harris Wilensky, George Marshall Wilson.

A feature of the program was the announcefent of the honor graduates. The Hamilton Douglas medal for the best debater was awarded to Leonard J. Grossman. Robert C. Alston medals for the first and next best thesis were awarded to Basil Stockbridge and George G. Osborne; the faculty prize, for the best declaimer, was divided among Harry B. Terrell, Allen A. Dowda and George Northen.

MUST PAY BIG DAMAGES FOR WINDOW-SMASHING

Mrs. Pankhurst and Other Militants Lose $1,840 Damage Suit Brought by Shopkeepers.

London, June 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Pethick, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, Miss Christabel Pankhurst and Mrs. Mabel Tuke, representing the Women's social and Political Union, were today condemned by the king's bench court to pay $1,840 damages in a suit brought by a number of West End London shopkeepers for damage done in smashing windows during suffragette raids.

The hearing lasted three days. As this was a test case, it is expected that many similar suits will follow.

Five dollars' fine or 14 days' imprisonment was the sentence imposed on each of the three women who attempted to interrupt the peace conference at St. James' palace yesterday. When the judge refused postponement of the trial today suffragette sympathizers in the court shouted protests.

There are but few depilatories sold. You think there are hundreds because you have used the same identical preparations under several different names. This is easily explained. Women stop using when they learn that they are harmful. Therefore, try any can not be sold under the same name for any length of time. Then the identical, worthless, harmful concoctions are given new names and advertised again as totally different preparations to who innocently buy them over and over again under different names, and this will continue as long as women are so unwise as to experiment with unknown, so-called hair removers.

De Miracle
Has Stood the Test of Time

De Miracle has been sold as De Miracle for over eleven years, and its name has never been changed. It is acknowledged the world over by eminent authorities as the one safe, perfected hair remover, therefore it is the only depilatory you can use without experimenting.

Leaves No Tell-Tale Smell

If you use De Miracle it will be impossible for any curious person to know that you have used a hair remover because De Miracle evaporates immediately after accomplishing its work, therefore leaves no odor whatever. On the other hand, if you use any depilatory with a distinctive odor, an offensive, tell-tale smell will cling to your skin for hours.

Avoid Permanent Disfigurement

by refusing substitutes. If your dealer will not supply you send $1.00 direct. Free information how to determine which depilatories are harmful and worthless sent in plain, sealed envelope.

THE ONLY REAL HAIR SAVER AND HAIR GROWER

Price One Dollar at Drug, Hardware and Dep't Stores

Those who have tried the many so-called Hair Tonics, Hair Restorers, Hair Foods, etc., as found in the shops, know they are practically worthless; they don't reach the spot. Prof. Matchnikoff, Europe's greatest Biologist and Scientist, discovered that all Hair and Scalp ailments are due to certain germs or parasites that are propagated in the hair roots, where they feed on the elements that are intended to nourish the hair and supply its color. And he found that these germs could be reached and destroyed only by the Electro-Magnetic-Heat of the ARSENIRON COMB, which also cures Dandruff, stops Hair-fall and itching, prevents Premature Grayness, and changes a "kink" into a "wave."

FINAL RECEPTION AT HILL STREET SCHOOL

Parents and Visitors Gratified at Children's Performance. Splendid Attendance.

The pupils of the eighth grade gave a very interesting entertainment for the benefit of the schools on Friday, May 30. The admission was 10 cents. Several parents and visitors came. In all we made over $17, which we considered very good for only two performances. As our school has no auditorium the entertainment was given in the eighth grade room, but if we did have an auditorium we would have had plenty of material in the shape of boys and girls to have had a very excellent entertainment.

The ladies of the Parent-Teacher club served a very nice lunch for the teachers of our school last Friday. After this they enjoyed the afternoon very much.

During the past year the pupils of the sixth grade have been painting maps of the United States. Lois Bell, of the grade, received the prize awarded by their teacher, Miss Fraser, for the nicest maps that was painted. We congratulate her on this success. Floyd Hartley, of the fourth grade B, was sick part of last week, but he has now returned to school and we welcome him back to our midst.

During the fall term beginning in September 1912 and ending in December, there were ninety-nine pupils of our school that were not absent or tardy. During the spring term, beginning January 6, 1913, and ending June 6, 1913, there were seventy-seven children of our school who were not absent or tardy. This, I think, is a good record, but it will better next year, as follows. During the whole scholastic year, beginning in September, 1912, and ending in June, 1913, I want two children of our school were not absent or tardy. Their names are as follows:

Eighth grade, Annie Mae Cooper; Seventh Grade, Thelma Hughes, Leslie Mabry, Agnes Cunningham, Fred Olson and John Peacock.

Sixth grade, Marie Williams, Ellabor Brooks, Edna Hamilton, Marcelline Hunchcock and Frederick Wooding.

Fifth grade, Josephine Smith, Edith Evans, Mallong Hall and Henry Coleman and Hugh McKinney.

Fourth grade A, Thelma Calhway, Alice Worthan and Virginia Bell. Lowell Brooks, Alice Carey, Travis Perkins, Howard Coker and Rosser Cooper.

Third grade, Elizabeth Allen, Katherine Ivey, Will-Rita Guill and Lawrence Gifford.

First grade B, Mary Smith.

We are very proud of the children for their splendid punctuality. It takes character to sit in a school room for five hours each day for months and study hard. We should take a lesson from the example these children have shown, for I am sure that we have awoke some mornings feeling bad, perhaps had a headache or the toothache and did not feel at all like going to school, and it took will power to conquer. To show our appreciation for their loyalty to the principal, Miss Wesley gave them an extra vacation part at school last Tuesday. They all enjoyed the cream very much. We hope they will always have a record like this, which they have made this year.

"School is done.
School is done.
Vacation has begun!
School is done.
School is done.
Won't we have some jolly fun?"

SANFORD K. BELL.

OVER $3,000 PENNY LUNCHES WERE SERVED

With the close of the school year, the public will be interested in Knowing just how much has been accomplished in the way of supplying pupils with penny lunches, a work in which a number of philanthropic ladies of the city have been interested.

Mrs. H. Kreigshaber, chairman of the penny lunch committee and lady board of visitors, reports that, during the time that lunches were provided, more than 53,000 lunches were served Mrs. Kreigshaber has many letters from teachers, pupils and others interested in the schools, telling of the good accomplished by the penny lunches.

It is expected that the school board will provide equipment for the serving of the lunches by the time the schools open next fall. Thirty-eight school principals have signed a petition asking that the lunches be continued provided the proper equipment is furnished for serving them.

LETTERS FROM THE SCHOOLS

Formwalt Street School.

As the year is drawing to a close, we look back over our year's work with a great deal of pleasure, and we think it has been a very profitable one also. While we are looking forward to our vacation and much needed rest, still there is a tinge of sadness in parting from our dear eighth grade children are spending their last week at Formwalt, and when they leave, ties that have bound us for eight years will be broken.

A special invitation had been extended to the parents of the pupils who were to receive the prizes, so there was quite a proud and entertained audience that assembled at our school Friday morning.

The highest honors, two beautiful gold watch fobs, presented by our principal, Mrs. Sams, were won by Willam Johnson, of the eighth grade, for a perfect record in department and a most satisfactory one in scholarship, covering a period of eight years, and for having the honor of leading the boys promoted to the high school.

Lucile Mann, who was awarded to Frank Ruskin, of the eighth, for a beautiful record in department and scholarship for seven years, having entered Formwalt in the third grade. Frank has the honor of having led on the roll of honor oftener during these years than any pupil in the eighth grade. His rival best him by a margin of 6 per cent only for this year, but he says, according these two boys to do Formwalt great credit in the high school.

In the eighth grade the medals for deportment were awarded by Lois Fowler and William Johnson.

Georgia Belle Withrs won the medal for being the class leader for the year.

In looking over the reports work the seventh graders feel that they have cause to rejoice, as seventeen out of the four children offered by Mrs. Sams to the grammar grades, they were two of them. The class leaders are Stanley Hall and Mirtle Holmes. They had the honor of having skipped the sixth grade, and at once entered the seventh.

The prizes given in the seventh grade are as follows: Class leaders, Stanley Hall, Thelma Holmes; perfect attendance, Minnie Lee Mansfield, Nellie Reynolds, Nellie Pardue, Mattie Veneva Smith, Willie Reynolds, Don Moore and Ida Marshall; perfect deportment, Maggie Williams and Ruth Moore.

Gladys Johnston won the prize in the sixth grade for having led the roll of honor the greatest number of times.

Mary Lee Wilhelm, of the sixth, will receive a prize for having the neatest geography and language notebook.

George Griffith, of the fifth, has led the class every month this year. Max Feldman has made a close second. Ethel Carnes has led the girls the most number of times.

George Freeman and Max Feldman were awarded prizes for general excellence, Lanier Aldin for mark improvement.

In the fourth grade Kellogg Maddox led the boys in class attending and Lillian Brantley the girls. They were awarded prizes. Prosa Theodocian was awarded a prize for excellence in department for the year.

All the boys and girls of the third grade are anxious to know who will receive the prizes for good work this year.

Eva Lassitur and Fain Abbott are the prize winners for general excellence; Ethel Cantrell and Paul Abbott for the neatest copy book and Morris Spivak for the highest average in arithmetic. He has an average of 99.6, almost perfect.

The class leaders for the year from the second grade were Lilla Fifer and Frances Mott.

Those that received prizes in the grade were Lilla Fifer, for obtaining 100 per cent in attendance for the year, and Ruth Garrard, Lilla Fifer, Helen Geraktitis and John Baldwin, for having the most stars in written spelling. Each of the prize winners received a book of fairy tales.

The second grade congratulates itself upon having the best attendance of the primary grades for the year, having won both pretty pictures offered by Mrs. Sams.

The leaders in first A were Grace Garrison and Edward Wilder. These little folks made a fine record for the year and were given a story book for the excellence of their work.

In the first B the class leaders were Nora Reis and Lowell Brooks. Nora Reis was awarded a prize for having made 100 per cent for the year in department, arithmetic, reading and dictation.

CLARA WYATT.

George W. Adair School.

The children who had 100 in attendance for the entire year were given a party by Miss Nolan. They were Gerald Pattilo, Pascal Harrison, Alta Hardy, Frances Odom, Buron Farlow, Aldred Dill, H. J. Jones, Annie Mae Thaxton, Gussie Mae Jones, Clarabel Henderson, Susie Cooper, Hubert Anderson, Odessa Anderson, Effie Barlow, Myra Revels, Ruby Cook, Benjamin Brewer, Pierce Henderson, Ruby Cobb, Marie Summers, Walker Nesbitt, Leslian Gresham, Walter Graves, Mary Mosley, Oran Chatham, Ruby Cobb, Sadie Harrison, Ruth Shields, Willie White, Inez Bozeman, Opal Chatham, Ernestine Stokes, Ada Awtrey, John Hobbs and Murphy Morris.

The first grade B was sorry to lose Clara Price, who has quit on account of sickness.

We had our entertainment on Wednesday and the program was as follows:

The Tea Party—First B.
The Glee Song—Seventh and eighth grade.
Concert, Recitation and Song—First grade A.
Wand Drill—Seventh Grade girls.
Ruggles Children Dialogue—Third grade.
Intermission—Violin solo, by William Estes.
Telephone by Mr. Sunflower and Miss Cloverbloom—Second grade.
Butterfly Round—Fourth grade.
Taking Census—Fifth grade.
Daisy Song—Second grade.
More Time Out—Seventh and eighth graders.
Song—Fourth grade.
The Train to Mauro—Eighth grade.

ERNEST BREWER.

North Avenue School.

On Friday, May 30, the Parent-Teacher association entertained the eighth grade at an informal reception, after their business meeting, and an interesting talk by Miss Mary Barnwell Light were served, and everyone had a delightful time.

The seventh and eighth grades gave an entertainment on June 2 in the auditorium. The program was enjoyed immensely by the audience, among whom were the fifth and sixth grades.

An oratorical contest was held by the third, fourth grades on June 3. Those taking part were: Fifth grade—Frank Keene, Welon Geesiin, Frank Morris, Ira Harden, Kerfoot Hancock, John May, Thomas Sands, Victor Hollingsworth, Percy Lambright, Bert Harless, John Miller, Frank Vettre; third grade—Chancy Hesbensure, Grace Vettre, Weston Brewer, Sadie Pomerance, Janet Cameron, Ruth Mayson, Mattie W. Kellam and Mat Malone.

Every one of the pupils did exceedingly well and the judges had a very hard task in choosing the best. They decided, however, that the first prize should be awarded to John Miller and Mattie Kellam; the second prizes to Frank Keene and Janet Cameron, and honorable mention given Percy Lambright, Janet Cameron and Mat Malone.

The winners of this and previous contests declaimed against each other. They were John Miller, Frank John and John Keene. All three boys did splendidly, but the judges were unanimous in their decision in favor of John Miller as the best speaker. The Unknown Speaker."

The applause he received was almost deafening, and the boys in his class took much proud of him that they carried him home on their shoulders.

On Wednesday, June 4, the juniors (seventh grade) and the seniors (eighth grade) a banquet (spread) in the gymnasium. There were some scrap made under for the occasion a plenty to eat and the eighth grade received "fake" diplomas.

Friday was class day by the eighth graders. This is the last day of school. they burnt the first pages of their most hated books. The eighth grade will be back to return as pupils. Of course we are all glad that school is over.

Williams Street School.

If it were not for the fact that the children of the eighth grade, Miss Williams and I would be very happy this last week of school.

The seventh and eighth grades are to have an entertainment Thursday, to which the friends and parents of the children are invited.

The eighth grade had the highest attendance picture again. We have had it ten weeks in succession.

ROSE ALLEN KEITH.

Howell Station School.

We all studied hard, yet waiting impatiently for Friday to come. Most of us got promoted, but there were a few who were unfortunate.

Our program was as follows:

Recitations—"Bible Boys and Girls," Lowell Brooks; "The Trustful Boy," Alvin Cook; "Rules in a Verse," Calvin Walter; "Homesick Kind," John Carter; "Two Men," Louie Broadwater; "I must Guard Them," George Carter; "Sing a Song," Luke McEwen; "Nobody's Child," Mary Bourn; "A Helping Hand," Jerome Eckles; "Over the Hill to the Poorhouse," Louise Cook; "The Gambler's Wife," Ruth Peeples; "Somebody's Waiting," Grady Nichols.

Dialogues—"The Story of a Peach Pie," Kenneth Lankford and Myra Traynham; "The Sick Baby," Hubert Martin and Myra Traynham.

RUTH PEEPLES.

Davis Street School.

No wonder the Davis Street school won the first prize for the yard that showed the greatest improvement. The children realized that this was the last prize to be offered this year, and we were determined not to get beaten in this effort to win another honor for our school.

When we began work on our yard, it was in a bad condition, indeed, but now it is one of the most attractive school yards in the city, and this is entirely due to the earnest efforts and hard work of the children and teachers, who came early in the morning and stayed late in the afternoons to work.

On Thursday afternoon the children were assembled in the yard while our principal received a check for $10 from the ladies' auxiliary and from Mr. Rich, who offered the prize. Mr. W. O. Stamps and other visitors were present, and we were made very happy by the compliments that were paid our school. The eighth, seventh and sixth grades got excellent in music this year, and the seventh grade was the banner class for the week, having made 100 per cent in attendance.

We made quite a success of our candy-pulling last week, clearing $53, which we will use in paying for our piano.

The seventh and eighth grades had a delightful time at a picnic Wednesday at Grant park.

We are coming close to a happy school year; and when the afternoon came to an end, we promised each other that we would meet often during the summer on the playground.

We wish to thank all our parents and friends who have helped us to make the year's hard campaign for a new school. Their efforts have resulted in the assurance that we will get the double building, and we are satisfied to wait that long for it.

VIVIAN SCHULTZ.

Walker tStreet School.

Vacation has come at last, to our delight. What good times we will have now that there are no more lessons to study! I suppose you think this sounds lazy, but we have worked diligently and deserve a rest.

I neglected to refer in my recent letters to the fact that our school won a basket ball on field day, which was a prize offered to the grade of children who took part in these exercises. We like to play basket ball very much, but we prize it doubly because we won one.

We were very sorry that one of the young trees in the school yard was broken by the serious windstorm which swept the city last Saturday.

The second grade A were entertained at a picnic last week by their teacher, Mrs. Connally. They went to her home and had a delightful time playing games and other delightful pastimes.

The little first graders are very glad that their vacation has come. Their first year in school, which lays the foundation of their education, has been very interesting to them. Nearly all will be promoted.

In the seventh grade Mollie Bressler has led her class for the year, with Bessie Evans as a close second. B. P. Wood has led the boys in his class, Mollie Bressler also has had 100 in spelling, arithmetic, geography, history and hygiene for the year. Margaret Ennis has made the greatest improvement in her studies, and James Allen has done the best work in drawing. Stanley Ford, Lois Hughes and Herman Ewing have not been absent or tardy for the entire year. The 100 per cent banner for this room furnished by Bessie Evans and Bessie Harrison, have been much appreciated and have done much to brighten their room in this grade.

In the third B, Loyal Evans and Harry Vismor stood head in spelling, and Loyal Harper and Alva Coleman stood head in reading last week.

The places which know us now, and have known us eight long years—the pupils of the fourth grade—will know us no longer so regularly, but we hope to visit our school in the future. We are all going somewhere many, many of us. Walker's bright girls and boys go at the close of their public school career—to the high school.

We are all looking for a long vacation, and want all of our pupils, as well as others, to return in September.

CHARNEY BRESSLER.

Lee tStreet School.

Our school had a fine entertainment the first three months of this week It was repeated Thursday morning for the children of our school. About 250 children took part in it, and each enjoyed it very much.

The boys of our eighth grade had a pleasant visit to the Tech field meet Saturday. We are proud of good work ...at was done by some boys that used to go to our school, as well as by those who graduated with us. The work was so interesting that our boys enjoyed it very much. Our principal has encouraged most of our boys so much that they have decided to get a high school education.

HAROLD JORDAN.

Fair Street School.

We have always felt that it would be a very pleasant day for us when we would graduate from Grammar school to High school, but now that vacation is near at hand, we of the eighth grade find it very hard to leave our dear old school when we know all of us will never be together again.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights we gave our closing entertainment, and every seat in the auditorium was taken, and standing room was at a premium. The children were beautifully costumed in each number, and the glow of the colored electric lights gave an enchantment to each scene.

Each number on the program was well rendered, and showed careful training and skillful acting. The auf-fragette act, which portrayed "How It Will Be in 1933," given by the pupils of first grades A and B, made the hit of the evening. The program in full follows:

Song—"Keller's American Hymn," sixth, seventh and eighth grades.
"Swing Song," third grade B.
Recitation, Tiara Trouton.
Dialogue, "A Slight Misunderstanding," eighth and seventh grades.
Tableaux, "Sleeping Beauty," first B and third A.
"Quaker Song," sixth grade.
"As It Will Be in 1933," first A and first B.
"Peasant Dance, third A and third B.
Song, "Tenting Tonight," eighth, seventh and sixth grades.
Tableau, "Wounded Comrades," eighth and fifth grades.
Fancy Dance, fourth grade.
Violin Solo, Elise Cape, fifth grade A.
Flower Drill, second grade.
Song, "That's What the Daisy Said," eighth grade.
"A Syncopated Boogie Boo," sixth grade.
"Brownie Song," fifth B and fourth grade.
Dialogue, "The Train to Mawes," eighth grade.
"A Cradle Song," seventh and eighth grades.
Tableaux, "Priscilla and John Alden," eighth grade.
Song, "Goodnight."

Wishing each school a happy vacation. Fair closes her correspondence for the year.

PRISCILLA ROBERTS.

CORRESPONDENT'S LOT IS NOT AN EASY ONE

When Things Don't Happen, Nothing to Write About; in Stirring Seasons Has No Time.

And now comes the delightful bit of social news that Mrs. Robert Maddox will personally interest herself in developing the wonderful landscape beauties around Brookhaven, now the country home of the Capital City club, of which Mr. Maddox is president.

She is to be assisted by the group of ladies who preside over the palatial homes in the neighborhood of Brookhaven, among them being Mrs. James Dickey, Mrs. Morris Brandon, Mrs. William Kiser, Mrs. John Marshall Slaton, Mrs. J. K. Ottley, Mrs. Walter Andrews, Mrs. W. S. Witham, Mrs. Clark Howell, Mrs. E. Rivers, Mrs. T. B. Felder, Mrs. Albert Howell, Mrs. James R. Gray, Mrs. Cobb Caldwell.

WOMEN IN CITY'S CLUB LIFE

No one doubts the fact that the world over women are the recognized leaders of society—that society reflects the spirit, mind and heart of the women in it, but probably in no other place in the world is this more in as much a part of the actual life of a city's social clubs as they are in Atlanta.

The reputation which the Capital City club bears for its royal and finished entertainments would make one think that it had there not been always the gracious, lovely woman to complement as hostess the welcome extended by the president and board of the club.

In Atlanta's social life of the last quarter of a century, no group of women have more impressed themselves in their social graces upon the community than have the late Mrs. Livingston Mims, Mrs. Albert Howell, Mrs. W. S. Elkin, Mrs. John Grant and Mrs. Robert Maddox, the wives of the presidents of the club, the same true of the hostesses in the other clubs.

Their beautification in making club life brilliant as well as delightful is fully appreciated, too, for when recently there was asked one of Atlanta's most prominent citizens who has not the good fortune to have a wife to complement his efforts to become an officer of one of the leading clubs, his positive reply was, "No, I do not think a man without a wife should be in a position of that kind, for so much of a social club's success depends upon woman's co-operation."

SPLENDID CHANCE AT BROOKHAVEN.

Brookhaven, with its knolls and slopes and trees and natural terraces, the lake and the general scenic effect, affords many possibilities for artistic treatment and beauty with but little expense. Mrs. Maddox has proven in the landscape beauty of her own beautiful home on Peace's Ferry road that she has a marked talent in that direction, for every part of the landscape scheme about the home and its development was directed by her.

No formal plans for entertainment have yet been announced for the new country club house, but golf and golf enthusiasts in the Capital City club will probably bring many of the ladies to meet at the 19th hole, known at the tea hour. The porches command wonderful views on all sides, and dinners al fresco will be among the future entertainments. Mrs. Maddox and her neighbors who will work with her in beautifying Brookhaven are planning to have many vistas and seats which command a view of the lake, the terraces will be defined with shrubs and flowers and within a short time of the new country club will be one of the beauty spots of the country.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT BREAKS ALL RECORDS

Boys Taking Commercial Course in High School Graduate With Promising Outlook.

By Robert Foreman, Jr.

Although greatly hindered by a lack of suitable desks and other equipment, the business department of the boys' high school this year has broken all its previous records, both in attendance and excellence of work. The total enrollment for the year reached nearly one hundred, of which number about thirty graduated.

As a rule, the boys taking this course have applied themselves to their studies in a serious and businesslike way. Their deportment has given the teachers and principal very little trouble, and in some of the classes there has not been a single absence from the room during a recitation for weeks at a time. The boys have been uniformly courteous, respectful, and attentive, and have manifested a good class spirit throughout the entire year.

The fact that graduates of this department obtain excellent positions is particularly gratifying. Some of them are earning as much as $125 a month, and, so far as can be ascertained, not one of them is now out of employment.

A prominent business man who has in his employment several of the graduates of the commercial department, stated that owing to the thorough preparation and efficiency of these young gentlemen, he had made it a rule to employ no one without a diploma from this department as the boys' high school.

The class graduating this year is the largest since the department was created, about ten years ago. In the matter of scholarship this is perhaps the best average class the department has ever turned out.

Several members of the class have already accepted excellent business positions. In fact nearly all boys have either accepted places or have one in view.

Next year the business course will be still further strengthened by the addition of Spanish, which, owing to the opening up of the Panama canal, will prove a valuable asset to any young man entering upon a business career.

On account of our Spanish speaking island possessions, the civil service offers a wide variety of excellent positions to those who are properly prepared to do office work and who possess a reading and speaking knowledge of Spanish.

The length of the course will be two years, as heretofore, and to those boys in our city who feel unable to go to college, or who desire to prepare themselves at an early age for business, this course offers exceptional facilities.

The class held their banquet at the Kimball house after the graduation on the night of June 6, at the Grand Opera house, the honor guest being Professor W. F. Dykes, principal of the boys' high school.

WILLIAM C. JOHNSON'S UNIQUE SCHOOL RECORD

William Carlisle Johnson has just completed his eight-year course at Formwalt street school and leaves with such a splendid record that it is worthy of special mention.

In the eight years his attendance was perfect except one year, when he was absent one week on account of personal illness. His deportment has been all that the most exacting could wish.

Friday he received the medal offered each year by the principal, Mrs. Sams, for the best record for the entire eight years' work. This is the highest honor that a pupil of Formwalt can receive.

In the third grade he represented the school at the field day exercises and carried off the gold button in his class.

For the past two years he has been a member of the pennant winning baseball team, and as short stop and third baseman he has helped to toward winning the victories of 1912 and 1913.

In the seventh and eighth grades he won the declaimer's medal offered by the teachers of those respective classes for the best rendition and

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Johnson and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Carlisle, of 283 Formwalt street.

MRS. MADDOX WILL HELP BEAUTIFY BROOKHAVEN

Seven Minute Sermon
On the Golden Text

By Our Own Preacher.
(Copyright, 1912, by E. S. Davidson.)
June 8, 1913.

Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!—Psalm 133:1.

CHRISTIAN SOCIALISM.

I. Christian Unity is Good. There is an anti-Christian theory of socialism in the world. It is called Socialism. This is a condition of Christian unity, the churches and communities perfected in the spirit of Christ, wedded to Christ's love, living under laws which not only tend to foster such an ideal condition, but which also tend to discourage anything of the contrary nature. Such a form of socialism is good because it harmonizes with our real nature, which is made for a normal condition we love to dwell in unity. It is good for us to find our interests identified with the interests of others, to find ourselves speaking words of kindness and listening to fraternal greetings from every side and we will prove that it is good also because it harmonizes with the teachings of Jesus; one of His most beautiful and eloquent, practical and philosophical, was for the oneness of His disciples with Him and with the Heavenly Father. When that matchless prayer is answered there will be little or no trouble upon the earth, for this world will have become a heaven in which to go to heaven. This Christian unity is also according to apostolic teaching, for we are urged to "be perfect, be of one mind one toward another."

II. Christian Unity is Pleasant. There is nothing so delightful to witness as the unity of man and man, community with community, country with country, and church with church. How pleasant it is to see a united family in which love and concord prevail. When they love one another, exercise patience with one another, and play and pray one with the other. Such an ideal home is not only a foretaste of heaven, but it tends to make heaven in the same delightful brotherly spirit in the church or community to which that family may belong. There is an experience in pleasant to enjoy; there is no feeling which gives us more satisfaction than the feeling of kindness, fraternity and brotherly love of everybody. How beautiful it is these days, notwithstanding the insane preparations, military and naval, to prevent war, or to be ready for war, to learn from the newspapers day by day of the efforts which are being made to promote unity among the nations. It is a rare thing, in these days, for a responsible statesman to say an unkind word about his brother statesman. There is getting to be a popular thing for the nations of the earth to speak words which tend to promote peace. The day is surely coming when there will be an international law which will make it as criminal for one nation to attack another as for an individual to attack another, by force, as it is now criminal for individuals to attack individuals.

III. Christian Unity is Beneficial. Unity not only tends to create and to increase our happiness, but it will also create a greater degree of prosperity. Hence in the third verse of this beautiful Psalm, that the Lord commanded His blessing to rest upon the nations which manifested this sentiment of unity, and the blessing is said to be, "Life for evermore." Christian unity is like the dew of heaven when it distils upon a fruitful and thirsty earth; it is like showers of rain, intermitted with sunshine, it promotes the growth of everything which is desirable, and it drives away everything which is baneful. It creates peace among individuals and communities, it harmonizes business interests, lubricates the machinery of commerce, and makes everything run without friction. With Christian unity there will be no opposition, for men in the same business will recognize that they are brothers and will work for each other's prosperity, and that in the long run, will promote the prosperity of themselves. In such a community there will be no blind words, no slander, no envy, no jealousy; but a common impulse of good neighborhood and feelings of true joy, will animate everybody.

IV. Christian Unity Should Be Cultivated. It is not an utopian idea which I am presenting. It is not something which if we aim for we can never get; it is both possible and practical, and if we once get the people to believe in it it will be realized in sight. The way to bring about such Christian unity is to start it in ourselves. Let it begin with you, my friend. Just see to it that all envy, and strife, are rooted out of your heart, and that you personally become animated with love. Then try to promote it in others, practice and talk it, charm people with the idea, and get them to long to fall in line. If we only learn to be careful of each other's feelings, to be tolerant of each other's opinions, that will be important progress toward our ideal We should then constantly pray that there may be unity in our homes, in our social circles, in our churches, in our city councils, our legislatures, and last but not least that the church or Christ may be united.

DANGER IN EATING MEAT

Statistics Show That People Who Eat Meat Are Susceptible to Typhoid Fever

The death rate of Typhoid has been 10 per cent for many years. Even if the patient recovers, there is danger. Weakened constitution, languidness, loss of energy, and other after effects.

In a majority of cases typhoid fever is directly traceable to an inactive liver which has left masses of meat particles undigested in the alimentary canal. This mass putrefies and sends out death dealing poisons, to result in typhoid fever.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT is the greatest known liver stimulant. Its action is gentle, yet effective. It draws water to the alimentary tract, flushes stomach and bowels, washes out the undigested meat particles and removes the danger of fermentation. The blood is purified through the renewed activity of the liver.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT does not cause nausea and vomiting; no dangerous after-effects as with calomel. Don't take an inferior substitute; many imitate the name but cannot produce the same natural flushing action of the genuine JACOBS' LIVER SALT. At all druggists, 25c. If your druggist cannot supply you upon receipt of price, full size jar mailed postage free. Made and guaranteed by Jacobs' Pharmacy Co., Atlanta.—(Adv.)

The Well Dressed Woman

Fashions From Various Angles

By MARION MORRIS.

THE suit question is the most difficult problem of the season because severely tailored modes are rivaled by the demi-tailored suits that are quite dressy. Heretofore you felt perfectly satisfied if you got a plain tailored suit of serge, or another lightweight cloth, for you know that it would be in good style for utility and semi-dress wear throughout the Spring and Summer. But this is not so this season, for you realize that a silk suit is absolutely necessary for demi-dress occasions, and that a cloth suit is needed for morning and traveling wear. In other words, you are confronted with the necessity of getting two suits! Probably this may seem like extravagance, if you don't stop to consider that a silk dress is always needed in the Spring, and that if you can get a coat with it, you will have a suit as well as a dress.

IF you anticipate many social affairs that require an afternoon gown, or if you expect to go abroad and intend to look in upon the races, you will find it an economy to get two such costumes. A combination gown, with an old gold crepe de chine skirt fashioned in a "peg top" or draped style, with bodice of natural color filet and mechlin laces and gold embroidery, finished with a girdle of Nattier blue silk. A suit of black crepe meteor, with jaunty Empire cutaway coat and draped skirt, and by having the coat lined with gold-color chiffon you can wear it with the old gold gown, and at other times, the lace bodice of the gown may be worn with the suit. By so doing you can really have three beautiful costumes for the cost of two. As the season advances it becomes more evident that the rich-colored gowns and short black coats are foremost among ultra styles.

ALTHOUGH I have already suggested a black crepe meteor suit I want to second the fact, as you may be tempted by the broad and fantastic crepes that are so popular, crepe meteor always looks refined and elegant, while the others are apt to become too common by being imitated. Cote de cheval, which looks like silk Bedford cord, is worthy of your consideration; if you wish to expend at least five dollars a yard for the material. This silk is also used for the finest afternoon coats.

THIS is surely a season of blouses! And, even though new styles have been introduced every few weeks, you have no occasion to feel passe, for they are all so different. Lace blouses, which are the latest mode, are certain to relain throughout the Summer, because they are so fine and dainty. As these blouses are really transparent—being made of shadow lace—their designers were clever enough to know that just any kinds of corset covers would simply ruin their lovely appearance, and, therefore, made them with camisoles under bodices of lace net and ribbon. The prettiest of these blouses are fashioned with V-front necks, edged with frills of shadow lace, which also continue down the fronts to the waist line. Sometimes these blouses have flat collars and turnback cuffs of white messaline to give them a tone of richness.

IT seems curious that not until this year did women realize that white crepe de chine makes the most satisfactory utility blouses. Of course, the styles heretofore did not require this charming silk crepe for their interpretation—even though they would have been better if they had—so we had to wait for the Trotteur modes of 1913 to make us conversant with the fact. These Trotteur styles, which are also known as Debenham modes—having been copied from the French workmen's shirts—are quite the smartest when not trimmed with anything except cordings of the silk and black silk cravats. The model with slightly high turn-down collar and small revers that form a V-neck is considered the best.

If the new white chiffon blouses have won your admiration, you will not regret a considerable expenditure if you get the effective, elaborated styles that have but more touches of lace, if any trimmings, for those of plain chiffon not only look richer but they will dry-clean more successfully, and be a joy to get them with fleshcolor chiffon linings.

If you need a rather dressy afternoon coat, as well as an evening wrap and don't feel as though you could afford to get both, may I suggest one of the new beaded wraps that are so appropriate before 6 P. M. as they are thereafter? This wrap, which are most effective when in a short-below hip length and draped in a shuttle-like fashion, are of black brussels net, encrusted with jet, crystal, moonlight or iridescent beads and lined with black chiffon—the fronts and sleeves are finished on with narrow ends of black satin or moire. A composite of elegance and simplicity best describes any one of these wraps.

PEAU DE CYGNE is the name of the new light-weight woolen fabric that is being used for steamer and sports coats. The tone of elegance that this leather-effect material possesses, explains why the London tailors are making it into severely fashioned Raglan styles, with belted backs.

Long and slender quills are the latest note in tailored millinery. And although fashion is perching many of them on the backs of hats, she appreciates that on some styles they look best in the front or at the sides. They are nearly always poised at a decided angle.

Smart Afternoon Toilets

Plain and figured voile are combined in the first illustration in a very charming fashion. The little coatee is exceedingly attractive and the skirt shows a new note in drapery.

Rice-colored linen forms the second gown, which is made with a tiny vest of all-over embroidery, fastened with tiny rose glass buttons. The skirt is also ornamented with buttons.

This Mother Has Solved the Problem of Good Dressing on a Small Income

ALL of the clothes are ready for commencement day. Mildred, aged twenty, Ruth, aged five, and I (their mother), aged forty, are not to take an active part in the exercises, but my second daughter, Louise, aged fifteen, is to progress from one school to another, and on that day of days she demands that every member of her family shall be "clothed beyond criticism." "Beyond criticism" is rather a large order, but Mildred and Louise have the art of carrying their clothes well. Ruth is cunning in whatever she wears and I've kept my figure shapely with good corsets. A perfectly fitting corset is an absolute necessity to the woman who makes her own clothes. To commit an Irish bull, it's the sole wardrobe item that the poor but plump and proud woman cannot afford to be economical about.

On the occasion, Louise happens to be the person of most importance, and so I'll tell you first about her commencement day outfit. THE frock—the one to be worn on the afternoon when the prizes are to be awarded and the some evening at the class reception—is so beautifully simple that I made it in two days' time. First, I cut a white China silk princess slip by a thirty-two-inch bust paper pattern, fitted it to Louise and then put it on to a wire and buckram length dressmaker's form. When I was quite sure that the skirt hung evenly all round, I trimmed it from waist line to hem with three flounces, of graduated widths, in creamy shadow lace, the lowest one falling over a narrow ruffle of knife-plaited creamy net. The bodice all-over shadow lace is gathered softly into a Dutch-necked yoke of finely plaited net and is draped over the shoulders to form short sleeves, which an inch above the elbows are gathered into net frillings. About the waist is a corselet-girdle of white charmeuse sash ribbon fastening at the back under a big two-loop bow.

AS Louise, in common with the rest of us, expects to walk from receiving house to the academy, she asked for a long wrap to cover her graduation frock and so I made from Nattier blue pongee, a full-length coat whose panel back and slightly curved fronts, start without fullness from under a yoke so exceptionally deep that it resembles a bolero with pointed side forms running a trifle over the waistline beneath the arms. The shoulders of this coat are dropped very low and into them are plainly fitted rather wide sleeves that flare at the wrists and are trimmed with three buttons matching the black velvet shawl collar. This pongee was of such excellent quality for the price asked for it, that I bought seven additional yards from which I made, Louise, a commencement day luncheon costume. Its narrow skirt has a slightly draped back, a single inverted two-inch wide box plait stitched flatly down the center of its front and, starting from the top edge of the raised belt, two six-inch wide tabs, one falling over each hip as far as the knees. The regulation Eton jacket, fastening at the waist with a single large silver button, has square revers and wide cuffs of Nattier blue and pearl-white striped silk and finishing the neck is a square, turned-over collar of white filet net, appliqued with a scrolled pattern in Nattier pongee. Should commencement day prove to be very warm, Louise may safely discard her jacket as the white net blouse that goes under it is the daintiest affair imaginable even though it was made from an old party frock of Mildred's.

LOUISE'S academy is also Mildred's alma mater and as she expects to spend several days there with friends and to be very gay during that visit, she had to have two new costumes. The one for the Commencement exercises and the class reunion that evening, is made from five yards of forty-inch broad machine embroidered white cotton voile elaborated with wheels and motifs of cluny lace. At its left side the skirt is caught up as far as the knee and reveals a sham underskirt of all-over cluny, while the blouse, whose fullness is gathered into the upper seams of the raglan sleeves, is trimmed with cluny banding. As these narrow bandings join the seams of the sleeves, they help to simulate a neck-to-arm top yoke which is decidedly novel and very easy to make. Mildred's afternoon and evening coat is a knee length affair in white sponge made in Mandarin style with cut-in-one wide sleeve, a broadly turned-over collar and crossed-over fronts that fasten at the left side below the waist line with three big material covered buttons. Bordering the collar is one band of coarsely-meshed white lace, on the sleeves are two bands of the lace set three inches apart and trimming the entire garment are three bands of lace placed four inches apart.

WHILE it looks dressy, this really is a very practical wrap as it may be home-cleansed with gasoline or dyed some other hue. Mildred thought that she would need an elaborate visiting costume and so we bought enough white silk poplin for a suit which together we cut, fitted and tailored. The walking skirt we copied from Callot's model—the one having a straight cut front gathered on to the belt, slightly draped below the knees and at both sides overlapped by the edges of the back width which also is gathered on to the waist band and a little bit caught up near the knees. As there's nothing easier for amateur tailoresses to put together than a blouse coat, we made Mildred's that way, relieving its whiteness with simulated buttonholes bound in black satin, with buttons of black jet and with neck and wrist frills of plaited black net.

Ruth's commencement day frock will have to be her party frock until she outgrows it. We really spent too much time upon it—Mildred and I—but when the idea of having her wear a half-long First Empire dress of sheer white mull over a Lucile slip came to us, we couldn't resist the temptation to see how she would look in such a costume. Of course, the Empire robe was easily made. Anyone could put it together in half a day, but the slip of white net has three bands of gathered net veiling pink satin ribbons on its skirt and two similar bands on its bodice and over these trimmings trail tiny garlands of lavender, rose and pale blue satin roses interspersed with pale green chiffon leaves and silver-gold tinsel spirals. She'll look a picture, and I trust indiscreetly expressed admiration won't make her vain. Anyhow, we've planned to tell her that it's the frock and not herself that strangers admire. Naturally so elaborate a costume has to be concealed under a wrap when Ruth goes on the streets, and so at the very last moment we've made her an Empire coat of white wash poplin fastens at the neck with wash moire ribbons, and its hem is hand-sewed so that it can be let down in case Ruth continues to grow like the weed which she is not instead of the human exotic which she really is. The rest of her commencement day wardrobe consists of two crash frocks in natural color, made to button diagonally from the left shoulder to the right top of the hem and with the fullness at the back of the waist line drawn in slightly under a leather strap. Both frocks—they really are coats-are finished at the neck with a narrow turned-over collar, and have long sleeves that are gathered into the arm-eyes so that she may swing her arms about in comfort, and that's what a cut-in-one sleeve won't allow a child to do.

SO long as my old clothes are clean and reasonably up-to-date, I never think it matters much about what I'm to wear, but Mildred and Louise think differently, and for commencement day they insisted that I have an afternoon gown of tea green ratine and cotton crepe. The bodice and the overdrapery I made of the rough material and the elbow sleeves and the underskirt of the crepe, and for the girdle and ball button coverings, we used black satin. Mildred's specialty is the making of girdles, collars, cuffs and buttons, and I think it is these little touches which give distinction to the home-made costume. She made the collar for my three-quarter wrap in black crepe meteor. The garment is one of those almost shapeless affairs, with cut-in-one sleeves that fall over at the elbow and below it are seamed to fit the forearm. The fronts are drawn together and slightly upward to make a succession of graceful loose folds about the hips, and it is bordered all round with a four-inch band of black velvet. The collar, deeply pointed at the center of the back, and merging into narrow revers in front, looks like a silk in Futurist pattern, but it's really black faille, hand-painted by Mildred. In addition, the girls induced me to make a white cotton crepe frock and in order to have it become me, I trimmed it with bands of embroidery that run diagonally the length of the waist and the skirt. The waist line is placed rather high under the arms and in the back, but lengthened a trifle in front to increase the measurement from neck to belt; the three-quarter sleeves are tapered off toward the wrist to give a slender look to the arm and the neck is finished in Dutch manner to make throat seem longer. I really like myself in this white gown, yet feel certain that had it been made by a professional dressmaker, it wouldn't have been satisfactory. The girls say I'm getting conceited about my own sewing, but why shouldn't practice have made me very nearly perfect? Goodness knows I've had enough of it while making the clothes for three girls.

THE SUIT CASE BRIDE

Suit case brides are not numerous, but each Spring the constant traveler encounters a few of the species in hotels and as often wonders why the brand-new "Mrs." didn't put entirely different things into her piece of small luggage. For instance, why did she attempt to carry several elaborate and crushable evening blouses to wear at dinner instead of carrying just one simple and non-crushable soft satin frock of a quiet shade and two guimpes—a dark and a light one—to vary it?

Nor should she cumber herself with a flowered silk kimono, which under no circumstances is anything better than a bath robe. What she actually needs is a bahani. Do you know what la bani is, Miss Bride-elect? No? Well, it's a straight, scant little frock that is put on over the head and hooks on one shoulder. It is so perfectly modest and becoming that if visitors arrive unexpectedly you may appear in it. In fact, when dining in your own room you may wear it as a dinner gown. Make it of China silk or crepe de chine and tuck it into the suit case instead of the kimono which you had planned to take.

If you will order an extra skirt matching the gunmetal cutaway suit, you need not burden yourself with an extra street costume, as it may be worn while the other skirt is being pressed. And with this three-piece suit, the satin frock and the bahani you certainly can keep looking smart and fresh for a week. Better than crowding the suit case with extra gowns and blouses is to fill up any of its spaces with pretty gloves, handkerchiefs and neckwear, not forgetting several pair of dainty slippers and matching silk hosiery.

A HEMMING PARTY

A bride-to-be is going to give a hemming party soon. She called her best girl friends over the telephone and invited them to spend an afternoon on her porch and incidentally remarked—"Everyone is to bring her thimble. The hostess will provide needles, thread, and hemming." In the meantime she has bought material for her kitchen towels, and the girls will have the privilege of hemming them, and each girl may put her own initials in the corner if she chooses. This is a clever idea and one which the guests will no doubt enjoy.

REFORM IS FAVORED IN PENAL CONDITIONS

Fulton County Representatives Are Desirous of a Complete Investigation.

Fulton county's representatives in the approaching assembly will unanimously favor the request of the Prison Association of Georgia for the appointment of a commission to look into penal conditions in Georgia, and suggest whatever reforms and improvements may be needed along practical and conservative lines.

Representative John Y. Smith has already been quoted as heartily in favor of the measure. Representative R. O. Cochran has promised that he will give it his support, and Representatives R. B. Blackburn has given the following interview on the subject:

"Unless some unforeseen complication arises, I shall be glad to vote for the creation of such a commission. I can see no harm that will come to it, and, on the other hand, it is quite possible that great good may result. I think such a commission should be given the power to investigate the penal system thoroughly, and instructed to report back to the legislature.

"It seems to me that this is a conservative and intelligent way, and possibly the best way to get reliable and uncolored information on prison conditions in Georgia.

"I am in favor of treating convicts in a humane way, at all times, consistent with safety to the state. If there be any inhuman punishment being inflicted on convicts in Georgia, or if they are being subjected to any inhuman or unnecessarily cruel treatment, such conditions should be taken cognizance of by the legislature, and corrected so far as possible.

"Personally, I think that the ultimate solution of the convict question in Georgia will be the creation of a central penitentiary. However, I am not prepared to say that the time is yet approaching for that solution. In the meantime, I think the penal laws we have should be enforced humanely."

BOSTON G. A. R. POST THANKS OLD GUARD FOR VISIT TO EAST

Commander Alexander M. Ferris, of Edward Kinsley Post, G. A. R., Boston, has sent a remarkable communication to Colonel J. F. Burke, commanding the Old Guard, describing the great significance which Bostonians attached to the Old Guard's visit.

Commander Ferris says in part:

"Before this inspiration can grow dull, and the honor and gladness your visit brought to our city and the Edward W. Kinsley Post No. 118,—G. A. R., has been dimmed by time, I desire to express to you and each individual member of the Old Guard, and, with yourd aproval, most particularly to those who could not be present with us on that memorable reunion, who we must believe would have been with us if possible, our great appreciation of the distinguished honor you have conferred upon us.

"As youngsters, guided by the principles inspired by our home environment, we carreled, fought and both of us got whipped good and plenty, as men we are reconciled to the fact that in Providence which doeth all things well.

"The photos you sent me of yourself and three comrades I desire to keep. They will be framed and grace the walls of our headquarters.

"Remember, dear colonel, the words of Miles O'Reilley:

"But there's never a bond, old friend, like this—
We have drunk from the same canteen.

SAYS HUSBAND BEAT HER TWICE A YEAR

If your wife weighs twenty-five pounds more than you do, and you are man enough to lick her, say once every six months, have you the right, according to the laws of Georgia?

This was a neat little question which Recorder Broyles had to decide in city court Saturday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lunsford, of 20 Bellwood avenue, the former tipping the scales at 87 pounds, the latter at 122, were the participants.

Mrs. Lunsford stated that for the last two years her husband had showed his prowess by administering to her semi-annual thrashings.

"She used a stick on me, Judge, that's why I beat her up," the husband replied to the accusations. Recorder Broyles gave the problem up, letting Probation Officer Cooker take charge of them. Husband and wife made mutual promises to behave in the future.

M'EACHERN EXPRESSES CONFIDENCE IN POLICE

J. N. McEachern, police commissioner from the seventh ward, says he is in favor of the grand jury probing the alleged charges of graft and corruption in the police department to the very bottom.

Commissioner McEachern says that he has confidence in the integrity of the police and the two chiefs, and believes that the grand jury investigation will prove that there is no corruption in the ranks. He declares that during the six years he has been a member of the commission he has observed the work of the men, and has never found anything to indicate that there is, or has been, graft among the men.

"Every member of the board is anxious that the grand jury continue the probe to the very end," Commissioner McEachern said.

PLANNING NEW SERIES OF ETHICAL LECTURES

Many Well-Known Men on List of Lectures Being Prepared by the Committee.

The committee for ethical lectures of Atlanta is planning for the continuation next fall of the series of free lectures lately concluded for the 1912-13 series. During the past six months it has made possible free lectures by such men as Dr. Felix Adler, Dr. James W. Lee, Swami Abhedanande, Alfred W. Martin, Professor Edward Howard Griggs and Dr. John Lovejoy Elliott, all of whom, in answer to the earnest invitation of the fifty members of the committee, have spoken simply for the good they might do in a city so vigorously in the making as Atlanta.

The aim of the committee has been to make the free lecture the best lecture, the most vital in thought. "An Ethical View of Life," "The Function of Ethics in the Enrichment of Life," "The Contribution of India's Thought to Social Ethics," "The Symphony of Religions," "Public Education and the Problem of Democracy," and "The Driving Power of Social Discontent" have been the great, universal themes treated.

As to future lectures, if the people of Atlanta want them, the committee will have them. One thousand return cards have been sent out, without any attaching obligation, simply to determine whether there is a goodly interest to warrant the contiuation of the lectures next fall. Those who have not signed and mailed these cards are invited to do so promptly, and those who have not received cards and are interested, are asked to write briefly to the chairman, M. H. Wilensky, box 976, and state they would be interested in having the lectures continue.

Dr. Felix Adler is the head of the ethical movement, and the American Ethical union, through its secretary, S. Burns Weston, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania society, have promised their assistance for further free lectures in Atlanta. Dr. Horace Bridges, of the Chicago society; Mrs. Anna Garlin Spencer, of the New York School of Philanthropy; Dr. Percival Chubb, of the St. Louis society; Dr. David Saville Muzzey, of the New York society; Dr. C. DeLisle Burns, extension lecturer for the English university at Oxford, and others suggested not directly associated with ethical societies, will form the splendid list of lecturers from which the committee will be free to choose.

HURTFUL TO DISCIPLINE.

Too Much Religious Service for Convicts, Says Donaldson.

That the discipline of prisoners has been demoralized in Fulton convict camps by the holding of continued religious services, is the statement made by Captain Tom Donaldson, county chief of construction, Saturday, at the meeting of the improvement committee.

As a sequel to the complaint, Commissioners Shelby Smith, S. B. Turman and W. Tom Winn, composing the committee, will offer a resolution at the next meeting of the entire board, which will bar ministers and evangelists and allow only prison chaplains to conduct services.

According to Donaldson, so many ministers and evangelists hold services on Sundays that it is impossible for the men in charge of the camps to maintain any degree of discipline. He says that sometimes the prisoners are forced to sit half the day through services, much to their physical discomfort.

Captain Donaldson urged the board to appoint a certain number of regular chaplains to conduct the services at the various camps.

T. J. Day made application to the board to allow a Dr. Fleming to conduct services among the prisoners. The plan outlined to the board included a number of singers.

ENGINEERS TO HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICES

Atlanta's Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers will hold memorial services at St. John's Methodist Episcopal church on Georgia avenue this afternoon at 3 o'clock as a mark of respect to seven members of four Atlanta locals who have gone over the great divide within the past year.

Since the annual memorial services one year ago, division 267 has lost three members, J. W. Morris, H. H. Manning and F. P. Anderson, and division 368 has lost two members, C. F. Scriber and W. P. Rhodes, while division 684 and division 696 have each lost one member each—H. B. Brooks, of the former, and J. M. Coster, of the latter division.

HILL AND ECKSTORM WOULD PROVE ALIBIS

Charleston, S. C., June 7.—The defense in trial of Henry Eckstorm and George H. Hill for mail robbery today introduced testimony to establish an alibi. Both defendants took the stand and also Hill's father. Witnesses testified to seeing two suspicious characters about Hardeeville on the day of the robbery who in no way resembled the defendants.

The case went over till Monday for argument.

Elmore, of Shreveport, has been promoted to be adjutant in the "American Rescuers' Workers," and, with Captain C. H. Deibert and Lieutenant L. B. Elmore, he has established the department of Georgia and Alabama here.

U. S. S. Oregon May Lead.

Washington, June 7.—A petition signed by 60,000 Oregon school children, expressing the desire that the battleship Oregon be detailed to lead the parade through the Panama canal at its formal opening, reached Secretary Daniels today. Mr. Daniels said the navy department had given no consideration to the form of naval representation in the ceremonies that may mark the formal opening of the canal.

The Hotel Endicott, New York City, has been entirely refurnished under the new present management, Manager Bros.
It is astonishing how very popular the present Hotel has become, in fact quite a feature of the uptown section in point of view of up-to-date hotels. (Adv.)

CENTRAL EXONERATED IN REPORT ON WRECK

Macon, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—A board of inquiry sitting at Fort Valley has just completed an investigation of the wrecking of a Central of Georgia freight train which fell through a burned trestle over Beavers creek on June 2. It was decided that the wreck was due to the burning of the trestle, which was ignited from droppings from the ash pan of a train which had passed over the bridge a short time previous to the accident. The evidence showed that the trestle had been given a general repairing in February, 1913, and was in good condition.

It is the custom of the Central railway to have a board of disinterested citizens living near the scene of its wrecks to conduct an investigation after each. The board sitting in the present case was composed of O. H. Houser, mayor of Fort Valley; J. B. Troutman, resident of Fort Valley; G. L. Candler, superintendent of transportation; R. J. Harlan, superintendent, and W. H. Fetner, master mechanic.

In the wreck Engineer Tourhstone and a negro brakeman lost their lives.

Experiment Trip Postponed.

Macon, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—It has been decided to postpone the trip of the Bibb, Houston and Jones county farmers to the cut farm and experiment until July 12. This action was taken at the suggestion of those in charge of the farm because of the fact that due to the late season the crops will be in much better shape a month later than the trip was originally planned for and the farmers will have a better opportunity to study conditions there. It had originally been intended to run a special train from this city carrying between three and four hundred farmers from the three counties on June 14.

New M., D. & S. Bridge Open.

Macon Ga. June 7.—(Special.)—The new Macon, Dublin and Savannah railroad bridge across the Ocmulgee river 2 miles below Macon will be put into service on July 4. The official test will be made on July 3, and the regular train service across the bridge will begin the day following.

The work on the new bridge has been in progress for several months and during the freshet of last spring was hampered considerably, the current being necessary to do a considerable portion of the work over again.

The bridge is a model of its kind and has cost the road company in the neighborhood of $25,000.

The Macon, Dublin and Savannah is also completing a new two-mile new freight depot at Fifth and Ocmulgee streets at a cost of $25,000.

ATLANTA AD MEN WILL VISIT THE PRESIDENT

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, June 7.—(Special.)—The Atlanta Ad Men's club will visit the white house on Wednesday afternoon upon their return from Baltimore, and will meet the president. This ceremony is more or less of a prosaic affair, as President Wilson has not adopted the policy of making any speech on such occasions, but is simply presented to the visitors, and sometimes shakes hands with them, after which he decorously files out without carrying away any impression of a hilarious occasion.

Representative Gordon Lee left tonight for Georgia to attend the commencement exercises at Emory college, Oxford. He is a member of the board of trustees of the college. He will return for the meeting of the forest commission, which is to pass upon the purchase of the Vanderbilt tract of 80,000 acres near Asheville, N. C.

Representative Roddenbery will return tomorrow from Tarpon Springs, Fla., where he has been for his health.

THEY WOULD ABOLISH RACE DISCRIMINATION

Honolulu, June 7.—A petition with religious and missionary backing is being circulated among Americans of the Hawaiian Islands asking them to urge President Wilson to use his influence to obtain an amendment to the existing naturalization laws, abolishing all racial discrimination. If necessary, the petition suggests more stringent qualifications, applying equally to all aliens, might be imposed to keep out undesirables.

This treatment of the Japanese problem, the petitioners believe, would solve all international questions raised by the California alien land law.

Grain Elevator Burns.

Fort Worth, Texas, June 7.—Fire in an elevator at the Bewley mill, believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion here today, caused a loss of $125,000. The roof of the elevator was blown off by an explosion and 50,000 bushels of wheat and other grains destroyed. The grain was fully insured and the elevator partially covered by insurance.

FINANCE COMMITTEE PAT ON TARIFF BILL

Believed That Changes Made by Subcommittees Will Be Opposed.

Washington, June 7.—Before the tariff bill gets to the senate democratic caucus, where it will be submitted to the most severe test it must meet before its passage, it will have a preliminary tryout before the senate finance committee that promises to be most rigid.

Although the subcommittees have been at work on various schedules a month and are about to finish their work, it was said tonight that there would be opposition by democrats on the finance committee to many changes. There is a prospect that some of the subcommittee recommendations may not be adopted.

Chairman Simmons, of the finance committee tonight called a meeting of the majority members of his committee of Tuesday morning. He hopes to call the meeting of the entire committee next week, but two of the subcommittees still are struggling with schedules and cannot complete their work before the middle of the week at the earliest. Senator Johnson's subcommittee will work tomorrow. If some schedules are reduced as much as is reported, a fight in committee seems certain.

The Johnson subcommittee today practically decided to keep the duty on cut diamonds at 10 or 15 per cent. The Underwood bill proposes 20. Diamond merchants filed briefs showing it was the opinion of customs officials that an increase of duty would increase smuggling.

The subcommittee also decided to modify the clause prohibiting the importation of plumage of wild birds, holding that it was too rigid and would shut out feathers of birds not protected in foreign countries. The amendment will not, however, admit aigrettes.

Two of the senate finance subcommittees working on the tariff bill failed to complete their work today and Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, has been compelled to withhold a call for the full committee meeting.

Senator Johnson's subcommittee is still considering the paper and sundries schedules, and Senator Williams' subcommittee has not settled upon the administrative features or the income tax section of the bill. These committees may be able to complete their work Tuesday.

Senator Williams' committee is considering eliminating the anti-dumping clause of the Underwood bill on the ground that it fosters precipitate retaliatory tariffs by foreign nations.

Negro Shot by Farmer.

Waycross, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—For an alleged insult to a member of his family, Reb Young, a negro turpentine hand, working at a still near Waretore, was shot and seriously wounded by a white farmer named Byrd eight miles south of Waycross. Reports today say the negro will recover. Byrd heard of the alleged insult and secured his gun and went after the negro. Just what the trouble was no one has learned. Byrd later gave himself up.

Big Excursion Tuesday.

The Barnes and Philathea excursion over the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railway to Union City, Tuesday, promises to be one of the most delightful and largely attended outings of the year. A special picnic train has been engaged by the societies to leave the union station at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, for a two hours run. An entertaining series of amusements has been planned by the committee. Boating, bathing, fishing and a ball game between two local teams will be features added to the big basket picnic.

SLEW MAN IN AIDING HIS SON'S ELOPEMENT

Nashville, Tenn., June 7.—At Camden, Tenn., today, Alonzo Simth, a farmer, was found guilty of murdering George Cole and sentenced to hang August 8. The trouble resulting in the tragedy was incident to the elopement and marriage of Cole's daughter to Jim Smith, Alonzo's son. Cole and his son, Will, sought to prevent the marriage. Will Cole was seriously wounded also.

The young woman was a witness for the state, having since returned to her family. Jim Smith will be tried later.

Wages at Navy Yards.

Washington, June 7.—Hearings on the general subject of wages at all United States navy yards will be begun by Secretary Daniels next Wednesday, June 11, at 10 a. m. Representatives of the men will have full opportunity to be heard, it was announced today

I CAN EAT ANYTHING.
I Can Not Praise Peruna Enough. It Has Done so Much for Me.
Functional diseases of the stomach are more common than any other ailment. The majority of people do not have perfect digestion. Perhaps half of the people have some noticeable distress or derangement of the stomach. Thousands of people are inviable because of weak stomachs.
Mrs. Sophie Bauer, 521 First Ave. N., Fairbault, Minn.
We are continually hearing of the benefit that Peruna is in derangements of the stomach. Gradually the stomach gets worse and worse until the victim finds himself or herself incapable of taking ordinary food. Mrs. Bauer's was such a case. We extract from one of her letters a brief statement of what she says about it:
"I cannot praise your wonderful medicine, Peruna, enough. It has done much for me during the past ten years, and I keep it in the house continually. I was in such a condition that I could eat nothing but bread and milk, and even that was too heavy for me at times. Now I can eat anything.
"I will recommend Peruna to all my friends."

THE MODERN WOMAN MUST KEEP ABREAST OF THE TIMES
"The world is so full of a number of things," nowadays that the well-educated woman must be constantly on the alert to keep in touch with what is going on. Often, too, she finds that the knowledge gathered during college days has become so vague that it forms but an unsubstantial foundation for the newer learning with which she has to concern herself in order to keep abreast of the times.
This is why it is becoming more and more necessary to continue one's education after college days are over; and accounts, in a large measure for the study clubs, reading circles, and research classes which form so large a part of the life of the modern woman.
To study well alone, however, requires a mind trained in studious habits; and most women need guidance in their studies. The Summer School or Chautauqua supplies this guidance, and meets a long-felt need.
The Brenau Summer School, at Gainesville, Georgia, which has grown amazingly since its inception, is one of the best chautauqua schools in the South; and every summer many congenial women and girls assemble there for study and recreation.
The Brenau Summer School has arranged its courses of study to meet the needs of the young student or the teacher who wishes to keep in touch with the world's progress in thought and educational methods; and of those who wish to broaden their minds by serious study during the summer months.
The educational advantages are supplemented by the pleasant social life of the community, and by the opportunities for wholesome recreation. Gainesville is particularly adapted to a chautauqua school. It is situated among the foothills of the beautiful Blue Ridge Mountains; and its facilities for pleasant jaunts and other recreation are just as great as are the educational advantages offered by the Brenau Summer School.
Sessions open June 30th and close August 10th. Fall session opens September 11th.

CLAIMS INDIAN FUNDS HAVE BEEN MISAPPLIED

Senator Lane Demands Details Before Action Is Taken on Appropriation Bill.

Washington, June 7.—Demands of Senator Lane, of Washington, that the Indian affairs committee of the senate get complete statements as to how all Indian funds are administered before acting on the $10,000,000 Indian appropriation bill now pending, opened up an Indian fight that probably will be carried on to the floor of the senate.

Senator Lane made a final demand today upon the committee, of which he is a member, for complete information. Thus far the committee has been unable to furnish him with the facts. Senator Lane proposes to ask the committee Monday to authorize only temporary appropriations for the Indians and to institute at once an investigation of the Indian bureau.

Other committee members declared it was impossible to get the detailed statement of expenditures. Senator Lane desired, and that the bill would be recommended for passage early next week. Mr. Lane said if such action were taken, he would renew his fight on the floor of the senate. The Indian bill contains a provision for which Senator Townsend, of Michigan, has made a hard fight, for a complete investigation of the Indian bureau, the Indian service and the administration of all funds.

Senator Lane filed a protest with the committe etoday, in the form of a letter, in part as follows:

"I have asked for a reasonable and plain business statement on the facts, without prejudice to anyone as they relate to the many differing provisions of the measure. This bill provides for specific appropriations amounting to between nine and ten million dollars, and in addition confers power to administer property and moneys amounting, I am informed, to hundreds of millions more.

"Up until this time, I have been unable to secure information, except what pertains to a few agencies, which in every instance show that the moneys appropriated have not been applied for the purpose for which they were asked. In addition, such statements prove conclusively and beyond dispute that appropriations are accompanied by rights of absolute control over millions of dollars worth of property, no account for the management of which anywhere appears.

"It is my desire to ascertain now whether or not the committee intends longer to deny me the right of having the facts as they pertain to this measure laid before it for consideration."

Fine Entertainment at Theaters This Week

STELLA MAYE,

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

Roehmn's Athletic Girls head the bill of exclusive Keith vaudeville that will be the attraction at the busy theater all of the week that starts with matinee on Monday afternoon, and there will be six other features selected from the best vaudeville talent to make up a program that will be the talk of Atlanta.

Theatergoers recall with tremendous pleasure the brilliant successes credited to the Forsyth last summer, and will remember that it was almost a set rule to secure seats for performances two or three days in advance simply to be sure of accommodations. This history is repeating itself this year.

Vaudeville has a wonderful grip on the people of almost every city, and here in Atlanta the fad is at its height. The recent shows at the Forsyth have measured to that degree of excellence that keeps th theater crowded, and the permanent reservation list is growing every day. Among the features that will be seen immediately following the coming week will be Bud Fisher, the cartoonist of Mutt and Jeff fame; Gertrude Vanderbilt and George Moore; Herman, Timberg, Marie McFarland and Madam Rae Fenton and her dancing boys, and others.

The headliner for this week, Roehmn's Athletic Girls, is a quintet of pretty girls who box, wrestle and do bag punching hits. These young ladies have appeared exclusively in the Keith houses of the east all this season. They have been held over two and three weeks at a time in some of the theaters, and it is reported that they have drawn the attendance records of several big theaters. The young ladies are attractive in appearance, and have become great favorites with the fair sex in every city.

Signor Travato, the eccentric violinist, was discovered abroad by one of the best-known composers, who aided in securing the vaudeville engagements for the present star in the profession. His work will be a treat to the music lovers, and a genuine surprise to the folks who may figure there is nothing new in violin playing.

Chick Sale, the character comedian, who presents "A Country School Entertainment," will be a feature that will attract as much attention as anything on the bill. Sale portrays a number of characters one might find at a country school commencement. He does not leave the stage to make these changes, which makes the act all the more interesting.

John and Mae Burke, in "The Rag Time Soldier," are sure to score a laughing hit. John Burke is a funny fellow. He is a dancer, a singer and can play the piano upsidedown. Mae Burke is a splendid partner, and has not yet failed in her career to win attention.

Gordon Pickens and company, in a comedy sketch; pretty Misses Maye and Addis and the Steiner Trio, in comedy horizontal bar stunts, make up the bill.

Musical Comedy Tabloid.

(At the Bijou.)

"Hiram at the Cabaret" will be the attraction this week at the Bijou. This is another of the big musical comedy tabloid vaudeville treats that have served to pack the Marietta street theater at all its performances since the introduction of the policy.

"Hiram at the Cabaret" will be presented in two scenes by a company of clever people headed by Walle Burke, who is a character comedian of many years' experience. There are a dozen pretty girls in the company, there are principals and com-dians who have won attention and it is further said that the music is as good as some of the high-priced shows that have toured the circuit this season.

The story of "Hiram at the Cabaret" deals with the experiences of a countryman at his home preparing to go to New York to take in the sights. He is told about a cabaret and when he arrives on top of one of the New York theaters the fun gets fast and for an hour and a fast half, there has been nothing to detract attention from what is happening on the stage.

The chorus numbers have been selected with great care and some of the newest and most popular numbers will be introduced. The reviewers in cities in the circuit declare the show to be one of the best on the tour and it may be expected that it will score a hit here. The Bijou admission is 10 cents, with 10 cents extra for reserved seats. There are matinee performances every afternoon, two on Monday and Saturday and two night performances each evening.

MRS. FRANK WRITES ABOUT PHAGAN CASE

Wife of Suspected Superintendent Again Expresses Confidence in Husband.

Again arraigning Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey for imprisoning her house servant, Minola McKnight, the girl who recently made such a startling affidavit in the Mary Phagan mystery, Mrs. Leo M. Frank, wife of the suspected factory superintendent, has written another letter in regard to the conduct of the case.

She says that such methods as torturing witnesses will gain the office of solicitor general nothing, and that he should be taken to task by county authorities for his actions relative to her husband's case. She again expresses belief in the prisoner's innocence and confidence that he will be acquitted.

Editor Atlanta Constitution: I think fairness to Mr. Frank requires that the public should clearly understand Mr. Dorsey's position as stated by him in his card in The Constitution of June 6, and repeated in the papers yesterday, in reply to my statement that he proposes to use testimony which comes from witnesses as the result of torture.

His real position, as gleaned from his card, can be stated in the following sentence which he employed:

"I have only to say without in anywise taking issue with her premises as I might . . . that I welcome all evidence from any source that will aid an impartial jury, under the charge of the court, in determining the guilt or innocence of the accused."

That is to say, he thinks it unnecessary to waste time in disputing the fact that the detectives are procuring testimony from witnesses by torture. He considers this point immaterial. He believes he is thoroughly justified in using tortured testimony, if it is turned over to him, for he says: "I welcome all evidence from any source."

Driven to Hysterics.

The Journal and The Constitution stated that he had my cook arrested and carried to his office and quizzed to such an extent as to drive her into hysterics, and that after this he sent her screaming to the police station, in the patrol wagon. After she left his office she was taken to the dectectives' torture chamber, and, according to The Atlanta Constitution, she there had the third degree applied to her to the point of exhaustion, after which, she made an affidavit, which the detectives, or some one, immediately gave out to the papers.

The solicitor had no charge against this cook and did not suspect her of any crime. Yet Mr. Dorsey waives this aside as a trivial matter, not worthy to be discussed by him, because he says: "I welcome all evidence from any source," clearly implying that he will take it from the torture chamber if it is offered to him.

That he and the detectives violated the criminal law in arresting my cook when they had no charge against her and when they suspected her of no crime, I am told by lawyers, admits of no doubt. But this, Mr. Dorsey thinks, need not be discussed by him.

Who Will Suffer Next?

While Mr. Dorsey thinks all this is entirely proper, it is the next think to an impossibility to believe that many persons in the community will agree with him. Indeed, I would agree with him that he should use, even in the newspapers, torture chamber testimony to take away a man's life.

When Mr. Dorsey introduces this third-degree evidence to the jury, can it be supposed that he will at the same time tell the jury that it comes direct from the torture chamber?

It is our time to suffer now. Can anyone tell whose turn will come next?

I do not wish to be in any manner bitter toward Mr. Dorsey, even in my feelings, because it is so perfectly clear that his action is dictated by a serious mistake of judgment, and my only purpose is to let the community understand as thoroughly as I can, in the interest of fairness to my innocent husband, that Mr Dorsey is pronosing to use third-degree torture chamber testimony in an effort to take his life, and that he thinks it is perfectly proper for him to do so.

Tortured Affidavits.

Mr. Dorsey and the detectives know that I cannot go on the witness stand and deny the affidavits they have published in the newspapers, wrung from my cook in the torture chamber by the third-degree process, because I am informed that under the law a wife will not be permitted to testify either for or against her husband. The law puts this absolute seal upon my lips, and my only recourse is in letting the community know the facts through the newspapers as far as I can.

I know I cannot keep up with all the false affidavits and false rumors and innuendoes that have been so industriously put in the newspapers, but I feel that I should call attention in this instance to Mr. Dorsey's position, which he so boldly justifies.

MRS. LEO M. FRANK.

Atlanta, Ga., June 7, 1913.

INDICTMENTS AGAINST LUMBERMEN DISMISSED

Cases Against Fourteen Secretaries of Lumber Associations Quashed.

Chicago, June 7.—Criminal indictments against fourteen secretaries and former secretaries of lumber associations throughout the country have been dismissed at the instance of the department of justice, it was learned today. Five civil suits filed by the government for the dissolution of the alleged "lumber trust" are still pending.

The indictments were returned in Chicago in 1911, and charged the defendants, representing fourteen associations, with conspiracy with restraint to trade. An alleged black-list figured largely in the testimony before the grand jury. Later the civil suits were filed, and these, it is said, eventually will come to trial.

The indictments were quashed by United States Judge Carpenter at the request of District Attorney Wilkerson, who acted on instructions from Washington. According to statements by counsel for the defendant, the government found that its evidence bearing on the indictments was insufficient.

Most of the men indicted are no longer secretaries of lumber associations.

The names are: H. F. Bransfield, Tennessee; George P. Sweet, Michigan; Willard F. Hollis, Minnesota; Harry A. Gorsuch, Missouri; Harry C. Scearce, Indiana; Bird Critchfield, Nebraska; E. E. Hall, Nebraska; H. H. Hemenway, California; Louis L. Hellman, Colorado; H. S. Adams, Ohio; A. L. Porter, Washington; A. C. Richter, Pennsylvania; Arthur H. L. Holmes, Michigan, and B. N. Hayward, Ohio.

Civil Case Won.

New York, June 7.—Attorneys here for the department of justice explained this afternoon that the government has already won its civil case in the lower courts against the Eastern States Retail Lumber Dealers' association. There are three other civil suits pending—against the Northwestern Retail Lumber Dealers association, at St. Paul, Minn.; the Colorado and Wyoming Lumber Dealers' association, at Denver, Colo., and the Michigan Retail Lumber Dealers' association, at Detroit, Mich.

How One Clerk Built a Business

Somebody tells an interesting story about a young clerk who found employment in a little general store owned by a German-American.

When this clerk got his job the store was conducted in a very slipshod fashion. Stocks were badly mixed, and the window displays hodgepodge in character.

The clerk had brains; he used them.

He thought, planned and ACTED.

He brought order out of chaos.

Stocks were righted; the window displays simplified and well balanced.

Business began to increase; soon it began to thrive. Meanwhile, the clerk was writing the advertisements—simple, honest, truthful, convincing and INTERESTING.

He told old things in new ways.

He never lost an opportunity to improve that store HIMSELF.

Today the clerk owns the store.

THE CONSTITUTION'S advertising columns show the same spirit of ambition and progress.

The successful merchant is always the right sort of advertiser.

Columbus, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—The city of Columbus is now an advertiser in the daily newspapers. It is no piker, either, for it is using display type, regular dry goods style.

Mayor L. H. Chappell is the man behind the ads, and "Find the Wiggletail" is the theme. Here is a part of a city of Columbus advertisement well displayed in a space two columns by ten inches, in a local daily paper and, incidentally, other southern cities can thereby get a good pointer:

"Find the wiggletail.

"Any smart boy can make money today.

"To the boy or girl, man or woman who will today show to the health department a vessel or pool of stagnant water in Columbus containing a dozen or more live wiggletails a reward of a half dollar will be paid.

"Don't move or empty the vessel; simply find the wiggletails and report to the city chemist by phone 235, giving your name and house number."

ATLANTA AD MEN OFF FOR NATIONAL MEET

Local Delegation Intends to Live Up to Motto, "Atlanta Always Ahead."

The Atlanta ad men left by special train Saturday afternoon for the Baltimore convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America. The Atlanta delegation was accompanied by the Birmingham and Montgomery contingents, who joined them here.

It appears that the work of the Atlanta ad men in Baltimore is already out out for them. According to L. D. Hicks, who is in Baltimore, they are expecting great things of the local men and their famous Atlanta spirit.

The Atlanta men are slated to head one of the divisions of the big parade, and none other than the Fifth Maryland regimental band, which was a prominent body in Atlanta at the unveiling of the Peace monument at Piedmont park two years ago, is to furnish the music for the Atlanta division. The only thing in this division which will be louder than the horns of the boys of the Fifth regimental will be the banners bearing the slogan "Atlanta Always Ahead."

MISSOURI MAY REVOKE INSURANCE LICENSES

Companies Will Be Compelled to Show Cause for Refusing to Issue Policies.

St. Louis, June 7.—Insurance Commissioner Revelle Monday will issue citations against the fire insurance companies that have ceased writing policies in Missouri to show cause for their refusal to issue insurance in this state. The companies will have ten days to show why their Missouri license should not be revoked. Mr. Revelle today said the inability to get insurance is felt more in rural communities than in the large cities. Country banks, he said, have foreclosed mortgages because borrowers have been unable to obtain a renewal of insurance on mortgaged property.

"If the old companies are unwilling to assume the risks under the Orr law I am in position to guarantee Missourians that they will be able to secure all the insurance they want from new companies," said Mr. Revelle.

Good Work of Players' Club.

The production by the Atlanta Players' club Tuesday evening of Oscar Wilde's clever play, "The Importance of Being Earnest," was one of the best achievements of that popular organization.

Mrs. Thomas B. Felder, the president of the club, has received congratulations on all sides and the members are especially appreciative of the services rendered the production by Mr. R. L. Cooney, who is chairman of the executive board of the club.

There is often times little trouble in getting amateurs to "act" well, for nearly every man and woman in his or her life has believed that he or she possessed hidden quantities of histrionic talents, and the outlet is not only delightful experience to the actor, but to the receptive good natured audience. But when the time comes for the real production when, besides acting, there must be first an understanding of the play to be presented; then hard study of the lines and correct pronunciation, and finally the assembling forces—that is the bringing together of the lines, the acting, the understanding and good English, under good direction, then the amateur has something more than mere "play" to do. It was the fact that every member of the cast the other night had put work into what they did, which made the whole a success, for it was a success, and the performance a real delight.

Not once was there prompting, nor did anyone need prompting. The performance proceeded without a hitch—without a single rough spot, and the audience were one in interest and spirit with the players.

After the performance there was the supper party at the Piedmont Driving club when the "after dinner speeches" were replete with humor and good nature, and mutual pleasure. It is stated that the next effort of the Players' club may be a comic opera in the fall, there being many of the members who are musical and who are anxious for an operatic production.

At the Driving Club.

The table d'hote dinner and dance at the Driving club last night proved a most happy occasion when eighty members of the club dined al fresco, and danced afterward.

The tables were ornate with flowers, and the menu was one of the tempting kind served in summer.

Among those entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. Linton Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smith, Mr. and Mrs. John Wheatley, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sisson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bohannon, Dr. and Mrs. Elkin, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. John Little, Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen's Shoe Section "Alert and Ahead"

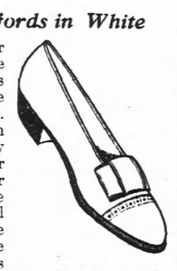
Our shoe section in the short space of two years and two months has become, by general acclaim, recognized as the best place in Atlanta, or the South for that matter, to find women's smart footwear. We strive to merit this distinction. We run the risk, and do often, show a style in footwear that is too advanced, too daring in its newness to be accepted immediately by the majority.

It, however, almost invariably follows that what Allen shows this season becomes the fad of the next season in footwear. It is a difficult task to foresee a trend in shoes, and often we have to pay the penalty for being the first in the field, but that is the price of pace in Allen's. Just as our hats; just as our suits, gowns, fancy goods, etc., are a little ahead, so are our shoes always typical of what is to come rather than of what is or has been. Right now we are showing the season's proper foot coverings in larger variety than has ever been displayed in Atlanta.

We Refer to Pumps, Colonials and Oxfords in White



We have rubber soles in buckskin or canvas, or the leather sole, and with the low heels, as well as the Cuban Louis XV. and the regular Cuban heel. The prices begin at $3.00 and end at $6.00. Another distinct novelty which Allen seems to have not only originated, but shown in greater variety than most stores, other than those in New York, is the cut steel slide Colonial in dull and patent leather. These have either the Cuban leather or the Cuban Louis XV. heel, which is the newest style for day dress wear. They range in price from $6.00 to $16.00, according to the character of buckle selected. We have disposed of over 500 pairs of cut steel buckles since Grand Opera week.

Whether you are hard to fit or easy to fit, hard to suit or easy to suit, in Shoes, come to Allen's. If the salesman who waits on you does not fit you, the responsibility of your future satisfaction and comfort is ours. We know of no other shoe store or shoe department that makes such provision for the customer's satisfaction as Allen's shoe section does.

In bringing out our splendid Woman's Edition in honor of our lamented president and as a nucleus for our endowment fund, we contributed our share toward the success of an enterprise which will undoubtedly deeply influence public sentiment in the many worthy activities toward which our federated women tend.

There was a very pleasant sense of co-operation in the work, and there should result a better understanding of the ideals of the federation.

We hope every club woman, and many who are not federated, read this edition and will keep it on file. It should extend our membership and educate the public to the value of woman's work. Congratulations show that men like to know what women are doing in the days when federated workers must be reckoned with in legislative halls and every department of public service.

The privilege of belonging to this great woman's movement must be accompanied with a sense of opportunity and obligation.

There was so much fine material sent in for the special edition that could not be used for lack of space we will have most important and helpful things for our page that will make it of unusual interest.

The messages as to the most important work the clubs have accomplished and expect to do during the coming year will be a special feature of this department for the next few weeks.

There is help and inspiration in the response from the clubs, and they will greatly help us in carrying out our policy of making this a rallying center of club activities. Our Woman's Edition will just be continued through our federation page.

Meaning of Federated Clubs

A few weeks ago the writer spent a morning in the Carnegie library of Atlanta gathering data for a book he is composing. His eye was attracted by a modest little article lying near him on the table. Upon examination it proved to be the annual report of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs for 1911. The casual reading of the first few pages aroused sufficient interest to cause the writer to carefully scan page after page, until the entire work was devoured. Application to the librarian for additional information failed to get any more definite literature. The interest was so keenly aroused, however, that the writer sought elsewhere for an answer to the question: How much have these Georgia women accomplished? The results of the investigation are so startling that it is deemed of value to make some comments on the subject from the viewpoint of an outsider.

Few, if any, of the public affairs in Georgia have failed to feel the influential touch of the federated clubs. The women of the state are not simply waking to the situation, but they have been wide awake for many years, and they are on the job to stay in the strength of an army of 15,000. These women are not only considering the vital question of good citizenship, but they have for years been doing things of stupendous importance. Independent of the direct assistance of but few of the men.

Through Efforts of Women.

As a student of education, the writer of this article was particularly interested in what has been accomplished for the school houses, the teachers and the pupils throughout the state. Better school houses are springing up here and there solely through the personal efforts of the women. The old cabin school house, with its dirt and discomforts, is rapidly passing away, and in its place is being erected the modern, model school house, with modern facilities for educational work. The writer would like to describe in this connection, as an example of improved school houses now going up in Georgia through the country districts, the Talulah Falls Industrial school, but the limits of this article forbids. The women of Georgia have planned and have carried to successful completion the erection here of two model buildings which would reflect credit upon any city if these buildings were erected on the most prominent street. Mountain boys and girls are being trained in this school to make cultured, educated, moral men and women. The girls are taught how to prepare healthful food and to make inexpensive delicacies for the table which will be within the reach of the humblest home. The boys are taught the principal elements of mechanic arts and agriculture. The development of cultured boys and girls side by side with the instruction in domestic science, literature, agriculture and mechanic arts. These young people from the mountains are thus being taught to value education and to love the beautiful things in nature and art. It follows, therefore, naturally that there will be introduced into the homes of the scholars a large degree of the education furnished in the Talluiah Falls Industrial school. It is the beginning of a great educational uplift among the mountain citizens of Georgia—a people who have wonderful possibilities.

The women of Georgia have accomplished on a great deal for the educational interests of the state. They have given thought, energy and skill to the development of institutions of learning. Almost in the twinkling of an eye, they have displayed rare wisdom and tact in presenting to the consideration of the legislature strong petitions in which they have urged the enactment of laws to strengthen, enforce and sustain the educational system of the state. And for the asking for the passage of laws in favor of compulsory education. Laws on local taxation for better schools and libraries, and better pay to the teachers.

Besides education the report, referred to at the beginning of this article, informs us that home economics, public health, infirmaries for the care of sick boys and girls in the colleges, social service departments, conservation of the natural resources of the state, the preservation of the beautiful resources of Georgia, the inspection of prisons to require humane treatment of the prisoners, are among the many interests which are receiving the active attention of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs.

Great Results to Follow.

Great results are certain to follow the vigorous activity of these earnest women. They have not been blowing horns from the housetops, nor have they been placed in those ridiculous attitudes by "hiking" across country from city to city in long marches for display. On the contrary, they have modestly, prayerfully, cheerfully entered upon the work for the uplift of their beloved state. They propose to drive out the darkness of ignorance from every part of Georgia, to clean out the unclean places. They have endeavored, with satisfactory results, to teach many of the citizens the great advantage there is to be derived from living beautiful, healthful and refined lives. Many homes in Georgia have been blessed with educated children because of this woman's movement. The smoke and dirt are gradually departing from the air the children breathe; the blush of health is returning to the poor children's cheeks whose miserable homes have been invaded by the kind touch of the federation.

The legislature should sit up and take notice, and by the enactment of suitable laws supply the moral power needed in this great work of uplift; the men of capital should investigate the work of the federated women and be encouraged to open their purses for financially sustaining the noble cause; the churches should wish God's speed to the work, and throw the arm of protection and help around the fallen who are striving to recover their lost estate; all the citizens of the state should unhesitatingly support the good work going on in Georgia inaugurated by the patriotic women.

P. H. MELL,
Ex-President Clemson College, South Carolina.

GREAT FLOWER SHOW GIVEN AT GREENSBORO

The flower show given by the Woman's club of Greensboro on May 20 was most successful. The display of sweet peas was especial slovely and received much favorable comment from the large number of visitors. The ferns and other potted plants deserve notice and were very creditable to the taste and superior skill of the ladies of Greensboro.

The display of vegetables was one of the principal attractions, many large and carefully grown specimens being on exhibition. Refreshments were served, and with other pleasing attractions lasted into the evening.

The contributions of beautiful cut flowers, furnished by Mesdames J. B. Park, H. T. Evans and J. B. Williams, for decorative purposes and not for competition, were gorgeous in beauty and arrangement.

The club is well pleased with the result of the show and is already planning for the fall exhibit.

CIVIC LEAGUE HEADS PROCESSION AT ST. MARYS

The Civic league of St. Mary's, Ga., was organized last September, and is now a membership of over fifty. Good work has been done in all departments.

The "clean-up" given on March 10, will long be remembered.

Our greatest work, however, was getting the town bonded on March 12, for ten thousand dollars, to erect a suitable school building. This victory was celebrated on the evening of the 12th by a torchlight procession headed by the Civic league and the school children.

Since the organization of our league two other leagues have been organized in the county, one at Kingsland and one at White Oak.

R. LEE RUSSELL.

A state school for the education and reformation of wayward girls is strongly urged by the Association of College Women of Georgia. Women's clubs in all parts of the state indorse the plan, believing that this safeguarding of young women would save vast sums to the commonwealth and result in lessening of crime and ruined homes.

BUSY YEAR PASSED BY BACONTON WOMAN'S CLUB

The Baconton Woman's club was organized in March, 1912, and federated about one month later. The officers elected were: Mrs. T. S. Jackson, president; Mrs. R. C. Milton, first vice president; Mrs. J. R. Miller, second vice president; Mrs. C. Cliff, secretary; Mrs. E. A. McCollum, treasurer.

We had Mrs. Merry, our district president, of Pelham, come up and explain in detail the plans we pursue. We began our work by having "clean up" day. Later we followed this by setting apart a day on which we planted about one hundred trees on the streets and around the school grounds. During the year we have had a broader knowledge of current events we took up a Bay View course of study. This has been very much enjoyed and of great benefit to us.

As the spring opened we did civic work again. Our club sent four delegates to the district convention in Pelham. They all came home very much enthroned over the work. At present we are planning for our school. We are going to give a play in the near future, also an ice cream lawn party for funds with which to proceed.

At our last meeting officers were elected for the year beginning in October. Retaining our same president, Mrs. W. Carter, first vice president; Mrs. J. S. Miller, second vice president; Miss Jessie Cowan, secretary and treasurer, and Miss Rose Greer, press reporter.

The work has been new to us this year but we hope to be able to do more and better work in the coming year.

INTEREST GROWING IN ESSAY CONTEST

In compliance with the request of Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, president of the women's clubs and co-operating with the general press committee on "Southern Literature," I wish to call the attention of the young people of this district to the contest now in progress.

We hope that very many of the young women and young men of this district will enter this contest with the utmost enthusiasm. We feel sure that all who write will find a reward for their efforts in the resulting knowledge of Southern literature as well as the inspiration of a friendly competition with each other, even if they do not secure the prize offered.

We should be more familiar with our Southern literature and this is a favorable opportunity for acquainting ourselves with our best writers.

The prize offered to the successful contestant is the "Library of Southern Literature" in sixteen royal octave volumes.

Judges of recognized ability have been appointed to read these essays and decide whose essay is the best from this district. Those desiring further information will please correspond with me and I will take pleasure in sending full printed information and in rendering all possible assistance to them.

The club presidents are requested to bring this contest to the attention of the young people of ability in their respective neighborhoods and urge them to take part in it.

ALBANY CLUBS ACTIVE

Although the club year is near its close, the last two weeks have been unusually full of social and business activities.

Mrs. Frank Orray Ticknor entertained a number of club women informally in honor of Mrs. J. I. Subers, of Hallsboro, and Mrs. G. H. Fields, chautauqua guests of Mrs. George Sargent.

Mrs. A. W. Muse was hostess at an informal reception to members of the study class in honor of Bishop Vincent, chancellor of Chautauqua Institute, of Chautauqua, New York.

The study class held an informal reception in the club room for Mr. Hallsboro, one of the lecturers on chautauqua week and a well-known contributor to The Chautauquan. To this reception were invited Dr. J. H. Campbell, one of the delightful speakers of the week; Mr. Somerly, of the Redpath chautauqua bureau, and Mr. Wilkes, manager of the Albany, one of the founders of the chautauqua movement.

Albany was honored by having as a guest Miss Fannie Dunbar Belcher, president, Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, who spoke at a called meeting of the club, and gave an interesting and inspiration to all who heard her. She spoke particularly of the endowment fund of the woman's edition and of the *prize essays for the big under*takings of the Georgia Federation, Mrs. H. H. Merry, president of the second district, has appointed district secretary, Miss Michelle Ticknor, chairman of the essay contest in the second district.

Club day has become a most interesting and certainly a most instructive feature of chautauqua week. Dr. Caroline Geisel, who this year delivered an address on "The Making of a Home," so greatly impressed the audience that by request she spoke again for a few minutes in the evening, her subject then being "Eugenics." There is no praise too high for this earnest, womanly woman as all who heard her have agreed.

With so much that is good to remember we are ready to rest for the summer, looking forward to bigger, better work in the fall.

All bakers in Charleston, S. C., are required by law to wrap their bread in oiled paper. Clubwomen secured this ordinance after a campaign of six months.

MRS. HODGSON TALKS ON IMPORTANCE OF SCHOOL GARDENS

School gardens is really a very large subject. Here, however, I only want to speak of them as they could relate to the proposed memorial school at Mountain City—the memorial to Mrs. White at the Athens Woman's club is planning.

One may build a house, but until it is surrounded by growing things it does not seem to me a home. Neither can I call the school complete—in any sense a model school—until it has its garden.

The most progressive educators everywhere are realizing this. And don't think of the garden as a new subject to teach in the already overcrowded curriculums. It becomes the basis for correlating nearly all the other subjects. It gives concrete work for written composition, mathematical competition, business exercise, physical geography, nature study, the manual arts. It is not the intrinsic value of the vegetables and flowers, not alone the knowledge of plants. It is the training of the child in an active way that is the real value of the school garden. Valuable lessons in citizenship, in public improvement, in mental habits, in character building are taught.

Then, think of the sheer pleasure of a garden! Real love is born of service. Toil with a garden, in good seasons and in bad, endure the vexations, and last, but not least, of effort, and you are bound to love it.

Think how little of this pleasure the average person in the mountains knows. The little cabins have no beauty as their sole decorations, without, a woodpile, a cabbage patch and a pig pen. The very surroundings are not conducive to high ideals of living. Many of the evils from idleness could be corrected by having a garden to work in.

Scarcely anywhere could vegetables and flowers be made to grow better than *there—splendid soil, good cli*mate, plenty of moisture. The few things the mountain people do raise are fine as possible, but their variety is too limited. The land is so poor, so always the same, their bodies are not properly nourished.

Work Is Worthy Work.

It is nearly hopeless helping the grownuns, but if the children can be taught the possibilities of their environment, and taught how to utilize them, they will have learned about the best lesson that can be taught them.

The utter barrenness of their surroundings is only indicative of the awful barrenness of their lives. They are a stolid people. They will never ask you to help them. You have to show them. Let the children show them the beauty of flowers, trees, grass and shrubs around their school, the goodness of fruits and vegetables they have grown, and it will not be long before you will see a transformation in the whole community, a new interest and uplift in their lives.

A Striking Comparison.

Compare our native mountain homes with those of Switzerland and Italy. The orderliness, the cleanliness, the color, the lived-in look there is a delight to the senses, the dirt, the dullness, the desolate look about the former. I don't believe there is anything that can be taught with the school that will be of help to change this as will the proper making of gardens on the outside.

I could tell much from the experience of others who have introduced gardening into schools. Results have been brilliant, even in cities, country, or mountains, think of it! Great gift you have bestowed if you have taught even one child to feel as Mr. T. E. Brown has felt:

A garden is a lovesome thing—
God wot!
Rose plot,
Fenced in the unfenced world;
Fenced grot—
The veriest school
Of peace; and yet the fool
Contends that God is not.
Not God! in gardens! When the eve is cool?
Nay, but I have a sign:
'Tis very sure God walks in mine.
(Read by Mrs. E. R. Hodgson before Athens Woman's Club.)

A hatpin ordinance has been passed in New Orleans, and club women urge its observance. Women are forbidden to wear hatpins in public which protect from the head to the point are covered. The penalty runs from $1 to $6, or imprisonment from five hours to six days, at the discretion of the court. Miss Kate Gordon is one of the club women who approves this measure in the interest of public safety.

SLEUTH IS CONVICTED OF HELPING THIEVES

San Francisco, June 7.—The state obtained the first conviction in its prosecution of members of the San Francisco police force for alleged complicity in the operations of the notorious "forty thieves" bunco gang, when Frank Esola, a former detective, was found guilty last night.

Esola was indicted on the specific charge of having connived with Michael Gallo, now a convict, in robbing Louis Demeo of $800. With seven other policemen, the remainder of whom are awaiting trial on conspiracy charges, Esola was accused of having, with Gallo men with complicity in swindling operations, said to have yielded the notorious ring more than $300,000 since 1905, from which time, the confidence men declared, they had worked under police protection.

1,500-MILE COWBOY RACE FOR $1,000 HAS STARTED

Kansas City, June 7.—A 1,500-mile cowboy race for a prize of $1,000 started here today. Cassius Calvin Wesley Miller Hawk, of Spur, Texas; William Benton, Sierra Blanco, Texas, and T. O. Hendricks, Cassadore, Mexico, are the contestants, and their destination is Winnipeg, Canada. Each of the riders has a pack pony besides his mount. They will go by way of Omaha, over the same route to Minneapolis. There each will choose a separate trail. They will make twenty-five miles a day at first," said one of the riders, "but on the home stretch we will make forty miles a day."

Mayor Jost, who sent a letter with the racers to the mayor of Winnipeg, acted as official starter.

BIG TIM SULLIVAN WILL TAKE THE BATHS

New York, June 7.—Congressman Timothy D. Sullivan was booked as a passenger on the steamer Cincinnati, sailing today from Boston for Hamburg. "Big Tim," the East Side leader of Tammany, expects to make the round trip on the steamer for the benefit of his health. He was recently committed to a sanitarium on account of an alleged mental affliction, but this, as well as his physical health, is declared much improved. He hopes to resume his political interests in the fall.

Activity of Clubs Increased By Columbus City Federation

Club activities in this city have been enhanced by the organization of its city federation just one year ago this May. Rich results are expected to follow in the wake of this progressive movement, distinct signs having already indicated a material advancement.

The stimulation of concerted effort from organized action has given this body of club workers three distinct credits to its newly begun list of achievements, viz:

The fight against tuberculosis in the conducting of the Red Cross sale during the month of last December. Over $300 was raised, half of which went to the state and, half to the federation, the amount of the latter being banked and used as needed with the approval of the Associated Charities in caring for tubercular patients.

Secondly, the assistance rendered the state in the establishing of a Girls' Canning club in Muscogee county. Miss Creswell has visited Columbus and launched her work. From the result of which more than thirty girls are working on their gardens. When the vegetables are ready to can Miss Creswell will return and assist in the work.

Thirdly, the bringing of the first chautauqua to Columbus, resulting in such a distinct success as to assure its next appearance.

Three Parent-Teacher Associations.

In close touch with these works of uplift come the Parent-Teacher associations—three in number now—for before these lines will have gone to press the Wynnton Parent-Teacher association will have added its name to the list. Her membership is usually as well as its influence and effort to the campaign for betterment along all lines of civic, educational and moral uplift.

The primal object of these associations is the bringing into closer relation the home and the school that parent and teacher may more intelligently co-operate in the education of the child.

As a result of a resolution of the East Highland Parent-Teacher association, indorsed by the city federation last fall, and passed on favorably by the public school trustees, drinking fountains will be installed in each of the schools by another year.

It is the aim of the East Highlands Parent-Teacher association to carry out plans projected for the establishing of a lunch-room for the school children, whereby hot lunches can be served them. This plan includes also the establishing of penny lunches for the children.

Free Kindergarten Association.

Established in 1897, this association has grown in membership and usefulness. It owns and supports two schools for the benefit of neglected and dependent children. The training school they have established has produced a number of skilled kindergarter teachers, and has advanced the kindergarten movement here into Columbus, with Rochester, N. Y., stands first in kindergarten work in this country. This month two pupils graduated from the training school and eight seniors will continue their work the next scholastic year. The association numbers about one hundred.

Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

The Woman's Christian Temperance union, of Columbus, is a live body in the federation and has co-operated actively in the movements accomplished for the year—the spreading of the light concerning club work in Muscogee county; the bringing of the Redpath chautauqua to the city and the issuing of a Woman's Edition of The Constitution.

The most important work being done in our own local organization this year is the prize essays contested for in the public schools, in which some two or three hundred essays are now being sent to the examining committee. The titles include, "The Value of Total Abstinence to a Life" for the high school and seconders; "Alcohol and the Columbus Industrial High school, and "Alcohol and the Human Body," for the seventh grades. In the schools posters have been placed and charts to the number of thirteen, and leaflets distributed. A large majority of principals and teachers are rejoicing in the awakening of attention in this line of instruction is secured. Up to date this year, 54,617 pages of literature have been sent out and distributed. In the local press work of the Woman's Christian Temperance union over 100 columns have already been published in the form of the daily papers in the shape of notices, reports of meetings and addresses, papers and news items from well known temperance men and women of the city.

District Nurses' Association.

Organized now two years ago and with a membership of only twenty, the District Nurses' association has done a splendid work in relieving the sufferings of a trained nurse to relieve sickness and suffering wherever needed cases are brought to the notice of the presiding officer. It is wonderful what can be accomplished by even a small band of well directed workers.

Civic League.

In this class would come the Sunshine club, not a large membership, but a hearty one, which in its undertakings for the betterment of deserving children and ready to respond in all deserving instances to the calls of the federation, and also adding only a new member of the city federation, being one of the six clubs to join that body during the past year.

Orphans Club.

The only musical organization in the Columbus City Federation, the Orphans club has accomplished much splendid work. Not only in point of musical advancement for its individual members, but also in the way of spreading of musical appreciation for the people at large by the bringing of high-class musical attractions. Also the awarding of four musical scholarships, in itself a great work, has been supplemented by the free tuition of certain qualified members of the club to a half dozen girls whose work thus begun may be the initiative of a useful musical career.

The inauguration this past winter of the Sunday afternoon sacred concerts has proved a distinct success and will be continued during the summer, these concerts being held in the auditorium of the public library, where the Steinway concert grand, another tangible evidence of this club's enterprising spirit, occupies its usual position on the platform.

With that same spirit of progressiveness, the Orphians are planning for the installation of a fine pipe organ. This they will surely accomplish in time.

Woman's Reading Club.

In line with the primarily organized study clubs come the Woman's Reading, the Students, the Century and the Froebel clubs. But since entering upon the field of federated work much has been accomplished along the lines of educational, civic and general uplift.

As the mother club of this body, having been organized in 1888, the Woman's Reading club has devoted its endeavors for the past few years mainly to the establishing and maintaining of paid scholarships to the local industrial schools. Three are carried on at present at the Columbus Industrial High school, aggregating $60 this year. In all probability this will become an established feature of this club's work.

Of course, her federated obligations are cheerfully met on all occasions, whether for immediate contributory funds or the undertaking of any special undertakings—as, for instance, the Woman's Edition, which all of the federated clubs have been working for none more faithfully than the Study clubs. As a fitting culmination of its twenty-five years of existence this club will, during the coming year, celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary with a reception of which timely notice will appear. The year 1913-14 will be a book of the Reading club, "Classic Myths in English Literature," fittingly marks the passing years of the 1888-1913 by a simple but appropriate cover design in silver type.

Students' Club.

The work of the Students' club is about the same from year to year. Their plan is well defined and every effort is made to accomplish the work undertaken.

The scholarship fund, $50, raised by voluntary contributions, is the club's principal interest. This fund is used to send a worthy girl to the State Normal at Athens. Besides furnishing a circulating library to the Primary industrial school of Columbus, the students give services and a certain amount each year to the Free Kindergarten association, and annually $10 to a certain sum is given to the Talluiah Falls school.

The rest room, opened to visitors the year round, is another one of the regular and specific features of this club's work and a notable contribution to civic uplift. The Students' year book, recently distributed and entitled "The New Era," deals with the study of one of the most vital topics of the present day and known as the Feminist movement. It is one of the strongest programs ever offered by this club.

The Century Club.

In line with these study clubs come both the Century and the Froebel, which up to the time of their done of joining the city federation have been strictly for study. Now, of course, they have departed from the uniform line of work so far as to discharge their federated obligations, which have consisted chiefly of co-operating in the general plan of the city federation for the promotion of the Woman's Edition and the Redpath chautauqua.

Although club with a small membership, the Century 16 and the Froebel not a dozen, they have evidenced that spirit of co-operation and co-operation which has gone so far to unite the common cause. The Century club is the exponent of the best Jewish culture and thought, and will continue their prearranged study of English literature for the coming year.

Froebel Club.

The Froebel club follows the educational line of kindergarten study and has for its object the source of supply for the kindergarten teachers in the public schools.

Respectfully submitted,
MRS. ROBERT C. STEWART.
President Woman's Reading Club, and Local News Editor of City Federation.

What the Clubs Are Doing.

The clubs at Adairsville has purchased books to start a library, and plan very soon to secure ground for a park and build a club room.

Dawson Library Association.

The Dawson Library association is busy raising funds to maintain the library.

Work has begun on plans for a grand Terrell county fair this fall. The premium list for the fair is published, the money is right to cover it, and everything points to an overwhelming success.

Worth While Club.

Probably the most important work the Worth While club of Moultrie has done is her civic work, writes Mrs. L. W. Mattox. The club is co-operating with the city council in getting the town cleaned up, in getting grocery stores screened and in anything that tends to make a cleaner town.

The civic committee will ask the council to employ an inspector, whose business shall be to see that back yards and all premises are kept clean, and to report to proper authorities insanitary conditions.

Marietta Civic League.

The Civic league of Marietta has beautified the park plot of ground by the railroad station, so that people getting off the train see grass and flower beds instead of a stretch of bare ground and cinders.

Ten of the league members have been appointed by the council to act as an auxiliary to the sanitary committee. They will have authority to order premises cleaned up and kept in sanitary condition. Suits will be made against offenders, and by this plan Marietta will be kept in good, sanitary condition.

The Doctor's Advice
by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character. If symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood Sts., sufficient postage for reply, addressed, stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order at wholesaler.

"Distress" writes: "My hair is so oily and straight. The dandruff is something awful. I want to make it soft and fluffy. It makes me positively homely. I also have a great deal of dandruff."

Answer: Many women could be more successful if they had soft, fluffy hair. I can tell you how to overcome your trouble and will make your hair soft and fluffy. It will cure dandruff, itching scalp and nutriness and falling hair. Ask your druggist for 4 oz. bottle of plain yellow mineyl and use according to directions, and you will be surprised to note the difference in your hair.

"Fred W." writes: "I suffer with headache, indigestion, nervous debility and am also thin almost to the danger point. What can be done for me?"

Answer: You can very readily overcome these difficulties by using Sargol according to directions. They are put up in sealed cartons with full directions. These are highly recommended by physicians, and if used according to directions you will soon be rid of headache, your indigestion will be soon overcome and you will add from 10 to 25 pounds. These tablets should be taken regularly for several months, and you can depend on gaining flesh.

"Lee" writes: "I have tried so many remedies for rheumatism that I am almost afraid to try another, but will do so if you think it will cure I will try it."

Answer: You can be disheartened because you have not been able to find something that would cure your rheumatism for you can be cured if you will take what I tell you. Get from the drug store: Iodide of potassium, 2 drams; sodium salicylate 4 drams; wine of colchicum, one-half oz.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; comp. sarsaparilla, 6 oz., and syrup sarsaparilla, 6 oz. Mix and take a teaspoonful at meal time and again before going to bed.

"Fern" writes: "I have suffered with a bad cough for some time and I am also weak and tired most of the time, which I think is due to the severe coughing. Can you give me a remedy?"

Answer: Yes, your weakness is due to the coughing, but you can be cured by using the following: Get a 2½ oz. package of sanmetho-laxene and make according to directions on the bottle, then take a teaspoonful every hour or two until the cough is cured. This makes a full pint of the very best and safest cough syrup. If your druggist does not have metho-laxene have him order it for you for the wholesale house.

Doctor: What can I take for a bad case of indigestion? I have suffered with it for many years and nothing I take helps at all. I am also bothered with constipation.

Answer: You should not neglect indigestion and constipation as it leads to more serious trouble. Many women suffer from what is caused by this neglect. Begin at once and take tablets triopepsin; can be obtained in sealed cartons with full directions for taking.

"Laura S." writes: "I am so tired and nervous all the time that I can scarcely drag one foot after the other. I have no ambition and as I have to work. My appetite is also very poor."

"Anna R." writes: "I have taken medicine for catarrh and have used a catarrh cure recommended and constipation, but it does not seem to help me at all. My skin is sallow. I have terrible headaches, and am troubled with dizziness."

Answer: The best remedy that I know for your trouble is three grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur tablets). These are packed in sealed tubes with full directions. None of the remedies only relieve, but if you take the sulpherb tablets regularly for a few weeks you will be cured. This will purify the blood and your skin will lose that sallow look.

"Busy Mother"—Bedwetting can be easily cured in children, by taking the following: Tincture cubebs, 1 dram; tincture rhus aromat, 2 drams; syrup wild cherry, fluid balmwort, 1 oz. Give from 10 to 15 drops in water an hour before each meal.

Doctor: "I have a very bad case of catarrh of the head and throat and my kidneys, too, are affected. I suffer greatly and would like a cure."

C. G.—Local treatment should be used as follows: Get 2 ozs. of antiseptic Vilaze powder. Use a teaspoonful to a pint of warm water, snuff the water from the palm of the hand through the nostrils two or three times a day. Then make a catarrh balm by mixing a level teaspoonful of Vilaze powder with one ounce of vaseline or lard and apply to the nostrils as far up as possible. Also take a teaspoonful four times daily of the following: Syrup sarsaparilla comp. 4 ozs.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; fluid ext. bucha, 1 oz. Mix and shake well. Besides a good camera and pretty girls one needs sunshine to make snap-shots. Mrs. Swift did not care a snap and raised a storm. Mr. Swift got caught, she also. This made her more furious and he had to give up the camera and the pictures, too, which was too bad. I was not in on the photographing, but I am in a whole camera now. The pictures went by parcel brick post down to Mc Ginty.

Twenty-Two New Teachers Named to Fill Vacancies in Matrimony-Depleted Ranks

As usual, the little love god has played havoc in the ranks of the women teachers of the Atlanta public schools, and the board of education when it went into the election of teachers for the ensuing year yesterday found itself confronted with twenty-two resignations of young women—most of them had either joined the matrimonial ranks or expect to at an early date.

The matrimonial scythe has cut a wider swath in the ranks of our teachers than usual this year," Superintendent Slaton told the board, "and there are consequently a number of places to be filled."

The superintendent would not tell just how many of his force were contemplating matrimony, however, as he said that would hardly be fair.

With the new regular teachers, supernumeraries were also selected yesterday, but their names will not be made public until each has been assigned to a school. Mr. Slaton and Assistant Superintendent Landrum are working on these assignments, and hope to finish tomorrow or next day.

The board of education re-elected every official from the superintendent to the office clerical force and named two new principals.

Examinations of applicants for teachers' places to be filled next year will be held August 15 and 16. All teachers who have been required to take a reinforcing examination will do so at that time. As the annual June vacations find the ranks of the teachers considerably depleted by matrimony, those who pass a good examination in August will stand an excellent chance of getting places next year.

WOOD ACQUITTED OF DYNAMITE PLOT; COLLINS GUILTY

NO VERDICT IN CASE OF FREDERICK ATTEAUX

Counsel for Wood Demands Probe of Report That Attempt Was Made to Bribe Juror.

Boston, June 7.—[Special.]—Deliberating throughout the night, the jury today acquitted President [illegible] W. Wood, of the American Woolen company, of the charge of conspiracy to injure the textile strikers at Lawrence by "planting" dynamite. A disagreement in the case of Frederick E. Atteaux was reported. Dennis J. Collins, who turned state's evidence, was found guilty on two counts, and not guilty on the other four counts of the indictment.

The first count charged conspiracy to injure the textile strikers and the second count conspiracy to injure unknown persons. The other counts allege conspiracy against certain persons and a plot to damage property. The case, one of the most sensational that has grown out of a dispute between capital and labor, was given to the jury at noon yesterday. The jurors began their deliberations at 3 o'clock and when they had failed to report at midnight they were locked up for the night.

Court reconvened at 9:30 this morning and the jury came in at 10 o'clock.

Undecided on Atteaux.

The foreman reported that Collins was guilty on the first two counts, Wood acquitted and that the jury had been unable to agree in the case of Atteaux.

The court ordered that bail for Atteaux be renewed pending disposition of his case.

Counsel for Wood asked the court to direct an investigation of the published statement that an attempt had been made to influence Moses Shuman, one of the jurors. Yesterday Shuman was questioned by Judge John C. Crosby regarding a statement which he was said to have made recently to the district attorney.

This was to the effect that a man unnamed had intimated to him that he might have a business position for life and $200 in cash if he voted "right." Upon assuring the court that he would not be influenced by the alleged attempt at bribery, Shuman was permitted to continue in the jury box.

Judge Crosby stated that an inquiry would be begun before him on Wednesday and be instructed all the jurors to be present.

In asking for the investigation, Counsel Hurlburt said:

"The newspapers of Boston have been filled with the statement that a juror was approached. While the name of the attorney to whom it was said this juror was to go to get $200 was not mentioned, it was generally known through rumors circulated about the court that the attorney was myself.

Probe of Bribe Charge.

"I am an officer of this court. The charge of attempting to bribe a juror is of the gravest character. The jurors are here and I ask that they be kept while those charges are publicly investigated."

District Attorney Pelletier said he indorsed everything that Mr. Hurlburt had said. He declared that he did not believe that either Mr. Hurlburt or his client, Mr. Wood, had even the slightest connection with the matter.

Judge Crosby stated that though in unusual emergencies, as in murder cases was through the grand jury, he saw no objection to a public hearing. But he added, "So far as Mr. Hurlburt is concerned, I think an investigation is unnecessary for it is inconceivable that any person of Mr. Hurlburt's high and honorable professional standing should have had any connection whatever in any affair of this kind."

After the adjournment of court, Wood was surrounded by a crowd of friends, who expressed their delight at his acquittal. His co-defendant, Collins, was the first to offer congratulations. Atteaux, while showing plainly his disappointment at the jury's failure to acquit him, expressed satisfaction over the outcome of Wood's case.

Collins' case is still open, but the fact that he was not called for sentence lends color to the report that by giving evidence for the prosecution he has earned a suspension of sentence.

Mr. Wood gave out a statement, in which he said:

"I am profoundly grateful for the verdict which the jury has rendered in my behalf in the so-called dynamite case. I had no reason at any time to assume the verdict would be otherwise. I was not conscious of any guilt in connection with the alleged conspiracy because I was in no way implicated in it, nor did I have any knowledge of it."

Baraca-Philathea Classes Hear Interesting Address At College Park Baptist

A feature of last Tuesday evening was the meeting of the College Park Baracas and Philatheas in the College Park Baptist church, at which an address was made by Rev. Frank Anderson, of Syracuse, N. Y., the national field secretary of the World-Wide Baraca-Philathea union. His address was full of interest encouragement and inspiration, and, beyond doubt, his visit will bear good fruit in the way of increased knowledge, determination and enthusiasm in the lives of the soul-winners in this community. The pastor of the church, Rev. A. F. McKelley, and the former teacher and organizer of the Philathea class, T. L. Camp, assisted in the services.

The church was elaborately and artistically decorated with Philathea colors, light blue and white, having the Philathea emblem—the bar and cross—showing in every direction, while dainty ferns contributed a delightful freshness to the occasion.

SOCIETY

Sisson-Matthews.

The wedding of Miss Mary Sisson and Dr. O. H. Matthews was an interesting event of Wednesday morning, taking place at the Jackson Hill Baptist church at 10 o'clock in the presence of many friends. They left immediately for the mountains of North Carolina, where they will spend three weeks, after which they will be at home at 500 North Jackson street.

Wins Scholarship.

Miss Lalla Bright Cannon, who has spent the past two years in New York studying voice under Pinbianskli, is spending her vacation in the city with her mother, Mrs. L. D. Cannon, and her aunt, Mrs. D. J. McRae, 647 Peachtree street. Miss Cannon recently won a scholarship in voice over three hundred competitors. Sarianto, Caruso's director, who has accompanied her on several occasions, predicts a great future for her and thinks that the possibilities of her voice are very remarkable for one so young.

Miss Kilpatrick Entertains.

Miss Frances Kilpatrick entertained the members of the senior class of Miss Hanna's school at a six-hand bridge party Friday afternoon. The house was beautifully decorated with daisies and ferns and the class colors of yellow were observed in all details.

The score cards were hand-painted in daisies. The prizes were silver picture frames and were won by Miss Ruby Sawyer and Miss Ruby Anderson.

Miss Kilpatrick wore a gown of white lace over satin.

Punch was served by Misses Lillian Castle and Carrie Waldrop.

The guests present were Misses Carmen Werder, Lucy Stoddard, Mary Cagle, Dollie Bailey, Cecil Harwell, Rudena Bechi, Hazel Rainey, Fannie Kate Martin, Katherine Cleaton, Dorothy Davis, Christine Berger, Estelle Barrett, Tommie Bryon, Dorris Reed, Margaret Oglesby, Ruby Sawyer, Nell Morris, Ruth Newman, Florence McGee, Ollie Lincoln, Mary Padgett, Ruth Rockmore, Helen Gamble, Winnie Couch, Mary Bradley, Louis Donaldson, Louise Thrash, Mary Harper, Robena Shaw, Marie Cox, Eva Bowyle, Ruby Anchor, Lora Seymour, Lucile Callahan, Julia Newman, Mattie Lou Morris, Hattie Nesbit, Frances Wardlaw, Sara Lindsell, Marie Cobb, Helen Atkinson, Mildred Gamble and Miss Hanna.

For Miss Crowley.

Miss Nattie Cooper entertained at a delightful heart-dice party Friday evening at her home on Hill street in compliment to Miss Bessie Crowley, a member of Miss Cooper's music classes, who has made the best record for perfect lessons. Pink and white carnations and sweet peas decorated the house and the color scheme of pink and white was contained in the refreshments. The honor guest was given a hand-painted sachet and Miss Rosalyn Byrd won the first prize, a pink satin coathanger.

Eighteen guests enjoyed the evening.

Miss Chambers Entertains.

On Wednesday evening Miss Ruth Chambers entertained the young ladies of the graduating class of the high school, of which she is a member, and a number of young men.

The house, 370 South Boulevard, was beautifully decorated with quantities of sweet peas and carnations arranged in vases on mantels and cabinets and Japanese lanterns were hung in festoons on the veranda.

The punch bowls, which were wreathed in ivy, were presided over by Misses Marion and Ivalyn Chambers.

Small tables were placed in the living room, dining room and parlor and progressive games were played. The score cards were hand-painted in wild roses with "Class '13" written in gold letters.

Miss May Ewing made top score for the girls and received a lovely fan. The boys' prize, a tie, went to Mr. Taylor Hammond, Jr.

Orchestra music was furnished throughout the evening by Messrs. Withers, Williams and Hardwick, accompanied by Miss Ewing at the piano. There were forty guests.

Flag Day.

Flag day will by appropriately observed next Saturday, June 14, by the Atlanta chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, of which Mrs. James G. Wynn is regent, at their chapter house on Piedmont avenue. A very interesting program has been arranged for the afternoon.

Dr. Hugh K. Walker, chaplain of the chapter, will be present and also Dr. Hughlett, who will give a short patriotic talk. Mrs. Ransom Wright will sing "The Star Spangled Banner," and Mrs. Mary Craft Ward will give several piano selections.

Mrs. A. McD. Wilson will give an account of the recent trip of the old Guard and she will tell of flag day exercises she has witnessed. After the program there will be a social hour, when a group of the younger members of the chapter will serve punch and refreshments.

Shower Day.

June 28 is the 210th anniversary of the birthday of John Wesley, and the Woman's auxiliary to Wesley Memorial hospital will have a committee of ladies there to receive linen, and other donations, for the comfort of the sick and suffering. Goods may be sent to the hospital, and cash to the financial secretary, Mrs. J. H. Bradford, 591 S. Pryor street, Atlanta.

Fifteen dollars completes a little bed for the children's ward. One has recently been donated, and, perhaps, others wish to do likewise.

For Mrs. Center.

Mr. and Mrs. John Edgar McKee entertained at a pretty dinner Friday evening at the Driving club.

Dixon-Draper.

A wedding of much interest to their many friends and acquaintances in Atlanta was that of Miss Alice Campbell Dixon and Mr. William James Draper, of New York, which was solemnized Wednesday evening, June 4, Dr. J. Wade Conkling performing the ceremony. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was given the wedding party at the home of Mrs. Hamilton Douglass.

Mr. and Mrs. Draper will visit places of interest in the north on their wedding journey, and will then make their home in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Craine-Simpson.

A beautiful home wedding was that of Miss Frances Jo Annie Craine and Mr. James Augustus Simpson, which occurred Wednesday, June 4, at the home of the bride's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Hudson, 5 South Gordon street, West End park. The beautiful home was decorated with palms, ferns and daisies. The mantel in the drawing room, banked in dark green foliage, formed an attractive background for the wedding party. The attendants were Miss Annabell Richardson, a cousin of the bride, maid of honor, and Mr. Garrett Ware was the groom's best man. Mr. William S. Richardson, the bride's uncle, gave the bride away, and Rev. W. S. Reid, of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony. The music was furnished by Miss Mamie Clyburn, who rendered "The Bridal Chorus," from Lohengrin, before the ceremony, changing to Mendelssohn's wedding march at the approach of the wedding party, and playing the "Flower Song" softly and sweetly during the ceremony. The bride was gowned in white satin, her tulle veil caught with orange blossoms, and she carried bride roses. They left for a wedding trip north. The bride's going-away gown was of blue satine, with hat to match. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Simpson will go to housekeeping at 16 Eglseton street, West End, where Mr. Simpson has bought and furnished a home.

Commercial Boys' Banquet.

After the graduation exercises at the Grand Opera house last night, the graduating class of the commercial department of the Boys' High school assembled for their first annual banquet at the Kimball house. The class president, Mr. Luther Deck Wallace, presiding. The occasion was very greatly enjoyed by all present. The friendly class spirit which has always existed prevailed throughout the evening.

Various toasts were proposed—some serious and some for fun—all being aptly responded to by some member of the class, and running through it all could be traced a vein of loyalty for the Boys' High school.

The honor guest of the occasion was Professor W. F. Dykes, principal of the Boys' High school, who addressed the boys on the subject of the class motto, "A Life—Not a Living," calling attention to the fact that while it was necessary to gain wealth, the main object in life should be the formation and preservation of character.

Actress Tells Secret

A Well-Known Actress Tells How She Darkened Her Gray Hair and Promoted Its Growth With a Simple Home-Made Mixture.

Miss Blanche Rose, a well-known actress, who darkened her gray hair with a simple preparation which she mixed at home, in a recent interview at Chicago, Ill., made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray hair and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe, which they can mix at home. To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the required shade. This will make a gray-haired person look 20 years younger. It is also fine to promote the growth of hair, relieves itching and scalp humors, and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair."

WHICH WAY, ATLANTA?

Here is a straight-from-the-shoulder talk on business to the people of Atlanta. Municipally speaking, their house is in disgraceful order. Matters have reached a crisis. Either the city must forthwith abandon the old financial plan of living from hand to mouth, or it must commit itself indefinitely to a policy of marking time.

We can't wear blinders any longer. The supreme court crematory situation tore them from our eyes. And it is up to us to look the situation in the face. No more can we fall back on the moral obligation device to secure municipal improvements. Other methods must be found if the city is to grow and not to go backward.

What are the facts? For a good many decades we have been trying to make current income meet current expenses in this city and provide also for permanent improvements, all of them the inevitable penalties of growth. From the start that policy has been a foolish one. Any business house that tried it would be headed for bankruptcy, and every business man knows it. A city can be no more successful at financial acrobatics than a business house.

Following this delusive will-o'-the-wisp, we have let Atlanta run down at the heel. At the commencement exercises of the Girls' High school, the other day, President Daley, of the board of education, made an indignant protest against this policy. He said the high school was housed in an antiquated, inadequate and ramshackle structure. He said the miserable parsimony of the city was dooming its young womanhood to secure an education amid disgraceful and insanitary surroundings. That is all true. It is true, too, of other schools of the city. It is true of the sewer system. It is true of the sanitary department. It is true of any department of the city government, hospitals, police, fire, what-not, that grows and demands money with growth.

There is another feature. We are now rebuilding this city, in a way. We are changing impossible grades and widening streets; and we haven't, in the way of regrading and rebuilding, paving and repaving, laying new sewers and providing new ones, come anywhere within whispering distance of the work that should be done if Atlanta is to be built for half a century instead of just for today.

We cannot bind succeeding councils. And, having set our face toward a metropolis, and a healthy, up-to-date metropolis, at that, we cannot turn backward.

There is just one resource. The city must do as any business would do—it must utilize its borrowing credit. Business that seeks to live and expand simply on its capital goes under. The city that attempts that folly beckons dry-rot. Atlanta has in cold storage six million dollars of credit. It is good in any money market in the world. It is protected by the most rigid constitutional safeguards in the country. The improvements that cry for materialization are to benefit posterity even more than ourselves. The enhanced value from these improvements will more than absorb sinking fund and interest.

Is not posterity to aid in paying for these imperative improvements? Council and the finance committee think so. The one has framed and the other has adopted a resolution creating a commission of ten councilmen and five citizens. This commission is to investigate and report regarding the advisability and dimensions and purposes of a bond issue. The finance committee knows there is no alternative. Council knows that, too. It is simply for the people of Atlanta to awake to the situation as council and the committee have awaked.

The city stands at the cross-roads. It is up to its people to say, and say swiftly, which fork it shall take.

THE Y. W. C. A.

Without the blare of a single trumpet the Young Women's Christian Association has done and is doing one of the noblest and most practical works of constructive uplift in the range of Atlanta's activities. An interview with Mrs. Harry Dewar, a member of the executive board, and published elsewhere, gives a glimpse into the scope and purpose of the undertaking. What the Young Men's Christian Association is to the young men of the city, the Young Women's Christian Association is to the young women of the city, and more. Proverbially, the boy has more sources for self-help and self-protection than the girl. Alone in the city, his plight is sufficiently serious. But it is not remotely comparable to the plight of the girl under the same conditions. She must earn a living. She must, at the same time, try against odds to equip herself to better her condition. And she must also fight against the dangers and the temptations, enemies that often threaten the more for her very innocence and lack of sophistication.

It is girls of this class that the Y. W. C. A. is founded to help, has helped and is helping. It furnishes a noonday refuge for the thousands of working women who must feed themselves cheaply, and who are in search of cleanly, congenial and safe surroundings. It gives healthful athletics to the girl shut up all day earning her bread. It offers classes in domestic science, household economics, millinery and other occupations naturally pertaining to women. It conducts a boarding home for girls, where they may live at a reasonable rate and in perfect security, though the demands upon the home are greatly more than it can meet.

As the Y. M. C. A. is an institution for the making and saving of men, so the Y. W. C. A. is an institution for the making and saving of women. It is wonderful that it has accomplished what it has with the handicap of poverty and adverse conditions. Through these disadvantages it is only partially filling its field. As Atlanta grows that field will become larger and more clamorously call for attention. The institution imperatively needs expansion. In the undertaking it should have the spontaneous support of the good people of Atlanta. Money spent in this direction is not simply philanthropy. On the economic base of giving women a square deal and a fair start in life, it more than justifies itself as a public investment.

GEORGIA'S GOOD OUTLOOK.

The yield of the soil, which is everywhere the basis of prosperity, holds singular promise of a propitious season in Georgia. That prospect is strongly reinforced by weather developments of the past few days. Dispatches to The Constitution indicate that the long and threatening drouth in southwest Georgia has been broken by generous rains; that cotton has recovered from its previous uncertain outlook; that corn is flourishing, and that it is likely more of it will be produced than in any previous year. What is true of southwest Georgia is also true proportionately of other parts of the state. The big rains came at the strategic moment. When the fields were caked and the young crops drooping, the rains came and gave a fortunate turn to the entire situation. The fall of 1913 may not be record-breaking in the state's history, from the agricultural point of view; but will at least register a healthy normal, and, in view of previous dubious prophecies, that fact is reassuring.

Wholesome conditions here enable this state to view the problems of the forthcoming autumn and winter with tranquility. Since January 1, the pessimists have been busy throughout America. They have dragooned a number of factors upon which to premise a melancholy outlook. They point to the stagnation of the stock market and the general inactivity of Wall street as omens of evil. They declare that uncertainty over tariff revision is delaying progress. They say the high prices at which railways are floating imperative loans, and the unexplained circumstances of the Frisco receivership are discouraging items. The tightness of money in Europe, due to the war in the near east, and the perturbation in our own country, due to the Japanese war scare, have made them chew the cud of gloom.

Georgia has no reason to share any of this misgiving. Good crops are synonymous of good times, and the portents in Georgia are all of good crops. The same probability holds with regard to the remainder of the nation. From all sections come reports of abundant yields. The opening of the autumn will rout the pessimists. Revenues from all parts of the world will roll in for the south's cotton. The corn and the wheat of the nation will levy other tribute. Financial adversity cannot withstand the enormous largesse of the soil. As for Georgia, there is not the remotest danger of the return of the low price cotton panic years. Already September and October options are quoted at between 11 and 12 cents. That is a bright indication of the future.

SKIN TIGHTS AND SLITS.

The ladies of Indianapolis, bless 'em! are playing that ancient game known as the pot and the kettle. Witness a recent dispatch from the Indiana capital which relates that hereafter the cops are to arrest any woman appearing in public clad in a split skirt unless she wears an underskirt also. The action was taken on a petition signed "The Ladies," and which ran as follows: "We, as ladies, ask that you prohibit the wearing of split skirts without undergarments. We hope that you will take this seriously." That hope was fulfilled. The ban has been placed on the split skirt unless it is chaperoned by a blowsy underskirt.

Now, doesn't that beat the Dutch? To mere man the split skirt without an underskirt is no greater peril to masculine tranquility than the unsplit skirt worn also without an underskirt—and we are reliably informed that the latter style is all-prevailing this summer. Indeed, as we see it, the split skirt is simply an inevitable evolution of the present styles with which, we assume, not even these horrified duennas of Indianapolis will quarrel. It would not, indeed, be surprising if most of the protesting ladies themselves affect this very style, which, to accept current report, is chiefly intended to exhibit the liberality of nature to frame and figure. In achieving this the average feminine garment is so constructed as to make the average lady appear as though she were poured into it. This end is perceptibly promoted by omiting the underskirt. So it is the discard for the underskirt! There you are! All the offending split skirt does is to go a tiny step farther, and by exhibiting what the non-split skirt only intimates, deprive imagination of its last prop. If either one is harmful we think the palm might be awarded to the non-split skirt. For the innuendo, in dress as in speech, is ever more suggestive than the outright statement.

However, we didn't start out on the uncharted sea of women's attire, to discuss which we confess our inability. The curious and interesting inconsistency of the Indianapolis ladies was what challenged our attention. We really see but one reason for them—and that is to agitate for a revival of the hoopskirt of our fathers—or mothers, rather. No one but the men can possibly object to that. They might, too, decree that bathing suits be made hoopskirt fashion. Ladies never blink at shilling shockers worn in the surf which, if transferred to city pavements, would cause a riot and wholesale arrests—as would the average feminine costume of today, if it had been worn twenty years ago.

RELIGION AND THE NEGRO.

H. H. Proctor, pastor of the First Congregational church, colored, of Atlanta, is one of the soundest and most practical of the leaders of the negro. In a recent sermon he emphasized an idea often advanced by The Constitution, and that is that religion must largely be depended upon to save the race from the perils facing it in common with the white race. In part he said:

> Our race today in the midst of its general prosperity needs to take counsel from the heart of its fathers in the day of their adversity. . . . Heartfelt religion is the solution of Jesus for the problem of the race. Both the industrial and literary types of education may be helpful, but the root of the trouble is not in the hands or the heads of the people, but in their hearts.

All this is quite true. The negro population of ante-bellum days was orderly and law-abiding for two reasons, chiefly: (1) The white man's civilization had the power to enforce regulations and restraints it knew to be good for this child race; (2) it was able to enforce and fortify those mandates by kindling religion in the heart of the negro, and it accomplished this latter task by sending missionaries among the negroes. The Sunday school taught by the mistress of the plantation was one of the civilizing influences of the patriarchal era.

With the civil war the white men's first avenue to aid the negro, his power to enforce mandates, was destroyed. The other resort, that of religion, should have been made to do double duty and gradually to solve, for the negro's sake and our own, all the hard and dangerous problems that rose out of emancipation and reconstruction. In the old days the negro could be approached and largely controlled by his religious instinct, the cultivation of which in him was comparatively a simple matter. He is even today susceptible to that same influence, but who is exerting it upon him? Mainly his own people, and while they are making substantial headway, they are having only sporadic co-operation from the white race, which is largely busying itself with Africa and China.

As The Cohstitution has said, if the Christian churches of this country spent half as much money Christianizing the negroes of America as Christianizing the heathen across the ocean, the racial problem would be materially mitigated. The white man's civilization would today be almost nowhere without its religion. What are we doing to take that constructive agency to the untutored negro, whose inefficiency and disease menace our own system almost as much as his own? Practically nothing!

The novelist smiled. "You must ask the ladies," he said gently; "it was their choice, not mine."

The Merry Del Vals.

(From The Pall Mall Gazette.)

Senor Alfonso Merry del Val, the new Spanish ambassador, who has his first audience with the king today, is, like his brother, the cardinal, an accomplished linguist, speaking and writing Spanish, Italian, French and English with equal ease. They are descended from a member of the Waterford family, of Merry, who emigrated in the days of the penal laws and rose to be a grandee of Spain. His son swelled his patronymic with his mother's maiden name, Wall, and this eventually was Latinized into its present form. The new ambassador's father, Don Rafael Merry del Val, was for some years secretary to the Spanish embassy in London.

Public Water Supplies Are Analyzed by the State Board

In May, 1910, the Georgia State Board of Health established a laboratory for the chemical and bacteriological examination of water samples from the public water supplies of the state. In this work the board followed the example set by progressive state boards all over the country. Many of these boards have for twenty years or longer carried out extensive investigations in regard to water supplies, realizing that a safe water supply is one of the greatest assets of any community. To show the importance of such investigations it may be stated that in 1911 the Illinois legislature appropriated $15,000 for the use of the state water survey, while similar amounts are appropriated every year by Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New York and other states.

The inspections of watersheds, filter plants and all methods of purification are carried out in connection with this work and since the inspections were started in August, 1911, about thirty Georgia cities have been visited for the purpose. Detailed reports of the conditions found and the results of analyses of samples subsequently examined, have been completed in over half these cases. Altogether nearly 800 samples have been analyzed, more than one hundred public supplies contributing samples.

Among the plants recently inspected are those at Gainesville, Toccoa, Elberton, Rome, Cartersville, Calhoun, Dalton, Cedartown, LaGrange, West Point, Milledgeville, Covington, Eatonton and Jackson.

About twenty requests for the examination of samples from public water supplies have been received within the last few weeks showing that there is a growing realization of the need of frequent analyses of samples of water furnished to the public.

The President and Alaska.

President Wilson writes on "The Emancipation of Business," including in his article an especially significant statement of his attitude toward Alaska. William Bayard Hale in a striking article on Mr. Bryan brings to light an entirely new conception of Mr. Bryan's character and capabilities based upon a careful study at firsthand and upon the most authentic sources of information—a picture of the secretary of state which is at once a surprise and a revelation. Mr. George McAneny, president of the Borough of Manhattan, tells "What I Am Trying To Do" to organize the business of New York city on a business basis, to extend the city parks and more beautiful. Lyman Beecher Stowe tells "What To Do With the Boy" in a significant and very human article about the boy and girl and about the successful work of William R. George to utilize the native loyalty of boyhood for useful purposes. Chester H. Rowell, a director of the Panama-Pacific International exposition, writes on "The Japanese in California," giving an authentic picture of the economic and psychological forces which produced the recent violent agitation against the Japanese. "Trade Scouts Who Capture Millions" is Lewis R. Freeman's inspiring comparison of the old consular service and the new, very greatly to the advantage of the new type of men who have come in of late years under the civil service regulations. "The Y. M. C. A.—Maker of Men," a description of the economic growth of this organization for the conservation of young manhood, from a small body in Boston to a nation-wide organization with a physical plant alone valued at $60,000,000 and doing a work for moral and physical uplift that is universally recognized as one of the most important powers for betterment in the country. "Novels That Sell 100,000" is the story of the thirteen books that are the best sellers of the last three years, who their authors are and what their place in literature will likely be. "A Year in a Country School" is William H. Hamby's vivid picture of the conditions that make the rural schoolhouse at once a hope of democracy and a problem for the educator and the sociologist.

Rich Men's Financial "Follies."

Though it is undoubtedly true that the losses of investors lured into mistakes by extravagant advertisements in conscienceless newspapers by the postoffice circular letter run into many millions yearly, they are probably exceeded in amount by the losses that are made in securities of undoubted merit by even the shrewdest and most successful business men. Not infrequently, a case of the latter kind comes to light, where the "victim" is found to have been a man of large prominence in the financial world. He may even have been one of those commonly credited with some mysterious faculty for achieving success in the investment field—perhaps, one of those whose successes are sometimes ascribed to "inside information" and other like advantages not possessed by the average investor.

For example, it was shown by the expert appraisal of the $70,000,000 estate of the late Edward H. Harriman that this great railroad genius and financier had among his holdings of securities worthless stocks and bonds of the par value of more than $1,000,000. Several millions of such securities were reported by the experts who completed in April last their appraisal of the real and personal property of the late Colonel John Jacob Astor fortune, who lost his life in the Titanic disaster in the spring of 1912. And while these instances are being noted only in the current news, similar instances can be recalled from the older records. Appraisers of the $66,000,000 estate of Russell Sage, who died in 1906, reported as worthless a miscellaneous lot of stocks and bonds, amounting to about $1,000,000 par value. Among the securities in the $75,000,000 estate of Jay Gould, who died in 1892, there were worthless issues of the face value of $2,000,000.

But, however striking these examples of unwise investments made by men so able to command investment wisdom, there is little in them that should cause the investor of more limited resources to despair. Even the lists of worthless securities held by almost any wealthy investor like a Harriman or an Astor, it is necessary to make a good many allowances to get at the estimate of the amount which measures actual error of judgment. Many stocks and bonds of strange names and characteristics find their way into possession of such investors, bringing little, if any, expectation of return.

The Hottest and Coldest State.

(From Farm and Fireside.)

From weather bureau data, covering a period of fourteen years, it has been discovered that the average temperature of the United States is 52.8 degrees Fahrenheit, and the annual amount of rainfall is 1,308 cubic miles.

The state of Arizona had the lowest amount of annual precipitation, 5.8 inches, of any state during the fourteen years which extended from 1891 to 1904 inclusive. Alabama had the greatest amount of rainfall, 74.6 inches.

The state having the lowest average temperature was North Dakota, 35.5 degrees. Florida had the highest temperature, 71.8 degrees.

Gossip Caught in Corridors Of the National Capitol

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, D. C., June 7.—(Special.)—"The White Badge of Cruelty" is the name bird lovers have given to aigrettes and other prey plumes, which the Underwood tariff bill bars from importation into this country.

To secure these delicate, waving white plumes grown birds are killed and the young ones are left to die of starvation. Of course, not all aigrettes worn in Mlladi's hair and on her hats are imported. Some egrets are found in Florida; one traveler reports having found twenty-eight dead on the ground, stripped of their plumes and the young ones dead in the nests above.

France and Austria have protested against the ban proposed to be placed on these imports since milliners of Paris and Vienna have a personal interest in the business of furnishing aigrettes. But the wide-spread movement among women in England and America not to wear anything which represents ruthless slaughter has fixed the doom of the "white badge."

Dr. William T. Hornady, of the New York Zoological society, appeared before the senate finance committee recently to urge the exclusion from imports of the feathers, wings and other parts of prey birds. This will be done, ostrich plumes alone being excepted. He said the slaughter of hundreds of varieties of beautiful birds was threatened.

He made the statement that during three months of the 1911 season in London, sales of feathers were made representing 223,450 choice birds. These had been slaughtered in many parts of the world. He told of one American who undertook to kill 300,000 birds that inhabited Laysan island in the Pacific. With the aid of a band of Japanese laborers Max Schiemmer had annihilated 300,000 albatrosses, gulls, terns and shearwaters, when the United States government stopped the slaughter.

"The repulsive and horrifying slaughter of wild birds for forty years has been fariously proceeding," said Dr. Hornady. "This has so enormously reduced the total supply of bird life that today drastic measures are being enacted into law, which ten years ago were regarded as wildly impossible of enactment.

"The time has come when the Christian nations of Europe and America must resolutely stop this commercial slaughter, or else see hundreds of species of the most beautiful and interesting birds of the world absolutely exterminated. I appear here to ask congress to stop absolutely the activities of the American people in the extermination of birds for millinery purposes. This slaughter is so fiercely vigorous, so relentless and so cruel that species are being exterminated at a rate so alarming as to arrest the attention of all civilized nations."

Part of His Religion.

Two-thirds of the population of the earth wear a turban, fez, or some other headgear as evidence of their religious belief.

This fact was brought out recently before the senate finance committee by makers of felt hats, who urged it as a reason why they should be given consideration in shaping the tariff bill.

"We are absolutely barred from extending our trade beyond the seas," they say. "We are further at a disadvantage, because all our raw material originates abroad."

John Bull and His Tub.

Englishmen are taking their daily tubbing with the aid of American soap. Moreover, it is perfumed toilet soap that forms part of this daily ritual.

Twice as much American soap is sold in Great Britian as it imported by us from the United Kingdom. Importers of toilet soaps are urging this to show that competition already exists under the present customs laws. At present perfumed toilet soaps are taxed 50 per cent ad valorem, but the importers are asking that the highest rate be made 25 per cent ad valorem. The rates fixed in the Underwood bill range from 5 to 40 per cent.

Short Courtships in Bulawayo.

(From The London Chronicle.)

In Bulawayo a young couple presented themselves one Saturday afternoon on the magistrate's tennis lawn and interrupted the game by demanding to be married. The magistrate refused; declared he would not have his only holiday spoiled and the office closed for the day. The lovers were insistent; they were trekking at once to take possession of a farm a hundred miles up country and must be married before they set off. "Why on earth," said the magistrate, "did you not come to see me this morning?" "But, please, sir, we only met at lunch for the first time."

American Millionaires.

(From The Indianapolis News.)

A German newspaper admits that the United States beats Germany in the race for millionaire honors. It goes on from class to class, and ends up all it gets down to the seventh or eight class does it strike figures with Germans—and then only one or two—are able to equal. The richest woman in the country possesses only $75,000,000, and the richest man $75,000,000. The German is ambitious in her armament program, and the paper observes: "We should want a good dozen American 'millionaires' to bear the burden of our new armaments."

The Kitchen Beautiful.

An English girl has adopted the profession of visiting cook, and will devote herself to teaching the indispensable art. She believes that "if kitchens were beautiful, and not the stuffy, stodgy dungeons that they so often are, and that if women dressed for their work in them with the care that they dress for a ball, cooking would no longer be regarded as drudgery and a monotonous business."

Japan's Oyster Industry.

As early as 1720, at least, oysters were grown by artificial means in Japan, and long before the descendants of the Mayflower pilgrims had realized the desirability for oyster culture the Japanese had grasped the situation and provided for an enlightened administration and utilization of oyster grounds. Old as the industry is in Japan, it has not grown to great importance in itself, the aggregate output being valued at less than a quarter of a million dollars a year.

LUCKY POLE

By Dick Jemison.

Harry Covaleskie, the big Pole, carried all his horseshoes with him Saturday afternoon, when he wiggled out of a drubbing from the hands of the Crackers.

Old man J. P. butted into the pastime just before it could legally be called a game, and the Pole gets away with a defeat being registered against neither he nor his team.

The Crackers were getting to the Pole in a lively fashion, both with their willow from the coaching lines. The rat-tat-tat of the snare drum was getting his goat, just as it has gotten it in the past, and it would have been lock the gate for the Pole in a couple of more sessions.

As it was, the Crackers were leading by a one to nothing margin with two men on the pillows in the fourth and two out, and another run might have been driven across, but for the old fellow turning loose his sprinkling pots.

Conzelman a Find.

This boy Conzelman lived up to all his advance notices. Fred Clark, manager of the Pittsburg Pirates, knows a twirler when he sees one, and he made a wise move in keeping a long string attached to Joseph.

Conzelman allowed the Lookouts but three hits in four innings and two of these were flukes, rank scratches, the kind that happen in most any old ball game.

Cool as a cucumber from the start, with splendid control, he showed a peck of stuff. That overhand curve drop that Bill Smith said he had was very much in evidence and the Lookouts found it a difficult matter to at least foul the ball.

Conzelman has this as his chief stock in trade, good control as another principal asset and other nice breaks, with a side arm break that is a beaut.

The rain certainly cheated the Crackers out of a game they would have won, and it would have meant the first routing of the season for the big Pole as the locals were pounding his curves freely and frequently, when the rain butted in.

But the rain did more, it cheated the two clubs out of some nice gate receipts and spoiled the breaking of the slump of Wallop Smith and Tommy Long.

Good Fielding.

Elberfeld and Bisland, the rival shortstops, were the fielding stars of the game. They both had several difficult chances, and they handled them in approved style.

The Lookouts had their best chance to score in the first inning, when they had two men thrown out at the plate, one on trying to score on an infield out and the other on an attempt to steal.

After that they never had a chance, with Conzelman getting better every moment.

The Pole got by in the first two innings, but in the second he allowed two hits, though no runs resulted.

Alperman opened the fourth with a single to right, that came near taking an arm off Mickey Coyle. Bailey sacrificed him to second, and Wallop Smith drove him home with a punch past short. Bisland was hit, and Agler popped up. Then came the rain, and the end of the festivities for the day.

It was a disappointed crowd, too, for they were having a lot of fun at the expense of both Covaleskie and Elberfeld.

Joe Conzelman Is Signed; Made Debut on Saturday; Chappelle to Beaumont

Joseph Conzelman, the former Brown university pitcher, was signed Saturday morning by Manager Billy Smith. He made his debut in the afternoon against the Lookout and had the rain stayed away, Elberfeld's Lookouts would have been whitewashed.

Conzelman was secured by the Crackers from the Pittsburg Pirates, under optional agreement. Fred Clarke keeping a tight string to the big right hander. If Saturday's brief workout is any indication of what he has, Clarke was a wise mogul in swinging on to him.

To make room for Conzelman, Bell Cord Bill Chappelle was placed on the ineligible list pending a place to sell him to.

Saturday night an offer for the big hurler was received from the Crackers farm at Beaumont, Texas, and Manager Smith announced that Chappelle would be sent there if he was willing to go.

Chappelle did not seem to be able to make a go of it in Atlanta. He apparently had as much stuff as any of the other pitchers with the size and everything else, but somehow he could not get away.

Bill has seen considerable service in the Southern league, pitching for Mobile, then Chattanooga and then the locals. Maybe some other Southern league club will refuse to pass him up. Bill looks like a better pitcher than practically every man on Charley Frank's staff and the wily dutchman may refuse to waive.

NELSON WHITNEY GOLF CHAMPION

Defeats Aldredge in Finals for Southern Title--Rowan, of Atlanta, Wins Second Flight.

Montgomery, Ala., June 7.—Nelson Whitney, of New Orleans, twice holder of the championship title, today easily defeated George N. Eldredge, of Texas, for the Southern Golf association championship in the tournament that opened last Tuesday morning with more than one hundred participants. Neither of today's principals played their consistent game, both starting out this morning apparently nervous and undecided. The intermittant rains of the day, following a heavy downpour last night, made the course heavy.

Whitney played Aldredge in the morning round of 18 holes, the count being 3 up when play was suspended. This afternoon both men, at times, played really sensational golf, Aldredge at times leading his steadier opponent, but the handicap carried over from the morning was too much for him to overcome, the nearest being when he brought the match down to 2 up on the twelfth hole, but he was forced to go to the fifteenth, the count then being 4 up and 3 to play. Aldredge proved himself a good loser, and was the first to congratulate the new champion.

Tonight proved to be one of the most exciting and interesting of hte tournament at the club house, where Governor O'Neal announced the winners as follows:

Consolation Events, First to Sixth Inclusive—C. H. Munker, Dallas; M. Condon, Memphis; O. Kirkland, Montgomery; C. A. Petrie, Montgomery; Ed Crawford, Birmingham; W. A. Gunn, Macon.

Lowest Qualifying Score—Reuben Bush, New Orleans.

BROWN CAPTAIN WITH ATHLETICS

Big Field Day Is Planned For Piedmont Park July 4; Nine Events in the List

Through the efforts of Joe Bean, physical director of the Atlanta Athletic club, and the park board, a monster track and field meet is being planned for Piedmont park, the morning of July 4.

The park board has sanctioned the meet, and have granted permission for the use of the grounds, and will lend their support in other ways toward promoting the events.

Athletics in Atlanta have always been a sport that very little attention has been paid to, but in this meeting Mr. Bean hopes to arouse an interest that will result in an annual meet in Atlanta and eventually branch out as effectively as baseball and basketball has.

The entry list is now open, and will be open until July 1. All entries should be addressed to Joe Bean, care of the park department, in the city hall.

There will be nine events in all, with handsome prizes in each event, though further details in this connection will be announced at a later date.

Here is the schedule of events:

Quarter-mile run.
Half-mile run.
Running broad jump
Running high jump.
Pole vault.
Sixteen-pound hammer.
Sixteen-pound shot.
Steeplechase.

This last event will be very interesting. It will start at the corner of Jackson and Tenth streets, down the long hill, with a swim across the lake and winding up on the track.

ON ROAD TRIP

Crackers Battle On Hostile Soil For Whole Week

Play Barons in Slagville and the Lookouts in Mountain City—Team Then Returns Home.

Billy Smith and his crippled Crackers will take a road jaunt of a week, playing in Birmingham and Chattanooga before the return to their home lot again.

The team pulls out of here tonight for Slagville, where they tackle Moler's rejuvenated Barons in a three-game series, starting Monday.

To date, the Crackers have all the edge on the Barons, having won six of the eight contests that the two teams have played. In the games with the Barons, the Crackers played real baseball and this is why they won.

Conzelman to Debut.

Joe Conzelman, the new right-hander of the locals, will probably make his debut in the series with the Slagville artists, and local fans are pulling for him to come across with a victory.

Just when Harry Chapman will be able to get back into harness is not known, and the catching assignment will probably fall on the massive shoulders of Joe Dunn for the entire trip.

Conzelman, Brady and Musser will probably be the taree hurlers that Manager Smith will use against the Barons, and if they pitch the ball of which they are capable, there is going to be some large results from a winning standpoint.

As the Crackers have the Barons on the run to date, they are going to endeavor to keep them there, making hay while the sun shines, as it were.

Flag-Raising Day.

Monday will be flag-raising day at Rickwood field. The Barons awarded this choice date to the Crackers, and they are going to endeavor to show the Gate City what a big crowd is, by turning out en masse for the pastime that afternoon.

The pennant won by the Barons in 1912 will be flung to the breeses with the usual ceremonies, speech-making, etc., and then the game will be on.

The Barons are going to endeavor to set up a week-day attendance record to show the Crackers that they can beat them in attendance.

To prove that their contention is not sound, the Crackers have offered the Barons a choice date here when President Kavanagh will present to the locals the cup won by having the largest paid attendance on the opening game of the season.

Chattanooga Next.

The rivalry between the two cities is always immense, and with two such attractions as these, they are going to endeavor to break all attendance records in their endeavor to surpass one another.

From Birmingham the Crackers travel on to Chattanooga for a three-game series with Elberfeld's crew, and then it is back to the home lot again.

On the home grounds, Nashville and Birmingham will be played during the entire week following and then the locals take a flying trip around around the circuit, a trip that should prove more successful than the one just concluded.

MOTOR BOATS OFF ON BERMUDA RACE

Philadelphia, Pa., June 7.—With a rousing send-off from river craft and thousands of spectators, the little motor boats Dream, Barbara, II, and Tocsam crossed the starting line here at 1:30 p. m. for their race to Bermuda.

The distance is 784 nautical miles, and the course is down the Delaware river and bay. When the Delaware capes are left behind, the boats will set their course for the southeast and fight wind and wave to St. David's Head, Bermuda.

The Barbara, II, is a scratch boat, The Dream, which won the race last year from the Kathemma, has a time allowance of 16 hours 18 minutes and 26 seconds, and the Tocsam is conceded 13 hours 6 minutes and 36 seconds.

The boats are fully equipped for any kind of heavy weather, and it is expected that the winner of the race will reach Bermuda before sundown Tuesday.

Reedy Island, Del., June 7.—The motor boat Barbara, II, passed Reedy Island, 40 miles from Philadelphia, at 5:33 p. m. The Tocsam passed down at 5:59 p. m., and the Dream at 6:13 p. m.

Illinois Wins.

Randall Field, Madison, Wis., June 7. The University of Illinois won the 13th annual conference track meet at Randall field this afternoon with 47 1-2 points.

Wisconsin was second with 23¼ points and Missouri with 14½, third.

Two conference records were broken, Gold, of Wisconsin, setting a new mark of 12 feet 8¼ inches in the pole vault and Shattuck, of California, throwing the hammer 160 feet and 4 inches. Shattuck's throw was within 1 foot of the eastern intercollegiate record.

LOCAL TAXATION AID TO LITERACY

State Superintendent M. L. Brittain Pleads for County Unit System of School Support.

A striking and almost startling parallel between illiteracy and the percentage of school funds appropriated by state legislatures, as compared with that raised by local taxation, has been discovered by Prof. M. L. Brittain, state superintendent of schools, as the result of investigations made in the preparation of his annual report, which is soon to be submitted to the governor. Here are some of the facts which Professor Brittain brings out which will be of special public interest in view of the approaching meeting of the general assembly and the discussing out by it of educational problems.

Alabama, of all the states, appropriates the greatest percentage of it school funds directly from the state treasury, namely, 76 per cent. Only 24 per cent of the money spent for public education in that state is raised by local taxation. Alabama stands lowest in literacy and general educational rank among the forty-eight states.

Florida High in Literacy.

Florida, on the other hand, appropriates only 16.7 per cent of its money spent on schools directly from the treasury, while 88.3 per cent is raised by local taxation. Florida thus ranks Alabama in its percentage of literacy, and in fact, stands above all its sister south Atlantic and gulf states, from North Carolina to Texas inclusive.

Next to Alabam in the high percentage of funds appropriated by the state and the low percentage raised by local taxation is Georgia, with 70.4 per cent, paid directly from the state exchequer and 29.6 per cent raised locally. Now the average attendance of the child of school age per year in Georgia is 62 days. Ten states only have a lower average in this respect. This is notwithstanding the fact that Georgia appropriates actually direct from the state treasury for the support of schools more money than any other state in the union.

The states of the north which stand highest as regards literary raise almost the entire amount of their school money locally. First in this regard is Massachusetts with 96.8 per cent of the money spent for education raised by local taxes. Others in the order of their rank are Kansas, 92.8 per cent; Rhode Island, 99.9 per cent; New Hampshire, 88.2 per cent; North Carolina, 88 per cent; Montana, 87.9 per cent; New York, 87 per cent.

Pay Teachers' Salaries Promptly.

As Professor Britain sees it, the greatest need in Georgia now so far as schools are concerned, next to the prompt payment of teachers' salaries, is the encouragement of local co-operation and aid. Unless the people of a community are sufficiently interested in its welfare to tax themselves for the support of its schools, he does not see much hope for that community in an educational way. He attributes Florida's success in stimulating an interest in public education in that state and in lowering the percentage of illiteracy to the fact that Florida requires each community to lay upon itself a local tax of at least three mills before it can secure anything from the state treasury. In this connection Professor Britain says:

"Comparisons may be sometimes odious, but it seems inexcusable that Florida should succeed as doing so much more in this matter than Georgia. The only difference that explains this is the fact that Florida has written in her laws that each county shall levy a school tax of not less than nor more than seven mills before securing its state school funds. In other words, our school legislation, enforced, is good, but this [illegible] Florida [illegible] of an [illegible] Georgia [illegible] Florida [illegible] commonwealth [illegible] state [illegible] Alabama [illegible] stalled [illegible] of all.

Solution an Easy One.

As Professor Britain, however, it is natural that this should be so. It is simply that what we [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] itself. "Where we have local initiative and support, we always have a far greater interest in the school, more diligent study on the part of pupils, and truancy is reduced to a minimum. In those districts a much larger proportion of the children are in school, and the average [illegible] is much higher. When the people contribute a dollar through local taxation to the schools, he is careful to see that there is no waste and that the whole dollar's benefit of that investment. It is of no means so [illegible].

"The [illegible] would seem to be unavoidable. Perhaps the state [illegible] does not so much need greater appropriation from the state treasury as local co-operation and aid. The fact that a great state appropriation is a favorite grandstand play with the demagogue does not make the truth any the less plain to the thinker. Prompt payment to the teachers and every possible encouragement towards local support and interest stand right above all the other educational needs in Georgia. It is easier and much more popular to pose as the champion of the child by lend insistence upon greater appropriation from the state treasury—even if this forces us to keep behind a year or two in payment—but the real statesman in Georgia is worth all of our political time-servers—is he who will secure prompt and business-like payment of our school funds and promote local initiative and support."

Will Help the Teachers.

It will be seen from the above that the state superintendent holds that the extension of the principle of local support besides being of untold advantage to the pupils, will also mean a great deal to teachers. Where the money for their salaries is raised locally, they can expect to be paid more promptly, and in many instances the services of better teachers can be secured.

Much has been said of late in Georgia about the advantages and disadvantages of the county unit system in politics. New Superintendent Brittain is an ardent advocate of the county unit system as applied to schools. By this means, he hopes to bring about the equalization in grade between country and city schools and thereby to check the much deplored trend of population from the country to the cities. Here is what he has to say on the subject:

"A defect in our Georgia schools not always clearly apprehended but serious in its results has been the demarcation increasingly established between urban and rural schools. Impatient because of the difficulty in per-

Emory Boys Threaten to Use Dictagraph on Trustee Meeting

By O. Q. Melton.

Emory College, Oxford, Ga., June 7. (Special.)—When the board of trustees of Emory met Tuesday morning to discuss inter-collegiate athletics they had best talk in a whisper. "Fuzzy" Williams, general publicity agent of the student committee working for inter-collegiate sports, has issued the statement that the entire meeting is to be aired to the public. As an aid to this he has decided that in all probability he will immediately install in the meeting room a dictagraph.

Cranston Williams, Cranston is the name his parents gave him, has been a great aid in the fight for inter-collegiate athletics. He has handled the publicity end of the game to perfection. He is a son of Jim Williams, the editor of The Greensboro Record-Herald, and perhaps he inherits his ability to aid a candidate or scheme from that source.

In spite of the fact that Williams is but a sophomore in college he has made an enviable record. His claim to glory lies in the fact that he is considered the general live wire of the student body. Fuzzy knows what happens long before the scheduled time.

During the summer months he will manage The Greensboro Record-Herald while his father takes a vacation. He was an associate editor of The Emory Weekly during the past season and has been elected managing editor for the next year. He served as general wheel horse when the Emory journalism class edited The Atlanta Constitution.

Williams is a member of the sophomore class, the Sigma Nu fraternity, is 18 years old, is considered extremely handsome by the ladies, and a jolly good sport by the faculty and student body.

suation and clearly apprehending the truth that to secure good schools impartial taxation must take the place of uncertain subscriptions and sometimes from seasons still less patriotic in their nature, our cities have surrounded themselves with impregnable walls through charter and local system. The rural situation is rendered still more difficult because it has been left with the least valuable part of the property upon which to raise school revenue.

The natural result has taken place. Thousands of people have left homes of comfort and moved to the city. Diminished labor and the deserted farm have increased the cost of living until the city man finds that he has hurt himself as well as his rural brother by the educational separation. No division of city and county should ever have occurred. We should have made the county the unit in every instance as it has been done in Bibb, Chatham, Glynn and Richmond.

"Following the example of many of the larger towns and cities, some of the country districts have availed themselves of the McMichael law, fenced off the richest McMichael law, fenced off the richest portion of the county they could secure, and voted additional school funds by taxation. This once attained, they have stood as an impregnable bar in the pathway of educational advancement for the rest of the county. I favor legislation that will lead toward education of all of our people by the county unit plan, instead of encouraging the chance that will result from a thousand little independent districts and another thousand condemned to hopeless educational poverty and inefficiency."

Great Increase Shown.

What has been attained in the direction of the county unit system of education during Superintendent Brittain's incumbency of office may be seen in the fact that, while six years ago only four counties had county-wide local taxation, now twenty-nine counties have adopted the plan. They are:

Ben Hill, Bibb, Burke, Camden, Chatham, Coffee, Columbia, Crisp, Echols, Emanuel, Fulton, Glynn, Hancock, Irwin, Jenkins, Jones, McIntosh, Monroe, Montgomery, Morgan, Newton, Quitman, Randolph, Richmond, Screven, Spalding, Terrell, Tift and Wayne.

The foregoing and many other interesting facts regarding the educational status of the state will be embodied in Superintendent Brittain's annual report, which is now in the hands of the printer, and which will probably reach the governor some time this week.

This Will Be Schumann Day At the Auditorium Armory

Atlanta music lovers will celebrate this afternoon at the auditorium free concert the anniversary of the birth of the famous composer, Robert Schumann, whose "Traumerei" has made his name a beloved household word all over the world. The concert by the city organist, Percy J. Starnes, under the auspices of the Atlanta Music Festival association will be devoted entirely to works of this great composer.

Robert Alexander Schumann was born June 8, 1810, at Zwickau, in Saxony. He was the youngest son of Friedrich August Gottlez Schumann (born 1773), a bookseller, whose father was a clergyman in Saxony. His father took a lively interest in Belles Lettres, and was himself known as an author. He promoted his son's leanings toward art in every possible way, with which, however, his mother seems to have had no sympathy. In the small provincial town where Schumann spent the first eighteen years of his life, there was no musician capable of helping him beyond the mere rudiments of his art. There was a talented town-musician, who, for several decades, was the best trumpeter in the district, but as was commonly the case, he practiced his art simply as a trade. The organist of the Marienkirche, J. G. Kuntzsch, Schumann's first pianoforte teacher, after a few years declared that his pupil was able to harness alone, and that his instructions might cease. He was so impressed with the boy's talent that when Schumann subsequently resolved to devote himself to art, Kuntzsch prophesied that he would attain to fame and immortality, and that in him the world would possess one of its greatest musicians.

The program for this afternoon is as follows:

1 Jagdlied, (Hunting Song). Op. 82 Schlummerlied, (lullaby). Op. 124

2 Evening music. Op. 99. Allegretto scherzoso, Op. 99.

3. Schlaf' unu, und ruhe," (Paradise and the Peri). "Mourning." "Traumerei."

4 Etudes Symphoniques (Finale). Op. 13.

The hour for the concert has been changed from 3:30 to 4 o'clock.

Next Sunday the Atlanta festival chorus will assist in the concert, their last appearance prior to their disbandment for the summer.

Renewed Activity Is Ahead For Y. W. C. A. of Atlanta

That the Young Women's Christian Association of Atlanta is on the eve of beginning a new and increased activity, which will carry it forward to greater usefulness and service in the community than ever before, is the declaration made by Mrs. Harry Dewar in an interview granted The Constitution. Mrs. Dewar is a member of the Y. W. C. A. board and is one of the most active workers in the organization.

"Forward! Let us focus the blurred ideals!" says Mrs. Dewar, in speaking of the temporary lull in the work that has seemed apparent as a result of the giving up of the Y. W. C. A. quarters on the Peachtree viaduct.

"There seems to be a general misunderstanding in Atlanta concerning the removal of the headquarters of the Young Women's Christian association from the Empire-Fletcher building. Many intimations have come to us that we are supposed to have resigned the call and claims of our association with the giving up of the old rooms. This, of course, is decidedly not the case.

Hope to Build Eventually.

"All the friends of our work have long known the necessity of new quarters, but that primitive hope of the near realization of building, instead of renting, kept us gilled to our base on the viaduct.

"Finally forced by the surrounding, the psychic moment for moving came suddenly and found us unprovided until Major Guinn and Jim associated most kindly offered us temporary quarters in the Wesley Memorial building.

"In this building we have pleasant rooms on the fourth floor for meetings, also the use of gymnasium and kitchen and assembly room. Our brief stay here has enabled this committee to take sufficient time to get a decent, safe, wholesome place to carry on the work desired and needed by the business girls of Atlanta for their profit and pleasure.

Central Rooms Open Soon.

"Almost immediately we shall open large central rest rooms and carry on our work with renewed vigor.

"The prospects of the association were never brighter. There is a new and vital feeling of co-operation, of the necessity of prayer with work, 'forward' watchword of all clubs as well as religious work.

"Our assets are alive, and working. Can it be that it is a fact that in Atlanta is a part of the national organization, one of the greatest forces in the world for the conservation of young self-supporting womanhood.

"Our boarding home, or as we wish to call it in future, our association residence, has, for a long time, been more than self-supporting, though miserably inadequate for the demands and needs of the lonely business women and girls of Atlanta. We daily are obliged to refuse accommodations to many applicants for shelter and safe companionship.

New Home for Women Needed.

"The property on which the boarding home is located at 19 W. Baker street, has almost trebled in value in the last few years.

"We could at once, if a building fund were available, erect a home on this lot that would be a pride and ornament to Atlanta and one that would fill a great need in the city's life. The Y. W. C. A. board want the people of Atlanta to interest themselves in this home and to come and see the great work being done.

"The gymnasium with its 150 members last year more than paid for itself—another live asset.

"The cafeteria had the same experience, and under able management has money to its credit.

"We are to have the expert advice and work of a trained national field secretary at once. She will study every department of possible usefulness for us. We are maintaining classes for training inexperienced girls and women in salesmanship. Then there is household economics—a fine thing under a 'scaresome' name.

"There are classes in millinery, sewing and a dozen other admirable things that we only can successfully undertake.

What Atlanta's Co-operation.

"The council of women of the Y. W. C. A. appeal for prayers and co-operation so that they may render more noble service for providing clean, pleasant living conditions for those who work and are away from home, for sociability and democracy, to give wholesome food at possible prices, to provide pure, sweet, decent, happy recreation at times and places that make and give opportunity for the normal and intimate association of men and girls together, sufficient to promote the happy marriage that every true woman, even if she be 90 years old, loves to help on.

"The Y. W. C. A. will do the greatest work of these days since that Atlanta has ever seen if it is thus recognized and helped.

About the Woman's Edition.

It is interesting to note that the expressions commending the Woman's Edition are coming from men and women representing business professional and social life.

Tallulah Power Plant to Operate by August; Giant Dam and Tunnel Are Already Built

Suspense as to Fate of Construction Work at Tallulah Falls Dispelled by Verdict in Land Suit at Clayton.

By J. Walter LeCraw.

Tallulah, Falls, June 7.—(Special.)—Work on the $5,000,000 electric power plant being constructed here has bounded forward with renewed impetus this week. With the verdict won by the power company in the state's land silt hearing in Clayton, a cloud of uncertainty has been removed. Suspense as to the fate of Tallulah has been dispelled. There is now not the slightest doubt but that the work will be pushed forward to an early completion, and the engineers declare in fact that it will be ready for operation by August.

Two of the three great divisions of the construction work—the dam and the tunnel—stand now complete. The third, which is the power house, is the center of increased activity. Hundreds of men are working day and night to bring it to the point where at least one of its five enormous generators, each of which will make 17,000 horsepower of electricity, can be put in operation. As soon as the work reaches this point the sluice gates in the dam will be closed, and waters of the mad Tallulah will be banked up over a hundred feet above the river bed and turned into the long and tortuous tunnel and then sent catapulting down through the generators in the power house. Thus will the energy of nature stand harnessed and ready to grind the mills and run the wheels of Georgia.

Tallulah In the Limelight.

As the date approached for the hearing of the famous land suit last week in Clayton, speculation as to the outcome of the case spread all over the country. Tallulah Falls and the construction work going on came into the limelight more than ever before. Thousands of people, not only in Georgia, but in other states, turned to watch the hearing of the case in Rabun county.

"What will become of the millions already put into the power plant if the state wins the suit?" was the question uppermost in the minds of hundreds.

Although the power company attorneys and officials declared they were absolutely satisfied with their case, and that there was no doubt about the future of the plant, there were other people who actually—seriously—talked about the state tearing down the works when the land was proven to be the state's property.

They even went so far as to suggest that a battering ram could be brought unto use to batter down the dam, which has been constructed across the Tallulah gorge. A battering ram! As if that great stone and concrete structure, wedged between two solid mountain sides and built to withstand the assaults of the turbulent swollen Tallulah, could be shattered by a battering ram!

A Glimpse Over the Works.

One glimpse at the portions of the enormous undertaking already completed will convince anyone of the fact that for many ages the works will stand the assaults of time. In the upper right hand corner of the group of pictures on this page is seen the big dam, made of stone and concrete, and reinforced with iron, stretching across the Tallulah gorge. The photograph was taken over 300 yards away, at the top of the bluff where the railroad track passes, and it reveals the immensity of the structure.

The bottom sluice gates have already been closed, and the water has risen to the level of the second gates, forming a minature lake which is seen in the picture. Flowing through these two gates at present, the Tallulah makes a beautiful water fall as it tumbles out on the other side of the dam, and thence goes turbulently on its way over the natural falls.

When the sluice gates are closed in August, the water will rise to the level of the opening, seen at the top of the dam, just beneath the road way that crosses now at the very top. The road is the regular public highway between Tallulah Falls and Clayton and other points farther up the road, and it will be one of the most interesting bits of travel in the country when it is finished.

Riding Across the Dam.

Over this roadway the countrymen ride to town in their ox-carts or prairie wagons, and it seems a paradox of time thus to see twentieth-century science meeting the humble travel of the country side.

Crossing this big dam after the water is turned into the tunnel, travelers will see on one side an immense lake, coming almost up to the roadway, and on the other side a deep and rocky gorge. It is declared that except in the dry weather there will be water flowing over the dam directly under the roadway, tumbling down a hundred feet to the river bed.

In the — season there will be a full flow of water, and as people pass over the roadway a roar of the rushing waters will be heard beneath them. This will be, indeed, the most interesting spot of all Tallulah from a scienic standpoint. At the right of this picture is the opening of the tunnel, showing where the rock has been brought out and dumped into the river bed. All this will be hidden, however, by the closing of the dam.

A Journey Through the Tunnel.

In the lower left hand corner is a graphic picture of the tunnel. After two years of work, cutting through the solid rock, it is now practically complete. It is fourteen feet high and, almost as wide, and covered with concrete through its entire length. The picture was taken by flashlight, near the upper entrance of the tunnel, and the reflecting light reveals vividly a curve.

There are a dozen or more of these curves through the mile, and a third that the tunnel winds through the mountain.

Inside it is cold and usually dark, for work has practically stopped now, except at the lower end. To journey through it is like passing through a long mysterious vault, such as those described in the castles of the middle ages. Within two months, however, it will be closed to man. The water will rise to the very roof of the tunnel at all times. It will not fill it only half full or three-quarters full, according to the amount of water being used at the power house. The tunnel will be, in fact, a siphon, leading from the top of the lake at the dam to the bottom of the reservoir, 600 feet above the power house, known as the forebay. The water will rise eighty feet or more above the mouth of the tunnel at the forebay, filling the reservoir, and thus the tunnel will be filled with water all the time.

A 600-Foot Drop.

In five great iron tubes the water will drop from this reservoir a distance of 600 feet into the power house. A tremendous power will thus be available. The power house itself, of steel and brick, is to be one of the largest in the south.

It is shown in the picture with the framework practically finished. Standing thus beside the Tallulah river at the very lowest point of the gorge, it is in just the position to receive the combined energy of the whole river.

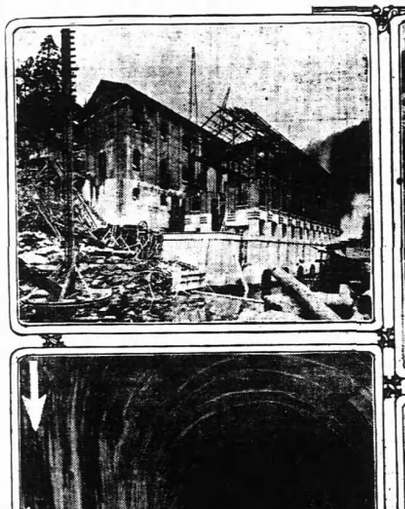
The powere house is composed of two structures—the upper one, already finished, having the switch boards, transformers, etc., and the lower one, just beside the water, containing the five electric generators. Almost all the material for the power house has had to be brought to Tallulah by railroad and carried down to the river bed on an incline railway. This is the center of work at present, and from 200 to 300 men are busy every day upon the different phases of the construction work.

While it is declared that at least one unit of the power plant will be operated by August, which would create 17,000 horse power of electricity, the entire plant of five units, or 85,000 horse power, will not be operated probably until September. By this time the power will be brought into Atlanta and furnished to the mills and factories of the state capital. The first electricity furnished will probably be to South Carolina, a contract with the Southern Power company of that state calling for service by September 1.

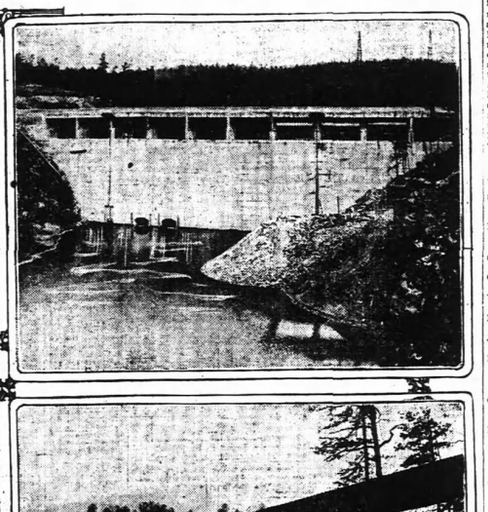
Preston S. Arkwright, the president of the power company, who was in Clayton during the entire hearing, declares that the verdict in favor of the company in the land dispute will have its principal effect in strengthening the financial basis of the undertaking. The rating of the stocks and bonds of the company, which are by this time scattered over the entire United States, will be stimulated by the removal of the suit which had been hanging over the company's head for many months.

While the case has been appealed on motion for a new trial, there is little interest in the hearing, and it is generally believed that the verdict of Rabun county citizens will be the verdict that will stand.

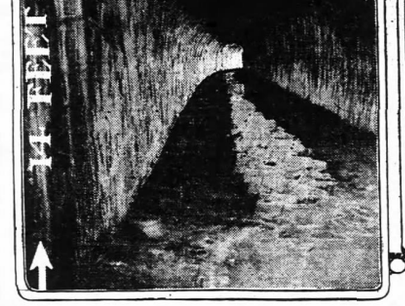
The motion is to be heard on June 28 by Judge J. B. Jones, at Gainesville, and on his refusal to grant a new trial the case will pass before the supreme court of Georgia for final decision. But this will not be reached until October, and long before that time the gigantic power plant will be actually in operation, the Tallulah river will be harnessed and its energy will be sparkling over the wires to every corner of Georgia.



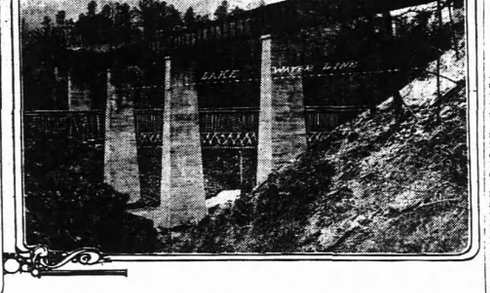
A remarkable photograph taken by flashlight inside the tunnel, showing the completed concrete walls and the entrance to the tunnel just beyond a curve that stands out in the distance.



The completed Tallulah dam, viewed from the side where the lake will be formed. This great structure, across which wends the public roadway, is 125 feet high, and will turn the river from its bed into the tunnel.



The Power House, where over 200 men are now working daily, while the dam and tunnel are ready and waiting for the completion of this work to start the operation of the power plant.



This new concrete and iron railroad trestle had to be built by the power company and presented to the railroad, because the old bridge, seen also in the picture, will be completely submerged in the deep lake that will be formed when the dam is closed and the plant is set in operation next August.

A Ruskin Parody of Shelley.

The London Chronicle:

In the Royal Academy exhibition of water-colors by Mr. Ruskin, there is one by Ruskin, depicting a storm-cloud which seems to be "driving rain" and then he proceeds to give directions as to how it could be done.

"It was a little frowsy cloud,
Its smoke and soot were dun,
Two pounds of sugar—flushed and shy—
And a little pinkness run in here and there,
Mix with a large oil pie
And a spoonful of shaken flour,
Sharpen with cayenne—and there, voilà—
What a storm enough indeed, behold, was there!"

And the critic recited as she pulled a wisp
Of hair from her mouth and spoke it:
"Pathetic fallacy!"

But this was a passing phrase of Ruskin's.

Charleston, S. C., June 7.—Charleston and Jacksonville divided today's double-header, the locals taking the first game, 1 to 0, and losing the second, 2 to 0. As Umpire Barr is seriously ill with heart trouble at a local hotel, players from the two teams were used. A crowd of 2,000 saw the twin bill.

O'Brien, who pitched the opening contest, held the champions to one hit—a single to Maurer in the third. Kipp's hit, followed by Winston's sacrifice, with Menefee's double, gave the Gulls the only run of the game.

In the second contest, Foster and Greyer engaged in a pitchers' battle, the latter winning out. Cueto's single in the second enabled him to reach first, from where he scored on Smith's double. The second tally was made in the ninth. Melchoir drew a base on balls, stole second and went to third on Hoffman's single, from where he scored on Cueto's sacrifice fly.

Flynn Breaks His Hand; Savage Bout Called Off

Jim Flynn has wired the management of the Auditorium-Armory boxing contests scheduled for Friday night that he has broken his hand and will be unable to fill his engagement to box Jim Savage here on that night.

Jack Curley, manager of Jim Flynn, wanted to substitute Frank Moran, the Pittsburg heavyweight for Flynn, but the local promoters did not want to take a chance, so they called the bout off.

Moran might have made a good fight, but in the event it was a frost the fans would have had a comeback which the Auditorium promoters did not relish any.

South Georgia Conference Will Hold Sessions From June 16 to 19.

Eastman, June 7.—(Special.)—Eastman is making great preparations to entertain the South Georgia Epworth league conference which meets in this city from June 16 to 19.

At a recent meeting of the cabinet various committees were appointed to look after different phases of the conference.

K. M. Miller, who was elected local secretary, has sent out several hundred letters to the various pastors and leagues of South Georgia, urging them to elect delegates to the league convention, and he is daily receiving assurance that a splendid delegation will come.

Professor C. C. Pittman, principal of the Eastman high school, has been selected by the local cabinet to deliver the words of welcome on the morning on the 16th.

Several missionaries will be present. Rev. Arthur Moore will conduct the sunrise prayer meetings. Rev. George W. Matthews, quiet hour services each day. Rev. James W. Hitch will reach Waycross from Korea on June 10, and will come to Eastman with the newest message from Korea.

CALLS SULZER'S NAMING OF MITCHELL ILLEGAL

Albany, N. Y., June 7.—Supreme Court Justice Chester today upheld the contention of Attorney General Carmody that Governor Sulzer was without legal authority in appointing John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers of America, as state labor commissioner. The question now goes to the higher state courts.

The effect of Justice Chester's decision is also to uphold the conclusion of the attorney general that the governor may not appoint several other state officers without the consent of legislature.

MISS LAMOTTEE TO JOIN ENGLISH MILITANTS

Baltimore, Md., June 7.—Miss Ellen Lamottee, chief of the Baltimore city tuberculosis nurses, has obtained an extended leave of absence from the health department and expects to sail soon for London, where she will join the militant suffragettes.

Miss Lamottee, an ardent equal suffrage worker, said today that she had always been a decidedly militant suffragette, and she considered the work in England nothing short of magnificent. She said she was anxious to get into the thick of the fight and see for herself just what the Pankhurst apathetic English women are doing.

Pupils Present Greek Play.

Columbus, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—The closing exercises of the Columbus high school this year were unusually interesting by reason of the fact that the high school boys and girls presented a Greek play, "Dido, the Phoenician Queen." The exercises were held at Springer Opera house, and were largely attended. Diplomas were delivered by Hon. H. R. Goetchius, president of the school board.

HAIL STORM RUINS COTTON FIELDS AND CAUSES REPLANTING

Griffin, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—For the second time this week Spalding county has been visited by a severe hail storm. The first came last Monday, devastating the cotton crop over about 5,000 acres of land, and forcing the farmers to replant at this late day. Last night another hail storm came to the county in a different section, and wrought vast damage. Where cotton had been chopped the entire crop was destroyed; but a few plants here and there are left standing where no chopping had been done. However, the entire area will have to be replanted. As a consequence of the storms seed for planting are very high in price and scarce.

W. P. Blanton, the leading farmer in Spalding county, says for fifty years he has been farming here, and never in his experience has he known conditions to be so unfavorable. His custom always has been to gin some cotton in August and a great deal in September. This year, he says, he will gin no cotton in August, and very little in September.

HOUSER ON COMMITTEE OF TRADE SECRETARIES

Charleston, S. C., June 7.—A session of agricultural development by A. V. Snell, of Charleston, featured the morning proceedings of the Southern Commercial Secretaries' association convention here. The annual business meeting takes place at noon to elect officers and select the next place of meeting, Baltimore and Vicksburg being keen rivals for the honor in 1912.

After luncheon the visitors enjoyed an automobile ride to the navy yard and a harbor trip, concluding in time to catch the 4 o'clock train for Baltimore, over the Atlantic Coast Line to attend the national convention of Ad clubs. A large delegation of Charlestonians will accompany the secretaries to Baltimore. Bruce Kennedy, of Montgomery, Jeff Bailey, of Waycross, S. F. Sherman, of Goldsboro, N. C., and F. H. Andrews, of Vicksburg, were among the morning speakers.

Officers elected as follows:

Bruce Kennedy, of Montgomery, president; A. V. Snell, Charleston, secretary treasurer; executive committee: H. H. Richardson, Jacksonville; Adolph Boldt, Houston, Texas; John M. Tuther, Memphis. Vice presidents, W. C. Hall, Birmingham; W. N. Conoley, Live Oak, Fla.; Fred Houser, Atlanta; J. H. Warburton, Salisbury, N. C.; A. S. Johnstone, Greenville; L. M. Ward, Sherman, Texas; N. S. Herring, New Orleans; John N. Tuther, Memphis; A. P. Bouriand, Washington, D. C.; R. J. Beacham, Baltimore; F. H. Andrews, Vicksburg, Miss.; E. C. McCarty, Charlottesville, Va. Field secretary, A. W. McKeand, Charleston.

For Commission Government.

Columbus, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—At a meeting of citizens presided over by J. Albert Kirven, and at which R. W. Page acted as secretary, arrangements were made to organize a club in the interests of commission government for the city of Columbus. There has been a growing sentiment for some time in favor of commission government. A committee of which F. J. Dudley is chairman was appointed to arrange the preliminaries and call a mass meeting of the citizens at which the organization of the club can be completed.

TAFT VISITS CAPITOL AND LOSES HIMSELF

Finally Finds Speaker Clark and Declares He's Happiest Man in United States.

Washington, June 7.—Former President Taft made his first visit to the white house today since he left on March 4 to become a private citizen. Mr. Taft was the luncheon guest of the president and Mrs. Wilson, but before he sat down to the white house table again he made a brief visit to the executive offices and shook hands with all the old employees he knew.

Before his white house call Mr. Taft motored to the capitol and got lost.

He went to the house wing and looked for Speaker Clark in the chamber. The house was not in session and only empty benches greeted him. He strolled through the lobby and stepped confidently up to the door of Representative Underwood's private office to find it locked.

"I'm looking for Speaker Clark," said Mr. Taft.

"That's not his office," suggested a bystander, who pointed out the proper door.

"I'm looking for a gentleman named Champ Clark," said Mr. Taft as he entered.

Speaker Clark jumped from behind a newspaper and shouted:

"How are you?"

The former president and the speaker conferred for some time. Both are members of the Lincoln Memorial association, which will meet here next Monday.

"I am the happiest man in the United States," declared Mr. Taft as he left the speaker's office. Pointing to Mr. Clark he observed:

"The speaker hasn't changed any. I find."

"I haven't been on this side in more than four years," added Mr. Taft. "I used to come up and lobby as secretary of war."

Emory College, Oxford, Ga., June 7. (Special.)—Cranston G. Williams, of Greensboro, and Edward V. Walker, of Sparta, won the sophomore and freshman declaimers' medals last night. BLACK HAND LETTER SENT TO PRESIDENT

Italian, Now Under Arrest, Admits Making Demand for $5,000 From Wilson.

Youngstown, Ohio, June 7.—Guiseppi Pomaro, 35 years old, was arrested here today on the charge of sending a black hand letter to President Wilson, demanding $5,000. It is said Pomaro admits his guilt, giving as a reason that he "just wanted the money."

The letter demanding the money was mailed on May 20, and was immediately turned over to the secret service department. Captain Washer arrived in Youngstown two days ago and found Pomaro at 105 North Watt street. It is said that Pomaro is one of a black hand band operating in this section.

The envelope was addressed:

"Mr. Wilson, President of the United States, Washington, D. C."

The letter read as follows:

"Mr. President: Send me $5.000 or it will be the worst for you.

(Signed) "GIUSEPPI POMARO.
"28 North Watt street."

Firemen Hold Barbecue.

Griffin, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—The anniversary meeting of the oldest Griffin fire company last night was an event of interest here. A splendid barbecue and supper was served, attended by the members of this oldest of fire companies and a few invited guests. An address on varied topics delivered by Hon. Frank (Pop) Flynt was the feature of the evening.

Another opportunity is to be offered Atlanta home lovers to share in the pleasure and prosperity of the city's most beautiful residence section—Ansley Park.

Twenty-five exceptionally desirable building lots have been opened in Ansley Park Annex. This subdivision has been prepared in the same thorough manner that has been characteristic of all the developments in Ansley Park.

Facing North Boulevard and overlooking the golf links, Ansley Park Annex offers the most attractive panorama of scenic beauty to be found in any section. A home here will place you in close proximity to an atmosphere of quiet comfort and center you in the very heart of suburban luxury.

No other section in the city of Atlanta has ever equaled the popularity of Ansley Park and the Annex will surely attract the same discriminating class as the Park has heretofore.

And aside from the satisfaction that comes from owning a home in this beautiful tract, there will be not one of the purchasers but who can, if he desires, realize a vast amount of profit upon his investment within a few years.

You already know the story of Ansley Park. You know we foretold years ago the great future of this section. How true has been our prediction is now known to every thinking person in this territory. Today, we tell you that Ansley Park Annex Lots will increase in the same proportion of value as did those in Ansley Park proper.

Nothing will ever stop the steady growth of Ansley Park and the Annex lying just adjoining will immediately begin to become more and more desirable and reap large benefits to those who are wise enough to take advantage of this opportunity.

Everyone remembers how quickly lots have been snapped up in Ansley Park every time they have been offered for sale. It will be just the same with the lots in the Annex. They won't last long. Twenty-five lots in Ansley Park never waited long for buyers.

The wise man will be on the ground early and join in the throng of bidders who realize that this sale means the chance of a lifetime.

The twenty-five lots will be sold at public auction within a short time. We are giving you an opportunity to think the matter over. Go out to the Annex today—look over these lots and give yourself the chance you have been looking for.

Watch for the announcement of the sale. It won't be long.

Will Tour Europe

MADAME VON SKIBONSKY,

A resident of Atlanta for a year, who sailed this week for a concert tour in Europe.

When a pianist of a temperament like Mme. Charlotte Von Skibinsky's, for a year a resident of Atlanta, is hacked up by the concert ability of this same artist, she throws off her shoulders the unromantic mantle of teacher of music as promptly as expediency will permit.

And so it is not surprising to learn that this perferold, aspiring young woman, who has not neglected her own art while she strived to imbue her pupils with some of its spirit, sails this week for her native Germany, and after a visit with her parents in Berlin, will again dare the critical centers of music to say what they think of how she plays the piano.

Her preparation for the musical career was done under the greatest teachers in Germany—Dr. Ernest Jedlicezka and Dr. Wolfram Isaac Burkhalter, of Rome, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Richard Gardner, this week.

In the parlor, where the ceremony was performed, was an improvised altar consisting of a white archway and gate, festooned with southern smilax. From the top of the archway was suspended the wedding bell. A color scheme of green and white prevailed.

Receiving at the door were Mrs. J. W. Rennett and Mrs. S. B. Parker. The bride's register was in charge of Miss Mataie Brewton. Receiving in the living room were Mrs. W. N. Jones and Mrs. W. P. Price.

A short musical program preceded the ceremony. First came Miss Eva Possibly the most graphic description that could be given of her concert ability lies in the statement that when she gave a concert in Atlanta the last winter, although she was a "local artist," her concert paid expenses! What more striking tribute could be paid her?

Music is most plainly her native heath, and she positively exudes the enthusiasm which in her work is translated into brilliant brilliance with the glow behind it of real warmth. And as the virtuoso she has not only skill, but what we may call the musical instinct, suggesting the endless ingenuity that makes much of the difference between the artist of achievement and the others.

Miss Norwood Key, daughter of Dr. Key, of Monroe, Ga., is a young musician of promise who will accompany Mme. Skibinsky to Germany, and will continue her studies under Mme. Skibinsky's direction.

Gardner-Burkhalter Wedding Society Event of Waycross

Waycross, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—An usually pretty home wedding and one in which there is much interest was that of Miss Iva Gladys Gardner and Mr. William Isaac Burkhalter, of Rome, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Richard Gardner, this week.

In the parlor, where the ceremony was performed, was an improvised altar consisting of a white archway and gate, festooned with southern smilax. From the top of the archway was suspended the wedding bell. A color scheme of green and white prevailed.

Receiving at the door were Mrs. J. W. Rennett and Mrs. S. B. Parker. The bride's register was in charge of Miss Mataie Brewton. Receiving in the living room were Mrs. W. N. Jones and Mrs. W. P. Price.

A short musical program preceded the ceremony. First came Miss Eva Walker, with Mr. C. H. Gardner, followed by the maid of honor, Miss Gertrude Johnston, and Mr. G. W. Burkhalter, brother of the groom. Immediately preceding the bride and groom were the little flower girls, Misses Cecile Jones and Christine Fitzgerald. The ring ceremony was impressively performed by Rev. W. F. Price, of the First Baptist church.

The bride's gown was of white chiffon charmeuse, trimmed with lily of the valley point lace and seed pearls. With her veil caught with lilies of the valley, fell to the bottom of her train. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses showered with lilies of the valley. Miss Walker wore pink crepe meteor, and Miss Johnson Nile green crepe meteor, both carrying pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Burkhalter left on a night train for Atlanta, from which city they will visit northern points before going to their home in Rome.

SAVANNAH SOCIAL NEWS

Savannah, Ga., June 7.—(Special Correspondence.)—A series of important weddings made the week interesting socially here. The first was that of Miss Bessie Battey to Lieutenant Meade Wildrick, C. A. C., U. S. A., which took place Wednesday evening in Christ church, and was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Francis Chauncey Battey. Miss Battey is one of the most beautiful girls in the city, and has been greatly admired since her debut. This and her important family connections made the wedding one of the most notable of the year. It was preceded by a number of parties. Miss Dorothea Baldwin gave a luncheon for Miss Battey and the ten bridesmaids Monday afternoon, and Mrs. John L. Cabell, herself a bride of a few weeks, gave a tea the same afternoon for Miss Battey and Miss Laura Boyd. Miss Boyd's wedding took place this evening to Dr. Shallenberger, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Cabell was one of her attendants. Mrs. John Heard Hunter entertained with a shower luncheon Tuesday for Miss Battey, and over the table hung the wedding bell, made of white snap dragons and lillies of the valley, which was used thirty-five years ago at the wedding of the bride's mother. This bell was also used at the wedding reception. Tuesday evening Miss Carolyn Myers entertained the wedding party after the rehearsal, and Wednesday Miss Anna Stevens gave them a luncheon at the Yacht club. Miss Battey's maid of honor was her sister, Miss Aimee Battey, and Lieutenant Wildrick's best man was his brother, Lieutenant George Wildrick, U. S. A. The occasion was particularly pleasant, as it brought together for the first time the out-of-town bridesmaids and groomsmen who are here for the ceremony. IMPORTANCE OF FLAG DAY STRESSED BY STATE EDITOR

Too much emphasis cannot be placed upon a day that means so much to all Americans. Flag day is no memorial, no holiday, but a day set apart, emphasized, reminding us that we live beneath the folds of a flag that floats over the "land of the free and the home of the brave."

Flag day lifts us out of our narrow surroundings and makes us send forth a note of thanksgiving and praise for "home and country," and wherever the flag floats upon the breeze there we find protection of our rights, lives and liberty because we are American citizens.

How to Observe the Day.

While Flag day was instituted by the Daughters of the Revolution, like a good many other good things, they do not wish to appropriate it exclusively, but to pass it on from the chapters to the municipalities, and in many places the day will be generally observed.

The suggestion is given to any and all, if you have a new flag to raise, have it placed in position on Flag day. This can be done with little trouble and no other demonstration. In public libraries or at public schools it is a little thing, but nevertheless significant to place a flag and have the flag code where it can be seen. Somebody will see it for the first time, and will read and reflect. Some one may realize all it means to be an American citizen, and who can measure the influence of that life?

The following poem will be appropriate for chapter meetings or any Flag day exercises:

"To the Flag."

(By Laura Dow Chrichter.)

"O flag of our country, thou banner of freedom,
Thy stars and thy stripes in thy splendor display,
Beloved and revered by the patriots and fathers,
We bring thee fond greetings on thy natal day.

The nations have seen thee, and seeing, have marveled,
The enslaved and oppressed to thee pleadingly call:
Oh, wave forth thy message, for ages a-horning,
That under thy folds there is freedom for all.

For thee countless heroes and patriots have fallen,
And peaceful, long 'neath the sod have been laid;
For thee and thy glorious ideals of duty,
Thy daughters have waited and fervently prayed.

Our fathers beheld thee a rainbow of promise,
We reap the reward of their dream and endeavor;
And pulses shall quicken and thrill at thy story,
A starry-crowned banner, forever and ever.

We hail thee and greet thee with boundless devotion,
O flag of our country—each daughter and sire,
From far-away lands where thou greetest the morning,
To the westernmost point that thy flame have won.

Nor northland nor southland shall claim all the glory,
Beneath thy fair folds all are equally blessed,
And with right on our side and our God in the heaven,
Soon peace, like the dove, on thy standard shall rest.

We love every star in that cluster of beauty,
That great constellation upon thy blue field,
And to keep thy pure white and thy red bars of glory,
Our hearts the last drop of their life-blood would yield.

Float on, oh, thou flag! and all tyrants shall tremble,
Float on; and inspire us thro turmoil and strife,
As victory-crowned thro' the ages we go."

GEORGIA DAUGHTER WRITES OF CHATTANOOGA REUNION

The reunion of the Confederate Veterans is now a thing of the past; has taken its place in history, a beautiful sacred memory not only to the dear old men of the sixties, but to the Sons and Daughters of the Confederacy, whose presence was so in evidence, lending themselves, even giving themselves as a factor, whereby the mere honor and homage could be paid the men who did so much for the love of honor and country and native land, who did not mean, to rebel, but who meant simply to defend what is dearest to every true man—their own and the rights of those so dear and near to them—and as I saw them before me in Chattanooga, many lame, halting, with limb gone, and feeble from hard life endured for each one who is a part of our dear southland, my heart cried out in agony: 'Oh, that we might have had a man like Woodrow Wilson in the early days of darkness, who not only loved the great union, but each part, even the smallest part of the union, realizing that there are rights vested in each member, and would deal with prudence, justice and yet tact, in great questions so vital to each part of our great union—how much would have been averted." The Confederate Veterans' reunions have become great factors in our country; have become great home-comings for men and women all over our whole country.

The railroad facilities have made it possible for the great crowds to be carried easily and without inconvenience and discomfort, from place to place, but it seemed marvelous to think of the monstrous crowds being so wonderfully handled without an accident, so far as I could learn, during the whole time to and from the reunion.

A Royal Welcome.

Chattanooga did herself proud; her doors were wide open; a welcome for all, and honored guests were the veterans. So different from the dark days of the struggle between brothers of the north and south, when our soldiers—these same feeble men, then strong and stalwart, in the prime of young manhood—standing on the threshold of manhood so dear to every true man's heart—had to fight for every step gained—fight when brothers and comrades were falling thick and fast on every side.

Oh, war! cruel war! that made this horrible state of affairs possible. But now, nearly fifty years have passed, and this struggle between our states becomes a thing of the past and, for the second time, our soldiers met in Chattanooga for a general reunion of their ranks. The first general Confederate Veterans' reunion after the civil war was held more than twenty years ago, when Chattanooga was a small city, and when the veterans' number was much larger and their steps more stalwart, but time has brought many changes—the men are nearing the end of life's journey, their heads covered with the frost of the winter of life, which has already come to them, and with these changes to them have come the marked change to the city of the great gathering.

We have grown with rapid strides, now with a population of more than 100,000, and still the city of great possibilities, with not only man-acquired beauty, but more natural beauty and historic value than any city on our continent.

You can still see from every point the majestic Lookout mountain standing so silently as if she never witnessed a fearful struggle between brothers. You still see Bragg's headquarters, Snodgrass hill, Rossville gap and Chickamauga, but all the evidences of a bloody struggle are gone.

General Bragg, General Longstreet, General Thomas, General Stuart and the brilliant General Forest live only in the hearts' memory of those who were present at the reunion, and the evidences of war at Chickamauga are only marked by the beautiful stately monuments which mark the scenes of the conflict.

Beautiful Georgia Monument.

Among these monuments one of the stateliest and most beautiful is our own Georgia monument.

Every evidence of conflict was gone; only the beautifully decorated city and a warm welcome awaited all who came.

Jackson park, near the National cemetery, was converted into army headquarters, and was thickly dotted with army cots, furnished by the United States army headquarters. At one end of the park an immense tent was stretched, filled with long, narrow tables and benches, and here all who came were fed with wholesome, appetizing food.

The menu for the first day was: Roast beef, potatoes, peas, bread, butter, coffee and pie. These tents and the meals were absolutely free to all the veterans. The street car conductors were instructed to ride free all those who were not able to pay.

Opening Business Session.

Tuesday morning the opening business session of the reunion was held at the auditorium, and General Bennett Young, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, presided.

General Young is a magnificent man, and was the center of attraction wherever he went.

A beautiful reception was given the veterans at the Bennt Young pavilion Tuesday evening by the United Daughters of the Confederacy of the Alexander P. Stewart and Francis Walker chapters. There were more than 10,000 present.

Wednesday evening, in the Young pavilion, a reception was given to the veterans, and I enjoyed seeing the grand march and the Virginia reel danced.

To me the three parades were the most interesting events of the reunion. The sponsors' parade Tuesday morning was indeed a revel of beauty. More than 200 automobiles were in this parade.

Sons of Vets Parade.

Wednesday morning was the Sons of the Veterans' parade, and the most interesting feature was the splendid company parade of Sons of the Confederacy from Richmond, Va. Stalwart young manhood, the hope of our southland—these to take the place of our gallant defenders, who have such an honored place in our hearts' memory. Thursday was the day of days—the veterans' parade.

I cannot describe this to my readers. It began with General Young and his staff. How magnificently they rode—not on horses hired for priceless sums, but on horses furnished by our "Uncle Sam."

As this parade marched through, men wept—over its sacredness and pathos. The remnant of Forrest's men—our great general Forrest men—rode with pride and were wildly cheered.

There was a large number of men from Texas and Arkansas; North Carolina, South Carolina, Kentucky and Tennessee were well represented, as well as Virginia, West Virginia, Mississippi and Louisiana. Florida, the victorious state to win the 1914 reunion, was also represented, as were all our southern states.

Miss Rambo With Vets.

But when our Georgia troops marched forward and Camp Walker's banner was raised by the side of our foremost man walked the beautiful and state-loved Regina Rambo—beautiful in the costume of the long ago, before bobble skirts were known, wearing an old-fashion bonnet of gray straw, filled with pink roses.

The band just preceding her was playing, "Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet," and she was cheered as no other woman in the parade.

The reunion closed with that day's exercises, and our old soldiers went home to face life's battles, looking forward to another meeting in 1914 in Jacksonville, God willing, thank God, with a divine hope to the blessed reunion which will never end, and I ask God to grant that we all may get ready for the final roll call which means the beginning of a life victorious for evermore. God bless the old men in gray! Lest take good care of them.

Mr. Coles' Bill.

P. S.—Please, every D. A. R. chapter of U. D. C. in our state urge her representatives in the legislature from the county in which she lives to support the bill to be presented by our Bartow county representative, Mr. Emerid Cole, to increase the amount of the pension and to see that the soldiers get every penny promised, and that the ordinaries of our counties issue the check for the love the bravest men who ever lived, loved and died for a country.

A Message From Mrs. Story

By Mrs. William Cumming Story, President General, U. S. D. A. R.

A bond of common interest should unite the women who are giving so much of their time and thought to the work which is really becoming the life of organized American womanhood, and I am glad at this time to be able to reach by a message of greeting and good will the women who are so prominently associated with many lines of practical good and are making themselves, their associates and clubs factors for good in their different communities.

My interest is especially directed at this time to the women of the southern states in their important federations, where I know great progress is marking their line of work.

The Daughters of the American Revolution, in my estimation, have a special responsibility, in that they inherit from the early patriots the clear understanding of the obligations of good citizenship, and there is entailed to the Daughters of the American Revolution of today the duty to her community which her ancestors recognized in their devotion to their country.

The work of this society is steadily advancing, not only in the lines of sentiment as expressed in the erection of our magnificent Memorial Continental hall, a building of great beauty erected by the contributions of American women as a memorial to the patriots of this country—the protection of historic sites—the protection of priceless historic relics and many other lines of achievement which may perhaps, represent the poetic or sentimental phase of the society, but the advancement is also great in the practical and material results of the committees on Old Trails road, Memorial highway of Mount Vernon, Preservation of Historic Records, Patriotic Education, National University Conservation, Welfare of Women and Children, Conservation of the Home, International Peace Arbitration and many other lines of activity in which material good is achieved, both locally and in a broader field.

I hope that the local chapters will be so alive to the responsibility that is theirs that these groups of American women will be recognized as the natural source from which good is to be expected, and to whom our governors of states and our official leaders in different communities will naturally turn for intelligent and hearty cooperation when a movement for good is needed in any community. I feel very sure that our Daughters of the American Revolution, when so appealed to, will never be found wanting.

In my capacity as a worker in many organizations, I have reached the conviction that harmony is the hallmark of sincerity. I assuredly do believe that women who are truly and interestedly devoted to a great purpose will be too fully occupied with the work, too imbued with the high purpose to dissipate their strength and cripple their usefulness by petty differences and dissensions.

I, therefore, feel that the best service I can render to the organization I serve will be in using my best efforts toward the uniting of all into a body of harmonious co-workers, for to supplement the best results of the past we must have the loving spirit of co-operation in the heart.

Governor Peter Early Chapter

The Governor Peter A. Early chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Blakely, Ga., held its May meeting on Thursday afternoon at the hospitable home of the regent, Mrs. Walter Thomas.

The program consisted of several charmingly rendered duets by Misses Ella Powell and Evelyn DuBose.

The regular historical program was omitted and replaced by a full report of the twenty-second national congress in Washington, by the regent, who was in attendance. The chapter and other guests present gave her rounds of applause at its close, and the paper was enthusiastically received.

A historical contest was next conducted by Mrs. C. M. Boggs on "Revolutionary Causes." The best answered paper was handed in by Mrs. Carolyn Howell, of Atlanta, Ga., and she was presented a handsome souvenir, bought by the regent in continental hall.

The annual election was held later, resulting in the re-election of all present officers save one, that of Mrs. J. S. Kelly, who was unable to serve again, and Miss Butler was elected in her place as secretary.

A unanimous vote of re-election was given the regent, after which delicious ices and cakes were served.

Washington, June 7.—Installation of a telephone in the president's room at the capitol today stirred senators to a keener appreciation than they had hitherto possessed that they might expect President Wilson in their midst any moment of the day.

On the president's last visit to the capitol he got a key to his room so that he might come and go whenever he pleased without notice.

Uruguay Sanctions Treaty.

Montevideo, Uruguay, June 7.—The Uruguayan senate today gave its sanction to the conclusion of a treaty of arbitration between Uruguay and the United States.

The Birth of the Flag.

In response to the demand from many sources, the galleries, the national and state governments, and from schools, an enterprise of great magnitude has been planned, its purpose being to bring the best modern art to the service of American history. It is a matter of much more than ordinary significance that this historical art shall be true historically.

Among the paintings of this historical art which were exhibited in Memorial Continental hall during the congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution, April 13 to 20, 1912, was one, "The Birth of the Flag," by Henry Mosler.

The scene that Mr. Mosler had chosen for his painting is one of great significance and romantic interest—the first flag of our country being made by Betsy Ross in the little house which is still standing in Arch street, Philadelphia. It was ordered of Betsy Ross in May, 1777, by a committee of congress, consisting of George Washington, Robert Morris and Colonel Ross.

Mr. Mosler based his work on careful sketches made in the little Arch street house, and on thorough historical research. With its intelligent and realistic treatment the scene lives for us upon the canvas.

Four Women Seen.

A group of four beautiful women attired in the colonial dress are seen in this little room, industriously sewing upon the flag as they are seated on hassocks. One of the number is standing holding the side of the flag, thus displaying the blue field with a circle of thirteen white stars. Falling in graceful folds around the other three maidens as they are plying needle and thread, the alternate stripes of red and white are clearly seen.

The picture paints the home life in order to reveal the significant fact that the love of country, like the flag, has its birth in the home.

Lyman Hall Chapter

The Lyman Hall chapter, D. A. R. of Brunswick, met with Mrs. Daniel Lott at her home on Riverside Drive. The program for the afternoon consisted of readings of historical articles taken from an old magazine published in 1840. One article was an interesting account of the laying out of Savannah, and the other told of the finding and marking of the grave of Governor Rahun. The latter article was of especial interest to the members of the chapter, as Governor Rahun was an ancestor of Miss Ollie Beck, who is one of the members of the chapter.

"Landmarks, Memorials and Legends," written by Lucian Lamar Knight, was donated by the Lyman chapter to the Waycross High School library. The meeting of this chapter have also offered $5 to the pupil writing the best biographical sketch of Lyman Hall.

The matter of marking the old Indian trail from Waycross to the Okefenokee swamp was discussed but no action was taken by the chapter.

Mrs. R. A. Brown and Mrs. Richard W. Thiot, of Savannah, were the guests of the chapter for the afternoon.

ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN TO PEACE DELEGATES

London, June 7.—King George entertained the peace delegates of the Balkan states and of Turkey at luncheon at Buckingham palace today to celebrate the signing of the treaty of peace. Other guests included the Duke of Connaught, Premier Asquith, Foreign Secretary Sir Edward Grey and Viscount Morley of Blackburn, lord president of the council.

While peace is being celebrated in London the situation in the near east continues threatening. The report comes from Constantinople, but lacks official confirmation, that the European powers have decided to demand the demobilization of the Turkish and the Balkan armies in order to secure peace. It is believed that the initiative in this action was due in great measure to Russia.

Ty Cobb Writes His Final Story of Series For The Constitution, Discussing Exactly The Requirements of a Star Ball Player

By TY COBB.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the sixteenth and last of a series of weekly articles written exclusively for The Constitution by the world's greatest ball player.

(Copyright, 1913, by Ty Cobb Service.)

When a ball player starts to discuss—not constitutes—a star he is up against a hard proposition, isn't he? Every man in the game strives to get columns of space in the newspapers and make his name known to every man, woman, boy and girl in the world. Some succeed and are stars indeed. Others are stars, but their light is hidden under a bushel.

At the outset, let it be understood that I am not going to be personal in this article. I am just going to give my plain unvarnished opinion of a star of the diamond. If you can find one playing the game you may pick him. I'm not going to help you.

First of all, to be a star a ball player must be a winning player. That word WINNING covers a lot of ground in this connection. He must put his team and the game ahead of self as much as possible at all times.

Suppose a batsman comes up in a pitch with a man on third and one run needed to win. That batsman is batting .338, we'll say, and has been up two times officially that day without getting a hit. What is passing through his mind? Find out and you'll know whether he is a winning player or just an individual star.

Wants to Win Game.

If he's gritting his teeth and saying to himself, "I've simply got to hit the ball somewhere and bring that runner home so our club will win the game," he's a winning ball player.

If on the other hand, he's whispering, "It's up to me to get a hit now or my average will down several points," then he's nothing more than an individual star.

Managers want ball players to bat .500, if possible, and steal 100 bases per season if they can do it when the'ls count. Don't mistake my meaning and think that a man can't strive to break records. But if he places his individual honors before the winning of games for his club, then he is not a star ball player.

There have been in baseball pitchers who on the official average published at the finish of the season did not have a record that one would pay any attention to. Yet there were stars in a way. The records did not show how often they had been called upon to go to the mound in the eighth or ninth inning to save a comrade and how they succeeded in doing it without getting any credit on their average.

Often during a season a team will pile up a half-dozen runs in the early innings and the opponents will be blanked. Then along about the seventh or eighth the pitcher will develop a wild streak and three runs will be chalked up before he can settle down. The manager will withdraw the twirler who started the game and send in a pinch hitter. Possibly there will be three on the bases when he starts and it is up to him to prevent them from scoring home. If he does it and the game is eventually won.

That pitcher who has performed a great feat does not get any credit in the averages. The flinker who was withdrawn is given the victory. But in the relief man is happy after the game and satisfied that his team won, I consider him a winning player. Furthermore, I consider him a star who is applying given the proper credit by the fans.

Must Place Victory First.

Of course, there are plenty of pitchers who are stars and are at or near the top of their respective leagues. They always try to win and while they like to be high in the average, it is victory for the team that counts most with them. But there's a big difference between the real star and the fellow who possibly saves many a game does not.

A little resume of my various subjects will show what I consider a star player infielder, outfielder and catcher. The first asset is interest in the game and constant study and practice. No man can stand still and expect that he will keep abreast with the national game. He must be alive and live, eat and dream baseball.

Although a batting average shows ability in that direction always, it is hardly necessary for a man to bat .400 to be a star. He must, however, use his brains when at the plate, try to outguess the pitcher and get hits when hits count. Incidentally, he must be able to wait out a flinger when ordered to do so, and bunt successfully when the sacrifice will help.

I remember reading about an important game played in a major league where neither team had scored up to the ninth inning. In that round the home club got three men on base with none out. The pitcher was wild and the batsman was not a sure fire hitter. Therefore he decided to let everything pass that did not look good. He did this until the count was three balls and two strikes.

Now you can imagine what that next one was by, and it was over in the next one go by and it was over in the eyes of the umpire, he was struck out, three men would have been stranded and he would have been a dub in the eyes of the fans. On the other hand, if he let it pass and it was on the outside, he would get a base on balls and the winning run would be forced in.

Probably you can put yourself in that man's shoes long enough to know what a nervous tension he was laboring under. He had to decide in the twinkling of an eye whether to hit at it or let it pass. He saw it was on the outside, let it pass and the game was won. That man, in a way, was just as much a hero—a star, if you prefer—as the batsman of known ability who would have gone up and won it with a hit.

Must Use Head on Bases.

Must Use Head on Bases.

Then again, I do not believe any player can be a star who is a laggard, commonly called a "bonehead" on the bases. Some players do not get on so very often, but when they do, look out. They keep their eyes open and when the least chance offers itself are around to the plate. As I said in a previous article, it is not always the base stealer who is valuable. The base runner is the man who is more likely to win a ball game. So the star must be alert on the bases.

The real star must show something in the field, too. And you probably want to find him at the top in the fielding percentage. As a manager I never used to say: "You can't get errors if you don't go after the hard ones and take a chance with a throw. The winning ball player will always try to pull off something on the defense, even if the danger of an error stares him in the face.

Naturally I don't want to see a man throw a game away by trying to pull something with a throw. But I don't want to see him throw up his hands when a fast man get on base and refuse to throw simply because he figures there is no chance of getting the runner.

Quite recently I heard a fan telling a player what he thought of a certain infielder. The player listened without comment but finally when the fan began to knock another infielder there was a comeback.

"I don't know what the fans think of him," said the player, referring to the infielder who was being panned, "but I know that the ball players think he is about the best in the business because he is game and takes a chance when he gets his hands on the ball. He may have lost some ball games by wild throws, but I'll bet he has saved and will always pull more than he has lost."

That you see is why the star fielder, in my opinion, is not the man that you would naturally look for if you looked through the averages. Aside from his willingness to take a chance he should be an expert at touching base runners and bluffing them into stopping at a base. All the little tricks of the game must be known to the man who would deserve the title of winning player.

Player's Disposition Counts.

A man's disposition also has a lot to do with his ball playing. There are players in the big leagues who could hit, throw and run bases as well as the leaders in the big leagues. But they don't do it. They don't seem to care just so long as their pay checks reach them on time.

Then we have men in the game who can't seem to get that aggressive spirit necessary to frighten the opponents. They think, "Well, if we couldn't win the game, I'm glad that my friend Pitcher So-and-So, happened to be in the box against us and gets the credit for the victory." That type of man will never make a star.

One of the stars of the game said recently "I'm glad my failure is not a ball player on an opposing team. I'm afraid if he was I'd be disrespectful. Every man on the opposing team is my enemy the minute we step on the ball field."

That man is one of the most popular players in the game today with his opponents. Off the field he is a prince and a gentleman. He can't do enough for you. But when he gets his uniform on and takes the fight. And any fellow who wears the uniform of an opposing club becomes an enemy.

Another type of player who seldom becomes a star is what we call in baseball a "crab." He is a fault-finder and a knocker. A little "crabbing" is a good thing, probably. But when a player becomes a perpetual "crab," he is of little value.

I have tried to handle the subject of what constitutes a star as carefully and completely as possible. It was only because of urgent requests from scenes that I decided it. I would much rather have the fans tell me what they considered a star and see how nearly my ideas agreed with theirs.

Ball players seldom agree with fans on plays and players. Why that is I don't know. Possibly we look at the game through smoked glasses. Then, on the other hand, the fans are not on the field and know what it really going on and how many a time a player has done the right thing when to the outsider it would appear that he had pulled a "boner."

Make Game Constant Study.

As this is the last article of the series I'm not going to write, I want to give a final word of advice to young players. It is to make baseball a constant study. It's nice to enjoy sliding over the country getting a big salary and enjoying the plaudits of fans and newspapers. But the minute baseball ceases to play second to you you are slipping backward and won't last long.

My ambition, as I told in another article, is to quit while I am successful. I never want to feel myself slipping backward inch by inch. It is a great game and I love it. And I'm going to say that I like to perform feats on the diamond which are liable to be talked about by the fans for years to come. This may sound egotistical, but it is true. And having tasted of the honey, I don't want any of the bitter.

In concluding I want to say that I trust I have written something which has been worth while reading, and has helped young players and fans to a better understanding of some of the fine points of the great game of baseball. I am not a baseball scribe, and have not tried to usurp the legitimate and grand vocation. I have simply written, in response to many requests, my ideas of the game from the viewpoint of a baseball players.

I trust I will live to see many of the young players who are performing twenty and thirty years hence, which will make the dope of mine look motheaten then.

The Old Time Fan Talks Of Major League Races

By Charles A. Lamar.

The Giants, under the astute McGraw, have struck their stride and trouble in bunches is now being indicted by the Chicago Cubs and Pirates.

The digital dexterity of Christy Mathewson, Reuben the Gem, and the giant Marquard was a little more than a plenty for the Phillies and the Reds and that's the answer to it all.

The Phillies and the Brooklyns are slipping. The Cincinnati Reds are out of it and the race is steadily crystallizing between the Giants, the Pirates and Cubs.

With a first class pitching staff, the Cubs would have a swell chance to nose out the bunch; otherwise, they haven't a chance. Of course, the partisans of the respective teams may take another slant according to the lights before them and their prodigy preferences.

And they may be right at that. But it will require a lot of outfitting and superb baseball to put the morgue sign on McGraw and his Giants.

In many ways McGraw's personality inspires but measer admiration in many people. But it is true, nevertheless, that he is a masterly baseball general. He is also, sometimes, a vicious fighter and a past grand master in the art of trickery and that's a formidable combination to combat.

And his team is an awful tough nut to crack when it's going good and particularly when the pitching and there you are. McGraw never whines about "hard luck" and "off days," because he knows that whimpering wouldn't get him anything but the mallet and good and hard at that.

The sordid gent who never yaws, even when "de empire" is raising their scalps, never won a pennant and never will. The scrappy ball player for mine. Not the rowdy and the umpire baiter, but the scrapper. The guy who is on his toes all the time and smothering hard chances like a hungry hound snapping up fried liver will deliver the merchandise in due time on the pale and with the bludgeon.

Mr. Jim Smith is a striking example of the scrappy ball player. No dub umpire can throw the hooks into him and get away with it. Not much.

"Hank" O'Day is quoted as having said that some of the umpires in the National League are ignorant of many of the rules. Well, that's considerable indictment, but the said umpires have got a lot on a bunch in this league, they seem to be ignorant of all the rules.

The brilliant showing of the Cleveland team has stirred the American league through and through and rightly so. For thirty years that city has been struggling to win a pennant, but nothing doing. The Cleveland players have been the champion hard luck artists of the universe.

The fans managed to land second on several occasions, but no better. And now it begins to look as though the clan of McGillicuddy had grabbed their number. The Athletics are speeding through the race like a fire on a furniture factory. Tough luck for the Naps.

Mr. Frank LeRoy Chance is up against the real thing now. His team is not much to start with, and the "breaks" against it have brought forth fruit that's as bitter to the taste as the mythical apples said to flourish on the borders of the Dead Sea. Such are the ups nad downs—most downs—of the "pastime" business and particularly in large cities, like New York.

It's a tough job to put one over on Mr. B. Smith. When he realized that his pitchers couldn't get by with the slide known as the "swat subject," he got busy and plugged the hole. If his pitchers can hold the other folks, thereby be something doing all along the line from now until the end. More power to them.

CANADA IS AFTER THE CANOE TROPHY

New York, June 7.—Because of the possibility of yacht races in 1914 for the America's cup, the fact is rather lost sight of that there is to be an international race this summer for the New York Canoe club international trophy.

The Gananoque Canoe and Motorboat club of Canada is the challenger for the trophy, first offered in 1886. Six attempts have been made to lift this cup, the race conditions of which are similar to those governing the America's trophy now in the possession of the New York Yacht club.

In 1886 and 1888, London canoeists endeavored to win the cup, but failed. In 1890, 1891, 1892 and 1895, Canadian clubs sent the fastest of their tiny racing craft after the trophy, but went back empty handed. Now, after a lapse of eighteen years, during which time dust has been accumulating heavily in the silver pitcher in the custody of the New York Canoe club, another effort will be made to take the prizes across the border.

ARTHUR ROBINSON TO TOUR CONTINENT

Famous Boy Sprinter's Tour Is Arousing Much Adverse Criticism Among Amateurs.

New York, June 7.—The announcement that Arthur Robinson, the phenomenal boy sprinter of Mercersburg academy, is considering an athletic tour of Europe this summer, has aroused much adverse comment in amateur track and field circles.

The dea of a youth still in his teens traveling through England and the continent competing in numerous track meets savors strong of pot hunting, to put it mildly, according to veteran athletic followers.

It appears to be the consensus of opinion among close followers of sport that such a campaign is both unwise from a physical and amateur standpoint. Robinson has an athletic career of great promise before him if properly handled.

To attempt, at his age, to duplicate the feats of Arthur Duffy, Nat Cartmell and other famous and seasoned sprinters, appears to be carrying the craze for competition to the extreme.

Baseball Is Supplanting Cricket; France and England Adopt Game

London, June 7.—Baseball is invading France; the English people are dissatisfied with cricket and are beginning to look to the American game as a substitute; Germany is awakening to a deep interest in outdoor sports with the holding of the next Olympiad at Berlin; baseball has won Cuba, and is making rapid strides in Central America, and it has been introduced with marked success among the savages of northern Luzon as a vent for their energies that in the past have been expended in head hunting and looting. In England the question is becoming daily more interesting, and the situation today gives rise to the question whether baseball is not to become a world game instead of an American pastime, with the final outcome of international contests at the end of the season.

Crisis for Cricket.

England's national game, cricket, is facing a crisis. The people are complaining that it is too slow, and it is being compared, greatly to its disadvantage, with the snap, speed and sustained interest of baseball. Gate receipts for the county championship matches have fallen off greatly and "fans" are worried over the future of the game. Cricket followers want exactly what the baseball public occasionally clamors for, more hard hitting. The great complaint is that the players of the present day are given too much leeway in the matter of taking chances by hitting the ball hard.

A game which requires two days, and seldom furnishes any exciting finishes, seems at best very slow to Americans, but one of the complaints against cricket today is that the players loaf at their work. They stroll onto the field; take long rests for tea, and generally waste time. Some newspapers are discussing changes in the rules, and among other suggestions are harder grounds and a "liver" ball to make play swifter.

In England.

But a more radical note is being heard with considerable insistence. Cricket not meeting the need of the day in England, baseball is being seriously considered as a national substitute, and the question whether the great American game will not become the summer pastime of the British Isles is by no means idle gossip. Proposals have been made seriously by a number of English sporting writers that the American game be given a trial. These men are disgusted with the state of cricket, an ddeclare any hope of reforming that game is exceedingly remote, with the present authorities in control.

Baseball has already reached some degree of popularity in Ireland, and a number of teams are playing ball in the Midlands. Several teams are planning to play this summer in London. Among those is a nine composed exclusively of the employees of a London branch of an American firm, and the Columbia Park Boys' club, of San Francisco, now visiting England, will endeavor to introduce the game among the school boys here.

Athletics Can Do Great Good If Conducted in Sane Way, Say Two of World's Experts

Lausanne, Switzerland, June 7.—Professor W. M. Sloane, of Columbia university, New York, one of the American delegates to the Olympic congress, and a member of the International Olympic committee, has published the results of the committee's recent work at Lausanne, has expressed himself as follows:

"One must distinguish between the meeting of the international Olympic committee and the congress for the discussion of the principles of sport, which was summoned and organized by the international Olympic committee.

"The work of the committee was most important. Progress was made in arranging for the Berlin Olympiad of 1916, especially in summarizing for use the experience of the last Olympiad (1912) at Stockholm. in some respects this was a public committee in this meeting—that all the suggestions for improvement from the various national committees were digested for incorporation in the arrangements for 1916.

"Of almost equal importance was the completion of the arrangements for the congress to be held in Paris next year, for the preparation of a type Olympiad that congress will be attended by representatives from all the national Olympic committees, and in commemoration of the Baron's work will definitely settle questions of events, judges, qualifications, entries, etc.

"The international Olympic committee is in no sense a representative body. It is self-perpetuating and is the historical carrier of the Olympic idea. Its business is that of clearing the way for the successive Olympiads and acting in turn as trustee for the hosts. It has met once every year. The congresses organized by the committee meet at irregular intervals and have no continuity, adjourning sine die.

Give Advice.

"The give invaluable advice and distribute much that has been hitherto had no representative character. That of 1914 in Paris differs from all its predecessors in that it will be, for the first time, representative, anothritative, international body, selected to settle vital questions, as those who participate at the Olympiads desire them to be settled. Its work done, it will adjourn not to meet again until summoned by the international Olympic committee."

Professor Guglielmo Ferrero, of Turin university, one of the well-known historian in an address before the congress on sport from the point of view of an outsider, gave an interesting analysis of the real significance of sport under modern conditions of living. He said that the tendency for each set of men, whether men of science, artists, scientists or commercial men, was to overrate the importance of their own line of work in relation to other work.

"Sport may be considered as a necessary limitation imposed on the excesses of an intellectual, sedentary state of civilization," declared Professor Ferrero, "which severely tries the nervous system. Never has man lived in such a state of permanent and increasing excitement. If the scientists could come to life again, their first impression, we may be sure, would be that men had become mad. This extreme mental tension throughout the world needs sometning to counterbalance it. It does not increase indefinitely until it entailed bankruptcy of the entire nervous system? How long this nervous overexcitement can go on is one of the most serious problems of our times.

Wholesome Diversion.

"Sport, if carried on in accordance with certain principles, become one of the limits set to overexcitement in one's work. If it is practiced as a wholesome diversion, it will be a benedicent and recuperative force, acting upon the nervous system. This is the ideal of sport, the only conception of it which is in no danger of running to extremes. An equalizing force, something to counterbalance the intellectual excesses of contemporary civilization, sedentary, nervous and kept in continual turmoil—that is the best definition of sport. It is as old as the world, but still it is the best definition. Sport is a force whose function it is to preserve the balance between the various elements of social life, a force of equilibrium.

"But if this conception of sport is to make way, we must be prepared for many disappointments. Man is naturally inclined to excess and never has a tendency to excess been greater than at present. The modern world urgently needs the normalizing influence and harmony if it is not to perish by the very excess of its energy. We are richer, more powerful and more powerful than our forefathers, but we have not become demi-gods because we have discovered America and invented railways. We are not perfect. It will be the weaknesses which moralists of the past have discovered in us still exist.

"Moreover, if we are to endeavor with her way of equalizing matters a heavy price for the advantages we are reaping from the accumulated labors of past generations, a price which takes the form of nervous diseases, madness, increasing frequency of suicide and increasing sterility. The modern world suffers from excesses to which it gives way without admitting that it does so. Those who attempt to lead us back to a saner ideal of life render a service, the need for which is shown more than by anything else by the furry with which this ideal is apparently rejected."

Tennis Is International In Its Status These Days

With eight countries competing for the Davis cup, emblematic of the world's lawn tennis championship, there can be no further question as to the international status of tennis. The game, whether played upon grass or clay courts, is gaining standing in popularity in all parts of the world. Some idea of the hold that tennis has secured upon the athletic devotees in all parts of the globe can be gathered from the fact that during the international play between the all-British and all-American teams in Australia and New Zeland last winter, the net profits of the matches, derived from gate receipts and program sales, amounted to almost $20,000.

This sum was divided equally between the two tennis associations of the competing teams, although not a score of considerable friction so far as the antipodean authorities are concerned. It was the original intention of the Australasian association to retain its share of the fund to finance future international matches, both at home and abroad. Several of the associate bodies have lodged a protest, claiming that the receipts should be divided equally among the members of the national body.

From Singapore comes a tale of difficulties attending standing in polite circles. It concerns the running off of the annual championship. Owing to the extreme heat experienced it is possible to play tennis only between the hours of 5 and 6:15 p. m. This 75-minute period exists from shortly before sundown until twilight and evening. The game is extremely popular and there are a large number of excellent players in the Straits Settlement district. Last season close to 600 racquet wielders entered the title tournament. With a field of this size it required more than five weeks of daily play to decide the championship in singles and doubles. An even larger entry is promised this year and the play is likely to extend over a period of six or seven weeks.

It is quite within the bounds of possibility that the Amateur Athletic association will refuse to grant a permit for such a trip.

GERMANS ENCOURAGE ALL-AROUND EFFICIENCY

New York, June 7.—Following the footsteps of the English association, the German athletic authorities have adopted a plan to encourage all-round athletic development by means of "efficiency" medals. The imperial committee of the Olympic games has worked out a system for the awarding of gold, silver and bronze medals for athletes who perform above a set standard in any one of five groups of athletic games and sports.

The first group consists of swimming and gymnastics; the second of high jump and broad jump; the third of running 100 yards or a quarter of a mile; the fourth of fencing, discus throwing, running and Greco-Roman wrestling, hocky and golf, and the fifth group includes long-distance running, swimming, skating, skiing and cycling.

The idea is that moderate efficiency in five of these things shall be rewarded with a bronze medal. A silver medal will be given if the performances are repeated in each of four years, and a gold medal if the performances are repeated in each of eight years. A competitor if more than thirty-two years of age will obtain the gold medal if he satisfies the tests only once.

The scheme, which is confined to Germans, is no doubt well adapted to German tastes and to present Ger-

Cartercar Manager Declares Motoring Is Fast Becoming "Greatest American Sport."

This is the time of the year when every one thinks of vacations and sports. Some are for this, some for that form of recreation, but more people each year are taking up motoring as a method of relaxing from their business cares.

"Motoring is the great-est American sport, regardless of what people may say about baseball," said W. H. Mahoney, general manager of the Cartercar company, Atlanta Branch.

"All over the country," continued Mr. Mahoney, "you see hundreds, yes thousands of enthusiastic motorists who take little pleasure drives almost every evening. No other pastime can give such continual, such restful pleasure as a motor car. Motoring is a sport, in every sense of the word, but at the same time the advantage of owning a motor car is be-cause it is worth more for business than as a recreation.

"Out on the farm is where the pleasure of driving a motor car is especially appreciated. I have been surprised at the great number of farmers who have purchased cars for no other reason, they said, than be-cause a car is nice for their families to ride in. They do not seem to think of the economical advantages when once say the automobile for more pleasure overshadowing every other feature of owning a car.

"As a farm the people have little else to enjoy except their cars. They are not in touch with baseball, and their work prevents them from such pleasures as fishing, picnicking, etc., which they are supposed to enjoy. But with a car they can take short drives each evening after a hard day's work, and it brightens them up and makes them happy with their lot. In fact, it them happy with their lot. In fet, it ing!"

RAIN STORM BREAKS UP YALE-PRINCETON GAME

Princeton, N. J., June 7.—A sudden rainstorm put an end to the Princeton-Yale baseball game on University field this afternoon with the score tottering at a tie. Yale had a man on second with only one out in their half of the sixth when the storm broke.

As Yale won the first game of the series at New Haven last Saturday, Princeton's failure to win today would have given Yale the series, but the Yale players will be forced to come to the Monday and make the series two out of three, as was originally intended.

AMERICAN MACHINES COVER FRANCE, SAYS PAIGE-DETROIT MAN

Mr. Harvey R. Stewart, foreign representative of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company, in charge of the selling of the French automobile manufacturers regarding the invasion of American cars into France, has the following interesting remarks to make:

"Following the recent automobile salon a long cry of alarm was sounded by the French manufacturers against the 'American peril,' and it is feared that, unless great exertions are made, the French market in a short time will have serious inroads from the other side of the Atlantic. Statistics published in the Automobile Press show that America is rapidly extending its export trade, and that it increased 50 per cent last year, and it is pointed out that in France especially the number of cars sent over is increasing by leaps and bounds.

"In 1910, 163 automobiles were exported from America to France. In 1911, 264, and in 1912, 627. Although the numbers are small, it is felt that the rapid rate of growth in the two years is deeply significant. It is being seen here that the American manufacturers have found a way to get the point of their French rivals, namely, the scarcity of cheap cars in this country, with the result that while in 1910 the average price of American cars here was $2,200, it dropped to $1,000 last year.

"The general feeling is that only extraordinary enterprise can save the automobile market in this country from the American invasion."

BIG COLLEGE SERIES RECALL OLD TIMES

New York, June 7.—The next two weeks will witness the completion of the Yale-Harvard and Princeton-Yale baseball series, and the alumni and undergraduates of these universities are awaiting the outcome with more than usual interest. Yale has an unusually strong team this season, and the adherents of the blue are hopeful that the Bills will win both series against their ancient rivals.

The Yale-Princeton series began way back in 1868, when Thomas Hooker and E. A. Van Wagenen were the captains of the competing teams in the initial play. Since that date 112 games have been played of which Yale has won 63 and Princeton 48, with one game, in 1890 a tie. The Harvard-Yale series began in 1883, and to date 86 games have passed into history, with Harvard a winner of 37 and Yale 47, with one tie game in 1908.

In the beginning the play was far different from the finished baseball furnished by the college nines of toda. In this connection a description of the first Yale-Harvard game is not untimely. The contest, which was not a 'varsity but interclass match, was played at Worcester, Mass. July 26, 1858, between the Yale and Harvard classes of '59. The Eli players had uniforms consisting of flesh-colored shirts, with a Yale monogram interwoven with the numerals '59, blue trousers and canvas shoes. History of that date failed to record the Harvard outfittings. The Yale nine won the game by a score of 36 to 33, with a ninth inning rally, being eight runs behind Harvard at the opening of the final session.

The game, which required four hours and thirty minutes to complete, had a regular fiction climax. With one out, three runners on the bases and two runs needed to tie the score, De Grove of Yale came to the center. The hit scored more than the necessary runs to win the game, but as in those days the play continued until three outouts had been made an additional score was thus secured before the play terminated. Of the members of the Yale team there were living at a very recent date four of the original nine that thus inaugurated the Yale-Harvard baseball series.

SOCIETY

CEDARTOWN, GA.

The Thursday Morning club was most pleasantly entertained this week by Mrs. Martha Bigham at the home of her mother, Mrs. R. A. Adams on Harrt street. Mrs. S. P. Holloway won the prize, which was a blue bird pin in the game of 42. An elaborate luncheon was served, those assisting the hostess were Mrs. E. S. Ault and Mrs. G. M. Norman.

One of the most delightful social events of the week was the 42 party given by Mrs. Chester H. Graves on Tuesday afternoon complimenting her sister, Mrs. Calvin R. Ledbetter, of Little Rock, Ark. At the close of the game a delightful salad and ice course was served on the tables which were arranged on the porches. Mrs. Martha Bigham winning the high score, was given a pretty fan and the guest of honor was presented with a piece of hand-painted china. Mrs. Graves' guests were the members of the Clover club and a few other friends.

Doctor Tells How to Shed Bad Complexion

We cannot restore degenerated facial tissue any more than we can restore a lost limb. It is useless to attempt to convert a worn-out complexion into a new one. The rational procedure is to remove the complexion Instead—remove the devitalized cuticle. Not by surgical means, however, as the underlying cuticle also thus is rendered to withstand immediate exposure. Applying ordinary mercolized wax will gradually absorb the offending cuticle. By degrees, a new, youthful skin appears, a skin soft and delicately tinted as a rose petal.

No lady need hesitate to try this. Procure an ounce of mercolized wax at the druggist. Spread on a thin layer before retiring, removing this in the morning with soap and water. In from one to two weeks the complexion is completely transformed.

An approved treatment for wrinkles is provided by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half-pint of witch hazel. Bathing the face in the solution brings prompt and remarkable results.—Dr. Rupert Mackenzie in Popular Medicine.

By E. A. Tigner.

Milledgeville, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—Some ten years ago when Wu Ting Fang was the Chinese ambassador to this country he came to Milledgeville at an invitation to make the commencement address at one of the colleges here. The board of trustees of the state asylum for the insane was in session and they arranged for a reception at this institution in honor of the famous foreign diplomat that proved to be such a funny incident that people here have not yet quit laughing about it.

Arrangements had been made to have some speeches, refreshments and Minister Wu was to be presented with a souvenir of the occasion that had been carefully prepared.

Upon arriving at the sanitarium Minister Wu, having requested to be shown some violent patients, was taken on a tour of inspection through some of the wards. One of the inmates who was watching the party with curiosity, rushed out and pulled the old gentleman's cue which so frightened and disconcerted Mr. Wu that he demanded at once to be taken back to the city, and regardless of all the plans made for his entertainment he rushed to his carriage, ab-

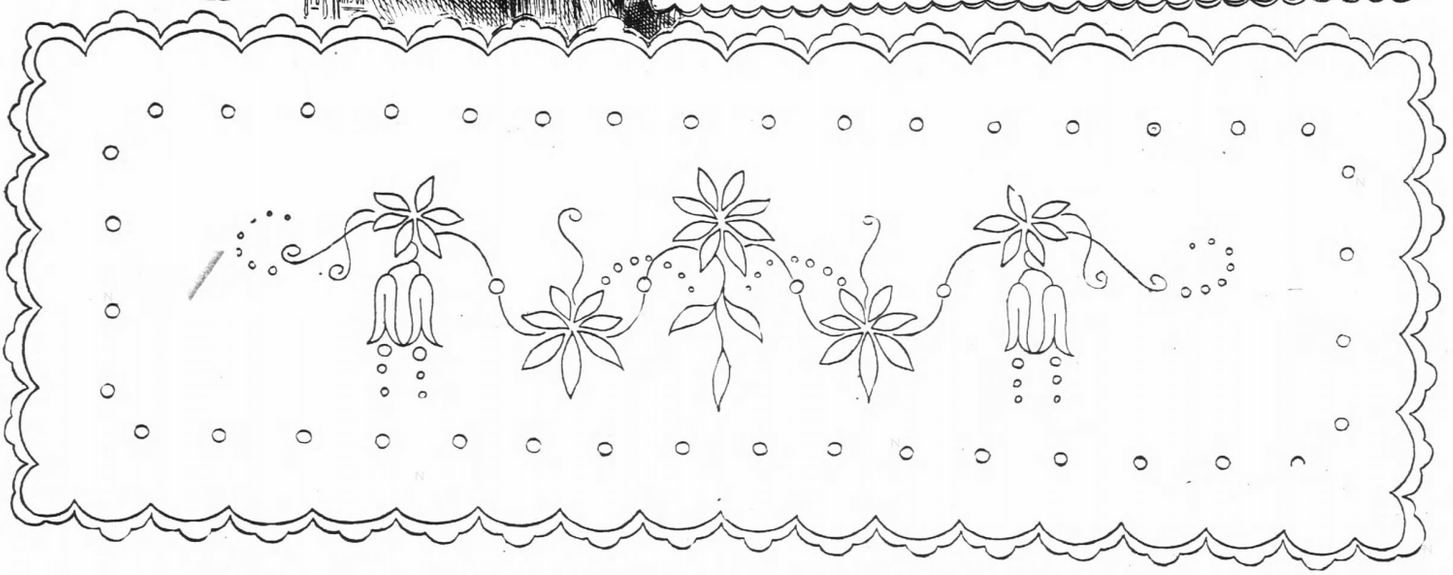
This Attractive And Useful Design For Needleworkers Can Be Transferred Without Recourse To The Old And Obsolete Tracing Paper Method Which Is Unreliable At Best.

DESIGNS FOR PINCUSHION



This is the season when one thinks of making pretty embroidery gifts for the bride and the graduate. This simple design, we believe, is exactly what you will need. Too, its beauty will be greatly enhanced by your fairy stitches, the addition of lace and the pink or blue satin cushion used with the cover.

First of all use extremely sheer material. Perhaps shadow-embroidery would look neatest in the large cushion. This work is done on the wrong side, a simple cat-stitch which forms a rather solid background effect. The tendrils should be finished in delicate outline, and all circles indicate places for delicate eyelet work. In fact each pattern should be fragile. In case there is a color scheme, as is often the case with tokens for girl graduates, you can acquaint yourself as to that, and, possibly, develop something decidedly novel in a color scheme whether the colors be conventional or not. The idea would be novel and pretty, though the colors might be gold and purple. In case of deep tones, the pattern should be worked in satin stitch on the right side.

The little pillow suggests something dainty for the layette or baby basket. Such ornaments are in white, pink or blue, the color scheme done with ribbons, the embroidery wrought in white. Use a good grade of white handkerchief linen, soft white ball floss, a long-eyed needle, and avoid cross stitches for they show through the fabric.

TO TRANSFER THIS DESIGN

Put a cake of soap (laundry will do) in a pint of hot water, stir vigorously and remove the soap. Saturate this Design with the soap and water mixture, then remove the excess moisture by partially drying the saturated Design or by applying a sheet of blotting paper. Place the material or fabric to which the design is to be transferred on a hard, flat surface and lay the Design, face down, upon the material. Cover with a dry sheet of thick paper or two folds of newspaper, and with the bowl of a tablespoon rub, pressing hard, until the Design is entirely transferred, being careful to rub from, rather than toward you. When rubbing, you can see if enough pressure is being applied by lifting a corner of the Design to note how well it's taking. Do not wet the material nor rub the face of the Design with damp fingers. To remove the Design lines after the article is completed, wash in warm water, with soap. The entire process is very simple and with a little care you can easily make perfect transfers to any kind of goods.

ONE teaspoonful of ammonia to a teacup of water, applied with a rag, will clean silver or gold jewelry perfectly.

LACE washed in skimmed milk should not be rinsed in water, but should be ironed while still damp with the milk.

ICING for cake may be prevented from cracking when cut by adding one tablespoonful of sweet cream to each unbeaten egg. Stir all up together, then add sugar until stiff as can be stirred.

TO remove grease from garments dissolve a teaspoonful of salt in four tablespoons of alcohol, shake well and apply with a sponge.

A SOFT rag moistened with lemon juice and then dipped in silver whiting will be found excellent for cleaning piano keys.

IT is well to remember that it is not necessary to boil a whole egg to get the yolk for garnishing. Separate white and yolk without breaking the latter and poach it hard in salted water. The white can be saved for other uses.

ONE large pumpkin is too much for a small family. Pour melted paraffin over the cut surface to keep the pulp of the left-over portion from decay, or cook the entire pumpkin and can what you do not need.

SHREDDED red cabbage and white celery cut fine make a very popular salad. Sprinkle the top of the salad with a tablespoonful of minced onion and dress with oil and vinegar.

WHEN cooking catchup, jelly, etc., try putting a few marbles in the kettle to prevent burning. The heat will keep the marbles rolling and thus prevent the catchup, etc., from sticking to the kettle.

WHEN roasting a fowl in a gas stove put three tablespoonsfuls of water into the meat tin at the bottom of the stove. You will find the steam will make the bird tender, and obviate the necessity for continually basting it.

A PRACTICAL overall apron has the sleeves reaching to the waist and is cut slightly square at the neck, fastening at the back. Many people are having these in a light make of silk or wool to slip over a good dress when housekeeping and so save the trouble of too many changes of attire.

EGGS covered with boiling water and allowed to stand for five minutes are more nourishing and easier digested than eggs placed in boiling water and allowed to boil furiously for three and one-half minutes.

IN a household infected by mice various methods were tried for their riddance. Finally cayenne pepper was sprinkled around every shelf and crevice. In two days every trace of the mice had vanished.

FASHIONDOM

BY MRS. KINGSLEY.

TAPESTRY bows are used down the front of white blouses to give a touch of color.

The puff of velvet at the elbow and the velvet collar are worn on many gowns.

Both the long and short sleeves are permissible—popular fancy inclining toward the long.

A touch of black is used upon almost every kind of costume and the effect is undeniably smart.

Brocaded crepe meteor is very new, soft, and clinging, and makes up into charming gowns for the elderly woman.

The boudoir and drawing room gown are scarcely distinguishable—both are made of light weight filmsy materials that cling closely to the figure.

Instead of belts, a novelty is that of cords composed of several strings of beads, twisted together, and knotted loosely at one side, where they are completed by a heavy "bell pull" tassel.

Many of the new evening slippers are made on English lines, with a more spool-like heel and long flat vamp. They are vastly becoming to some, but can never be surpassed by the American styles.

Corsage bouquets are pretty when worn at the fastening of an evening wrap. A handsome black velvet wrap seen at the opera had a dull gold corded ornament at the fastening, which held in place a bunch of purple velvet pansies.

Fashion is endeavoring to gain favor for the bloomer type of bathing suit. This, from the waist line to knee, is not unlike a gymnasium suit, excepting that the skirt falls to reach the knee by a couple of inches. Crossover blouse effects are used for the bodice of this.

The short coatee of matelasse or broche is attracting much attention. It does not have sleeves, and it resembles a zouave jacket. The waist line is well covered and the bottom of the jacket is rounded off in a pretty manner.

THE BRIDE'S TOILET TABLE

BY LUCILLE DAUDET.

ALL things connected with the bride and her wedding are dainty, so it is quite natural that she should stock her toilet table afresh. First of all, she wants a delicate sachet powder for scenting her trunks, bags, boxes, and bureau drawers. Perhaps the most lasting and yet dainty scent is secured by mixing powdered orris root and any good violet sachet powder in equal quantities. This is really more elusive than any floral scent that you could select.

Every bride will want a nice lavender powder for her linen. If she knew she were going to trap the young man last summer she would have been wise to have dried all the lavender leaves she could beg, borrow, or steal, but it is too late for that now, and this powder is even more lasting than the dried flowers. Mix ten ounces of dried lavender leaves, three ounces of powdered benzoin and six ounces of cyprus powder. Add to this one and one-half drams of oil of lavender.

She will also want a preparation for perspiration, and while some of the already prepared articles are good, the best thing for excessive perspiration under the arms is common baking soda mixed in equal proportion with plain unscented talcum powder. Never bathe under the arms with scents of any kind; better wash with a good bath soap and then rub on alcohol to which a little powdered alum has been added, finally dusting with the baking powder and talcum mixture.

The lemon should have a conspicuous place on the toilet table for some time before the wedding. The bride is apt to be sewing industriously and this is not particularly good for the fingers. She should keep a cut lemon on her dressing table. Every night after she has washed her hands she should stick her fingers right into the pulp of the lemon and rub them around and around. This will help to remove stains, stop the growth of the cuticle at the base of the nail, and make the knuckles look white and soft instead of red and rough. In case the skin has been roughened at the end of the finger by pricking with the needle, rub it with a piece of pumice stone before the wounds have time to absorb dust and dirt.

The hair is an important part of the bride's makeup. If it is stubborn and sticks out at angles, rub a few drops of brilliantine in the palm of the hand, then rub the hair brush around to that, and brush lightly over the hair. This will make the rough ends stay [illegible].

The bride should wash her hair three days before the wedding, in order to give it a chance to get back to normal conditions. The castile soap jelly is one of the best shampoos for the dark haired girl, while mixture of green soap and listerine is the right thing for the blonde. The jelly is made by shaving a cake of best white castile soap into a pint of boiling water. First wet the hair with warm water, then take about two tablespoonfuls of the jelly, adding a saltspoonful of borax if the water in which the hair is to be washed is hard, then rub until a thick lather forms. Now rinse several times, making each bowl of water cooler until it is quite cold.

Two tablespoonfuls of listerine, two tablespoonfuls of tincture of green soap, and the white of one egg make an excellent shampoo for the girl with blonde locks. Wet the hair with warm water, then rub the mixture thoroughly over the hair, being sure to massage it well into the scalp. Rinse thoroughly, then dry in the sunlight and open air if the weather is not too cold.

If it is necessary to curl the hair about the face, there is nothing equal to the old fashioned kid curlers. The night before the wedding the bride should dampen her hair with a little of a good curling fluid and put it up on curlers. Here is the recipe for an excellent lotion to retain the wave in the hair: Three ounces of quince seed juice, two drams of tragacanth, two drams of boric acid, one-half ounce of spirits of camphor, and three ounces of water.

All brides leave home for some sort of a trip, no matter if it only lasts a few days, and they should take a jar of good cold cream with them. On trains it is better to use a cleansing cream than the hard, and sometimes cold, water that is found in dressing rooms. Cold cream will remove that grease that seems to accumulate on the face when traveling on the cars.

The girl with the oily skin should have a bottle of the following lotion on her table and use it several times a day, washing over the face with a piece of old linen saturated in the lotion. One ounce of pulverized borax, two ounces of glycerin, and two quarts of camphor water (not the spirits of camphor).

WHITE CHAMPION? MOOTED QUESTION

Gunboat Smith Clearly Has the Best Claim, Says Corbett—Willard the Best Prospect.

BY JAMES J. CORBETT.
(Former Heavyweight Champion of World. Written Exclusively for The Constitution.)

New York, June 7.—(Special)—Which heavyweight shall we crown "white champion?" This seems to be the one question hanging heavily on the minds of the fight fans these days. While Luther McCarty lived the public was disposed to recognize him as the best of the lot, although in reality he was no more entitled to the honors than several of his rivals.

This is something new—a development of the last year or two—this distinction in titles. In the old days a champion was a champion of all colors and creeds. There was no such animal as a "white" champion. In my time in the ring talk was limited in occasionally about drawing the color line, but as a rule the black fighters were given an equal show with their pale-faced brothers.

But to get back to the question of which of our prominent aspirants is the best. The only answer is that "Gunboat" Smith has the best record of the lot. If looking championships were decided like baseball pennants, and standing determined by the number of battles won and lost, the "Gunboat" would lead by a mile. He has fought more frequently and won oftener than any of the other leading candidates among the white heavies.

Whether the "Gunboat" is good enough to maintain his standing at the head of the column is a question that only the future will solve. Personally I do not think he will ever succeed in winning the heavyweight championship. As an opponent for such men as San Langford and Joe Jeanette, he can hardly be considered seriously at this time, and there are at least two men and possibly three in the ranks of the whites whom time may prove better equipped to defend the honor of the white race in the struggle for fistic supremacy.

Willard Best Prospect.

Big Jess Willard, the Kansas farmer, looks the best prospect just now, despite the fact that he recently lost a decision to the "Gunboat." As near as I can figure from reading the accounts of that battle, written by newspaper men present, and from letters received from several well-known San Francisco sporting men, the referee erred in awarding the decision to Smith. Several writers contend that Willard should have been given no worse than a draw. Even Bill Naughton, usually conservative, joined the ranks of protestors and expressed dissatisfaction over his signature.

It is the opinion of many fistic authorities that Smith will be beaten decisively if the pair are matched again. In the recent contest it was lack of experience alone that deprived the giant of victory. At times he had Smith in a bad way, but did not know how to go about the job of finishing his man. In stating these facts I am not attempting to take credit away from the "Gunboat." His certainly made a great battle against big odds, and that he nobly succeeded in staying the distance but in earning the referee's approval proves that he is made of the right stuff.

But the "Gunboat's" greatest handicap is in his size, or rather lack of it. Prize ring history will show that the old saying, "A good big man can lick a good little man," is a true one, and Willard in good hands will probably make his splendid natural talents and advantages count in the long run.

Willard has every physical advantage over his rivals. He is six feet five inches tall, weighs in condition about 230 pounds, has an enormous reach, and, unlike other big men, is anything but clumsy in his movements. Jess needs a teacher, one who can instruct him how to utilize his great strength, reach and height to the best possible advantage—and a manager who will keep him busy fighting.

Needs Experience.

Willard should be brought east at once and matched with all the "has beens" who will take a chance with him in six and ten-round bouts, and in that way the big fellow would acquire the knowledge and experience that only actual contests can teach him.

Willard is a great prospect and one of the best that has appeared in many years. "Gunboat" Smith might beat him in a return battle if it were to be fought in the immediate future (despite the western critics), but in six months from now if he has been properly handled he should prove a hard man for any fighter to defeat.

If "Gunboat" claims the white hope championship and his record warrants his doing so, he will likely find Willard the most dangerous of his rivals. Unless Tommy Burns has wonderful wonders with Arthur Pelky since taking charge of the Chicopee man there is little to hope for in that quarter. Pelky has been boxing professionally for several years, and, until his recent trip to Calgary and sudden jump into prominence, has not been considered a fighter of the first class—or anywhere near it.

Pelky made his New York debut in Tom O'Rourke's "white hope" tournament in 1911. If memory serves me right Al Palzer won the finals, though he and Pelky did not clash in the tourney. Later Pelky was seen here with Jess Willard, and although what might be termed a veteran contrasted with the verdant Willard, he failed to show anything that impressed the sports in his favor. The experts were unanimous in awarding Jess the contest.

I understand an offer has already been made to Pelky to box "Gunboat" Smith before one of the San Francisco clubs. It is not likely, however, that Pelky, who is handled by the astute Tommy Burns, will consent to a match with the sturdy Smith until he has profited financially from the notoriety acquired in the Calgary tragedy.

Palzer Dark Horse.

The dark horse of the white hopes is none other than our old friend Al Palzer. This big fellow has not been seen in the ring since his defeat by Luther McCarty. Palzer was a sick man the day he fought McCarty, and should not have been allowed to box. But confidence in his ability to best McCarty under any conditions outweighed O'Rourke's better judgment, and the fight took place. The result is ancient history. On that battle alone Luther McCarty based his claim to recognition as the best of the whites.

Palzer had not recovered his health when he and O'Rourke sailed for France. It was as much in the hope that the trip would restore Palzer's health as of any chance to fight over there that induced O'Rourke to make the trip. Instead of improving, however, Palzer grew steadily worse and was hustled back to this country about two months ago. After consulting several experts the nature of his ailment was discovered, and an operation followed that restored the big fellow to perfect health. The last few weeks Palzer has been taking the baths at Mount Clemens, Mich., and letters advise me that he has rounded into fine shape again.

It is part of Palzer's program to take on several lesser lights for limited bouts. He hopes in that way to fight himself back into the shape that made him the popular choice for the premier position in pugilism not so very long ago. He has great confidence in his ability to make good, and O'Rourke told me only the other day that Palzer will be prepared to meet all comers within the next month or two.

Palzer's "come back" will further complicate the heavyweight situation. Since his defeat by McCarty and temporary retirement from the ring, Smith and Willard have come to the front very fast and were regarded as the only worthy rivals of McCarty up to the time of that unfortunate boxer's death. Palzer's record previous to his meeting with McCarty was even more imposing than the "Gunboat's," and the latter's achievements in the ring are considered quite good enough to place him at the head of the white division.

Jim Flynn, the veteran, is another who has thrown his "kelly" into the ring. Flynn recently showed he is still on earth by walloping the daylights out of Jim Coffey, one of our local youngsters, and thought to be a "comer." Jim now wants to box "Gunboat" Smith, or any of the big fellows.

Little can be expected from Flynn, however. He showed his best long ago. He may be able to beat novices like Coffey, but it is doubtful if he could go ten rounds with hard hitters of the Palzer and Smith type. At his very best Flynn was only a fair hitter. He was of the rough and tumble school, who depended solely upon his chances to land a knock-out blow to win his battles. Everytime he was matched with a man of class he failed to make good. Against Sam Langford he was the biggest kind of a joke.

If we are ever to produce a man good enough to send after Jack Johnson—for Johnson is still the champion—he will come from the ranks of the younger men. Flynn is too old a bird, and he has been tried before and found wanting. It is to the Smiths, Palzers and Willards we must look to bring back fistic supremacy to the white race.

JEROME TRAVERS STILL IN FORM

The Metropolitan Golf Champion Wins the New Jersey State Title From Oswald Kirkby.

Short Hills, N. Y., June 7.—Jerome D. Travers, of Upper Montclair, N. J., holder of the national and metropolitan amateur golf championships, regained the New Jersey state golf title, which he has now won four times, by defeating last year's winner, Oswald Kirkby, of Englewood, today.

Travers won by 3 up and 1 to play, finishing the 36 hole match during a terrific rain and thunderstorm which converted the putting greens into miniature lakes. During the first round Kirkby held his opponent safely and was five up at the eighteenth green. It was not until the pair had reached the fifteenth green on the second round that Travers took the lead.

The storm broke furiously at this stage and almost blinded the players. Kirkby's ball went into a brook on the second shot for the eighteenth and he simply floundered, while Travers plodded on, winning the sixteenth hole in 8 to 9, the figures being approximated. Setting the better drive from the seventeenth tee, Travers won the hole in 4 to 5 and the match by 3 up and 1 to play.

LAGER BEER

Can Be Made At Home For One Cent a Glass

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 8, 1913.—Through a recent invention of an expert Brewmaster of this city a sparkling and foaming Lager Beer can be made right at home for one cent a glass. He has concentrated Barley, Malt and Hops, the principle ingredients of Beer, so that simply by the addition of water and sugar a sparkling and pure Lager Beer can be made. Easily made in any kitchen, no apparatus, no experience necessary, a few minutes does the work. It is claimed by many that the Beer made by his method is better and purer than the best Brewery Beer, and above all saves the Brewers' enormous profits. The question of the legality of his method has been carefully investigated by the highest authorities and found to be legitimate in every respect. He has written a very interesting booklet giving the "Secrets of Brewing Beer at Home," and by writing to Brewmaster, A. S. Shuh, 1570 Sycamore St., Cincinnati, O., he will be more than pleased to mail his booklet absolutely free to anyone sending their name and address.

GOODRICH TIRES

Best in the Long Run

Smashingly Popular Because of Their Lasting Value

There are forty-three years of experience in rubber manufacturing in every Goodrich Tire.

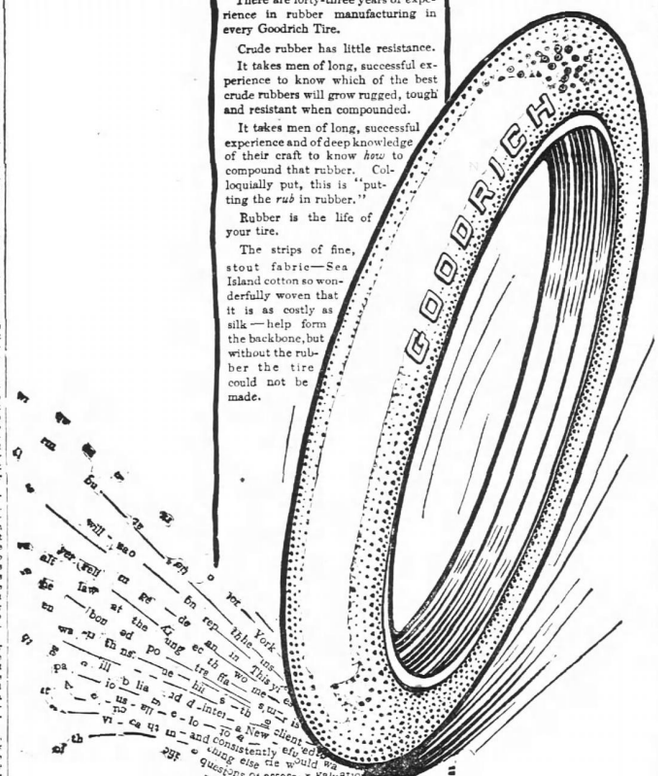
Crude rubber has little resistance.

It takes men of long, successful experience to know which of the best crude rubbers will grow rugged, tough and resistant when compounded.

It takes men of long, successful experience and of deep knowledge of their craft to know how to compound that rubber. Colloquially put, this is "putting the rub in rubber."

Rubber is the life of your tire.

The strips of fine, stout fabric—Sea Island cotton so wonderfully woven that it is as costly as silk—help form the backbone, but without the rubber the tire could not be made.



This fabric, rubber-impregnated, is built up with layers of pure rubber, into the backbone of the tire. The sides are reinforced with strips of rubber, making the body strong where the strain will come—eliminating the chance of rim trouble. The tire is finished with the thick, tough Goodrich tread.

This, is the specially compounded rubber which must meet the grinding, wearing, bumping, bruising contact with the road. And it does it.

All of this—backbone and tread, side-strips and bead—is converted into a one-piece tire in the Goodrich unit molding.

Our principle of unit molding was the crystalization of our twenty-seven years of experience with rubber before we made the first American clincher tire. This principle demonstrated its exactness at the start; we have never changed it.

In our unit molding the tread and body become one—a unit.

The tread being of the tire, and not simply put on it, naturally does not peel nor strip.

Water and dirt cannot creep under it to ruin the tire and place you in danger.

The whole tire being a unit, you are insured long, uniform wear. You are free from the risks caused by weak spots and dead places from over-vulcanizing which cooks the life out of rubber.

If you were to study a cross section of a Goodrich Tire you could not detect a layer line or separation. It isn't there. Our unit molding has unified the whole tire.

Your tire dealer will supply you with whatever style of Goodrich Tire is best for your needs—but they are all one kind and quality.

Write for our free folders which tell you how to get the most and best service from your tires by avoiding the common causes of injury.

A Charming Equal Suffragist

Mrs. Guilford Dudley and her two lovely children.

By Pansie Fenton Ottley.

Well, at last, the congress of the United States has gotten busy on the issue which "Miss Henry" Watterson calls the "most momentous question of the day."

If this body decides to do so, it can enfranchise all of us women whether we will, or not, and, in the twinkling of an eye, we shall become "unsexed" and "inferior," and all the other bad things people think the vote will bring to women.

HERE'S A CHARMING EQUAL SUFFRAGIST.

I met a charming equal suffragist the other day, a beautiful lady, all sheen and shimmer of palest green and bronze and snowy white. She seemed to me the best sort of material for an interview.

Mrs. Guilford Dudley is the president of the Georgia Equal Suffrage league which, in a year's time, has grown to number between 200 and 300 women, representative of every type.

"Why are southern women slow in asking for equal suffrage?" I asked Mrs. Dudley.

"Southern women are so content with the very real chivalry that surrounds us. They have always been so much better than our laws that the question of equal suffrage had to take on the glorified aspect of duty rather than of rights before it could enlist our interest.

"Have your Tennessee women of conservative views thrown themselves into this fight?"

"Please do not call it a fight. There is no sex war feature in our movement. We see only a chance for women to help more efficiently in all the things that touch the home and the welfare of children. Yes, our Tennessee women have made a willing and courageous response to our association's call. I think they are a bit ashamed of having shirked so long."

"What particular line do you think can be made by society of the voting woman?"

FOR MUNICIPAL HOUSEKEEPING.

"The greatest benefit will be to place woman, our only ethically trained leisure class and the actual administrator of the home, in direct touch with all the means of taking care of this home and its occupants. The most important housekeeping now is municipal. The water supply, the milk supply, pure food, disease prevention, clothing, education, diversion, all these things are now in the hands of the queen of the home. Now, to regulate them, each queen must turn to the city council, the milk inspector, the health officers, the factory inspectors, the board of education, the park board, etc., and to save their time and energy we are going to be slurred over and neglected."

"That this municipal housekeeping has been sometimes carelessly done is the fault of leisure women whose 'job' it is to attend to such things. Men are heavily pressed as bread-winners It is absurd that we should sit idly by and require of them all the administrative detail of daily life as well."

"Outside the affairs of the home, what seems to you the most apt place for the interest of women in politics?"

FOR PROTECTION OF WORKING WOMEN.

"I should answer, undoubtedly, that our greatest service should be special study for the protection and welfare of 8,000,000 working women in the United States."

"Will the American suffragette become militant?"

"I think not. In the first place, the very large majority of American women make quietly evident the fact that they want anything American men are very likely to give it to them. And, then, American politicians would never patter with and deceive women as English statesmen have done."

"How would you phrase the spirit of the equal suffrage movement?"

"Why, it seems to me just the expression of spiritualized motherhood reaching out beyond its own very home to help every child, every tired laborer, the wan worker in the sweat shop, the white slave and all broken and suffering humanity."

And then I looked beneath the lovely lady, all sheen and shimmer of green and gold, with her face like cherry blossoms and her eyes like soft moon stars, and I saw behind her another face most different, but just as beautiful.

And this face, strong and deepfined, in a frame of snow-white hair, will hang also always in my memory of women who have spent themselves to further this vision of the larger citizenship of woman.

REFERENCE BOOK PUBLISHED BY THE CITY FEDERATION

Since the meeting of the City Federation of Women's Clubs Friday, when they issued their year book containing the names of eighty-four federated organizations with their activities, there have been other organizations added, so states Mrs. Charles J. Haden, president of the City Federation, when discussing the work of Atlanta's organized women at their semi-annual meeting.

The year book contains a complete list of the organizations doing active work in Atlanta and has been worked out and compiled by the secretary of the City Federation, Mrs. William Percy, assisted by the officers of the federation and others.

The purpose of the organization is clearly set forth by Mrs. Haden, the president, when in the foreword she states.

Purpose of the Book.

"The record of fifteen years of federated work vindicates the wisdom of those who founded the City Federation of Women's Clubs. Growing in numbers and influence as year followed year, the federation now has upon its rolls more than 8,000 members. Its aid has been sought and given in nearly every noble enterprise project, and for the welfare of Atlanta and for the people of Georgia.

"The federated women move forward without discord, do their work uncomplainingly, expect no reward except a sense of duty well performed and the joy of looking upon a civic life growing better every day.

"Unfettered by political obligations, free of motives of selfish gain, the women's organization is devoted solely to the public good. And this being known, commands an universal confidence to a degree enjoyed perhaps by no other organization.

"The City Federation has proved, convincingly, even to those once prone to cavil, that women owe a duty to the public, payable in a public way, through united effort. And having proven this, the public has learned to depend upon them in their federated capacity to accomplish undertakings which have hitherto fallen short of positive success.

"Victories of civilization are now coming, in the fullness of time, through the peace armies of united women coming so silently and stealthily that conquests are complete before the battle is heard. And with it all, no tocsins or complaint that they have disturbed that calm which attends the serious business of being a woman."

The Year Book.

The year book clearly sets forth every phase of the federated work, especially in its relation to public good, and will be found useful in that it will serve public agenices of all kind making for public good. Frequently cases, either educational, philanthropic or social, come up and the question will be asked, "Is there not some organization here interested in this phase of work?" If so, which one? The year book can answer this question every time, for in the eighty-four organizations, all standing for some phase of work, there is one to cover any case which may arise.

Again the year book gives the name and address of the women leaders in the city in all activities with their complete address and the office they hold. At the meeting Friday morning Mrs. Percy was voted the gratitude of the federation for the splendid work she put in the book.

Mrs. Parde's Talk on Cities.

After the routine business of the morning session of the meeting Mrs. W. P. Pattillo made an interesting talk of the view she had of great cities during her recent travels abroad. Telegrams were read by presidents of individual organizations, and Mrs. James Jackson, chairman of the committee on resolutions, made her report, which was voted upon unanimously. Mrs. Charles J. Haden, the efficient and inspiring president, made her report, and reports of interesting nature were made by Mrs. William Percy, secretary, and Mrs. W. B. Price Smith, treasurer.

The Afternoon Session.

At the afternoon session Mrs. Harvie Jordan made an excellent report of the recent national council meeting of the General Federation in Washington, D. C. Mrs. A. P. Coles in her report relative to the work in behalf of a women's building, brought forth renewed interest in that timely subject. Mrs. Culver Smith read an instructive and able report relative to condition in prison and jails, while no subject discussed brought forth more interesting discussion than that pertaining to the need of a women's commission for better housing conditions, the leading women of the city taking part in this. Mrs. Lyman Amsden, in charge of the Junior Civic leagues of the city, presented a charming program at the end of the meeting. The leagues reporting were those of Peeples street, Fair street, Boulevard school and Davis street. The children brought beautiful flowers, with which they decorated the club room, and their report, indicated their live and intelligent interest in civic matters.

For Certified Milk.

A subject discussed by the women was the effort being made by the Fulton County Medical association and the Dairymen's association in behalf of measures for enforcing the certified milk ordinance. The president of the City Federation will appoint a committee to co-operate in this movement.

Beautiful Spot on Cumberland Island Where "Light Horse Harry" Lee Was Buried

Where remains of Light Horse Harry Lee rested from 1815 to 1913. (1) The grave of General Lee in the private burial ground of the Green family at Dungeness on Cumberland Island. (2) Dungeness occupying site of the General Nathaniel Green home, where Lee died in 1815.

Brunswick, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—When the casket containing the remains of Light Horse Harry Lee, of revolutionary fame, were last week carried to their final resting place in Lexington, Va., the state of Georgia lost one of its most interesting revolutionary relics.

It was at the extreme southern end of Cumberland Island in a little private burying ground of the Green family that this illustrious soldier of the American revolution slept for ninety-five years.

The little enclosed area in which, with military honors, the famous hero was laid to rest in the spring of 1815, was then a part of the estate of Major General Nathaniel Green, a distinguished comrade-in-arms, whose family he was visiting at the time of his death. Years ago a large part of the island, including the historic tidewater home of General Green, was purchased by Thomas Carnegie, a kinsman of the great steel king of Pittsburg. The new owner converted the estate into one of the most beautiful retreats on the coast of North America.

In a detailed article on "Dungeness; the Bivouac of Light Horse Harry Lee," "Biographies of Well Known People," by Lucian L. Knight, some interesting facts are given about the grave of this gallant revolutionary soldier.

This work declares that General Henry Lee was easily the foremost officer of cavalry in the war for independence. It was he who pronounced that famous eulogium on Washington, in which he characterized his former chief as "First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

General Lee received the injuries from which his death finally resulted while taking the part of a friend in Baltimore. In the stirring times of 1812 Alexander Contee Hanson, editor of the Federal Republican, strongly opposed the declaration of war against England. Feeling ran high. A mob in the house in Baltimore in which Hanson was living, and where Lee was visiting him, was threatened by rioters. Hanson, Lee and seven other gentlemen retired to the old city jail for protection. Here the rioters forced their way, and the whole party was beaten, mutilated and thrown down the steps of the jail, where they lay in a heap for three hours.

General Lees constitution was wrecked, and in hope of regaining his health he went to the West Indies, where he remained for over four years.

Stops At Cumberland Island.

It was while en route back to his home in Virginia that General Lee's body was put ashore at Cumberland Island. He did not expect to find his old comrade, General Green, there, for both he and his widow had been dead for many years, but there was living at Dungeness a daughter, Mrs. Louisa Shaw, by whom the old invalid was most graciously and gladly received; and here he remained until the death angel relieved him from his sufferings.

As soon as the fact of his demise was known all the vessels in Cumberland Sound displayed colors at half mast. The funeral was attended by the army and navy officers, who were on duty at the mouth of the St. Mary's river, and by detachments from the coast defence.

Prior to the civil war, the question of the removal of General Lee's body to Virginia, the state of his birth, was discussed by the legislature in session at Richmond, and commissioners to superintend the execution of the trust were duly appointed. But the outbreak of hostilities shortly ensued, and nothing further could be done at that time.

For years after the war the state of Virginia was too harrassed by debt and too exhausted by the ravages of conflict to undertake this labor of love. Finally, however, in 1913 the movement which resulted in the removal of General Lee's remains from Cumberland was launched.

GEORGIA'S HOME OF THE INSANE

ruptly ending his visit and leaving high and dry the entertainment arranged in his honor.

Many State Institutions at Milledgeville.

Anywhere in Georgia when Milledgeville is mentioned a smile is produced, for right promptly people think of the asylum, and they usually say something indicating the general opinion that exists in the minds of those who have never visited the old capitol city—that Milledgeville is just a big crowd of lunatics—but everybody down here is bug-house. The Milledgeville citizens is very accustomed to the joker, in fact, he always expects to be jollied when his home town is mentioned.

There is a natural and logical reason why Milledgeville and the asylum are so intimately associated in the minds of Georgians, for when the capitol was moved to Atlanta, away back in the 60's, this city was robbed of that which gave her prime importance—she was only a has-been when spoken of as the capital city.

But the asylum was left here and all through these years it has grown and grown and is still growing. There are people in Georgia who have forgotten that Milledgeville was once the capital—they never think of it—there are hundreds who never knew it was—but it is doubtful if there is one who does not know that the state asylum is located here.

Milledgeville in itself is a busy, beautiful little city. The state in recent years has located here, because of the central situation and properties and lands owned incident to the old state government, other intistutions, viz: the Georgia Normal and Industrial college, the Georgia Military college, the state reformatory and the state prison farm. All of these give individually and add much to the state wide prominence of the city, but beyond question, that which distinguishes Milledgeville most of all is the big state sanitarium.

The institution is situated out two miles from this city, at the end of a beautiful avenue. When visitors to the city are being shown the sights the sanitarium is always one of the principle places in the itinerary.

Some Striking Figures.

Few persons in Georgia have an accurate knowledge of the immensity of the buildings and grounds and the population of this institution. Some figures and comparisons may prove interesting and may serve to make fixed some of its proportions.

The state's property consists of 2,000 or more acres of land, fifteen or twenty large buildings with a total floor space that would cover more than twenty-five acres.

The total number of patients during the year 1912 was 4,527. The inmates today numbers 3,504, more people than the entire population of such sized Georgia cities as Barnesville and Washington, and adding to the patients, the employees and families connected with the institution, a city as large as LaGrange, Cartersville or Cordele.

The following table will give some idea of the cost of maintaining the sanitarium. The figures are entirely accurate and are taken from the 68th annual report for the year 1912:

Total cash disbursements	$524,154.06
Average monthly disbursements	43,679.50
Average daily disbursements	1,432.11
Daily per capita	4182
Average number of patients	3,424
Annual per capita	153.06

This great throng of inmates constitutes a small world in itself. Out of the vast number of patients there are many varying characters.

The majority of the patients have been in the institution for a long time and are classed as chronic or incurables. These will spend their lives here and not much more than custodian care is involved in their keeping. Many things are done for their amusement and diversion such as weekly dances, moving pictures, local entertainments and religious services every Sunday in the big amusement hall; also a library that circulates books, magazines and daily papers.

Band Organized by Inmates.

Particularly pleasing in this direction is the organization a year or more ago of a brass band through the efforts of the medical staff. Many Georgians made private contributions toward this end and perhaps nothing has added more to the pleasure of the patients than the weekly concerts given by this band.

In all the wards recreation rooms are provided, pianos and games are placed for the use of the inmates.

May of the patients enjoy to the fullest the walks and rambles upon which they are taken daily thorugh the beautiful woods and meadows that surround the sanitarium. They come home laden with wild flowers and shrubs of the season with which they decorate and make attractive their rooms and halls.

All these things have a great tendency to relieve the sadness and gloom that necessarily abounds in an institution of this kind, and amidst it all there are many bright and cheerful sides that are not generally known to exist to many who have a mistaken idea that an asylum is only a place of cheerless surroundings and dismal confinement.

Many Patients Cured.

A large per cent of the patients annually coming to the sanitarium are discharged as health seekers and are sent back to their homes. It is often difficult to prevail upon the convalescent patient to remain a sufficient time for complete recovery so eager are they to get away.

In the government of the institution there are very few mishaps. With a constituency such as this one can naturally expect that there are many chances for accidents. The patient's welfare and comfort is safeguarded on all sides, and any neglect or maltreatment is severely punished when it comes to the ears of the management.

The food for the patients is varied and carefully prepared. Several experienced chefs have charge of the kitchen, and members of the staff daily inspect the preparation of the food. A large bakery is operated in connection with the culinary department, also an ice factory with cold storage rooms for meats, dairy products, vegetables and fruits.

Anyone visiting the sanitarium should by all means see the splendidly equipped dairy and the large herd of Holstein and Jersey cows that furnish large quantities of fresh milk and butter to be used for the invalid patients.

Also, another interesting feature is the large farm known as the colony farm, which is cultivated by colored male patients principally, having about one hired man to every ten patients to work with them and take care of them.

This farm has been brought up to a high state of cultivation and the products largely augment the food supply of the institution. Aside from an abundant supply of fresh vegetables for daily table use, canteloupes, watermelons, grapes and peaches, this colony farm yearly produces 3,000 or 10,000 bushels of corn, 4,000 or more bushels of oats, 5,000 bushels of sweet potatoes, a large supply of hay, fodder and corn silage.

This farm was begun to be developed by the sanitarium authorities ten or fifteen years ago, on a tract of land in the piney woods section lying two miles south, acquired by the state for fuel purposes. After largely consuming it, the sanitarium began in a small way to open and up for cultivation. Today it is one of the most productive and attractive farms in the state of Georgia.

Splendid Results Being Secured.

The management of this great state hospital for the insane is supervised by a board of trustees appointed by the governor. The personnel of the present board includes men prominent in business, professional and sociological circles from different parts of the state.

Contrast with such a humilitarian institution seems to set a firm grip upon these trustees, and they serve their trust with a deep and unselfish devotion.

Hon. John T. Brantley, of Blackshear, is president of the board and has been for many years. No man in Georgia is rendering more efficient and beautiful patriotic service.

President Brantley, in speaking of the work of the sanitarium looking to a greater efficiency, said:

"The insane persons committed to the sanitarium may be divided broadly into two classes—the incurable and the curable. To the first named it furnishes a haven, a safe asylum for life. To the second named it furnishes, or should, a hospital where every opportunity known to modern science is afforded for recovery.

"It is well equipped for the first, but poorly so for the latter. Its greatest need in this respect is for a psychopathic hospital, furnished with everything modern science has found of value in the treatment of insanity, and made just as cheerful within and without as is possible to make it.

"Such an addition would enable the complete separation of the curables from the incurables, a vital factor in their successful treatment. The cheerful surroundings would aid in lifting the depression incident to mental diseases. It would furnish a wonderful stimulus to the medical staff now working under many discouragements. I know of nothing which in my judgment will contribute more to the efficiency of the work than this.

"The crowded condition of all the buildings now owned by the sanitarium precludes any possibility of separating the classes or of using one of them for this purpose. The board has heard the appeal of the superintendent and its current report contains a recommendation that this need be supplied."

Efficent Staff in Charge.

Dr. L. M. Jones is the superintendent, having general supervision of all affairs in the different departments. Before his promotion to the superintendency some six years ago upon the death of Dr. T. O. Powell, he was one of the assistant physicians and his entire term of service in this institution has been thirty years.

Dr. Jones is admirably adapted for the duties of this great office because of his long experience in this line of medical work and because he is a man of rare business judgment and of kind and gentle temperament and quick sympathy. His entire administration has been marked by a quiet, ecomonical government.

Chief interest in the sanitarium centers naturally in the work of its medical department. Here the board, the superintendent, the clinical director and assistant physicians meet in one common effort to advance its efficiency.

The medical staff that supports Superintendent Jones in this department consists of fifteen or more physicians skillful as allenists, pathologists, surgeons and have a high rating in the profession.

The nurses training school is an important adjunct and many of the attendants, both male and female, are availing themselves of the opportunities afforded and are taking the course. Each year the graduating class is growing larger and larger and in this way many well educated nurses are constantly being added to the service.

To look after the constant wants of the patients in their lives on the many wards, in the inclosed yards and the recreation grounds two or three hundred attendants are kept in steady employment. These attendants in their daily work among the patients have many and varied experiences, and to do their difficult work is required patience, kindness and often much courage. There are many noble men and women in this department of the sanitarium.

More Room Needed by Asylum.

It is absolutely urgent that more room be provided for negro patients. The present quarters contain more than a thousand patients, and are crowded to the danger line, and their sanitary conditions thus crowded can correctly be surmised.

It is proposed to build an annex to the largest building used for negroes, where can be served from the the present kitchen and heating plant, and the board also hopes that the new building will carry a chapel or amusement hall, as now such provision has heretofore been made for them.

Captain T. H. DeSaussure, the sanitarium's efficient engineer, estimates that this building will cost $95,000.

The board also recognizes the importance of making provision for the comfort and well-being of the white female nurses. At present there is no place where they can gather for social leisure when off duty—and they must obtain rest and sleep on the wards upon which they are employed. The sanitarium engineer has also include a nurses' hall for their use as a home. Such a dormitory is necessary and better service from these faithful women will be secured when this need is supplied. It is estimated that such a dormitory can be built for $40,000.

Chairman Brantley, in his interview, has spoken of the urgent need of a suitably equipped hospital for the recent and acute cases of insanity, in which alone rests the hope of recovery. The legislature will be asked to appropriate this need of $135,000 for the erection of such a building.

There are many other needs that will be brought to the attention of the legislature that are necessary to bring this institution up to the state of efficiency that it should be, to keep all the properties in repair and meet the demands of the yearly income in the sanitarium.

State's Biggest Institution.

The Georgia State sanitarium is by far the largest institution operated in the state, and its maintenance per capita cost is far less than in most of the states in the union.

The members of the general assembly should devote considerable time and attention to seeing that every need of the institution is provided, and in so doing should defer largely to the advice of the management, feeling assured that the people of Georgia will applaud what is done for the welfare of this great benevolent work.

To Ask Changes in the Law.

The board will also insist upon some changes in the state laws concerning the sanitarium. Among those that are of especial interest to people of the state they will ask for an amendment to the law so that the three nearest adult relatives may, with the approval of the ordinary, waive the present required ten days' notice of trial for lunacy.

This old ten-day-notice law has been a cruel provision, and has caused untold inconvenience and delay.

The board will also recommend that the law be amended so as to change the name of the Georgia State sanitarium to the Georgia State Hospital for the Insane.

REELFOOT LAKE CASE IS FINALLY DECIDED

Jackson, Tenn., June 7.—The supreme court has decided the Reelfoot Lake case, involving the title to the famous hunting and fishing resort in west Tennessee. The court held the original grant from North Carolina, the mother state of Tennessee, could not be vested from the West Tennessee Land company by the state, but the title to the remainder of the lake was vested in the state of Tennessee, and that the lake is navigable in a technical, legal sense. The object of the proceedings was to have the state acquire the lake by condemnation proceedings. Chief Justice Neil dissented.

FLORIDA EAST COAST WILL BE ELECTRIFIED

Jacksonville, Fla., June 7.—The first step toward the electrification of the Florida East Coast railroad between Jacksonville and the Beach cities, including St. Augustine, was taken last night, when the city council of Mayport, at the mouth of the St Johns river, granted the road a franchise to occupy all its streets with an electric line or lines. President Parrott stated recently that this work would soon begin. He is now in New York to arrange for the work, it is said here.

SCHOOL CENSUS INCREASE 109 IN 5 YEARS

Lyerly, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—The school population of this county has increased 109 in the past five years, according to the census which has just been taken of each school district of the county. There are 4,107 children of school age, 3,293 of this amount being white children and 814 negro children. In 1908 there were 3,998 school children in the county, showing an increase of 109. The Trion school district was the only one showing a loss, there being being 80 less than there was five years ago.

There are 1,621 white males, 1,672 white females, 393 colored males and 415 colored females of school age. There are 31 white schools and five negro schools in the county.

GAVE HIS SKIN AWAY, NOW NEEDS IT AGAIN

In Addition to That, Kaplow's Wife, Who Thought Him a Hero, Deserted Him.

New York, June 7.—Charles Kaplow, a young athlete who has several times recently given large areas of his skin for drafting operations on burned children, is himself in need of such sacrifice on the part of someone else.

The last patch removed—36 square inches—left a wound that has refused to heal, and physicians decided that new skin would have to be procured. Several persons volunteered and the operation was to have been performed Monday. In the meantime, however, Kaplow's wife disappeared, and no trace of her has been found. She was a trained nurse, attracted to him by his heroism, and they were married not long ago after he submitted to the first skin removal.

It was said at the Flower hospital today that Kaplow's condition is serious.

ALTHOUGH the hats of the summer are in the main extremely simple as to decoration, what little trimming is used is placed in so unusual a manner as to make the appearance of the hat rather unique. The result is generally very smart. The feather fancies used are most beautiful as may be seen in the illustrations on this page.

The Paradise and the aigrette are both much worn, while the natural ostrich feather has many admirers. Many of the hats shown are quite small like those of the spring, but almost as large a number of extremely large hats is to be seen.

FOXHALL KEENE BADLY INJURED

Captain of American Polo Team Breaks Collar Bone in Practice—New Selection Necessary.

Hempstead, N. Y., June 7.—Accident today deprived the American polo team of its elader and most brilliant performer, Foxhall P. Keene, ranking high among the famous polp players of the world and only three days ago appointed chief of the team which will meet the British challengers for the International trophy next Tuesday, was thrown from his pony at Meadow Brook during what was planned to be the last practice game before the international match, his collar bone being broken.

Another captain probably will be selected by the cup committee of the National Polo association by tomorrow night. Harry Payne Whitney, Lawrence Waterbury and J. M. Waterbury already have been designated as substitutes for the American team selected this week.

The accident caused intense excitement at the field, where the practice play was being watched by a large crowd. Keene was endeavoring to prevent the opposing players from scoring and i nmaking a sharp turn at the goal posts his pony slipped and fell. Keene was thrown and his pony, turning a complete somersault, rolled partly over him.

He lay stunned for some moments and then was taken in an automobile to the Meadow Brook club house, where the broken bone was set. The bone broken today, his left collar bone, is the same one he injured some years ago while hunting.

Australasian Doubles Team Wins Tennis From Americans; Final Single Matches Monday

New York, June 7.—Playing tennis that ran the gamut from sensational to mediocre, the Australian team defeated the United States pair in the doubles, match of the Davis cup preliminary tie today by a score of 2-6, 6-2, 8-7, 6-2, 9-7.

The victory gave the visitors their first match of the series, which now stands:

United States 2. Australsia 1.

On Monday the two remaining single matches will be played, and while America needs one match the Australasians must win both to secure entrance into the second round, to be played in England next month.

For thrills and excitement no Davis cup tennis match played in this country heretofore equaled that of today. The United States pinned its faith to Maurice E. McLoughlin and Harold H. Hackett, while the island continent's representatives were Stanley N. Doust and A. B. Jones.

Five Full Sets.

For five full sets these players battled back and forth, first one pair obtaining the advantage only to lose it a moment later to their opponents. Dashing individual play was nullified by wretched lack of team work and marvelous "sets" made only to be cancelled by stupid plays a moment later.

The spice of adventure was added by a drenching thunderstorm, which soaked the majority of the 5,500 spectators and delayed the play for almost an hour. Hardly had the second set been started when a heavy rain descended on players and spectators. Tarpaulins were hastily stretched over the playing turf, while the thousands rushed for the clubhouse. The crowds proved too large for the porches and floors, and when the supports began to creak the drenched gathering sought safety again in the open.

Rain Turns Tide.

The delay and the changed condition of the court, however, turned the tide of victory in favor of the Australasians. The heavy condition of the turf took the edge off McLoughlin's game, and gave the visitors the advantage that finally enabled them to win out.

While the Californian was the star of the match, the steady team work of the Australasians proved too much for him to overcome, aided as he was by flashes of brilliant form on the part of Hackett. The Americans never at any time appeared to understand the technique of double play, and either interfered with each other or left territory uncovered which their opponents were quick to shoot.

Hackett failed to show the form which has marked his play in previous years, and both his service and returns, for the greater part of the paly, were weak and ineffective.

Jones proved to be a tennis player who lived up to the reputation which preceded him to America, and his service and volleying were both fast and accurate. Doust did not appear to equal advantage, but he did team up with Jones in excellent manner at critical points, which enabled them to stave off the wonderful rallies of McLoughlin.

McLoughlin Stars.

It is doubtful whether the United States champion ever played better tennis under conditions distasteful to him. Realizing this the Australasians played at Hackett.

With McLoughlin serving the American's jumped into the lead and ran out the first set in eight games. The second set saw the situation reversed. The third set went to the Americans only after a desperate clash of twelve games, in which tennis of all types was uncovered. Deuce games were common.

In the fourth set the United States representatives appeared to lose all idea of team work, and instantly interfered with each other, and the score of 35 to 18 points and six games to two indicates clearly the visitors' superiority.

All the fireworks that tennis of championship caliber can develop were on exhibition in the fifth and deciding set. The play was so fast and thrilling that the spectators were on their feet throughout the entire sixteen games needed to decide the issue.

Doust and McLoughlin were the stars in the placement and passing, while Hackett and Jones appeared to fade under the gruelling pace. Finally, when the games had reached seven, all the invaders ran out the two straight games needed and victory was theirs.

Amateur Yachtsman Will Sail Lipton's Challenger

London, June 7.—"In entrusting the command of Shamrock IV. in the races for America's cup to an amateur yachtsman, W. P. Burton, I am aware I am doing something unprecedented," said Sir Thomas Lipton today, "but I believe the results will fully justify the wisdom of my choice.

"I regard Burton fully the equal of any professional skipper in this country, the proof of which he repeatedly has given while sailing against them in various yachts he has owned, notably with the 19-meter Octavia, in 1911, when he finished the season at the top of the class.

"Of course," Sir Thomas pointed out, "Burton will have the benefit of a professional skipper throughout the races—two if he wants them—and Nicholson, the Shamrock's designer, who is in the front rank of amateur yachtsmen, will also sail on the challenger. Nicholson shares my high opinion of Burton.

"So far as the races are concerned," Sir Thomas said in conclusion, "I simply foot the bills and let Burton do the rest."

WIFE'S FINE REDUCED BY PLEA OF HUSBAND WITH BABE IN ARMS

The plea of a father who clasped a tiny baby in his arms, and the importuning of a sympathetic police matron, yesterday morning prevailed upon Recorder Broyles to reduce a woman's fine so that she might be able to leave prison and return to her husband and baby.

She was Mrs. J. F. Rathnow, the young mother who stood before the recorder Friday and told him that she would rather go to the stockade than be sent to a house of correction. She was arraigned with another woman on a charge of disorderly conduct. The fine imposed was $25.75.

She was unable to pay the amount, and her husband was unable to raise it. Saturday morning he appeared at police headquarters with the pretty prisoner's 17-month-old babe, visiting her in the matron's ward. With tears in their eyes, the grief-stricken parents pleaded with Mrs. Bohnefeld, the police matron, to beg Judge Broyles to lower the fine so that the mother could gain freedom.

With the baby in his arms, the father stood before the recorder and importuned him to reduce the fine. It was lowered to 10.75, and was paid by Mr. Rathnow. The wife left headquarters with her husband.

Seven Premiers Sold Last Week

To the following seven of the oldest automobile owners in this city, and men who appreciate REAL automobile value:

Chas. I. Ryan, Cashier Fourth National Bank
Albert Howell, Jr., President Atlanta Constitution
Dan C. Lyle, Real Estate
Joseph Brown Connally, Real Estate
H. T. Dobbs, Insurance
Dr. L. C. Fischer
Jonathan B. Frost, Publisher Frost's Magazine, "The Call of the South"

You realize that there must be a reason for these seven well-known business men to purchase PREMIER cars in preference to all other cars.

There must be real reasons, backed by facts, and not by mere statements alone.

We KNOW, and they KNOW, the reasons.

We want YOU to KNOW them.

They purchased PREMIER cars—

Because—PREMIER have been building successful six-cylinder cars since 1906. This is not an experimental year with PREMIER.

Because—

Most High Grade Cars Will Have These Important Features Next Year

Six cylinders	Center control	Concealed hinges
Self-starting motor	Clear running boards	Electric Lights

PREMIER

"America's Greatest Touring Car" HAS THEM TODAY

And is the ONLY high grade car having ALL these important features TODAY. These refinements and conveniences are appreciated by all,

BUT---

These men, experienced in automobile stability and service, buy the Premier primarily because of its superior construction, which assures constancy and durability. Surely you do not want to make a mistake in your Automobile purchase. Therefore demand these vital features and specifications in the Motor Car you buy this season.

It Is No Longer Necessary to Buy a Car Every Year

In 1902 we saw the advantages of the vertical motor over the horizontal motor.

In 1903 we saw the advantages of the four-cylinder car over the two-cylinder which we were then manufacturing.

In 1906 we saw the advantages of the six-cylinder car over the four-cylinder.

In 1908 we saw the advantages of the long wheel base over the short.

In 1911 we saw the elegance of straight lines and fore-doors.
In the past the Premier Company saw that certain features were bound to come. They did come!

NOW—in 1913—today—we know the car of tomorrow is bound to have these features: Six cylinders—self-starting motor—left-side drive — center control — clear running boards — built-in lamps—concealed hinges—electric lights—tire inflator.

Within the next two years all high-grade cars will have these features. THE PREMIER HAS THEM TODAY. That is why the Premier is the logical car for long service.

Completeness and Studied Refinement Back Premier Features

There is a grace in the Premier fore-door design that gives elegance to the appearance. The conveniences and advantages of the left-side drive are well known. It enables you to drive more safely, and to enter the driver's seat with equal ease from either side. Clear running boards, built-in lamps and an elegant exterior and interior finish give the Premier a refined and tasteful appearance.

Luxurious Turkish cushions, made on double-decked springs, from highest grade hand-buffed leather and the best of white curled hair, combined with exceptionally long springs and scientific chassis balance, make Premier touring a joy.

The Premier Is the Logical Car For You to Buy

COMPARE the Premier, part for part, with other high-grade cars and you will find higher grade materials, better mechanical design, a more excellent finish, for less money over any six-cylinder car sold in America; and, in addition to these, the added features mentioned above.

COMPARE Premier records in the most rigid Reliability Contests, long-distance tours, such as the amateur "Ocean to Ocean" tour, and others and the results in the hands of users, with all the high-grade cars.

You then get the proof that the Premier is in a distinctive class of its own.

Miss Floy Bowls, of Rome, Ga., played the wedding march.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Since her graduation from Agnes Scott she has visited a great deal and has won a very wide circle of friends. The wedding will take place at 8 o'clock out doors on the spacious lawn under the huge oaks. Operations Avoided

Thousands of surgical operations are performed every year in our great city hospitals upon women afflicted with serious female troubles. Sometimes the operations are successful and sometimes they are not; sometimes they are necessary, many times they are not. It is safe to say that a very large percentage of surgical operations for female troubles may be wholly avoided. This statement is amply proven by hundreds of letters constantly being received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., and the following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock of Paw Paw, Mich., relates her sad experience, which is only one of thousands that are constantly occurring. Had she taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at first, as she finally did, her dreadful hospital experience would have been avoided.

Here is her own statement: Paw Paw, Mich.: "Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief, and finally sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks, and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and advise my friends who have any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. Orville Rock, Paw Paw, Mich.

If you are ill don't drag along until you are advised to have an operation, but remember that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills and has saved a vast army of women from surgical operations. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not at least give this famous medicine a trial.

A HANDSOME REWARD WILL BE GIVEN to any person who will prove that any of our testimonial letters constantly being published in the daily newspapers are not genuine and truthful, or that any of these women were paid in any way to give their testimonials or that the letters were published without their permission or that all the original letters did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

M. & M. ASSOCIATION ARE BUSY MAKING PREPARATIONS FOR THE BIG CONVENTION

Southern Merchants' Convention, to Be Held Here August 4-16, Will Be on Biggest Scale Ever—Committees Appointed and Details Working Out.

The Merchants and Manufacturers' association are now hard at work working out the details for the Southern Merchants' convention, which will be held here for the two weeks commencing August 4, 1913.

At a meeting last Wednesday committees were appointed, and the actual outline of the work to be done arranged. At the first convention of this nature held here, in February, 1912, there were 500 merchants who registered. The second convention, in August, 1912, saw the number increased to 2,000, and it is expected that the forthcoming third convention will show a total of 4,000 visiting merchants.

All the jobbers and manufacturers of the city are entering into the spirit of the convention with their whole energy and enthusiasm, and the outlook is of the brightest for a big success. There will be ample entertainment provided for the merchants, and every one will feel the heart of Atlanta hospitality which will make them determine to come again and as often as possible. There will also be plenty of time for the merchants to visit the different wholesale and manufacturing houses here, and it is expected that there will be a big revelation to some of the visitors who do not realize what Atlanta has to offer in this line.

At the meeting Wednesday Balling H. Jones was elected chairman of the convention, R. O. Crouch, of Griffin, Ga., vice chairman, and Willis E. Ragan, vice chairman.

The program committee of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association, who have the program arrangement for the August Southern Merchants' convention in hand will meet tomorrow at noon. The association is expecting 4,000 visiting merchants to the convention.

WHY NOT GET TOGETHER?

Why Not Get Together?

The story told by Cartoonist Stanton, on the first page of this week's Constitution Firing Line, is one that is worthy of the closest attention from all traveling men.

The movement to pass a bill through the Georgia legislature to create the office of hotel inspector in the state is a good one. It has been advocated in these columns from time to time, and, until it becomes a fact, it will continue to receive our support. The different traveling men's organizations have recently appointed representatives from their various bodies to study ways and means in reference to getting this law passed and to draw up a bill which will meet the requirements.

The Hotel Men's Association of Georgia meets this week at the Tybee hotel for their annual summer meeting. They have invited the traveling men to send their representatives to this meeting in order that they may confer together on this subject. As a matter of fact, the hotel men are as anxious to see this law pass as the traveling men, and the best and wisest move for both parties to take is to consolidate and work together for the same end.

There is no doubt that there are conditions in some of the hotels in the state which call for an inspector in order to protect the traveling public. The conditions in some hotels are such as call for the most rigid enforcement of all laws governing such places, and possibly the enactment of additional laws in order to improve them sufficiently. An inspector would make the enforcement of these laws a simple matter. But there are also some members of the traveling public who do not conduct themselves, while guests in a hotel, in such a manner as to make it an easy matter for the proprietor to keep his house in good condition. An inspector would also help to discover these offenders, and would help the hotel men to protect both themselves and other travelers from these pests.

The traveling men comprise what we firmly believe to be the finest body of men in the world. They are men who stand for the best in life for all humanity, and the man who counts the traveling salesmen as his friends has an asset on the books of his character which counts for a badge of honor of no mean standard. But the traveling salesmen are not the only people who use the hotels, and amongst the many patrons of a transient house all sorts and conditions of men are found. The traveling men will join hands with the hotel men in endeavoring to place the blame for much of the disgusting conditions of some hotel rooms where it rightly belongs. If the fault is with the hotel proprietor let it be known, and let him suffer as he deserves. But if the fault is with a previous occupant of the room let him be detected and punished as the law provides.

A hotel inspector would render it possible to place the blame on the right parties, and would protect both the traveling men and the hotel men. Both want to see an inspector in Georgia, and they should work together and use their almost unlimited power to secure one.

M'CORD-STEWART CO. IN THEIR NEW HOME

Big Wholesale Grocery House Has Moved to Splendid New Quarters on Hunter Street.

The McCord-Stewart company are now located in their new quarters on West Hunter street. The past week has seen the heaviest part of the big job of moving completed, and they are now shaking hands with their visitors in the new building. But if anybody wants to know what the delights of "flitting" are they can get a full description from this company.

Sales Manager E. M. Hudson was found Friday last literally "up to his eyes" in work. With his usual courtesy he gave a few moments of his time, but it was really criminal to take him from his job at all.

"We're moved," he said, "but the job isn't by any means finished and you can take my word for it that it isn't a job that I want to tackle again for a long time to come. Just look at the things I have on my hands to attend to at this moment. There are two squads of telephone men in the building installing phones—one from the Bell people and the other from the Atlanta. Then the overalls have a dozen or so men here wiring the building for lights and installing them. There is another bunch putting in floor mill machinery and another on coffee grinders and roasters. Then there is our regular business which has to be kept moving, fifteen cars of goods being unloaded right now, and a hundred other details that have to be watched.

"Yes, it's some job, but we are all proud of the new building. Floor space? Oh, 45,000 square feet. Yes, it's a beauty all right, and suits us fine!"

TRAVELERS INVITED TO SEND DELEGATES

Georgia Hotel Men Invite Travelers' Organizations to Send Representatives.

The midsummer meeting of the Georgia Hotel Men's association will be held at Tybee hotel on Friday and Saturday, June 13-14.

The Atlanta delegation will leave on Thursday, June 12, at 9:35 p. m., on the Central of Georgia, and will breakfast at the Savannah hotel. They will leave for the island about noon after being entertained by an auto ride around the city and other features.

An interesting feature of this meeting is the fact that the hotel men have invited each of the various traveling men's associations to send a representative to the meeting in order to discuss the proposed law to establish a hotel inspector in Georgia. This movement has been advocated by the traveling men and strongly urged through these columns. Each of the different associations have appointed members to take the matter up and push through such legislation as early as possible. The reputable hotel men of this state are just as anxious as the traveling men to see such a law on the statute books and they are anxious to co-operate with them in order to secure it. It is believed that this law will be a protection both to the traveling public and the hotel men themselves, and it is probable that at the meeting this week some definite idea of the form in which the bill is to be drawn will be arrived at.

Every good wish is a prayer and every good deed is an answer to prayer.

WEEKLY LUNCHEON THE CREDIT MEN'S

The regular weekly luncheon of the Credit Men's association for next Wednesday will have the pleasure of hearing a talk from Hon. John T. Wesley, representative-elect from Fulton county to the Georgia legislature. Mr. Smith will speak on the collection laws and proposed improvements. Every member of the association is strongly urged to be present, as Mr. Smith will doubtless have points of much importance and interest to make.

The luncheon, as usual will be given in the assembly hall of the New Kimball hotel.

Atlanta 18 expects to have a big meeting next Saturday night, June 14. Secretary Lunceford urges all of the members as well as all candidates whose applications we now hold, to be on hand.

Brother U. L. Cox has been in the house all this week, but he expects to hit the road again tomorrow morning.

Brother Hugh A. Smith says that he had rather be in the house than on the road, but those salesmen surely do keep him skipping.

Brother H. M. Ashe has just returned from Boston, where he went with the Old Guard. He said that he had the time of his life.

Brother W. J. Elliott, of the Arnold Hat company, expected to start out big Land early Monday morning on a trip of a month or six weeks.

the Warren Manufacturing company, leaves for his territory with the new fall line tomorrow, after a rest of one week in the city. R. G. McCowan will also return to his old territory in north Georgia.

The Dixie Pickle and Preserving company are busy renovating their place of business and things look as though it will surely be a beautiful place of its kind when the work is completed.

The week on the Seaboard, between Cartersville and Cedartown last week prevented W. Y. Bailey, of Fain & Stamps, who makes this territory, from getting to Cedartown. Mr. Bailey remarked that when one of the best towns he has on his list is cut off it makes a big inroad into his week's business.

MERCHANTS AND MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION

News Wise and Otherwise Of Boys Who Put 'Em Over

The making of automobiles by the thousands has become an old story and no longer occasions surprise, but the making of the most complex and important of automobile accessories a thousand a day was not heard of until the Bosch Magneto company completed its Springfield factory.

The dream of thousand lot productions has come true, for not only has "1,000 magnetos a day" production been realized, but it has been surpassed.

Averaging a thousand a day since January 1, the Bosch Magneto company actually produced and shipped over 1,780 magnetos from its Springfield factory on May 15.

The branches shipped 214 magnetos on the same day, thus making May 15 a record magneto shipment day.

Splitdorf Electric Company.

Another step toward placing the service for Splitdorf electrical ignition devices upon the highest standard of efficiency was taken when O. J. Rohde, of the Splitdorf Electric company, of New York, opened an Atlanta branch, situated at No. 8 Harris street, corner Peachtree street, on the 15th of May. It is a direct branch with all motor testing apparatus for their various electrical ignition outfits. They carry a complete stock of new goods, also parts for every outfit they have manufactured.

On June 1 Mr. Rohde will open another branch at No. 290 Halsey street, Newark, N. J., along the same lines as the one recently opened in Atlanta.

Shortly after the middle of June a similar branch will be opened for the Canadian trade with headquarters in Toronto, Canada.

Mike Murphy's Hard Luck.

Mike Murphy is certainly running in hard luck here. Three weeks ago the old guards of the Detroit Athletic club presented the veteran trainer with a Paige "36," but he has not had an opportunity to enjoy his car, having been laid up in bed.

He says: "I don't mind taking a rest once in a while if the doctors prescribe it, but what is worrying me is when I am going to get a ride in my new Paige. I'll give those doctors two more days to get me well, and if I can't get out of bed, then they are just going to place that old cot of mine in the rear of that machine, and then I will get a ride."

Wagner in Tire-Making.

Fred J. Wagner, who has been identified with the automobile business as an able figure in many capacities, has entered the tire-making field and of it he has just been elected vice-president of the Ajax-Grieb Rubber company, makers of Ajax tires. With Horace De Lisser, chairman of the board of directors, and J. C. Matlack, secretary, Wagner makes up the strongest possible representation for this company in the selling end. Wagner is probably one of the best known men in the industry and known as an able business man.

Wagner's first connection with the automobile business was trade journal advertising in which he made a great success. He also is a prominent figure on the sporting side, acting as official starter in all sorts of big contests. Later on he became owner of Horseless Age, retiring from that not long ago.

British Engineers Coming.

Consequent upon the visit made to them by the Americans in 1911, a party of British engineers arrived in New York via S. S. Minnewaska, on May 26. The visiting engineers, most of whom are members of the Institution of Automobile Engineers of England, came to this country to attend the semi-annual technical sessions of the Society of Automobile Engineers under the auspices of which they will also make an inspection tour of automobile manufacturing plants through out the country.

Among the European engineers are the following: T. B. Browne, president Institution of Automobile Engineers, London; Basil H. Joy, secretary I. A. E.; Thomas Clarkson, member Society Motor Manufacturers and Traders, London; Carl T. F. Henson, Coventry; Hans Ruppenthal, superintendent Daimler Motoren Gesselschaft, Marienfelde, Germany; J. Ferguson, Belfast, Ireland; J. Inglis Ker, Glasgow, Scotland; C. Gilbert Moore, Coventry; T. C. Pullinger, Paisley, Scotland; E. Wexler, Bristol; Chas. Wheeler, J. B. Dunlop, F. S. Bennett, H. Massac Bulat, J. A. Preswich, E. C. Paskell, London; E. B. Wood, Bristol; L. Pollack, Coventry; C. J. Branston, Cambridge; Tom Norton, Llandrindod Wells; R. W. Smith, Redditch.

R. H. Johnston, New York manager of the White company, is taking the initiative in organizing a reunion of all those who took part in the memorable New York-to-Pittsburg endurance contest in 1903. Next October will occur the tenth anniversary of the event and it is planned to bring together at a banquet the entire band of "Mudlarks," as those who took part in the affair are called.

Preparations for the dinner have been started at this early date in order that every one who is eligible to attend may be reached and make definite plans to attend the banquet.

The "Mudlarks' mileage medal" will be awarded to the one who travels the greatest distance to attend the banquet; the "Mudlarks' musical medal" will be awarded to the one who composes the best song relating to the run, and the "Mudlarks' mirthmaker medal" will be voted to the one who tells the best anecdote.

Other prizes and surprises are in contemplation and there is no doubt that this gathering of the pioneers of the industry will be a fine and festive affair.

Mr. Johnston has asked the following "Mudlarks" to serve on the committee of arrangements: H. W. Perry, Harry Unwin and John C. Wetmore, New York city; Howard E. Reynolds and John C. Kerrison, Boston; Webb Jay, Chicago; Windsor T. White and Frank B. Stearns, Cleveland, and F. Ed. Spooner, Detroit.

The motorist who today buys one of the light, handy and efficient automobiles which have become recognized as staple all over the world is often amazed at the cars and attention he finds he has purchased along with his car. More and more manufacturers have come to realize that lasting sales success is based on the prestige of their cars and the hands of owner-drivers. Skillful service is used increasingly as a sales argument by dealers and often, for long periods, no charge is made for the minor adjustments and skilled advice given a novice.

A step still further in advance has been taken by the Studebaker corporation which believes it a matter of special importance to have owners of its cars thoroughly familiar with the forces that "make the wheels go 'round."

With infinite care and at no small expense the Studebaker engineering department has compiled, in terms which any layman can understand, an "information book" with a separate edition for each of the three Studebaker models. The book is a complete treatise on the car, explaining each detail of the mechanism, giving explicit directions for its care and making plain in each case the reason for attention and the results of adjustment. The book starts with a chapter of general instructions for use as soon as the car is delivered. The owner is then told how to start the motor, drive the car and stop it.

During the past year investigating committees in New York city have unearthed and laid bare some startling facts. The good citizens of Gotham did not believe such conditions could exist right in their home town, but the proof was there, and it looks now as though they really would get to the men "higher up."

While these committees were digging up evidence, the Watson Contracting company of New York was conducting a little investigation of their own. The company specializes in street grading, and naturally the one big item of expense is the cost of hauling the raw materials from the water front to the location of the different jobs.

Previous to 1912 they used horses exclusively for all of their hauling. Then as an experiment they purchased two Garford trucks and kept a careful check on the amount of work they could do, together with upkeep costs as compared to that of horses. The economy and all-around efficiency of the trucks was so apparent that today, just a year from the time of their first tests, this company has in operation a fleet of eighteen Garford trucks.

Mr. Baisly, a member of this firm, claims that one of these trucks will do the work of nine of their best horses, and that they have sold as many as forty-four horses at one time since the Garford trucks have been installed.

In appreciation of the splendid efforts of Messrs. Goux, Wishart and Merz, second and third at Indianapolis in this race, the Bosch Magneto company of New York will present them with checks of $500, $300 and $200, respectively.

Up until ten days before this great event we did not expect to have a Firestone tire on any of the cars entered in the 500-mile international sweepstake race at Indianapolis, Decoration day.

The driver of the Peugeot cars, however, after trying out various makes of tires on the track, called us by long distance and requested that in consideration of their using our tires on cars imported into America, that we sell them Firestone tires.

We promptly drew tires from our different branch stocks in order to get a proper supply to Indianapolis, our limited stock did not even permit of a selection of tires—we took new and old just as they ran.

We did not know positively that Wishart of the Mercer team was using our tires until the day of the race.

There were only three out of the thirty-one entries that used Firestone tires, and, as stated above, these three came to us unsolicited and were taken care of from tires which we had in stock.

The day of the race was exceedingly hot—the hottest temperature that ever marked an international automobile race. This, of course, made it particularly hard on tires.

You can readily understand how gratifying it was when Goux in his Peugeot car won the race and Wishart in his Mercer finished in second place—both racing on Firestone tires.

The other car equipped with Firestone tires was obliged to leave the race because the tire took fire and was damaged beyond immediate repair.

It was a great race and a great victory for Firestone quality and endurance.

As an evidence of the increasing popularity of motor trucks with power dumping bodies for contracting work, the Pennsylvania state highway department has purchased from the American Locomotive company two Alco trucks to be employed in road building activities in the state.

Both vehicles are of 5 tons rating and are fitted with a type of body for hauling heavy materials such as rock, gravel, crushed stone and sand. The body raises or lowers by the power of the motor, has a maximum angle of 46 degrees, and deposits a full load of material in thirty seconds. A hand windlass is also provided in the event that a slower speed is desired.

Another feature of the trucks is the type of tailboard which opens automatically with the lifting of the body and is so constructed that the material carried may be spread over the road as the truck travels forward.

The entire operation of the hoisting mechanism is controlled from the driver's seat, a lever being conveniently located for the purpose. The dumping mechanism does not bear any weight of the load and there is no wear and tear upon it while the truck is on the road.

"Contractors, coal dealers and others who demand speed in unloading and loading have come to realize that the more of its time a motor truck is actually on the road the more money it saves," says C. A. Benjamin, the Alco general sales manager. "The business radius is correspondingly wider and greater mileage is possible for the truck. That is what has led engineers to devise a method of eliminating idle minutes."

In India the American car is rapidly getting a strong foothold. It has been a hard fight. India being an English possession, of course, a number of English cars have been sold there. Up until lately, the automobile-buyer has been very skeptical in buying a low-priced car, owing to the fact that the English car has been so high-priced that the automobile owner of India has been educated up to the idea that he could not purchase a reliable car unless he had expended a good sum of money for it.

Evidence to the effect that the popular-priced car is gaining a good foothold in India is brought out by the following letter received by the Paige-Detroit dealer in Bombay, India, from one of his customers. "It may interest you to hear of my experience with the Paige car, 4-seater, purchased May, 1912. Now that it has done 4,000 miles, I have nothing but praise for its behavior. It has been used in all weathers and over rough roads and has never caused me the slightest trouble. The engine runs silently and without vibration, and has had no attention beyond grinding valves. I am confident when this is better known it will have an extensive sale and supercede many of the other higher-priced American cars."

Confronted with the necessity of handling in a short time, a great amount of granite to be used in the monument to Oliver Hazard Perry at Put-in-Bay, Ohio, which is to be dedicated September 10, a firm of Massachusetts quarrymen found their horse equipment inadequate for the task and turned to a Perless 5-ton motor truck.

The quarries of the Massachusetts Pink Granite company are on the top of a high hill, 2 miles from the mill where the blocks are shaped and prepared for shipment. Up this hill no road has ever been built; there is only the track used for many years by the horses drawing stone carts. In spite of the steep grade down which the loads were hauled, it took sometimes four and sometimes six, or in bad weather, even ten horses to pull the carts along. Two trips a day were made.

Now the one truck is doing the work that was done by all the horses and a lot more than the horses were ever able to do. The conditions are about as unfavorable for trucking as any that could be experienced. The blocks are carried one at a load and before they are dressed they weigh from 11,000 to 12,000 pounds. Loading is done by the use of a heavy derrick.

Over this route—much worse than over, after trying out various makes, the car on the left—called up to the long distance and requested that in consideration of their using our tires on cars imported into America, that we sell them Firestone tires.

We promptly drew tires from our different branch stocks in order to get a proper supply to Indianapolis. Our limited stock did not even permit of a selection of tires—we took new and old just as they ran.

NEW ERA FOR FARMER IS BROUGHT BY AUTO

President Willys Says Automobile Is Enlarging and Revolutionizing Farm Life.

By JOHN W. WILLYS,
President Willys-Overland Company, Toledo, Ohio.

The automobile, more than any other one thing, has been the means of bringing the farmer in closer touch with the outside world. This point I am sure will be conceded by the most biased of people. Before the coming of the motor car, it was a common occurrence for a farmer and his family, living 20 or 30 miles from the railroad, to spend their entire lives cooped up in their own little circle, with little or no knowledge of the big things going on all around them.

Today we find the farmer a bigger factor than ever before in the history of the world. He is no longer looked upon as a mere producer of foodstuffs, necessary for the general welfare of the country, but as an important citizen, to whom we owe the lion's share of our great prosperity.

And the automobile is largely responsible for the present high standing of the farmer. With it he can get into the big cities, where he can see and find out what other people are doing and keeping pace with progress. There, is, too, another angle that must not be overlooked, and that is the automobile is the one source of pleasure for the farmer's entire family. We all appreciate a change of scenery once in a while, and the general atmosphere and customs of the city people are as interesting to the farmer and his family as the open farm country is to city folks.

By traveling about more and more and rubbing shoulders with the different peole, the farmer has acquired a vast amount of knowledge. The farmer has also developed into the shrewdest kind of a buyer—machinery and automobiles in particular. The modern American farmer can ask more intelligent questions relating to the construction and operation of an automobile than any man I know of, and what is still more to the point, he understands and remembers a thing when you tell it to him.

Auto Speedway Has Done Big Work for Indianapolis

By George M. Dickson, General Manager National 40 Company.

When the first self-propelled vehicle was made to run—and then, more remarkable, was actually stopped at will, people laughed. That laugh soon changed into an ever-increasing cheer all over the world.

When four Indianapolis men presumed to suggest a speedway upon which automobiles would be raced at unheard-of speeds, the same people smiled knowingly. That smile changed into a look of surprise and admiration.

Such is the progress in Indiana, where the first car was built, and where the fastest time with motor cars has been made.

These four men who conceived the new world-famous speedway are Carl Fisher, A. C. Newby, James Allison and Frank Wheeler, all connected with the motor car industry of Indianapolis.

In 1909 the first meet was held on the two-and-a-half-mile speedway. The track was not paved then. At that time one manufacturer watched his cars practice and suggested that the day would come when he could do a mile a minute on the track. Last year cars traveled at the rate of 100 and more miles an hour on the speedway. Such is the rapid growth in the motor car building.

The speedway has done much for the entire motor car industry. It has done much for the particular car builders who entered their product; it has done much for the city of Indianapolis and, more surprising, it has declared dividends for the owners.

No-Rim-Cut Tires 10% Oversize

Made In Secret

The essential feature in No-Rim-Cut tires is made under lock and key.

It cannot be copied. And a faultless tire without hooks on the base was never made without it.

That's why the legions who wish to end rim-cutting have come to No-Rim-Cut tires.

None Like It

Of course other makers try to end rim-cutting. It's the bugaboo of Tiredom.

More money has been spent on these attempts than on any other tire improvement.

But faults developed and tires came back. That's the only reason why any maker clings to clincher tires today.

We solved the problem by six flat bands of braided wires which we vulcanize into the tire base. We set them at certain angles.

This makes the hooked base unnecessary. It lets you turn your rim flanges outward. Not one of these tires has ever been rim-cut. And in seven years no fault has developed.

This is the feature which we control by secrecy.

Over Rated Size

No-Rim-Cut tires, compared with clinchers, are 10 per cent oversize. That means one-tenth more capacity. And that, on the average, adds 25 per cent to the tire mileage.

So we save rim-cutting and save overloading. And that means so much that Goodyear tires now far outsell any other. It means so much that last year's sales exceeded our previous 12 years put together.

T. P. A. JOTTINGS

By W. M. Jenkins, State Press Chairman, Georgia Division, T. P. A.

Our state chaplain, Dr. S. R. Belk, who is pastor of Park Street M. E. church, Atlanta, according to our way of thinking preaches the gospel fresh from the Bible. Humanity requires service and those who do not give it die bankrupt so far as the affections of the people are concerned, at any rate. Financial advantages are given to but a few and the opportunity of doing what is commonly called "something really worth while" is limited. But without the financial opportunity other opportunities for good have come to all of us. We could wish for nothing better than to bring men closer together, cementing the ties of affection and relationship so that all might have a better understanding of each other. The lives of most men are pitched in minor keys and our voices add but little, individually to the volume of sound in the universe. To our thinking the opportunities most cherished are given in this age to those with money, or its equivalent "pull." To win a firm hold on the ladder of success either money is needed or a share in that thing which the T. P. A. is, and always will be, working against—special privilege. We want everybody to fare alike, and would have the landmarks and guides in the journey of life equally divided for the successful and the unsuccessful. If we could leave the world so that everyone had enough and no one too much, these would be worthy relics of our best affections, tokens and records of our best and happiest hours.

Christ brought the first message of hope to the toilers, teaching and preaching love, peace and good will to every human being.

No man is exempt from some defect or can live free from some misdemeanors. Therefore, by the practice of slander, every man may be rendered odious and infamous—private citizens as well as officials.

It is unfortunate, to say the least, for any man who becomes satisfied with the life he is living, the thoughts he is thinking and the deeds he is doing. It is a bad day when there is not forever beating and knocking on the door of his soul some great desire to do things larger and better.

The writer, as a delegate, regrets very much not being able to join the crowd and attend the national convention at Richmond, Va., June 9 and 10.

What if you have been misrepresented, crushed in the mass and condemned? If you are innocent, forget it. There are many such victims. The laws of retribution are safe and just. From their decrees none can escape, not even the biggest chiefs and lawyers.

We believe it is the unchangeable and eternal principles of the moral law implanted within our inner selves that incites and directs. Only so far as you are able to walk by that guidance can you become permanently a good man or a great man. The same principle that governs individuals governs the city, the state and nation.

The T. P. A. as an organization stands upon the broad principles of the brotherhood of man and the universal fatherhood of justice to all.

Brother Erlich, of Savannah, is doing good and noble work for the T. P. A's. Hello, is our hand to you, Brother Erlich.

If all men with the noble influence would say "This day and all succeeding days I will live honestly with all men, be sober, pure and clean," it would help us. Preach men, not by preaching, but by example.

Where is that dinner the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce was going to give to the traveling salesmen of Atlanta?

The T. P. A's ask no quarter and on questions of principle concede nothing. We believe at all times that we are right in our stand for the public good.

We are not willing to turn the government over to the tender mercies of a certain few who would bottle up everything good and sweet—the sunshine, fresh air, love and the right to live in happiness.

We believe that judicial reform is not only needed, but absolutely necessary for the safety and welfare of the people.

Why should the poor be deprived of Sunday picture shows, while the rich roll out in automobiles on that day and enjoy life otherwise as they see fit?

A police with the T. P. A. is an unselfish policy. It means that you are thinking of your family and not of yourself.

The Dougherty-Little Redwine company have leased the building in which the old Anderson Hardware company did business on South Pryor street and move there July 1. They will occupy this place until the completion of their new building at 90 S. Pryor street, which is at present under construction.

T. L. Barron, with the Dougherty-Little-Redwine company, came in Friday from Cedartown with a nice bunch of orders. A. N. Wilkins also came in during the week with another good bunch. All the men report good rains in their respective territories and excellent crop prospects.

ADDRESS TO THE CITY SALESMEN

Delivered by Sam J. Jones to City Salesmen's Association at Last Saturday's Meeting.

The aphorism, "As a man thinketh, so is he," not only embraces the whole of a man's being, but reaches out to every condition and circumstance of his life. A man is literally what he thinks, his character being the complete sum of all his thoughts. As the plant springs from the seed, so every act of man spring from the hidden seed of thought, and could not have appeared without it.

Act is the blossom of thought, and joy and suffering are the fruits. Thus does a man garner in the sweet and bitter fruitage of his own husbandry. If one endure in purity of thought, joy follows him as his own shadow. Man is made or unmade by himself. In the armory of thought he forges the weapons by which he either builds for himself a mansion of joy or by which he destroys himself for all time. By the right choice and true application of thought man ascends to divine perfection, by the abuse and wrong application of thought he descends below the level of the brutes.

As a being of intelligence, power and love, and as the Lord of his own thoughts man holds the key to every situation, and contains within himself that reforming rejuvenating agency by which he may make himself whatever he wills. Just as a gardener cultivates his plot, keeping it free from weeds and growing the flowers and fruits which he requires, so may a man tend the garden of his mind, weeding out all the wrong, useless and impure thoughts and cultivating towards perfection the flowers and fruits of right, useful and pure thoughts.

By pursuing this process a man sooner or later discovers that he is the master gardener of his own soul, the director of his life. He also reveals within himself the laws of thought and understands, with ever increasing accuracy, how the thought forces and mind elements operate in the shaping of his character, circumstances and destiny.

Every man is where he is by the law of his being, the thoughts which he has built into his character have brought him there, and in the arrangement of his life there is no element of chance, but all is the result of a law which cannot err. The soul attracts that which it secretly harbors, it reaches the height of its cherished aspirations, or it falls to the level of its unchastened desires. Every thought seed sown or allowed to fall into the mind and take root there, produces its own fruit, and blossoming sooner or later into act, bears its own fruitage of opportunity and circumstance. As the reaper of his own harvest, man learns by both suffering and bliss. A man does not come to the almshouse or jail by the tyranny of fate or circumstance, but by the pathway of groveling thoughts and base desires. Men attract that which they are. Their whims, fancies and ambitions are thwarted at every step, but their innermost thoughts are fed with their own food, be it foul or clean. Man's wishes and prayers are only gratified when they harmonize with his thoughts and actions.

It is pleasing to human vanity to believe that one suffers for one's virture, but not until man has extirpated every sickly, bitter and impure thought from his mind can he recognize the great law, which is absolutely just and which cannot give evil for good or good for evil. Possessed of such knowledge, he will then know that his life is and always has been, justly ordered, and that all his past experiences, good and bad, were the exquisite result of his evolving, ye unevolved self. Good thoughts cannot produce anything but good actions, and good actions cannot bring bad results. Nothing can come of corn but corn, nothing from nettles but nettles. Man understands this law in the natural world and works in accordance with it, but few understand it as yet in the mental and moral worlds, and, therefore, do not co-operate with it, although its action is just as sure and undeviating.

Law, not confusion, is the dominating principle of life; justice, not injustice, is the soul and substance of life and righteousness, not corruption is the moulding and moving force in the spiritual government of the world.

This being so, man has but to right himself to find that the universe is right. During the process of putting himself right he will find that, as he alters his thoughts towards things and people, things and people will alter towards him. The proof of this is in every person, and therefore, admits of easy proof by systematic introspection and self-analysis.

All that a man achieves and all that he fails to achieve is the direct result of his own thoughts. In a justly ordered universe, where loss of equipose means total destruction, individual responsibility must be absolute. A man's weakness, strength and purity are his own. They are brought by himself and not by another, they can only be altered by him, himself. His condition is his own and not another man's. His sufferings and happiness are evolved from within. As he thinks, so he is. As he continues to think, so he remains.

Manager Lynn Fort, of the Lamar & Rankin Drug Co., has been down with typhoid fever for the past ten days or so. Reports Friday stated that he was a great deal better, and that the fever had gone, but that he was still too weak to sit up. Condolences are with Mr. Fort and all the traveling men hope to see him around again soon.

W. E. Rumph, with the Warren Manufacturing company, left last Wednesday for his territory in South Carolina. He is carrying his new fall line, and is already flooding the company with orders.

POPULAR DRY GOODS MAN BACK IN CITY

L. B. Robinson Comes Back to Atlanta and Takes Important Position.

L. B. Robinson is one of the most popular dry goods salesmen that ever traveled out of Atlanta. He is a man who has devoted his entire business career to the one line of business and he has become known as one of the men in the dry goods and notions line who understands the business thoroughly and whose statements can be absolutely relied upon.

Mr. Robinson started his business career with the A. M. Robinson company and was with them for five years. During his time on the road for this firm he led the entire force of salesmen for each year he was with them.

His next connection was with Inman, Smith & Co. and he remained with them for eight years, during which time he repeated his record with the Robinson company by again leading the entire forces for every year.

He was next with John Silver & Co. for a couple of years. At the end of this time his health not being of the best, he decided to retire from the road and went to live in Lumpkin, Ga., where he has a nice retail dry goods store.

He states, however, that the pull of the Atlanta spirit was too much for him and that he was always longing to return to this city. Therefore, when the A. M. Robinson company was looking for a good man to fill the position made vacant by the death of Robert Ransom, that of house and sales manager and assistant buyer, and when they wrote to Mr. Robinson, stating that they were anxious for him to accept the said position, he soon decided that he would have to return to Atlanta, and a few weeks ago saw him back with his first firm. He now, as he expresses it, "feels perfectly at home" once more.

Mr. Robinson has moved his home to Atlanta, and he and his family are residing at 111 McLendon avenue, Inman Park.

CENTRAL BAPTIST AND GAS TIE UP.

Central Baptist and Grace Baptist fought hard innings to a tie Saturday, the score being 10-10 when the game was called in the ninth on account of darkness. Nails scored the winning run in the sixth inning and up to this time Central especially Parris, was invincible. Both pitchers, Parris, Grace proved the better mud horse and remained effective to the end. Grace tallied in the ninth. Central really won in the ninth but the umpire did not see the play, so the score remained tied. Grace failed to score in their three innings, but was unable to find the pill with such effectiveness. After Nails had been soaked by the rain, Cohen, Vanderpie, and Hargett, Grace battery, Bagwell, Parris, Nails and Stallings for Grace, were the batting stars. Both teams played excellent ball, considering the muddy ground and slippery ball.

CENTRAL BAPTIST AND GAS TIE UP.

Central Baptist and Grace Baptist fought hard innings to a tie Saturday, the score being 10-10 when the game was called in the ninth on account of darkness. Nails scored the winning run in the sixth inning and up to this time Central especially Parris, was invincible. Both pitchers, Parris, Grace proved the better mud horse and remained effective to the end. Grace tallied in the ninth. Central really won in the ninth but the umpire did not see the play, so the score remained tied. Grace failed to score in their three innings, but was unable to find the pill with such effectiveness. After Nails had been soaked by the rain, Cohen, Vanderpie, and Hargett, Grace battery, Bagwell, Parris, Nails and Stallings for Grace, were the batting stars. Both teams played excellent ball, considering the muddy ground and slippery ball.

WHAT THE WILD WAVES ARE SAYING

BE INCISIVE!

* * * * *

* * * * *

He ma yhave taken an order, but in that case a 2-cent stamp would have been of as much good.

* * * * *

The difference between order-takers and salesmen is that the first is merely a survival of delivering mail by private carrier and the second is a man who makes business and money for his firm.

* * * * *

The man who sells the most goods is the man who has the strongest personality to impress on the trade.

* * * * *

The man who is selling shirts and is a strong enough personality to make the shirt buyers in his territory think of him when they think of shirts, is the man who is going to get the business.

* * * * *

The man who has no personality worth speaking of is not going to sell any shirts except a few when he happens to be on the spot and the merchant gives him an order either to get a quick delivery or else out of charity. In either case a 2-cent stamp would have done the work just as good.

NEW CONNECTION FOR DRY GOODS SALESMAN

One of the popular dry goods salesmen who work out of Atlanta is W. W. Scott, Jr. Mr. Scott has registered from here for the past fifteen or sixteen years, and he has handled dry good and notions all that time. He is known throughout the territory as one of the most successful and popular salesmen from this city. Mr. Scott has recently been added to the sales force of the Ragan-Malone company. He will cover the territory in southeast Georgia and will start out for his new house immediately on his return from a trip he at present is making to New York city.

A POPULAR HOTEL.

Salesman Tells of Splendid Hotel in Bullochville.

J. D. O'Rear, who travels for the J. D. Frazier company, was talking the other day of the difference in hotels found in this state. He spoke favorably of the average, but said there were some which stood out in his memory as particularly good places to stop at. As an illustration of this class of house he referred to the Hotel Tuscawilla, at Bullochville, Ga.

"It is a new house," said Mr. O'Rear, "but it has already won a wide popularity amongst the traveling men. It was built by a prominent merchant of the town, Will Butts, and when he erected it he had in mind the fact that what he wanted was a hotel which would rank as first-class in every respect and absolutely up-to-date. There is electric lights throughout, hot and cold running water in every room and every other feature of the modern hostelry. They are catering expecially to the commercial trade and have made a rate of $2.50 a day which is a wonder when the fare is considered.

But perhaps the way in which they are gaining fame the fastest is through the home cook which found there I tell you, the meals are simply great. I guess the fact that it is a lady who has charge of the hotel has something to do with this. She is Mrs. Carrie Lou Green, and, believe me, she is certainly showing that a woman can run a hotel, just exactly as it should be run. I advise all the boys to visit here and see for themselves if I'm not exactly right on this matter, at any rate."

BUSINESS BUILDERS

THE SALESMAN'S MOTTO: I will accomplish everything within the power of energy, tact and resourcefulness; nay, more, I will attempt and overcome the impossible.

THE SELLING APPROACH.

There is probably no harder problem which faces the young salesman than when he has to approach one of the "big" men and try to sell him goods. Contrary to the doctrine that our greatest work, however, was "all men are free and equal," the junior traveler frequently feels that there is a wide difference between diffrent people he calls on and some times the words "merchant prince" means to him a man as hard to approach as a prince of the royal house surrounded by guards and secretaries. The awe which royity inspires through material display, a big merchant inspires through the very size of his business and the numbers of people he has in his employ. This problem can only be overcome by persistent work, but the salesman must remember that the remedy lies wholely with himself.

Many a young salesman has left his hotel with his samples to go and call on a prospective customer and marched bravely around the first corner, to go a little slower around the second and so on until, when he comes to the place of call he first hesitates and then goes right past and walks around the block instead. Possibly after a round or two he will screw up his courage and go in or maybe he will go back to his room at the hotel and sit there until his courage has again returned and then, metaphorically shutting his eyes, go in and be so flustered that he forgets all his selling arguments and backs out feeling little and cheap.

But the next time he gets a similar attack he will not hesitate quite so long before entering and each time he will improve a little until soon he has discovered the fact that no matter how big a man's name may be over his store, he rarely weighs more than the average in actual bulk and as a general rule, the bigger a man he is in a business was the easier he is to approch with a straightforward business proposition.

That is one fact which every young salesman would do well to remember and keep repeating to himself. In nine cases out of ten the bigger the man he approaches the more courteous he will find him. In this day and time a man who is abrupt and rude generally is filling some little job which only makes the salesman smile when the man is discourteous.

For a number of years the writer sold goods over a territory covering several states. The line carried was such that every class of business man was called upon, from the millionaire manufacturer to the corner retailer.

In every case except one the men who refused to give courteous attention to the proposition were the men who ran the smallest stores and in most cases did ntheir own clerking. The only big manufacturer, big merchant or professional man who refused to listen was a certain manufacturer who was notorious through his entire state for his grouchiness and discourtesy and whose business increased over 50 per cent the first year after his own retirement.

There is no better training for the young salesman than for him to mix with big business men. See them as much as possible and remember that there is nothing to fear from the man himself, it is only his business which makes him awe-inspiring. A certain firm had a salesman who suffered from this bashfulness. They sold heating fixtures for residences and there was a prospect of selling a fixture for the white house in Washington. The president at that time had expressed a desire to meet the salesmen for fixtures in person and understand thoroughly the different features. The house in question sent this particular salesman, and, although he didn't make that sale, the experience of talking with the president gave him such confidence that he never hesitated after that to call on any one else and he became a star salesman for the house in a very short time.

CHILE CON CARNE

"Sport" Ramsuer, with Fain & Stamps, remarked that they had more business than ever this week. He surmised that this was due to the fact that Bill Quarles rode in the first automobile in the grocers' parade on Wednesday, with Mayor Woodward. The other occupants of the car were J. G. Rainey, J. P. Eve and H. L. Simmons.

G. N. Gabriel, an old salesman with the Consolidated Paper company, was in visiting his old firm yesterday. He is now with the National Paper company.

G. B. McDowell, buyer and sales manager of the E. L. Adams company, has been indisposed all week, and is at Indian Springs recuperating.

Mark Hernstein, representing Altshuler Bros., umbrella and parasol manufacturers of New York, was a visitor with Brown, Ferryman & Greene company last Saturday.

Chris Irby, Jr., came in Saturday with a roll of orders that were evidence of a splendid week's business. He is with the A. M. Robinson company.

The ins this week with the Ridley-Williamson-Wyatt company are L. D. Lassiter and J. S. Cheek. They both brought nice bunches of orders with them.

W. H. Stentz, manager for the John Deere Plow company of Atlanta, left for Moline, Ill., yesterday afternoon, where he will attend the meeting of managers of branch houses of the John Deere company.

J. H. Roberts, city salesman for John Silvey & Co., led the sales forces of his company on May sales. He stated that they had the popular fabrics that the Atlanta merchants require and were thus able to answer all demands.

OLD CITY SALESMAN OPENS NEW CONCERN

The many friends of J. J. Barnes, Jr., will be interested to hear that he has started into business for himself. He is proprietor of the Oriental Dry Cleaning company, located at 65 James street.

Mr. Barnes was with the National Biscuit company for eleven years. About five years ago he was vice president of the City Salesmen's association and gave up his office when he was sent to Macon for his company to start a branch house there. About three years ago he returned to Atlanta in the capacity of local manager for the National Biscuit people and remained with them until about four months ago, when he started the dry cleaning business for himself.

He is a popular man with the Atlanta salesmen and probably knows as many of these good fellows as any man in the city. His friends will congratulate him on his venture and he will be glad to see them just as fast they can find time to call on him.

SOME DOINGS OF THE BOYS IN ATHENS

By Sam Woods.

N. K. Smith, Georgia salesman for the Stephen Putney Shoe company, of Richmond, Va., and author of "Ride Shots" in The Constitution Firing Line, was here last week.

H. T. Lewis, of the Lewis Shirt company, reports business good the past month through Alabama and Tennessee.

M. L. Mannee, salesman for the Atlantic Ice and Coal company, is just back from Elebton.

M. C. McWhorter has done good business since accepting a position with the Callaway Grocery company.

T. W. Brobston, of the Fleming-Deering Hardware company, attended the Georgia Retail Hardware convention last week, held in Atlanta.

M. S. Hodgson, salesman for the Empire State Chemical company, pulled down the Wheat prize for the best golf playing last week at the Country club.

T. Dudley, salesman for the Georgia Mattress company, leaves today for an extended trip for the house.

J. W. Harris reports good business from his traveling man, T. B. Isbell covers north Georgia; C. A. Lowe works the Georgia road, and J. H. Massey has Athens territory.

H. C. Stovall, of Cornelia, and salesman for Talmadge Bros. Co., was in Athens last week.

Ira Bradberry, salesman for the American Tobacco company, came in Friday with a pocket full of orders.

C. J. O. Farrell and W. M. Calloway, salesman for the Atlas Mattress and Spring Bed company, were among the arrivals Friday.

R. W. Skelton, the "knight of the grip" for the Moss Manufacturing company, came in Friday night.

H. W. Duggans, salesman for the Underwood Typewriter company, was in the Classic City recently.

J. M. Alexius, representing the M. Stachelberg Co., cigar manufacturers, is with the Capital City Tobacco company for the next two or three weeks. The company have recently taken on the Stachelberg line and state that they were led to do so by the big success these cigars met with when they placed some on their cigar stand in the Piedmont hotel. The Stachelberg line is known all over the country and is particularly popular under their La Fama Universal brand.

J. D. O'Rear, with the J. D. Frazier company, has been indisposed all week and consequently has not been "hitting the grit" as usual. He expects, however, to get out again tomorrow.

SAY WHEN!

In some sections of the West the rainfall is mighty unaccommodating to the farmers. For six months it will rain nearly every day, and then will come another six months without a drop.

Only by means of costly irrigation can they raise a crop.

Their soil is, in itself, above the average in fertility. The total rainfall during a year is ample, but the trouble is they DON'T GET IT WHEN THEY NEED IT.

Now, some merchants have that same trouble in regard to their stock of shoes.

They put a lot of money into shoes every year. They may get good shoes, too, but they don't make as much money as they ought.

Why?

The Red Seal Shoe Factory, right here in Georgia, has solved this problem for thousands of the South's best merchants.

A half-million dollar stock of the very newest styles is at your service. Why not use it?

It will mean for you quick shipments—Low Freights—a bigger shoe business on a smaller stock, better kept.

WEATHER BUREAU AGAIN SHAKEN UP; THIRTY DEMOTED

Action Follows Recent Dismissal of Chief Willis L. Moore for Political Activity in Seeking Cabinet Job.

HEISKELL AND CARROLL ARE UNDER SUSPENSION

Charges Against 50 Employees Alleging They Received Salary Increases for Promoting Candidacy of Chief.

Washington, June 7.—Thirty-one employees of the weather bureau have been reduced for connection with the alleged political activity which resulted in the recent dismissal of Chief Willis L. Moore. Henry L. Heiskell, professor of meteorology, and D. J. Carroll, chief clerk, have been suspended without pay pending an investigation.

Charges have been preferred against fifty employees in all, alleging that they procured increases in salary or promotions in grade in return for promoting Moore's candidacy for secretary of agriculture in President Wilson's cabinet.

Thirty-one already have been demoted to their former status, Secretary Houston announced today. Copies of the charges and all other papers in the cases have been laid before the civil service commission. Fourteen cases are held in abeyance.

Moore was dismissed and Charles T. Burns, his chief lieutenant, was demoted after an investigation in which Secretary Houston reported that Burns had traveled about the country at government expense ostensibly on business, but actually doing political work for Moore.

RALPH O. COCHRAN SPEAKS AT DOUGLAS

Candidate for U. S. Senate Indicates Policy Upon Which He Will Make Race.

In the first speech of his campaign for the United States senatorship, Ralph O. Cochran, representative-elect from Fulton county and candidate to succeed Senator Hoke Smith in 1914, indicated at Chapel Hill, Douglas county, Saturday afternoon, the policy upon which he will make his race. Mr. Cochran was introduced to a good sized crowd by J. W. Camp.

In his speech Mr. Cochran advocated a legislative policy which would stick closer to the promotion of the business of the country rather than tampering so much with radical reforms, which he believes are not conducive to good business conditions.

Mr. Cochran states that he is not opposed to gradual reform which does not interfere with business operations and the natural course of things, but to sweeping reforms which leave business men without anything stable upon which to base their plans and as a result bring about a stringency in the money market.

Mr. Cochran placed himself behind the industrial progress of Georgia, in both manufacturing and in agricultural lines. With the productive soil of Georgia and the raw materials at hand Mr. Cochran urged a greater independence from outside sources for agricultural and manufactured products.

He advocated an increase in the facilities for technical education in manufacturing and agricultural lines as a great aid in this progress.

"I will state," he said, "that I am in favor of liberal appropriations on the part of our legislature for the maintenance and enlargement of schools for technical training. I will go further and say that as the revenues for Georgia increase that such institutions should be established for the dissemination of such knowledge among the rising generation."

FOUR MURDER CASES TRIED AT DAWSON, GA.

Dawson, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—Terrell superior court adjourned Saturday afternoon for the term, the criminal docket having been cleared this week. A large number of cases were tried, including four murder cases, in each of which the result was a conviction with a recommendation to the jury that the defendant be imprisoned in the penitentiary for life.

The terms of the county commissioners expired during the present session of the court, and the grand jury named the following: J. W. Bridges, M. D. Laing, J. A. Hiller, W. M. Dunn and J. W. Bridges, all of these being new members except Mr. Hollingsworth, who was chosen to succeed himself.

The board of education here has selected the faculty of the Dawson public schools for the next scholastic year as follows: Superintendent, J. A. Dukes; associate principals, W. D. Hawkins and Miss Janie Bush; seventh grade teacher, Miss Cora Eula Gumm; sixth grade, Miss Kate Wright; fifth grade, Miss Ollie Monroe; fourth grade, Miss Cecile Lattie; third grade, Miss Maly Tweedy; second grade, Miss Lula Belle Marshall; first grade, Miss Bessie Pye; music, Miss Chap Saville, and expression, Miss Jennie Belle Jackson.

Three Negroes Shot.

Leesburg, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—At a negro entertainment at Century, a small place 4 miles from Leesburg, three negroes were shot last night. None is dead, but all three are supposed to be fatally wounded. The negroes were shot by William Murray, Jr., a negro who was drinking heavily, but before the sheriff arrived he had made his escape.

Worried Into Suicide.

St. Louis, June 7.—Frank Mercurio, who had saved $6,000 from money earned by peddling fruit, committed suicide here today soon after receiving a second "blackhand" letter demanding $2,000. Worry over the letter had so unnerved him that he took his life.

Wonderful Work of Schools In Making Grounds Beautiful

What it would mean to the school children of Atlanta to have attractive school yards was strikingly indicated in the contest which ended on Thursday in the presentation of the Walter Rich prizes to Davis street, English avenue and Edgewood schools, a committee from the Atlanta Art association, headed by Mrs. James N. Moody, with Mr. Rich and members of the board of education, making the presentation.

The colossal work the children of these school have done since March 1 sounds almost like a fairy story, but the results and the records are there to prove it. It was in March that Mr. Rich for the second time offered the prizes, showing the children that their achievements of last year was remembered, and the whole world was interested in what they did.

The art association committee visited the contesting school at once, and finding some of the yards only bare and ugly expanses of hard washed clay, with no soil and not a break in their red barrenness, save in gullies, they could hardly believe their own eyes when they went back to the same schools last week to make their decision.

What the Children Did.

At Davis street, Miss Julia Riordan, principal, and English avenue, Miss Lula Kingsbury, principal, there was this condition of no soil and not a blade of grass on the whole block.

Yet, the English avenue children, by dint of their own grading, and filling with soils and fertilizer, much of which they transported themselves in wheelbarrows, made their grounds so full of blossom and beauty that the whole committee exclaimed at the wealth of color when they came in sight of the yard, and the prize for the most artistic work even "under adversity," went without resitation to English avenue.

At Davis where there was also absolute barrenness to start with, nine very little sardines were found in flourishing condition, and well laid walks and beds of flowers were but another expression of the school spirit which prompted one boy when he was asked what his school would do with the prize money if they won it, to answer promptly "well it ought a fund with it to build a new school."

Edgewood school, Miss Stamps, principal, with the prize work of last year a foundation, had achieved a wonderful work that Mr. Rich straightway gave them a special prize, since the improvement element had to count the most in awarding the regular prizes.

Committee's Recommendations.

Among the suggestions made by the committee in their report to the art association was the wisdom of proposing to the proper authorities the building of retaining walls where needed in order to prevent the washing of the yards, and the carpeting of the yards with something more comforting to little bare feet than crushed stone.

EQUITABLE BUILDING PASSES INTO HISTORY

The Trust Company of Georgia has now in reality "thung out its shingle."

The Equitable building, at Edgewood avenue and Pryor street, the oldest sky-scraper in the city, has been rechristened. The name, "Equitable building," has passed into history and the building, for the scope of years has gone under that name, will henceforth be known as the "Trust Company of Georgia building," which name has already been emblazoned over the Pryor street and Edgewood avenue entrances in the place of the old lettering.

This change has been made because the agreement entered into with the Equitable Life Insurance company whereby the structure should be called the Equitable building because of a substantial loan made by the insurance company on the building's construction has long since expired. The last payment upon the loan has been made and there is now no reason why the big financial institution which occupies the building should not have its name over the doorway.

Gwinnett School Census.

Lawrenceville, Ga., June 7.—(Special.) The school census of Gwinnett county, which has just been completed, shows a net gain of 659 within the last five year. There are eighty-five school districts, seventy-one being for whites and fourteen for colored. Three hundred and twenty-five children in the county can neither read nor write. There are 112 over 16 years of age who have never attended any school. The total number who attended school for five months or more during 1913 is 2,107.

Councilman Hurt by Auto.

Griffin, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—In an attempt to crank his automobile Hon. Eli Brewer, city councilman, and one of Griffin's best-known citizens, sustained serious and painful injuries by the engine's kicking. He was bruised about the face, his lip cut in two and thrown to the ground in such a manner that his right arm was broken below the knee, both bones being broken. At the time of the accident he was in front of his home preparing to make a trip to the country. He will be confined to his home for several weeks.

It was a little yellow pimple which would itch and burn badly and when she would just scratch her head in great big sores. It got a solid sore all over her head and took her hair out. The nails came off her fingers and toes. We tried several remedies also two medicines but none did her any good. Finally some one told us to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment which we did. In less than two weeks' time they gave relief. After using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment a month she was sound and well." (Signed) Mrs. A. J. Anderson, May 15, 1912.

DIX DIAMONDS

Afford Opportunity for Investment

Conservative people recognize the advantage of diamond investment and the readiness with which diamond collateral is accepted the world over.

Savings put into diamonds are really saved, and as investement they are proven among the choicest, as shown by the average increase in value of over 10 per cent annually for years.

Continued advance in value is certain through the same causes that have made their world-wide increase.

The average yield of the mines has in the past few years decreased from 1.20 carats per carload of blue ground to 0.20 carats. The great depths have made machinery of recent years obsolete and the natives have recognized their value as wage earners.

The great Trio controlling 96 per cent of the world's output would scarcely find it in the nature of things to depreciate their product any more than would the gold miners of the world; and the fixedness of values is shown through complete failure of any financial panic to affect diamonds in their steady increase in value.

Exclusive diamond merchants, we are in constant touch with the markets of the world, and our contract to accept diamonds in exchange at full value or buy back from our customers at 90 cents on the dollar at any time within one year of purchase assures our customers against loss or dissatisfaction.

Where desired we sell upon deferred payments, one-fifth down and balance in monthly notes, and quality, weight and price marked in plain figures assure correct values.

TRUE WORDS FROM A STREET CAR MAN

Again The Quaker Extract Displays Its Wonderful Curative Powers

True words from Mr. Barth, of this city, the past two years, like most all other railroad men or street car men, became afflicted with kidney trouble, constipation and stomach trouble. He has been in a bad condition for the past year. His stomach would bloat, belching it seemed almost everything he would eat or drink would cause him distress of the stomach. The food would ferment, gases would form, his kidneys caused him much annoyance, especially at night. He would have to get up two or four times; he got so he had a tired languid feeling. He never was too sick to stop work, but just sick enough to feel bad, and have a barrel of so-called stomach medicine, but I never found anything that even gave me relief until I called at Coursey & Munn's drug store and procured a treatment of the Quaker Extract and after taking it one day I commenced to feel better, and today I feel like a new man—my trouble is gone. My wife was in very much the same condition I was. Her head ached a good deal, tired, all run down, poor appetite, although her ambition kept her up and going, she had no strength. She, too, has taken the Quaker Extract and today is feeling fine and joins in telling her friends and neighbors what —rand medicine the Quaker Extract is, for it has done herself and husband more good than all the medicine we have taken in two years. These are the reports from thousands of Atlanta's best citizens, for Quaker Extract and Oil of Balm do cure where all others fail. If you suffer with rheumatism, catarrh, no matter if it be in the head, the stomach, kidneys or bladder it's a blood germ disease and can only be cured by a systematic treatment. Seven cases out of ten of indigestion are catarrh of the stomach. How are you going to get a cure if you don't remove the cause? Quaker Extract removes the cause. Call today at Coursey & Munn's Drug Store, 29 Marietta, and obtain Quaker Extract, 3 for $2.50, or 6 for $5.00. Oil of Balm, 25c, or 5 for $1.00. We prepay all express charges on all orders of $5.00 or over. (adv.)

Who Were Maidens Who Sought To Tempt the Rev. Zane Batten?

Where did the temptation of pulletproof St. Zane occur?

This is a question that has puzzled Atlanta ever since Dr. Zane Batten, the Philadelphia preacher, entertained a body of ministers in the Quaker City several days since with a thrilling account of his spicy adventures with eighteen "scarlet" women in a single block of an Atlanta street.

As nearly as can be ascertained, the temptation must have occurred on Decatur street in the block below Ivy.

Is This the Solution?

There is a prevalent opinion, however, that St. Zane is laboring under a misapprehension, and that he mistook the interpretation of the opportunities of whatever maidens may have beset him.

The sight of so eminent and commanding a figure as that of a saint wandering aimlessly along Decatur street on a Saturday night—for, of course, no one could have guessed that he was feeling the social pulse of the city—everybody would readily suspect that the poor saint was laboring under an attack of aphasia, or other dread mental malady. So touching a sight could but appeal at least to the remnant of old negro mammies whom he might happen to encounter, and these could as readily be depended upon to render him any assistance within their power.

If the temptation of St. Zane occurred at night, he could easily confuse black and "crimson"—or, perhaps, St. Zane is unfortunately color blind!

From the facts which have come to light in the wake of St. Zane, however, he is a jolly old saint, and rallied forth to see on various and sundry occasions while in Atlanta. His swath, to be sure, was not so wide as a door, nor so deep as a well, but 'twill do.

Accompanied by reporters St. Zane made the rounds of several of Atlanta's locker clubs, after which he gave out interviews that The Constitution declined to print.

St. Zane was as leisurely in his inspection of the locker clubs as he of necessity must have been while strolling through the block in which the eighteen different damsels sought to kiss the hem of his garment, as it were.

Stayed Two Long Hours.

When St. Zane girded up his loins and got him forth to see "club life" in Atlanta, he apparently found it highly instructive—not to say entertaining. In one club in particular, which has something of a reputation for song and laughter, St. Zane found it impossible to ascertain the exact moral condition of the place until he had tarried for a "spell" of two hours, and the proprietor finally put an end to the singing, dancing and innocent quaffing of beer that the St. Zane was investigating by closing for the night!

From a casual glance, though, it appears that St. Zane has ideas of his own about the manner in which a saint should be tempted. There must have been at least one of the bevy of eighteen who was fairer for St. Zane to look upon than was his saintly majesty in a certain other famous temptation, and St. Zane, moreover took the more modern and profitable method of protection by making a bull's-eye of notoriety with the ink bottle through the columns of the press, instead of literally landing it upon the countenance of the tempter!

Maybe some people want to swat the railroads as well as the flies because both are common carriers.

There are lots of people publishing books, but there are mighty few who know how to write them.

Bottenfield Enlarges Force.

L. P. Bottenfield, the subdivision sales expert, has enlarged his force of salesmen from 40 to 60 men.

In conjunction with this enlargement of the firing line comes an important change in the sales management. T. L. Moran, former manager of Mr. Bottenfield's sales department, has been succeeded by L. C. Bell and Hugh J. Lynch, joint managers of this department, both of whom are experienced men in organization work and salesmanship.

Mr. Bell has come to Atlanta from Jacksonville, Fla., where he was manager of Cohen Bros.' department store, one of the largest establishments of its sort in the southern states. Mr. Bell stated that he came to take up the real estate business in Atlanta because of the broader opportunities which this line of business in a live city offered.

Mr. Lynch is an Atlanta man, and has had a number of years of business experience in this city. He knows the real estate business thoroughly from the work of the salesman up.

Under Managers Bell and Lynch there are ten field superintendents, who have supervision of the work of the sixty salesmen.

This is the largest sales force in any real estate office in the southern states, and the agency is handling through this force more than $1,500,000 worth of property in Atlanta.

McKinney Boosts Decatur.

Colonel McKinney, of Decatur, on Friday night, addressed the Bottenfield agency on the advantages of Decatur. He pointed out its great advantages as a residence town, by reason of the class of its citizenship, the good streets and the numerous fine roads leading into the town. He also pointed out the convenient proximity to Atlanta, there being two excellent car services and chert roads all the way. He outlined the improvements which are being promoted by the board of trade, including a new hotel.

KANSANS ARE DINED AT THE DRIVING CLUB

John L. Tye Acts as Host to Commission Here to Purchase Marble.

Governor George H. Hodges, of Kansas, and his party, who passed through Atlanta Friday night en route for Tate, Ga., to inspect the Georgia marbles there with a view to purchasing stone for the construction of the $500,000 G. A. R. memorial in Topeka, were entertained at a dinner by John L. Tye, at the Piedmont Driving club, on their return to Atlanta Saturday night.

Governor Hodges' party includes Lieutenant Governor Sheffield Ingalls, W. L. Brown, speaker of the house of representatives; Paul Klein, senate member of the commission; F. H. Chase, house member of the commission; J. N. Harrison, commander of the grand army of the republic, department of Kansas; Charles H. Chandler, state architect, and William E. Connelley, representing George W. Martin, secretary of the state historical society.

Among Atlantans who met the Kansans at Mr. Tye's dinner were Governor-elect John M. Slaton, Judge Joseph H. Lumpkin, Charles E. Caverly and H. H. Cabaniss.

Governor Hodges, who is the first democratic governor in Kansas for the last twenty years; General Harrison, head of the department of Kansas of the grand army of the republic, and one of the most prominent and brilliant men in the state, and others of the Kansas party spoke Saturday night.

HANSON NO LONGER WITH STUDEBAKERS

Popular Automobile Agent Will Re-Enter Auto Field With Another Company.

George Hanson, one of the first automobile agents in Atlanta, and the first man to handle the Studebaker cars in the south, has severed his connection with the Studebaker corporation.

There is considerable speculation as to with what line Mr. Hanson will connect himself. He is an extremely popular man not only in the automobile colony of Atlanta, who would regret very much to lose him from their ranks, but also with the business men of the city, among whom he is well known.

Mr. Hanson's friends will be glad to know, however, that he will not leave the automobile business in Atlanta. It is generally reported that he is considering an offer from the Maxwell people, with whom the Flanders people, formerly connected with the Studebaker people, are now associated. Mr. Hanson would not commit himself upon this question Saturday night, however.

Don't envy the bluffer. He isn't always as happy as he looks.

It doesn't seem quite natural that pulling a man's leg should make him short.

AN APPRECIATION OF ABLE WORK

Mrs. Dan Lyle, retiring president of the College Park Club. Photo by McCrary.

The reports of the College Park club show such good work for the year ending that too much cannot be said of the tireless energy, the wisdom and tact of the retiring president, Mrs. Dan Lyle, "the woman who brings things to pass." To take a club limited in membership and known for years for its exclusiveness, throw the doors wide open and go in for honest, earnest and real club work, required leadership of a master kind. To weld together progressives and conservatives, standing firmly for "the big things done in a big way," took courage, intelligence and a magnetic personality, which alone could have brought the results. It is with sincere regret that the club acknowledges the expiration of the time limit of her office.

Mrs. Fred Schaefer, the retiring secretary, has served the club faithfully and conscientiously. Recognizing that "minutes are chronicles, not essays," she has kept the history of the club concisely and accurately and it is with a deep sense of appreciation for her services and sincere regret that we accept her resignation.

The Woman's auxiliary of the diocese of Atlanta held its fifth annual convention in Athens at Emmanuel church, representing eighteen parishes and missions in the diocese. Sixty delegates were present, including juniors, besides a large attendance of Athens representatives.

It was opened with the service of morning prayer, read by the bishop, assisted by the Rev. Thomas Duck. Bishop Nelson preached from the text, "He that is not with me is against me. He that gathereth not with me scattereth." Urging that if the women realize the spiritual nature of the organization, that if their work be not done in the blessed sunlight of His presence and love, prayerfully, with the highest Christian ideal of winning the world for Christ, it is scattered.

Tribute to Mrs. White.

He referred to the loss of Mrs. H. C. White, a former president, beloved in Athens, her rare personality and sweetness and works, expressing, in the sorrow of her loss, that the joy and comfort that she has passed into the dear presence of Him whom she served, enjoying the results of that service she has given lovingly and prayerfully. She was commemorated in the concluding prayers in the communion service.

At the close of the service, the auxiliary was formally called to order by Miss Rosa Woodberry, who made an address, and announced the program. Words of welcome were extended by Miss Basiline Prince. After a recess taken to attend the opening session of the council, the auxiliary completed its roll call, and sent a letter of appreciation and sympathy to Mrs. E. Le Conte Furman. Reports of officers were then made, those of the treasurer and box secretary and babies branch being read by the secretary. The Junior auxiliary reported by the president, Miss Mary Pearson, showed that they had held a missionary institute, and more than doubled their apportionment, and greatly increased study classes. It was received with a unanimous vote of thanks.

Representatives Tell of Work.

After a recess taken for lunch, representatives from the various parishes and missions were presented, who told of their work. Among them Mrs. W. C Shaw and Mrs. Charles Lee, of Macon; Mrs. J. Allen Miller, Elberton; Miss Geissler, of Greensboro; Miss Basiline Prince, Athens; Miss Dora Duck, Toccoa; Sister Elinor, of the Appleton Church home; Mrs. E. L. Gordon, Cartersville.

Convocation reports were made by Mrs. Frank D. Holland for Atlanta, and Miss Sara E. White, for Athens. Tabulated reports were received from Mrs. W. W. Curtis, for Columbus; Mrs. William E. Martin, for Macon; Miss Almira Parker, for Rome, who were unable to be present.

Miss Mary Pearson then made an address on the educational work of the auxiliary.

Mrs. Nellie Peters Black addressed the convention on the forward work in China, showing the results of past labors, notably in enlisting the Chinese people, in the extension of the field, the social and civic reforms and the unifying of the churches, and the wonderful growth of St. John's university, St. Luke's hospital and St. Hilda's, in Shanghai.

Mrs. Mallory Taylor presented her report on the united offering for missions for women, showing its remarkable increase, having more than doubled the last offering.

Take Care of Orphans.

Miss Dora Duck was appointed to communicate with the various parishes requesting each to take one or more orphans of the Appleton Church home to clothe. A message of loving greeting was sent to Sister Louise, of the home. A vote of thanks was extended Mr. Thomas Peters, of Atlanta, for a map, showing the opportunities for work in the convocation of Athens. The memorial report was then received standing, read by Mrs. C. L. Pettigrew, with a special set of resolutions adopted on the death of Mrs. H. C. White. The members of the auxiliary attended the missionary service and addresses of the council at 8 o'clock.

The Thursday morning session was preceded by a corporate communion at 7:30 o'clock. After breakfast, in the parish house, and morning prayer, an hour of meditation on the gift of self was le dby the Rev. C. E. Wheat, of Griffin. Mrs. Frank Holland made an address on the negro work in this diocese, making an earnest appeal for industrial training among the 50,000 negroes in Atlanta, better sanitation and moral and religious instruction, and commending the worth, judgment and energy of those in charge of the negro mission stations here, and urging a generous response to their humble requests for funds.

Mrs. Mallory Taylor gave a full account of the meeting at Charlotte of the auxiliary department of Sewanee, resulting in more compact organization, and strong resolutions from the committee on conference with the bishops present, recommending departmental organization of the diocesan auxiliaries, especially for problems peculiar to the department, and that they be presented at the next triennial auxiliary session. It was recommended also that more time be given at the triennial for reports from missionaries in the field.

Miss Wilmer Chatin gave an account of the hospital work in the mill settlement work at Sandtown, and Miss Charlotte Wing, of the kindergarten there, and training of settlement workers.

A Chinese student of the University of Georgia, Mr. Ting Fang Woo, was introduced, and gave a Christian's message from his native land.

Details of Readjustment.

On motion of Mrs. Pettigrew, it was resolved to refer to the board of officers the details of readjustment to the new plan of sending all auxiliary monies through the parish treasurer, except the expense fund. Each parish and mission was requested to slightly increase this, for the central expenses of printing and other missionary educational work. To the officers were also referred the questions for discussion of the general secretary's letter.

Resolutions of appreciation were passed of the services of the retiring president, Mrs. Le Conte Furman, and her beautiful letter to the convention read. Resolutions of thanks for the hospitality of Athens, in its many courtesies, were adopted.

The bishop's letter and nominations of officers were read and accepted, as follows:

The noontide prayers and benediction were said by the Rev. Troy Beatty.

The report of the auxiliary was read to the council by the bishop, and received standing, with many expressions of commendation. It showed a total of $14,411.16 over and above their parish activities and woman's work, of which $2,736 was for extra missionary offering.

Look Out!

What makes the citizens to wear
That air of gloom profound?
With furtive look and stooped with care
He restless roams around.

What is it preying on his mind?
Why does he never laugh?
Hush! Any time he fears to find
A loaded distograph!

He dare not play a quiet game
Of pinochle or whist.
Lest on recorded "lives of shame"
His name should head the list.

And they have on their staff
The demon three that never fail,
The phon-phot-dictograph!

He may not rob his children's bank
Nor beat his own dear wife,
Nor, stooping to a playful prank,
Go lead a double life.

He used to say to those he met:
"Old birds aren't caught with chaff!"
But now he fears they'll get him yet

SWEET GIRL GRADUATES WED, HE'S HAPPY TO SAY

President Judson Thinks Most College Men Also Are Soon Able to Marry.

Chicago, June 7.—Most college graduates enter business and soon thereafter are financially able to marry and most of the "sweet girl graduates wed, I am happy to say," testified Harry Pratt Judson, president of the University of Chicago, before the Illinois senate commission inquiring into the relation of low wages to vice today.

Volunteering that many of "our young men" work their way through college, Mr. Judson said school and college courses should be shortened so young men and women could be started on the serious business of life earlier.

Asked whether he thought the law should provide a minimum wage for minimum efficiency, Mr. Judson replied that the efficient man could earn more than the law could provide, that industrial training might be provided for the semi-efficient, but for the inefficient Mr. Judson had no remedy.

Men who are fitted for bank work are not the kind who would marry unless they could afford it, according to W. T. Abbott, vice president of the Central Trust company. He believed a man could marry on $1,000 a year. He thought establishment of minimum wage in a bank would destroy efficiency.

A. W. Harris, the third witness and president of Northwestern university, said he believed it the duty of every community to see that the girl thrown on her own resources was able to live respectably.

Dr. Harris declared sons of rich men were not necessarily inefficient. Referring to sons of Chicago packers, he said he didn't know one of them that wasn't the business equal or superior of his father.

Dr. Harris said E. H. Harriman's fortune of $100,000,000 "was not too much compensation for a rare individual who made entire railroad systems more efficient and indirectly worked to the welfare of hundreds of thousands of working men and women."

NEGRO YOUTH KILLED BY DARING ROBBERS

Will Coombs Made Target of Highwaymen, Whom He Resisted.

Fighting two daring highwaymen who attempted to hold him up at Peachtree and Tenth streets early last night, Will Coombs, a negro youth of 178 East Ellis street, was fired upon twice. One bullet penetrated his abdomen.

He was taken to Grady hospital in a semi-conscious condition and died a few hours later. Incoherently he told the police a story of being set upon by two men who, with revolvers, ordered him to hold up his hands. When he showed fight they fired upon him, fleeing down Peachtree street as their victim fell to the sidewalk.

The wounded negro could give no definite description of either of the robbers. Both were negroes, he said. The police were unable to obtain a clew.

Hadley Is Robbed.

Modron Hadley, a youth of Atlanta, whose address was not given the police, was walking down Courtland street last night about 10 o'clock. As he reached the eastern end of the Auditorium building two figures came from the shadows. Both poked revolvers in Hadley's face and commanded him to hold up his hands.

While one of the highwaymen held his pistol leveled at the pedestrian's head the other went through Hadley's pockets, relieving him of $9.50 and a leather wallet in which the money was contained. They then commanded the youth to run into Edgewood avenue.

He reported the incident to Motorcycle Policemen Wood and Millam, giving a good description of both robbers.

Washington, June 7.—Henry Morgathau, the New York lawyer to whom President Wilson offered the post of ambassador to Turkey, at a long conference with the president today, declined the post. Neither white house officials nor Mr. Morganthau would discuss his declination, but it was understood that he did not feel willing to give up his practice in New York.

No End in Sight for Famous Huff Case

LITIGATION HAS OUTLIVED THREE GREAT ATTORNEYS

After Dragging Through Courts 14 Years

Many Sensational Features Have Developed During the Long, Weary Years Through Which the Case Has Stretched.

Macon, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—Through fourteen long, weary years the litigation of the now famous Huff case has dragged its way through the mysterious maze of tangled red tape, outliving the two lawyers who brought the original action placing the estate of the venerable ex-mayor in the hands of the court, as well as the receiver who was appointed to take charge of his assets. And the end is not yet in sight.

The case has not been without its sensational features, for out of it grew the arrest and conviction of the principal, W. A. Huff, now in his eighty-second year, on the charge of contempt of court through the use of his vitriolic pen in an attack on the judicial character of the judge under whose jurisdiction the case has wended its way.

Out of it has also come the threat of this same principal to bring impeachment charges before congress with a view of having Judge Emory Speer, the trial judge, removed from office for alleged abuse of his official position.

Neither Judge John I. Hall and Olin J. Wimberly, the attorneys who brought the original action on behalf of Huff's creditors, nor Jim Green, the receiver first named by the court, lived to see the finish of their work, and it is possible that still other persons connected with the case may be called to the great beyond before the last word is written, for at this writing certain phases of the case have again begun their journey to the higher court, thereby prolonging the litigation still further.

Appeal Followed by Appeal.

Appeal has followed appeal until the case has now been before the supreme court on appeals for the third time, the final appeal coming only a few days ago, following the rendering of the final decree ordering the distribution of the assets within the registry of the court.

Once the lower court has been reversed and with that reversal came a saving to Colonel Huff of $10,000. The court had decreed that Huff should pay to the executors of the estate of the two attorneys who brought the original action against him the sum of $10,000, and to this Huff objected, believing that if these lawyers were entitled to anything they should secure their remuneration from the parties who employed them.

The court of appeals took this same view of it and two years ago reversed the lower court, which in turn then reduced the award to the attorneys to a little less than $7,000, and ordered each of the creditors sharing in the funds to pay 10 per cent of the amount decreed them to a fund to be set aside for the attorneys.

Different Viewpoints of Case.

The Huff case has two sides, according to which side you view it from.

If you look at it from the Huff angle and through the Huff eyes you probably see an old man on the brink of the grave being grievously wronged by the power of those in the seats of the mighty by holding from him and his children the fruits of the labor of the best years of his life; you see him paying interest on the claims of his creditors, while his own fund of almost $100,000 reposes quietly in the vaults through lo, these many years, without drawing one cent of interest; you see the two-sevenths interest of his children in the estate also taken to pay the debts of their father.

These and many other injustices can be seen through the eyes of Huff. They are observing eyes and have not been dimmed in the least by their long vigil.

But a glance through eyes placed at a different angle will show you the scales being held aloft, and justice, tempered with mercy, but always with the one thought—that of protecting the interests of those who may be involved—behind metal out. Through these eyes you see an estate hopelessly insolvent, placed in the hands of the court, where, through judicious handling through a term of years, due in part to delays caused by appeals, reach the point where it becomes solvent again, each creditor receiving dollar for dollar.

It is a picture that does not grate on the eye, but gives a wholesome respect for the courts which have long ago become recognized as the backbone of the nation.

But, as stated before, it all depends on which set of eyes you use. There is no doubt but that it is seen both ways in Macon.

Immense Cost of Litigation.

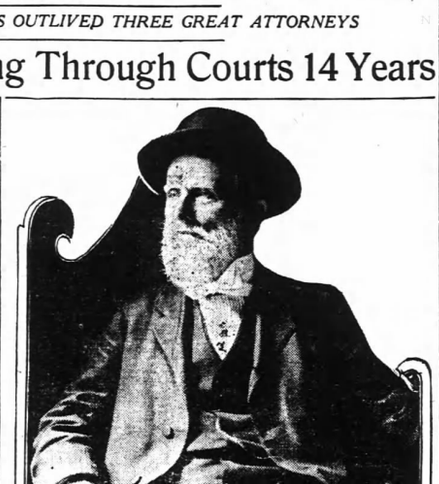
The records show that when the recent final decree of the court was made there was a total of the claims of the court about $94,000, though the original claims of the creditors amounted to a sum under $40,000. During the long term of years through which the litigation has passed the creditors have drawn interest on their claims until now the interest amounts to a sum even greater than the principal. The court costs, all of which must come out of the fund, are also amounting to about $15,000, go to swell this amount.

What has been paid out in attorney fees, there is no way of telling, for there have been an almost endless number of attorneys employed in the case as representatives of interested parties. Their fees, however, mount into the thousands and apparently are by no means ended as the time draws near for the creditors have joined with Colonel Huff in his appeal, objecting to being taxed 10 per cent of their claims for the payment of the fees of the attorneys who brought the original petition against Huff.

Not a Case in Bankruptcy.

The Huff case is not a case in bankruptcy, but a bill in equity, filed August 5, 1899, by Hall & Wimberly, a firm composed of John I. Hall and Olin J. Wimberly, in the United States circuit court in Macon, before Judge Emory Speer, for the appointment of a receiver and for seizure and administration of all the assets of W. A. Huff, for the payment of his indebtedness to William L. Mildrim, of Connecticut, and F. E. Woodford, executor, New York, their claims aggregating $4,100, principal, and for the payment of all the other indebtedness of Huff, consisting of mortgages, judgments and taxes, all aggregating about $50,000.

The property seized consisted of what was known as the Kimball House and lot on the corner of Cherry and Fourth streets, what was known as the Armory property, consisting of 21 small tenements in the southern part of the city; the home place of the family, consisting of 14 acres on the Forsyth road, just out of Macon; about 300 acres of suburban lands in different tracts, and small lots near the home place.



COLONEL W. A. HUFF.

LONG YEARS OF HUFF'S LIFE ALL FILLED WITH ACTIVITY

Huff's Life Filled With Activity.

In all of the eighty-two long years of Colonel W. A. Huff's life there has not been one that has not been filled with activity. Born on the farm, as a boy he underwent all the hardships and rigors of such a life; frequently, it is said, hauling wood through the streets of the city of Macon, of which later he served many years as mayor.

As a young man he worked at railroading, coming from the lowest position to that of conductor and for several years he "pulled a bell line" through many a long night and busy day.

Later he entered the mercantile business in Macon and for several years was one of the city's prominent wholesale merchants.

It was in 1870 that Colonel Huff was elected mayor of Macon and he held that office for six years, during the reconstruction period when it took a man of courage and ability to do the things that needed to be done. One of his monuments that will live long after he is gone is Central City park, where the annual Georgia state fairs are held.

After retiring from the mayoralty Colonel Huff was honored with three successive terms in the state legislature and those who knew say that he was one of the most progressive, practical and valuable members of that body and during a portion of the time he was a member of the legislature served as chairman of the finance committee.

Out of Politics for 15 Years.

After retiring from the legislature Colonel Huff kept out of politics for fifteen years until the last Miller-Moore mayoralty race, when he took the stump for Mayor Moore and made some striking speeches.

For two years he devoted his time to his own affairs again and just eleven days before the election for water commissioners after the city assumed control of the local plant he announced his candidacy and called on his friends for support. That he was popular was shown by the fact that he received the next highest vote out of a field of five or six and was elected for the four-year term.

Today to look at the man one would hardly take him to be 82 years of age. He is of a restless, nervous temperament and tireless and indomitable in the advocacy of the things he thinks is right.

The Famous Huff "Circulars."

The Huff "circulars" are famous in Georgia. Whenever he has a subject which he desires to discuss with the public and over which he does not care to have the blue pencil of the newspaper editor used, he sends the manuscript to the print shop, has several thousand circulars struck off and has been known to take them out himself and distribute them. His latest effort along this line, but which he has not yet put into effect, is to the publication of the letters which he sent to Judge Speer and which brought about the charge of contempt of court against him. He is said to have had several thousand of these circulars printed.

Colonel Huff rises every morning between 6 and 6 o'clock and after a simple breakfast, which he always enjoys just as he did in his younger days, he goes to the library and there spends most of his hours. The library is his "child" and much of his own income he gives toward its support. The city and county each contribute $36 a month, but that amount is not sufficient to keep the institution running.

Huff and his children, apprehending the property being so considerable in value might be sacrificed if sold as advertised, through their attorneys, Mr. Felder and Mr. DuPont Guerry, who had also become connected with the litigation, appealed to the court to stop the sale, and to have the property more fully advertised. This Judge Speer declined to do and ordered the sale to proceed.

The property was first sold in parcels for $77,000 and was then sold altogether and brought $70 more.

The defendants objected to confirmation on different grounds and especially because more land had been sold than necessary to the extent of thousands of dollars and contended that the sales of parcels should be confirmed for a sufficient amount to pay the debts and costs, and no more.

Second Appeal Made.

The court overruled the objections of the defendants and confirmed the entire sale, and the defendants appealed, and again the court above affirmed the lower court.

In the meantime Olin Wimberly had died, and after the decision in the supreme court Judge John I. Hall and Mrs. Wimberly applied for fees out of the fund in court, on the ground that they had been instrumental in producing it for the benefit of all concerned.

The defendants objected to the payment of fees claim out of the excess of the fund coming to them, because Hall & Wimberly had represented the sale of the case and had in no way benefited them. The master, Mr. Talley, however, recommended that $10,000 be paid out of this excess and over the objection of the defendants the court confirmed his report.

Third Appeal is Successful.

The defendants, represented by Mr. Felder and Mr. Guerry, appealed and the judgment of Judge Speer was this time reversed, the court of appeals holding that Messrs. Hall & Wimberly had no lawful claim against the defendants for their fee.

The case was then added the court of appeals for a rehearing and the same was refused. They then sought a hearing before the supreme court, which, in October last, also refused a hearing.

Since the sale in 1909 the fund had been in court undisturbed and bearing no interest, notwithstanding delays resulting from appeals, petitions, pending to make like sales, but never succeeded in doing so of all the remaining property, with the exception of that known as the Armory property, and it was advertised for sale by Messrs. Mallary and Cone for the first Tuesday in December, 1909.

Huff and his children, apprehending the property being so considerable in value might be sacrificed if sold as advertised, through their attorneys, Mr. Felder and Mr. DuPont Guerry, who had also become connected with the litigation, appealed to the court to stop the sale, and to have the property more fully advertised. This Judge Speer declined to do and ordered the sale to proceed.

BOOK REVIEWS IN TABLOID

The Inside of the Cup. By Winston Churchill. Mr. Churchill and his books are too well known to need even an introduction much less a comment on high talent and by some said to be his best book. It is a powerful study of the modern tendency in the church and their new relations to life. It is a well written story laid in the United States in one of the largest cities in the middle west. The hero is a young clergyman

Richard Carvel, it is said, is one of the most brilliant works of imagination that has been written in years. "Coniston," with its word painting, is the master production of the author. It is a charming and historical love story; "A Modern Chronicle" presents the eternal feminine in a young American woman and is a love story of today. "The Inside of the Cup" is filled with the strong points of the above interesting novels and will win popularity from the literary world and no doubt become one of the most discussed books of 1913. (The Macmillan company, New York city.)

The Son of a Servant. By August Strindberg. With an introduction by Henry Vacher-Burch Translated by Claud Field, M. A. This volume of 241 pages contains a powerful indictment against parental tyranny, also against the treatment the child receives at school and the want of understanding by his teachers and parents upon whose shoulders is the sole responsibility for the training received in childhood.

To understand Strindberg, who has become a very strong factor in the literary world, read this book, in which is described his childhood and boyhood, and then you will easily understand the title—"The Son of a Servant." (P. Dutton's Sons, New York and London.)

Growing Pains. By Ivy Low. Anyone who has suffered from "Growing Pains"—and it is whispered that everybody understands the title—will enjoy this book, and the qualities and pleasures of "growing" are amusingly described. Miss Low, the author, is an English girl and comes of splendid literary stock. Her uncle, Mr. Maurice Low, is the author of the "Psychology of the American People." The English press prophesy that Miss Low's book will prove very popular. (George H. Doran company, New York.)

An Unknown Lover. By Mrs. George de Horne Vaizey. The author has written many books, but none so interesting as this charming story.

A widowed brother and a sister decided to spend their lives together, but time comes when each is very desirous of a change, but does not want to disturb the other—but the brother cannot give up the elusive heroine who crosses his path, and the sister, who has been very much interested in an unknown correspondent, decides to go to Europe, which leads to the "Unknown Lover" and happiness for them both. (G. P. Putman's Sons, New York.)

The Carfish, which was reviewed in last Sunday's paper, is a novel of the "finest flavor and distinction." It seems that the title is misleading, but Mr. Marriott, the author, gives this explanation of the carfish:

"At one time the North sea fishermen brought their cod to market in tanks in the holds of their vessels. In the tanks the cod lived at ease, with the result that they came to market slack, flabby and limp. Some genius among the fishermen introduced one catfish into each of his tanks and found that his cod came to market firm, brisk and wholesome. The article was the making of the world's catfish—anything or anybody that introduced into life the 'queer, unpleasant, disturbing touch of the kingdom of heaven.'"

Into the life of Mr. Marriott's hero come three women who represent the truest and best in womankind—none of them is his mother; one his wife, to whom he remains true, and the other is the one woman who alone yearns to understand and be understanded by others. It is she who becomes the "catfish" in his life—his inspiration "keeps him lively" to every good effort and achievement.

Mr. Marriott has given the literary world a work of his pen which will be as popular as anything that has been published in years.

Wild Grapes. By Marie Louise Van Saanen. The author has written her story with simple and direct force. The type of woman vain and unscrupulous painted by the pen of Mrs. Van Saanen is in the minority among our American women. And there is something more than the problem of marriage to interest you; there is the struggle of the hero, a man working among men, making his way shoulder to shoulder, with other men who represent the best in life. (Moffat, Yard & Co., New York.)

MISCELLEANOUS BOOKS.

A Table For Two. Good Things to Eat. By Elinore Davis. A very attractive complication inside and out, and it contains hundreds of recipes in quantities "just for two." Forbes & Co., Chicago. Price $1.00.

The New Housepecking. Efficiency Studies in the Home Management. By Christine Frederick. Editor Bok of the Ladies' Home Journal says that Mrs. Frederick, who, by the way is a housewife and mother, consulting Household Editor of the Ladies' Home Journal and the national secretary of the Federated Clubs of Domestic Science, has given the "best solution of the servant problem ever offered." (Doubleday, Page & Co., Garden City, New York. Price $1.00 net.)

Success in Gardening. By Jessie Peabody Frothingham. "Success is wholly in the gardener," writes Sir William Temple. The introductory is attractive and gives a good start. The book is full of advice. If you do not like advice do not read this book. But if you do read it I hope you will not say, as Mr. Watson did to Holly: "What might have become of the garden if your advice had been followed, a good providence only knows." This is a new and attractive book on flower gardening, because it tells week by week of the necessary things for the flower garden. It gives plans of flowers, seedsmen, nurserymen, plans and planting of all kinds of flowers. (Duffield & Co., New York.)

The Etiquette of Today. By Edith B. Ordway. A complete and up-to-date manual of social usage in every phase. The duties of the individual in all of the great common experiences, the methods of correspondence and invitation, and even the minute details of dress and entertaining are discussed. Miss Ordway says: "Society is a game which all may play. Etiquette is the name given the rules of the game. If you play it well, you win. If you play it ill, you lose. The prize is a certain sort of happiness without which no human being is ever quite satisfied."

Suburban Gardens. By Grace Tabor. Illustrated with diagrams. If this little book is studied carefully by the reader it will enable him to get information and plan for the new house he wishes to build; to design his garden, how to grade, level, make the walks, paths and garden entrance, etc. There is one chapter each on vines, trees, shrubs, flowers, and also a chapter on general culture. She gives the names and colors of all the annuals and other flowers which are popular for bedding. (Outing Publishing company, New York.)

Fishing With Floating Flies. By Samuel G. Camp. For generations the Englishman has used the dry fly, but it is even yet an art in America. Mr. Camp is one of the few writers who really understands the matter from the selection of the outfit to the landing of your fish. There are eight chapters in this instructive little book and it would be well for the American angler to own a copy of it. (Outing Publishing company, Chicago.)

The Constructive Quarterly.

In the June number of this magazine Mr. Silas McBee, editor, introduced some very interesting and instructive topics—topics in which the whole world is interested.

Dr. Seth Low's article on "Christianity in the United States," is carefully written and the various questions are discussed and explained. Among them, "Why is it that in the United States Christianity should be broken into so many sects and also in what senses are Christians of every name so nearly at one?"

"The Present Position of the Churches in Canada," by Dr. R. A. Falconer, president of the University of Toronto. A very strong article on the dominion of Canada the churches wield a great influence over society.

"Orthodoxy in Its Essence." By Nicholas N. Sokolov, of St. Petersburg, Russia. The author of this article makes claims for the Greek church which is well worth reading.

Lady Henry Somerset, in an article, is asking a very important question, and one that shortly will have to be answered from the four corners of the earth: What place will religion hold in the woman movement when it has become a part of the political machinery of the world?"

Lady Somerset closes this splendid article with the following paragraph: Will the women of our day realize their great opportunity, or will they—misled by false dreams of power—miss their true vocation? Some few may lose their way, but the instinct to shelter and guard is too firmly rooted in the heart of woman for her to swerve from her path.

LITERARY NOTES.

The John C. Winston company has sent to press a fourth large edition of "Sylvia," by Upton St. Clair. "A Living Legacy," by Ruth Underwood, is now in its third edition, and "Written in the Sand," by Mme. G. R. Duval, and the "Mystery of 31 New Inn," by Austin Freeman, are both in their second edition.

"Stella Maris," published by John Lane company, is reported to be one of the six most popular books sold in one month.

"The Coming of Co-operation," by Arthur Jerome Eddy, whose book McClurg & Co. have just added to their list in a new and cheaper edition, is convinced that the old competitive regime in industry is over, and that it is being succeeded by co-operation.

Harper & Brothers announce that they are now reprinting the following books: Lorna Doone, by Richard Blackmore; Mr. Dooley's Philosophy, by F. P. Dunne, and "The Four Georges," by Justin McCarthy.

Friends of Henry H. Saylor, author of "The Book of Annuals," are wagering that his next book will not be on the subject of gardening. Mr. Saylor has recently become an ardent automobilist.

"The Bend in the Road," which was mentioned several weeks ago, is proving to be a popular seller. Mr. T. A. DeWeese, the author, says "there is no cereal in the bend, and yet it is equally as fresh and palatable as popular breakfast foods and as pleasing as its author.

"The Social Center," by Edward J. Ward, published by the Appletons, is a book of timely interest and of special value to all who are interested in this constructive work.

"Greater Love Hath No Man," is a new novel by Frank L. Packard, which tells a stirring story of a tremendous sacrifice and its reward.

William J. Burns, the greatest and probably the most popular detective who ever lived, has returned from England. That his genius was recognized on the other side, too, is shown by the following dispatch received by The New York Times: "At the Savoy, William J. Burns has been holding court ever since his arrival. His suite, No. 21, which he occupies with H. H. McClure and Edward J. Bowes, is constantly crowded with London journalists. His picture has appeared in all the papers hailing him as 'America's greatest detective.' He has a dictagraph strung from one end of the suite to the other, and after afternoon demonstrations along with real 'American cocktails' and 'Havana cigars,'" Mr. Burns' new book, called The Masked War, will soon be published.

Houses Struck by Bolts.

Fitzgerald, Ga., June 7.—(Special.) Late Thursday evening, during one of the hardest electrical storms of the season, the house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Knapp was struck by lightning. The bolt struck the kitchen flue, tearing down the chimney and setting the roof on fire. The fire department made a quick run, but found on arriving that the downpour of rain had done the work and the fire was extinguished. Mr. and Mrs. Knapp were both severely shocked. The house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. C. U. Gaines was also struck and set on fire, but that was speedily extinguished. Two mules in the same lot with Mr. Gaines in the pasture of Mr. R. V. Handley were killed during this same storm.

DANIELS IN LAUNCH IN HEAVY THUNDERSTORM

Washington, June 7.—Secretary Daniels and Mrs. Daniels made a run of several miles up the Potomac today in a motor launch while a heavy thunderstorm played over the water and spilled torrents.

They were returning from Annapolis on the Dolphin when something went wrong with the engines. The secretary wanted to get back to his office in time to continue in the ship's launch, which river men declared was quite a hardy thing to do in a storm.

Chattooga Baptists to Meet.

LaFayette, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—The general meeting of the Chattooga Baptist association will be held with the Berryton Baptist church on Saturday and Sunday, June 28 and 29. There are a number of interesting discussions on the program and some prominent Georgia Baptists will be in attendance. There will be a sumptuous dinner spread on the ground each day at 12 o'clock.

WALTER PAGE PRAISED BY PRESS OF LONDON

Strikes Popular Note in First Public Address at Banquet by Pilgrim's Society.

London, June 7.—Walter Hines Page, American ambassador to the court of St. James, is complimented in editorials appearing in the evening papers today on his first speech in England, made last night at the banquet given in his honor by the Pilgrims' society. The writers express pleasure that he devoted his speech to cementing the bonds of friendship between the two countries.

The Westminster Gazette says:

"Ambassador Page's speech showed that the United States has succeeded in sending an ambassador who is more than capable of maintaining the traditional reputation of his office for public speaking. Nothing could have been happier than the note he struck in this first public utterance."

The Pall Mall Gazette says:

"It is good to see the power of the friendly feeling existing between the two nations recognized."

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL OF THE MARKETS

COTTON VERY STEADY AT SESSION'S CLOSE

After Tendency to Decline in Early Trading, Market Rallied.

New York, June 7.—The cotton market was comparatively quiet today and showed a somewhat reactionary tendency during the early trading, under realizing for over the week-end, on scattered selling inspired by favorable weather reports. Later, however, the undertone of the close was very steady, net 6 points lower to 2 points higher with the new crop showing a gain, although there was no change in the late months.

The market opened steady at unchanged prices to 4 decline of three points, with near months relatively easy in sympathy with the early weakness. Indications of showers and lower temperatures in the south, following quiteness, promising dry, hot weather, were considered very encouraging from a new crop standpoint and prices eased off to a net loss of about 3 to 8 points during the early trading. There was a little southern selling here, supposedly on the part of operators who but the bulk of the cotton offered was supposed to be in the way of switching profit-taking and as sellers were not aggressive the market steadied on some 4 or 5 points from the lowest on covering the late trading.

Local bulls attributed the comparatively steady ruling in the market to the favorable weather over the near month situation and reports that European spinners were specifically buying cotton freely on decline.

Weekly reviews of the dry goods trade indicated continued activity in western textile centres and Fall River sales for the week were estimated at 150,000 pieces, which is about the same week last year.

Spot cotton quiet, unchanged middling uplands, 12.10; do gulf, 12.35; sales, none.

Dry Goods.

New York, June 7.—Cotton goods markets are steady with trade good. Gray goods and fine ribbons are scarce in wanted shades for immediate delivery. Yarns are quiet and easy. Prices here are to hold special sales during coming week.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, June 7.—It was a typical weekend session in the cotton market, trading in both spots and futures characterized by jerky rallies that were followed by declines, although the slightest tendency to advance and absorbed even on moderate downward pressure. Trading was professional in character, very little outside business coming in.

The opening was steady at a decline of 1 to 3 points on good weather reports and generally favorable Liverpool market, but no effect. July stood 11 points under yesterday's close during trading, but even that much made no great show of strength. Before the middle of the morning prices were 3 to 4 points above the lowest point. This stimulated buying of covers for short account, which continued up to 12:30 o'clock, when the top point over yesterday's was made. This small advance was lost in the early afternoon on reports of showers for the entire cotton region. The close was steady, net unchanged to 2 points lower.

The weather map was the only bull indicator scattered showers over the belt. Temperatures were cooler, and the general forecast indicated that prevailing weather conditions were causing rapid growth, with local showers necessary only in the south.

New York, June 7.—The feature of the cotton market today was the bearish news on wheat included reports of heavy crop arrivals at Liverpool, also estate reports on hand July wheat was supply. Furthermore, domestic primary receipts were liberal, while those for last year, being 431,000 bushels, against 259,000 bushels. At the same time, reports of damage to wheat and oats were light, equaling only 274,000 bushels. Moreover weather in the spring crop territories was a decency to improve and the winter wheat rath 75 this connection, a good deal of interest was aroused through reports that Leiter had been selling at Minneapolis would be on a large scale. Much pool, also, existed on hand that the Leiter cable to be too timid, and otherwise unsuitable to carry in elevating through the summer.

In the corn crowd new buyers were few, and former ones more disposed to sell than to buy. Rains were reported over the belt and over the east scarcely worth mention.

The cash market was dull and under big receipts in all directions.

Cables were quiet over signs that one of the big packers had control of July delivery. Commission house selling made late and rain easy.

How Georgia Community Became Good; Recently Tigers and Gamblers Ruled; Now All Vices, Even Tobacco, Tabooed

By VICTOR L. STANLEY

Dublin, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—The story of an averted lynching in this county a few days ago, when several of the citizens of the community of Orianna, in Laurens county, prevented the death by mob of a negro who had attempted an assault upon a white woman, carried more than the usual significance to those acquainted with the facts in regard to the community and the citizens who lived there.

This action on the part of the people living near Orianna was a victory for the men who had lived and worked for an upright, law-abiding citizenry that deserves more than passing notice. Out of a once lawless settlement, abandoned to the blind tiger and the gambler, there has been made, in four years, one of the most ideal country districts in the state or the south, with a citizenry that has pledged itself neither to smoke, chew nor drink, and to work for every form of civic righteousness that will aid the advancement of the community in which they live.

Four years ago, this community, around the little station of Orianna, on the Wadley Southern railroad, was known as one of the worst places in the county for blind tigers and gamblers. It was a community shunned by most men with families to rear, and located in a remote section of Laurens county, hard to reach by the sheriff and his deputies. The lawbreakers had things pretty much their own way. The farming lands around Orianna are among the finest in this section of the country, and after a while began to attract some good, honest law-abiding citizens to the community. These new-comers were loud in their praise of the lands, but did not like the lawless conditions that they found in and around Orianna. After a while, as they increased in numbers and several of the old residents joined in with them, they began to fight the evils with which their community was beset, and to drive away or subdue the lawless members of the section.

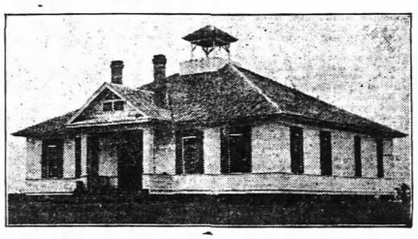
Not an Easy Task.

It was no easy task. Those who remember the days when local option was the only prohibition measure in force in Georgia, and when fierce county fights were waged over whether or a county should be "dry" or "wet," can appreciate something of the task before the good citizens of the Orianna community when they started in to drive out the blind tiger, the gambler and the lawbreaker generally, and make their section one desirable for a home.

At first their progress was slow, but they persevered, and began to get results. A good school was one of the first things that came as a result of the determination of the citizens to have a community that would make an ideal home for anybody. The school was what is known as a "line" school, because it is situated on the line between Laurens and Montgomery counties, and both Laurens and Montgomery counties contributed to its support. Line schools have never been noted for being very much as schools, but the citizens of Orianna began to improve the school that they had. Better teachers were employed; the men of the community went down into their pockets for the money necessary to make the improvements, and said that they were willing to support a school that would be adequate for the needs of their children. They secured a young man named J. L. Poston, for a teacher, who is now the principal of the school, and who started it on its upward journey. One of the first things done was to organize several small schools in the community and make arrangements for the children attending them to reach the big school at Orianna with little difficulty. This gave them a large school well equipped, and conducive to the fact that it was not wanted, and it only made teaching much more effective and pleasant, and the children became more interested. Since the school was completed until last year it was decided to build a modern building in every way and one that would accommodate every child in the community that wished to attend.

County Boards Assist.

The county boards of education of both Montgomery and Laurens were consulted, and they gave as much money toward the new building as they could, but it was woefully inadequate and so, in order to get the kind of school building they desired, the people of Orianna and community went down into their pockets and paid the money for the building themselves. They have just finished the building at a cost of $2,000, which is an unusual price for a school building in this section of the state. They have now as modern, comfortable and up-to-date a country school building as will be found in the state.



Model School at Brianna.

Professor Poston has proved to be the most wide-awake, energetic teacher for the community that they could have secured. He is a young man, fully equipped for his work, and his influence as a teacher has made the school largely what it is. But what is greater has been his influence in clearing out the evils that were hindering the peace of law-abiding citizens. Alert in every movement for better conditions, he has taught his pupils not only knowledge found in books but to be clean, law-abiding and religious men and women. Along with Professor Poston J. E. Page, chairman of the board of trustees of the school, is perhaps the most responsible for the school and the transformation of the community. Probably no one man has a stronger influence for good over the home community anywhere than has Mr. Page. Along with R. B. Thigpen and R. B. Avery, the other members of the board, he has labored unceasingly for the community and the school.

The building is admirably located on four acres of land, and is well ventilated, heated and lighted.

As Many Churches as Stores.

Although Orianna has only about 250 inhabitants with two stores, and is one of the smallest stations on the line of the Wadley Southern, it has two churches a Methodist and a Baptist, both of which have preaching regularly. It is essentially a church-going and church supporting community. The men who have been instrumental in making it the community it is have, in nearly every instance, been staunch members of one or the other of the two churches.

The lawless element gradually awoke to the fact that it was not wanted, and its members either moved off or became peaceful citizens. Not an opportunity was let go by the men in the fight to advance the morals of the community, and the work was done a little at a time, until they have now the most ideal country community in the state, supplied with good churches, unusually good school facilities and peopled by God-fearing and law-abiding citizenry.

A few days ago it was decided to organize a temperance union in the community, Lasso O. Moseley, one of the young men of the community, taking the lead. Every man, woman and child in the Orianna community signed a pledge neither to use tobacco, whisky nor cigarettes, and started by the pledges as long as they lived. This gives some idea of the sentiment among the inhabitants, for there are about 500 persons in the community in all. To get them to sign a pledge of this character and stand by it there must be pretty strong sentiment in favor of it among the people as a whole. Every person in the community has vowed to clear it of vice and law-breakers and give it a reputation for civic uprightness. Meetings have been held and speeches made which never failed to drive home some argument for civic betterment. In consequence, the community is now a home that can be found.

The movement as has Mr. J. E. Page, a well-known planter of Orianna. Placed in a position of influence, he turned it all in the direction of right and observance of the law. With him are others who have fought steadily and faithfully during the four years, and who are entitled to a large share of the results achieved. Of these may be named W. H. Toler, J. A. Youngblood, W. F. Avery, E. A. Avery, G. W. Spivey, J. H. Wilson, W. W. Lent, J. A. Curry, R. R. Thigpen, Ben Gillis, John Gillis, S. B. McNeeley, J. T. Blankenship, Emmett Thigpen, J. J. Leach, J. T. May, J. R. Clements, F. M. Youngblood, J. H. Bailey, W. V. Thigpen, J. W. Greenway, J. B. Ricks, J. I. Ricks, Arnold Thigpen, J. Cheetan Flanders, Hardie Thigpen. Every one of these men have stood shoulder to shoulder in the fight for a better community.

Of thirteen churches in Orianna, the Baptist is in charge of Rev. I. S. Hughes, of Dudley, and the Methodist of Rev. H. C. Brewton. The town is twenty-three miles from Mount Vernon, nine miles from Soperton, seven miles from Scott and seven miles from Adrian. The school district of Orianna held an election recently as to whether the citizens should pay a local tax to support the school, and only one dissenting vote was cast.

Therefore, when it was told that the people of Orianna had not lynched a negro under circumstances that would have meant quick death for him in any other community, but quietly delivered him over to the sheriff to be tried according to law, those who had been acquainted with the community for years and knew its history marveled over the great change that had come over the section, and the great amount of good that had been accomplished by the determined inhabitants who were tired of having blind tigers and law-breakers among them and the peace of the community broken.

I. L. Stewart.

I. L. Stewart, 27 years old, died at the residence, 42 Virginia avenue, at 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning. The funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning at Wesley chapel, and the interment will be in the churchyard. The services will be conducted by the Cherokee Tribe of Red Men.

Mrs. A. C. Newbanks.

Mrs. A. C. Newbanks, 84 years of age, died at the residence of her son, J. D. Newbanks, 21 West End avenue, last night at 8 o'clock. The body was taken to Fowler's chapel and the funeral arrangements will be announced later.

The Cold Death.

(From The New York Sun.)

I do not take a cold bath
Each morning when I rise.
I do not scrape the cold bath,
Nor dull my nerves with ice.
I do not mind the Ha, Ha.
The curling lip of scorn.
I will not take a cold bath
So early in the morn.

I put a portly neighbor.
A mass of pomp and pride.
He took a thousand cold baths
In Tiber, and he died.
I do not mind the Ha, Ha.
The curling lip of scorn.
I will not take a cold bath
So early in the morn.

L'ENVOY.

I do not praise the cold bath,
Nor allow the cold bath's harm—
I will not take a cold bath
So early in the morn.

"MOTHER'S COMING PRESENTLY"

—A DAY NURSERY STORY—

By Mrs. Gilbert Fraser, President Sheltering Arms Day Nurseries.

The basic principles of the Day Nursery are to aid the working mother and her child to conserve the family and to raise the ideals of the family life. We cannot treat separately the mother, the child and the home.

To the child the Day Nursery supplies its material, intellectual and moral needs during the day, while it has its own mother at night and on Sundays. The mothers bring their children to the nursery in the morning as they go to work, and come for them at night as they go home.

Competent nurses and matrons are in charge of them. They are given good wholesome food, they are provided with clean aprons and rompers that they may present a neat appearance, they are examined regularly by competent physicians and specialists, and their physical needs attended to. A kindergarten is maintained in each nursery, and each afternoon, when these older children under the direction of the matron prepare their lessons for the next day.

Once or twice a week each child is given a hot bath and its under clothes changed. Few of these children have the comforts of a bath room in their own home, and otherwise bathing is apt to be neglected.

At Holidays.

At Christmas, Thanksgiving and all holidays beautiful entertainments are given, and many pleasures and outings are provided by the managers of the different nurseries.

The mother, while working for a livelihood, can feel that her children are being trained in all that makes for right living and at the same time their children are her very own.

The nursery also relieves her of a large part of the expense of the child.

The kindergarten and matron of each nursery entertain the mothers each month at a mothers' meeting, with the view of bringing the mothers into closer sympathy with the nursery and its methods—and of holding up higher ideals of motherhood. On this evening the mothers come directly from work, and both them and the children are served with a hot supper. An hour is then spent in discussing methods, and in explaining to them what we are trying to teach their children, and asking their co-operation. Lessons on hygiene in the home, morals, etc., are touched upon, and the dignity and responsibility of motherhood stressed.

At the close we usually have a game or contest of some kind with prizes and favors for all—and they all go home happy. We have an attendance of between thirty and forty mothers, and it is seldom that one of our mothers misses a meeting. We can mark improvement in the family life of these.

We claim that the Day Nursery helps the mother over the first twelve hellish years of the child's life in the most practical way possible. After that age the child can begin to help himself and her, too. The children of a day nursery receive more careful and intellegent training than the average mother in her own home would have the time or ability to give them.

The question of widows' pensions that is now being agitated, does not solve the needed problem of raising the mother's ideals of child training. The day nursery strives constantly to train the child, to keep the mother and to keep mother and child together.

There are nearly 500 day nurseries in the United States—nearly 100 of which are in New York city.

The Sheltering Arms maintains four day nurseries in Atlanta, the attendance upon them being about 200.

The Methodists have a day nursery at Fulton Bag and Cotton mills. There is a day nursery for colored children at 304 Auburn avenue. Atlanta needs more day nurseries for colored children, and our immediate duty is to encourage their establishment.

SAMUEL BASHINSKI DIES AT SON'S HOME

Retired Banker of Tennille, Ga., Was in Atlanta on a Visit.

Samuel Bashinski, aged 87, a retired banker of Tennille, Ga., died at an early hour this morning at the residence of his son, Julius Bashinski, vice president of the Fulton National bank, who lives at 95 West Peachtree. He was visiting his son here in Atlanta, and was stricken with bronchiel pneumonia, which was the cause of his death.

Mr. Bashinski has for many years been one of the leading business men of Georgia, and his friends all over the state will mourn his death. For forty years he has been a resident of Tennille, Ga., where his son, H. M. Bashinski, is president of the local bank. In addition to his two sons, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Sol Herman, of Eastman. His body was removed to Greenberg & Bond Co.'s chapel, and will be sent to the family burial ground in Macon at noon today, for funeral and interment.

DR. GREEN WILL PREACH TO TECH BOYS TODAY

Processional From Georgia Tech Will Be in Full Academic Regalia.

The baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the Georgia School of Technology will take place this morning at St. Luke's Episcopal church on Peachtree street, and will be a highly impressive occasion. The sermon will be delivered by Dr. Thomas E. Green, of Chicago, one of America's famous lecturers and divines. The public is cordially invited to this service.

The processional from the Georgia School of Technology will be in full academic regalia. The faculty and members of the senior class will wear caps and gowns, with the insignia of their degrees. The procession will form at the North Avenue church house at 10 a. m. Sunday, and will march thence along North avenue to Peachtree street to St. Luke's church.

Love.

(Henri Frederic Amiel.)

I am inclined to believe that for a woman love is the supreme authority—that which judges the rest and decides all. What is good or evil? For a man, love is a subordinate rule, right. It is a great passion, but it is not the source of order, the standard of reason, the ideal of excellence. It would seem, then, that a woman placed between the two principles of love and a man in the perfection of justice.

Can Atlanta Afford Not to Spend $10,000 Annually in Battle With Consumption?

STARTLING STATISTICS AS TO RAVAGES OF SCOURGE

There are more than five thousand people in the city of Atlanta who are suffering with tuberculosis in serious form. These five thousand are exposing daily to this dread disease twenty-five thousand others! And this total from 3 to 7 years, while the older children are sent to school. A study hour is observed each afternoon, when these older children under the direction of the matron prepare their lessons for the next day.

Once or twice a week each child is given a hot bath and its under clothes changed. Few of these children have the comforts of a bath room in their own home, and otherwise bathing is apt to be neglected.

WILSON UNRUFFLED BY LOBBY CHARGE

Confident People Believe He Represents Them and Has Right to Further Legislation He Promised Them.

Washington, June 7.—Senators on the lobby investigating committee were of the opinion today that Senator Townsend's sensational charge that President Wilson himself virtually had been lobbying for the tariff bill, would not be taken up by the committee as an issue unless some specific charges were made.

The committee was in recess today preparing for its next week's work, which will not only finish the testimony of the dozen senators yet unexamined, but will begin questioning the score or more of men whose names have been brought out in testimony as having represented special interests in Washington.

White house officials professed to be undisturbed by Mr. Townsend's charge and it was said the president would not take the stand to make a personal answer unless some specific charge was made against him. Officials declared Mr. Wilson was confident that the people of the country would take the position that he was representing them in Washington and had the right to use all his influence to further legislation promised in the democratic platform. It was denied that the "patronage club" had been wielded to keep senators in line.

"President Wilson will be welcome before the committee if he desires to appear," said acting Chairman Reed today, "but I see no reason why he should deny charges that never have been made."

Democratic members took the position that it remained for republicans to pursue inquiries on whether President Wilson had used "undue influence with any democratic senators and invented that the statements by Senators Townsend, Weeks and Warren had been of a general character.

Senators Nelson and Cummins, the republican members of the committee, had no plans today for following up that line of inquiry.

"I intend, however, to insist before the hearings are over," said Senator Cummins, "that President Wilson furnish the committee with the facts or information upon which he based his statements as to insidious lobbying in Washington."

The list of witnesses for next week was enlarged today by the addition of R. D. Bowen, Paris, Texas. Circular letters, signed by Bowen as chairman of the National Farmers' Union committee on the greater consumption of cotton," were furnished by Senators Hansdell and Kern. These letters urged cotton farmers to "use strong lag" with their senators in favor of higher duties on cotton cloth.

Climate Failed; Medicine Effective

Rest, fresh air and well-cooked, nourishing food do help many persons suffering with Lung Trouble. But in many cases the disease is only temporarily "arrested," and something more is needed. Eckman's Alterative is a medicine for Throat and Lung Troubles and has brought about many complete recoveries—in many cases where the surroundings were not ideal. Judging by the many reports of recoveries received, we believe it should be used in every case of Lung Trouble. A remarkable case follows:

Weldon, Ill.

"My Dear Sir. Through your instrumentality I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia which developed into Consumption. In February, 1905, I went to Fort Worth, Texas, and later to Canon City, Colorado. After being there two months my physician informed me that my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 103 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive.

"On July 14, 1905, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for Consumption. Today I weigh 196 pounds, I am strong and well and can do any kind of work about my grain elevator."

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years test to be most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. For sale by all Jacobs' Drug Stores and other leading druggists. AMERICAN NATIONAL FEDERAL DEPOSITORY

City, County, State and Nation Are Now Depositors in This Institution.

The American National Bank of Atlanta, of which William L. Peel is president and Robert F. Maddox, vice president, was advised yesterday by the treasury department at Washington that it had been designated as a depository for public moneys of the United States.

This well-known Atlanta bank now occupies the unique distinction of being a depository of the city of Atlanta, the county of Fulton, the state of Georgia and the United States.

The bank is one of the strongest in the south, having a capital and surplus of one million dollars, and with some of the very strongest business men of Atlanta in charge of its executive directions as officers and directors. The designation was made by the secretary of the treasury, Mr. McAdoo.

In rounding out its list of corporate depositors, from the city to the federal government, the officers of the bank feel that in this respect at least they have gotten about all that can be expected in the way of recognition of this kind. At the same time the individual and business depositors of the bank have been increasing in gratifying proportion. All of which is a tribute to the management of the bank, for, after all, neither a bank nor anything else is more than it is made by the men who are back of it.

WOULD CHANGE CONTROL OF NATURAL RESOURCES

Western Governors Contend That Forest Service Has Discouraged Mining.

Salt Lake City, June 7.—Today's sessions of the conference of western governors was devoted mainly to drafting an address to the public outlining what changes were considered advisable in government control of natural resources in order to obtain the highest efficiency.

Clu. Tallman, commissioner of the general land office was the first speaker. "I am not here to defend," he said, "in fact, I am not going to try to defend the actions of the department in the past. I am here as a conservationist."

Commissioner Tallman asked a series of questions of the governors with a view of ascertaining the exact changes wanted. Especial attention was given to the position of the United States forest service, it being alleged by some of the governors that the administration of the service had discouraged mining and prospecting.

Mr. Tallman said that as far he was concerned, if the prospector confined his work to actual prospecting and obeys the rules of the forest service there will be no disposition on the part of the administration to hinder, but every effort will be made to encourage.

There was a general discussion of national control of oil and mineral lands. Some of the governors took the position that blanket withdrawals should stop. Both Assistant Secretary Jones and Commissioner Tallman indicated that the administration's policy would be the freest opening of all mineral and oil lands to the honest developers.

OLD LADIES GRATEFUL TO MRS. EMMA BELL

At the instance of Mrs. Emma Bell, the gracious presiding genius of the Bell house, the Bell house boys recently furnished the dining room of the Home for Old Women Saturday Mrs. Bell received the following letter, acknowledging her kindness:

Mrs. Emma Bell, 258 Peachtree St., City.

Dear Mrs. Bell: I am instructed by a resolution of the board of lady managers of the Home for Old Women to express to you the thanks and appreciation of the board for the splendidly generous donation by yourself and the gentlemen of your household of the furniture and curtains for the dining room at the home.

It is difficult for me to convey to you the depth of appreciation which we feel, and which every inmate of the home, as well, feels, for this kind and gracious act.

We are endeavoring in every way which may suggest itself to make this institution indeed a home for these aged and helpless ladies, and it was a noble thought as well as a charitable one which led you and the gentlemen who are associated with you in this gift to bestow upon them so much that adds to the comfort of the surroundings in which they are spending their declining years.

Without doubt, this act was performed, as have been the others in which you were of such material assistance to the home, without thought or expectation of praise, and yet we wish you to know that not only the managers but every inmate of the home feel the deepest gratitude and all wish hereby to express their thanks. Sincerely,

(Signed.)

MRS. EDWARD F. WOOD,
Corresponding Secretary.

"Roving Nell," the Girl Hobo, Comes Into Atlanta on "Blind"

Tallapoosa, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—One of the most unique hobbies ever seen in this section passed through the city Monday night en route to Atlanta. She was "Roving Nell," one of the very few female hoboes now roving the country.

"Roving Nell" is a good-looking girl, about 16 years old, and has traveled in eleven different countries and in almost every state in the union. She came in here on the "blind" of a passenger train and left the same way. She went to a boarding house, saw the picture shows, and spoke to a few people about town.

She was dressed as a "sporty" young man and not a person in town knew that she was a woman except a boy who had known her some time ago, and knew that she was a victim of wanderlust. She appeared well, and excited no curiosity, although she was here all day.

Her brother, who has taught her the ways of the road, was with her, but did not stop here. He went on to Atlanta, and, according to the understanding with his sister, would meet her at a certain corner next night. After seeing this town, she boarded one of the Southern's fast trains and went her way rejoicing, and did not have a sign of a ticket, either.

Some years ago the girl's brother told her of life on the road, and how fascinating it was. When the girl was quite young the boy promised her that he would "learn her to hobo," and he has done the job well. She is as expert as any man that ever rode the rods. She loves the road, and says she would leave it under no consideration.

Her mother still lives, and the boy and girl furnish her a living from the money they make along the road by selling some small trinkets. She is heartbroken over the life her child leads, but cannot prevent her taking the road when the fever strikes her. The girl tells harrowing stories of how she has outwitted her mother, gotten to a freight train, and left her home, having no idea where she was going.

Fence Election in Tift.

Tifton, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—Ordinary C. W. Graves has called an election on the question of fence or no fence for Tift county, to be held on the first Wednesday in July. There is a strong sentiment in favor of no-fence in this county, and it is possible the no-fence will carry, although the election will probably be a close one.

$3,679,000 BONDS FALL DUE IN 1915

State Treasurer W. J. Speer's Report Calls Attention to the Financial Condition of the State.

Special emphasis is given to the importance of the task devolving upon the legislature this summer of revising the revenue system of the state by the fact that $3,679,000, considerably more than half of the state's bonded debt, will fall due July 1 1915, and provision for its refunding must be made by this general assembly. State Treasurer W. J. Speer calls attention to the necessity of retiring or refunding these bonds in his annual report which is now in the hands of the printer, and which will go to the governor early this week.

After stating that the amount of the state's indebtedness on December 31 of last year was $6,730,702, the report will say:

Falls Due in 1915.

"About one-half of the above amount is made up of bonds issued under the act of 1894, amounting to $2,392,000, and those issued under the act of 1894, amounting to $287,000, will become due in 1915. As no sinking fund was provided to take care of these bonds, and as there will be no funds available with which to meet them at maturity, except about $150,000, referred to below, the legislature at its next session will probably feel called upon to take some action looking to their retirement or refunding them into other bonds in which case the following statement showing the status of the bonded debt with especial reference to its maturity and the application of the sinking fund thereto, will be of interest:

"The bonds, issued under acts of 1887 and 1889, were made to mature in annual installments of $100,000, beginning in 1898 and 1917 respectively and a sinking fund of like amount was provided and is being used to meet each installment as it comes due, and which will exhaust the first issue in 1917, and the other in 1935. But as the sinking fund is limited to $100,000 and its use annually is provided for up to 1935, to pay off the bonds just mentioned, the last issue of which will not will mature on January 1 of that year, there will be no available funds in the treasury of that character to meet any other part of the $3,679,000 falling due between now and that date.

"There will, however, be in the treasury available for the most part of the debt maturing in 1915, about $150,000 of finds from the sale of public property, which includes a balance of $107,000 from the building against the Southern railway as part of the purchase money of the Northeastern railroad, which will be due November 1, 1914."

$3,679,000 Must Be Met

The treasurer gives a table of the various items of the state debt with their due dates and the provision that has been made for paying them off. It is only the $150,000 and the $3,679,000 falling due in 1915, however, that will necessarily occupy the legislature this year.

As it is, of course, out of the question to liquidate this indebtedness with the small sum of $150,000, which, according to the treasurer, is all that will be available for that purpose, and as it has not been proposed to sell any of the state's property for the purpose of liquidating it, about the only thing that can be done will be to refund it by another issue of bonds. As it will be of the utmost importance to the state to be able to dispose of these refunding bonds at as low a rate of interest as possible, and to maintain the state's credit on the high plane on which it was placed by the constitution makers of 1877, it will be seen how it behooves the legislature this year to perfect a law that will enable the state to meet its obligations promptly when they fall due, and end the annually recurring complaints of an empty treasury and the embarrassment of the executive department, which finds itself strained for funds with which to meet appropriations. Of course, this can only be accomplished by rigidly keeping appropriations within the revenue of the state.

No Question of Solvency.

However, no matter what the general assembly may do this year, there will be no question of the state's solvency or the rating of her bonds in the money markets of the world. That was provided for by the authors of the constitution of 1877, when they pledged all of the state's property to the payment of its debt, and forbade that the debt should ever be increased. As debt should ever be increased. As the estimated value of a single item of the Western and Atlantic railroad, is $20,000,000, the sale of the road would cancel all of the state's debts and leave a surplus in the treasury of more than $10,000,000. Nobody has suggested the sale of the road, but it is only cited to show that, whatever may be the temporary stringencies of the treasury owing to defective tax system there has never been the remotest question of the state's solvency.

The truth is that there is hardly a state in the union whose credit ranks higher than that of Georgia, thanks to the wisdom of her constitution makers in prohibiting the increase of the state's bonded debt, and providing a sinking fund for its gradual liquidation.

Debt Reduced $3,000,000.

The debt, which at the time the constitution was drafted, amounted to upwards of $10,000,000, has now been reduced to less than $7,000,000, while the taxable values in the same time have increased from about a quarter of a billion to a billion dollars.

Georgia is not alone in her wrestling with periods of treasury deficiency. Press dispatches during the past week have stated that the exchequer of Rhode Island is empty and that there will be no money to pay the governor and other state house officers before the first of July. North Carolina is reported to be in bad shape financially, and Louisiana is contemplating a big bond issue in order to tide over her money difficulties. The governor of Tennessee made a trip to New York only last week to find a market for $10,000,000 of refunding bonds that have been issued by his state.

In this connection it may be stated that it will hardly be necessary to seek a market for Georgia's bonds in the east as there will probably be a sufficient demand for them right here in Georgia to absorb the entire issue.

Term of the Bonds.

It will be a question for the legislature to decide whether the refunding bonds shall run for a long or short term. Discussing this feature, Treasurer Speer said:

"It will be 1935 before the sinking fund of $100,000 annually will retire the bonds to which it is being applied. If the refunding bonds were made for a shorter period than 1935, it would be necessary to increase the sinking fund or to provide further sinking fund for their retirement. Now, they might be issued so that the earliest of them would mature in 1935, and then the sinking fund that we now have could be applied to their liquidation from that date until the entire state debt has been wiped out. That and the rate of interest which the new bonds are to carry will be questions for the legislature when it meets."

Young Poultry Fanciers at Hexagon Hall

S. B. Turman and his two daughters, Margaret Lethea and Helen Dorothy, as they appeared in the Memorial Day Parade. The Turman children are famous poultry raisers and their birds from Hexagon Hall are winners of many ribbons.

By Mrs. S. B. Turman.

THERE is a problem which perplexes many a fond parent—that of finding a safe and interesting outlet for the unbounded energy pent up in the growing child.

At Hexagon hall there was, at first, little difficulty in securing toys to suit the varied tastes of Margaret and Helen; but, after a time, the Teddy bear ceased to interest certain ones and the undulating smile of the dolls seemed to affect the nerves of their once fond mothers—"We are tired of them all; we want something really and truly live."

Not long after this statement, while out for a long motor trip with their parents, they stopped at a poultry farm, where were seen some immense chickens. They were grand-looking creatures, and moved with a stately dignity. They were snow white, and were almost as large as the swan that bore away Lohengrin.

Peggy, the Aristocrat.

They learned upon inquiry that they were white Orpingtons, and were children and grandchildren of one Peggy Kellastrass, a fabulously wealthy hen, who by her own good looks and unceasing activities was reputed to be worth $10,000.

It was amazing to the children how one hen could have amassed so great a fortune. They begged for some of her progeny, but these Clara Vere de Veres of the poultry world were not for sale, so they had to be content with a precious setting of eggs. These were given to the care of a plebian old hen. For a long, long time she sat upon them—three whole weeks in a dark corner of the barn; but the loving owners visited her quite often, "to keep her from getting lonely," they said. When the chicks hatched—ten fluffy white balls—their joy knew no bounds.

They now became real chicken cranks. They were given an incubator—a small 50-egg affair that looked like cheese box. They put in 49 eggs, and then the fun began. They had never seen an incubator in action, but the directions said emphatically that this one was so simple a child could run it—and so they were put upon their mettle, and their enthusiasm was contagious, and soon every one in the house was watching that incubator.

The First Faint Sound.

The frivolous little regulator would start up, up, up—even to 110 degrees, then it would toboggan to 90. Sometimes the lamp would go out when they put the old on too suddenly; but after a time it slowed up and took an even gait, and after about three months—it seemed to them—they heard faint "peeps" from the eggs. Well, the man of the house got up in the middle of the night just to look in that incubator. He said he heard something in the back hall. He took off the lid, he was amazed, he could hardly put it back—for there were 42 fluffy, wiggly, happy little chicks.

The daily paper devoted so much space to the poultry industry that the children learned a great deal about the care of their chickens. Send "Uncle Dudley," of The Constitution, created a department for amateur exhibitors in the big poultry show at the Auditorium, which encouraged them to exhibit their birds.

Take the Blue Ribbon.

At the show they took the blue ribbon in the amateurs' class, and a silver cup was won for "the largest and best display by children under thirteen."

A well-known breeder bought all the birds they would sell, at a good price. That was more than two years ago. Since then they have won two other cups.

The fanciers—all four of them—have been wonderfully successful. Besides furnishing all the eggs for the house—sundry fried chickens from Easter until Christmas, as well as fowls for roasting—they have had orders for breeding stock and eggs.

LANFORD ANSWERS FELDER'S CHARGE

Declares That He Has Never Seen Gentry But Once in His Life.

"Tom Felder is a contemptible liar," blazed Chief Lanford last night when informed of the contents of Colonel Felder's letter directed to him through The Constitution. "I never saw this Gentry but once in my life, and that was before this dictagraph exposure ever happened. I have never seen him since.

"Gentry telephoned police headquarters Saturday, a week ago, however, and asked for Feburary, my secretary. Feburary happened not to be in at the time. I answered the telephone. Gentry wanted to know if a warrant was out against him. I told him I did not think there was, and that he had done nothing for which a warrant could be issued against him.

"I informed him that if a warrant was served on him, for him to notify me and I would help him out of his trouble. That was the last I heard of him until he left town. I did not have a thing to do with his departure. I have been trying to locate him, and wish I did know his whereabouts. I would bring him back to Atlanta and show by him that the charges that the dictagraph notes were padded is a lie from beginning to end.

Japs Victims of the Demagogue Is the View of Kenjiro Sato

By Kenjiro Sato.

History is full of political incidents to show that the defenseless has been the constant victim of demagogism. As soon as the Japanese in California became visible in number, they served as an abused object of local demagogism, and the demagogues found no better race than the Japanese to victimize to secure their selfish ends. "Japs are Mongolian," therefore, their mob psychology works well. Japs are politically defenseless, therefore they can be abused to any degree without fear of revenge.

The history of anti-Japanese expressions in the state legislature is probably the best dictionary of abusive, or shall I say, profane epithets? Here is an example. Coughlan, who, while opposed to the enactment of the alien land bills in the session of 1909, said he intensely and unalterably hated the Japanese as a bandy-legged bugaboo—miserable, craven, siminian, degenerated, rotten little devils:

The present session has already made a liberal contribution to the vocabulary. This, at least, in one respect, the legislators are solons; they are creative as regards the language of profanity.

To Embarrass Administration.

While the bill was still pending before the legislature, reports came from Sacramento saying charges are becoming more persistent that certain California party leaders are playing a game of politics throughout this anti-Japanese controversy. Some of them to court popularity in labor circles for personal advantage, some to bring embarrassment upon the national administration and others to boost party strength at home. To concretely prove these charges is no easy task, but it is not impossible to do so.

We can rely upon our instinct to render proper judgments. If we should feel that such charges are not altogether incredible, it is high time for the people of California to realize what their legislators are doing in the name of this state.

Many a time foreign wars were provoked in the past just to manipulate domestic political games. This kind of diplomacy was once in vogue, especially in the 16th, 17th and 18th centuries. The world then was full of robber barons who were barefaced demagogues as well. These princes, whenever they so pleased, dragged their unwilling subjects into wars. The people were defenseless; they had to submit, but we thought that we were out of that political stage when the despot could sacrifice the innocent people for his selfish motives. Evidently we are mistaken about this.

Demagogues in Georgia.

In this very state, where freedom permeates, demagogues are not only tolerated, but they do actually victimize a portion of its own inhabitants, Japanese, just because they wish to indulge in their petty games of politics. What have the Japanese done to deserve this maltreatment?

Sixty years ago America sent Commodore Perry to invite the Japanese to America. We complied with his request. We did. California now turns around and says, "Don't want to see a single Japanese in California; don't want to see a Japanese own a single foot of land in California." Is this California's conception of international decorum? Unthinkable! But so insists the legislature.

Not the People's Will.

In passing the anti-Japanese land bill, the salons alleged that the bill was the expression of the people's will, but nothing is more untrue than such an allegation. The legislators representing the people of the southern California vigorously protested against the enactment of the bill, and in the south Japanese farming is most extensive. The landed interest there finds no necessity for any discriminatory laws, in fact, none who is directly interested in horticultural and agricultural industries is favoring the law to be. Was it not discovered by the investigation of 1909 that the Japanese are indispensable to carry on and develop these industries?

If you expect them to engage in these industries, is it not reasonable to expect that the more intelligent of them should rise from the rank of mere lands to tenant, and same to independent farmers?

An Industrious Race.

Besides, the Japanese, like the Puritans who occupied New England in colonial days, got mere leavings, lands either abandoned by or unattractive to the whites. But because the Japanese are industrious and make the barren soil productive, the unfruitfulness many whites are envious. Who is at fault? Neither jealousy nor prejudice are the true objectivity of the soil. At any rate, there is no economic reason for the discriminatory law, and land problem is primarily economic.

Are there other reasons? The exhaustive investigation of the United States immigration commission concludes: "There the Japanese have a comparatively small percentage of illiterates among them, are intelligent and eager to learn of American institutions, make a fairly rapid progress in learning to speak English, and unusually good progress in learning to read and write it. They have not proved to be burdensome to the community because of pauperism or crime."

Mrs. Wm. D. Grant, most remarkable old lady in the Atlanta city, who understands Japanese very well here adds, "the Japanese are peaceable, law-abiding, tirelessly industrious, home-seeking, moral, temperate, grateful and generous. They require no policing, no woman has ever been molested. That is a record for the worthiness as a people. What other alien race has such a record?"

The Best Advertising Medium Is the Daily Newspaper

Take a wideawake newspaper in any community, a thoroughly progressive paper like THE CONSTITUTION, and you have an advertising medium par excellence.

Stick to such a paper for all you are worth if you have something that is worth while advertising and worth while buying.

You'll have no trouble in getting customers.

Wideawake people take at once to "live wire" newspapers, and you are certain in consequence to get a quick and big audience.

Tell your story as concisely and interestingly as you know.

Pick out the REAL selling points, the points that will positively interest your public.

After you have written your advertisement put yourself on the other side of the counter and ask yourself as a customer how that advertisement appeals.

It is a good test.

Then, when your advertisement is ready, put it in "live wire" paper like THE CONSTITUTION.

You won't have to wait long for trade; it'll come in like a flood tide at new moon.

OSCAR WILDE'S PLAY TO BE SHOWN AGAIN

Atlanta is to be given another opportunity to see the play, "The Importance of Being Earnest," presented by the Players' club, according to announcement made Saturday.

The second presentation will be made under the auspices of some local charity, the selection of which is in the hands of a committee composed of Mrs. John Marshall Slaton, Robert L. Cooney, Lamar Hill and Hamilton Douglas.

It is also probable that the Players' club will give "The Importance of Being Earnest," with the original cast in several other cities, including Savannah and Birmingham.
